FAST FRIENDS REUNITE – Local families are once again welcoming guests from New York City into their homes for a few weeks as part of the Fresh Air Fund program, which has been in existence since 1877. Each summer the Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, provides thousands of New York City children with memorable summer experiences. Families in Garrett County have been participating for decades. These photos were taken in Frostburg at this week's drop-off. All those pictured are Garrett County families welcoming their summer friends. In the photo above, Malia Martin is shown as she greets Faith Ndiaye with open arms. This is the fourth trip to the county for Faith. In the center are Shaylia Bender of Grantsville with Sharon Weng, here for the second time. Shaylia is the daughter of Dana and Krystal Bender, and sister to Ian, Kalden, Layne, and Jace. The Bender household will most certainly be a lively place for the next few weeks. In the third photo are Laila Martin with Iyana Harris. This is Iyana's first trip, so she and her host family have many memories yet to make. Photos by Lisa Broadwater.

Friendsville Town Council Officially Bans Fracking

The Friendsville Town Council voted 5-1 at a public meeting held Tuesday to ban hydraulic fracturing, commonly known as fracking, within the town's borders. Friendsville is the first municipality in western Maryland to ban fracking since the state passed a two-year moratorium in 2015.

Specifically, the ordinance bans fracking "to protect the health, safety, and welfare of residents of and visitors to the Town of Friendsville."

The vote, taken in the crowded Friendsville Town Hall, followed heartfelt testimony in support of the town's action from approximately 25 speakers, mostly residents of the town and its surrounding rural neighborhoods.

Council members Jess Whittemore, Pam Humberson, Joe Sessa, and Tom Fike, as well as mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, all made remarks in favor of the ban, advocating for stewardship of the land and water so critical to the town's welfare.

A preliminary vote on the measure by the council in May resulted in a 4-2 vote. The town council of Mountain Lake Park imposed a similar ban back in 2011.

The Hogan administration released a set of issue papers on June 22 that outlined forthcoming regulations for fracking to take effect when the current moratorium expires in October 2017. While opponents of the industrial practice cite mounting scientific evidence that fracking cannot be made safe with regulations, the revised regulations released on June 22, according to opponents, are weaker than those put forth by a special commission appointed by former Governor Martin O'Malley.

"The regulations proposed by Governor Hogan will not protect the Youghiogheny River, which is the source of Friendsville's drinking water, and it will inhibit sustainable economic development," said council member Whittemore. "Most of the town's drinking water comes from outside our jurisdiction. With this vote we are doing all we can to protect our citizens and our resources. But the only way to fully protect Friendsville and the rest of Maryland is to ban fracking statewide."

Friendsville was one of the first communities in Maryland targeted by the gas industry for fracking leases in the late 2000s.

"I was very impressed with the magnitude of the response in a room where we had close to 70 people in our audience, some standing along the walls," said Mayor Schlosnagle. "I was struck by the respect that people gave to each other, and by their compassion and concern for our hometown treasure. We saw great concern about fracking's potential effects on our drinking water, our

GC Commissioners' Meeting Agenda Includes Clean Energy Presentations

The Garrett County commissioners had a light agenda for their public meeting Tuesday afternoon at the courthouse. Clean energy was the main topic of the session. Items included a presentation/resolution on the Maryland Commercial PACE Financing Program, an overview of the Mountain Maryland Solar Cooperative, and the signing of the Garrett County Rural IMPACT Challenge resolution.

Manager Gerard Neely presented an overview of the financial services available through Maryland Commercial PACE (Property Assessed Clean Energy) program, which is offered through the Maryland Clean Energy Center.

The program provides financing for energy efficiency improvements to commercial properties, including solar panels, geothermal systems, HVAC upgrades, and other energy efficiency improvements.

The financing, however, must be approved by the building owners' mortgage lender PACE requires 0 percent down and allows a long pay-back period, up to 20 years.

Repayments are made through an annual state, county, and local property tax assessments placed on the building. If the property is sold, however, any remaining payments convey to the purchaser.

Neely noted that the PACE concept originated in California in 2009. Currently, more than 30 states have some form of a PACE program. The Maryland General Assembly approved it for Maryland in 2014, and officials now offer the program to business owners in four counties – Anne Arundel, Montgomery, Howard, and Queen Anne's – to boost economic development.

Friendsville Man Dies In Crash Of Antique Vehicle

A Friendsville man was killed yesterday afternoon when his 1929 Ford Coupe rolled down an embankment off Bear Creek Road. Maryland State Police responded to the 1:30 p.m. scene.

Investigation revealed that Theodore Roosevelt Dice, 72, had driven from a gravel driveway onto Bear Creek Road, when the vehicle rear tires lost traction with the road. As a result, the vehicle rotated 180° counter-clockwise before rolling down the embankment. The vehicle was not equipped with a roof or seat belts, and Dice was ejected.

He was flown by MSP Trooper 5 to the Western Maryland Regional Medical Center, Cumberland, where he succumbed to his injuries.

Southern's Payton Dixon Wins Medal At Nat'l SkillsUSA

A career and technical student at Southern Garrett High School won one of the nation's highest awards at the 2016 SkillsUSA Championships, held in Louisville, Ky., on June 22-23.

Payton Dixon, Oakland, was awarded the high school silver medal in cabinet making.

More than 6,000 students competed at the national showcase of career and technical education. The SkillsUSA Championships is the largest skill competition in the world and covers 1.2 million square feet, equivalent to 19 football fields or 25 acres.

Students were invited to the event to demonstrate their technical skills, workplace skills, and personal skills in 100 hands-on occupational and leadership competitions including robotics, automotive technology, drafting, criminal justice, aviation maintenance, and public speaking.

Industry leaders from 600 businesses, corporations, trade associations, and unions planned and evaluated the contestants against their standards for entry-level workers. Industry support of the SkillsUSA Championships is valued at over $36 million in donated time, equipment, cash and material.

More than 1,700 industry judges and technical committee members participated this year.

A total of 1,080 gold, silver and bronze medals were presented to students. Many winners also received indus-

Meeting Scheduled On Mtn. Maryland Solar Cooperative

Neighbors across western Maryland have formed a group called the Mountain Maryland Cooperative to save money, make going solar easier, and build a network of solar supporters.

Maryland Solar United Neighborhoods (MD SUN) is seeking more members and will host an informational meeting on Tuesday, July 26, at 6:30 p.m. at Garrett College, Room 224, Continuing Education Building to educate the community about solar energy and the co-op process.

"It was important for me to lend my time and support to launch this co-op to make saving money with solar energy as simple as possible," said Accident resident Linda Herdering. "Working with the group will help members learn about the technology so they feel confident in their decision to go solar. I encourage everyone to come to the presentation to learn what a co-op is all about, and how it can benefit us all."

MD SUN, a nonprofit organization, expands access to solar by educating Maryland residents about the benefits of distributed solar energy, help-

Western Maryland Has New Affordable Care Act Connector

The Area Health Education Center West (AHEC West), a Cumberland-based nonprofit dedicated to improving access to and promoting quality in health care, was chosen by the Maryland Health Benefit Exchange to become the official health insurance connector entity in the far western region of Maryland, which comprises Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties.

AHEC West's Connector Entity program will be known as the Western Maryland Health Insurance Connector, with information about the program found at www.wmdhealthconnect.org. Residents can also call the connector by using one of these numbers: Washington County, 301-302-0052, Allegany County, 301-723-7093; Garrett County, 301-501-5700; or toll-free at 1-888-202-0212.

"We're very pleased to have been chosen to be the new connector entity," said Susan Stewart, executive director of AHEC West. "AHEC West has long established partnerships with health care agencies and providers throughout the far western region. Our ex-

Panel Presentation To Be Held Following Fracking Film Showing

In 10 months or less, a decision about the future of Garrett County will be made in Annapolis, as hydraulic fracturing of the Marcellus shale layer for natural gas, more commonly known as fracking, may be permitted under Maryland Department of the Environment's proposed regulations – or the practice may be banned in the state of Maryland.

"What's Next?" is the topic of a panel that will convene following the second public showing of the documentary film Fracking Western Maryland? scheduled for this Saturday, July 9, at 9 a.m. at Garrett 8 Cinemas.

According to organizers, the purpose of this panel discussion event is to bring both local and part-time Garrett County residents and visitors up-to-date on what has been happening over the past couple years regarding fracking in Maryland and where things stand today, and to discuss different approaches for local and statewide efforts in the coming months.

Panelist Paul Roberts, a citizen representative on Gov. Martin O'Malley's Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative, local business owner, and president of Citizen Shale, will argue that a state ban on fracking is necessary

James "Smokey" Stanton, president of the Youghiogheny River Water Association, will cover the initiatives of his organization and how they may be impacted by fracking.

Annie Bristow, Ph.D., also a member of the O'Malley Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative and a member Concerned Health Professionals of Maryland, will talk about negative health effects related to fracking that cannot be prevented through regulations.

Barbara Beelar, director of Friends of Deep Creek Lake, will address the absence of analysis on potential impacts of fracking on Garrett County's resort-based economy.

Steve Green, owner of High Mountain Sports, local environmental/recreational advocate and former member of the Deep Creek Watershed Plan Committee, will share his perspective as it relates to the tourism industry.

Brooke Harper, Chesapeake Citizen Action Network campaign organizer, will connect issues to state-level clean-energy advocacy.

Don Sincell, editor of The Republican newspaper and a member of the Mountain Lake Park Town Council, will talk about some possible impacts of the Friendsville Town Council's decision this week to ban fracking within the town limits.

Invitations have been extended to persons who support fracking to serve on the panel in order to present a balanced perspective.

Before and after the showing of the film, representatives of these groups will be

Friendsville Teen Receives Severe Burns Saturday

Maryland deputy state fire marshals investigated an incident that caused second-degree burn injuries to a 14-year-old male when he and some friends were attempting to burn a recently gathered brush pile at approximately 11 p.m. on Saturday.

The victim, Neil Miller Jr., was at a friend's house located at 372 Sand Spring Road in Friendsville helping to gather cut vegetation along with Dale Ertwine Jr., also 14, and a neighbor, Henry Sines, 25.

According to the report, the material was placed in a pile to burn. An attempt to ignite the pile without an accelerant was unsuccessful, so they poured gasoline into a foam cup that quickly began to deteriorate and leak. The victim then tried to toss the cup onto the pile and a flash fire occurred, causing the flames to catch Miller's clothing on fire.

Sines reacted swiftly and rolled the victim across the ground to extinguish the flames. Ertwine's mother called 911 and Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene. The victim was transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., for initial treatment before being transferred to the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center in Pittsburgh, where he remains for treat-

Public Hearing To Be Held On Proposed Zoning Amendment

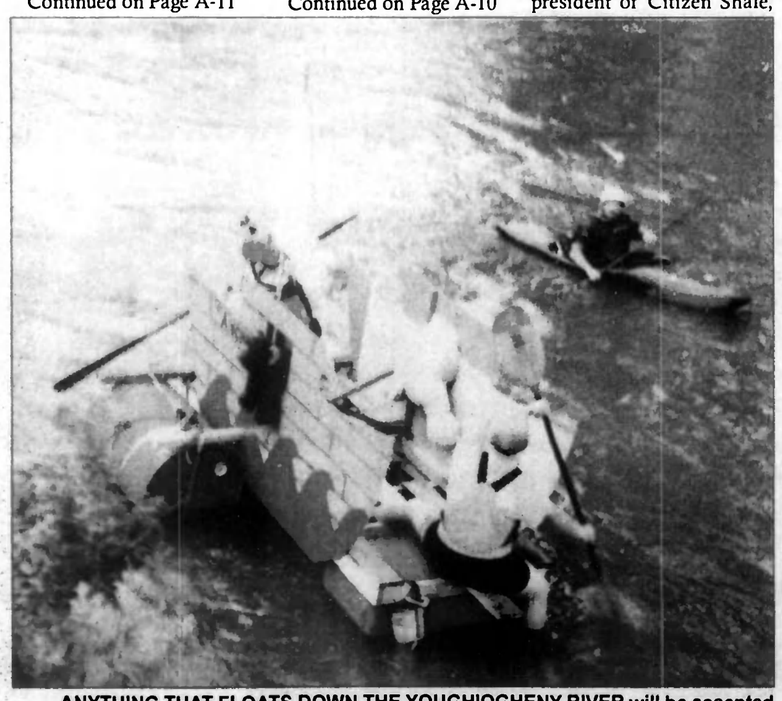
The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will conduct a public hearing on Tuesday, July 12, at 6 p.m. at Garrett College, Room 205, to review a citizen proposal to amend the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance.

The specific amendment proposed is "Amend Section 157.024(A)6 to read that 'Natural Gas Wellheads' are not permitted (N) in all zoning districts."

The Garrett County Planning Commission members voted in May to send this request on to the commissioners with a favorable vote (5-1); however, they suggested amending the proposed language to read "Natural Gas Wellheads, including associated surface infrastructure, provided consistent language is included in the revised Comprehensive Plan."

Copies of the amendment are available from the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Management, located at 203 South Fourth Street, Room 210, Oakland, MD 21550.

The commissioners are inviting comments on these proposed amendments, either at the hearing or in writing before the hearing.



ANYTHING THAT FLOATS DOWN THE YOUGHIOGHENY RIVER will be accepted for participation in the second annual Friendsville "Floatilla," scheduled for Saturday, July 23, at 5 p.m. Registration will be held from 1 to 2 p.m. at Precision Rafting, 715 Morris Avenue, Friendsville. The entry fee is $5. The parade lineup starts at 4:45 p.m. Prizes will be awarded in a variety of categories, and life vests will be provided if needed. The event is being organized by Nancy Zbel and Chara Whittemore. Sponsors include Friendsville Pharmacy, All Earth Eco Tours, Precision Rafting, Friendsville Discount Liquors, S&S Market, High Mountain Sports, Zach Trautwein of Resound Studios, and Trish Yoder Associates. More information is available by calling Zbel at 301-746-5290. Pictured is an entry from last year's event.

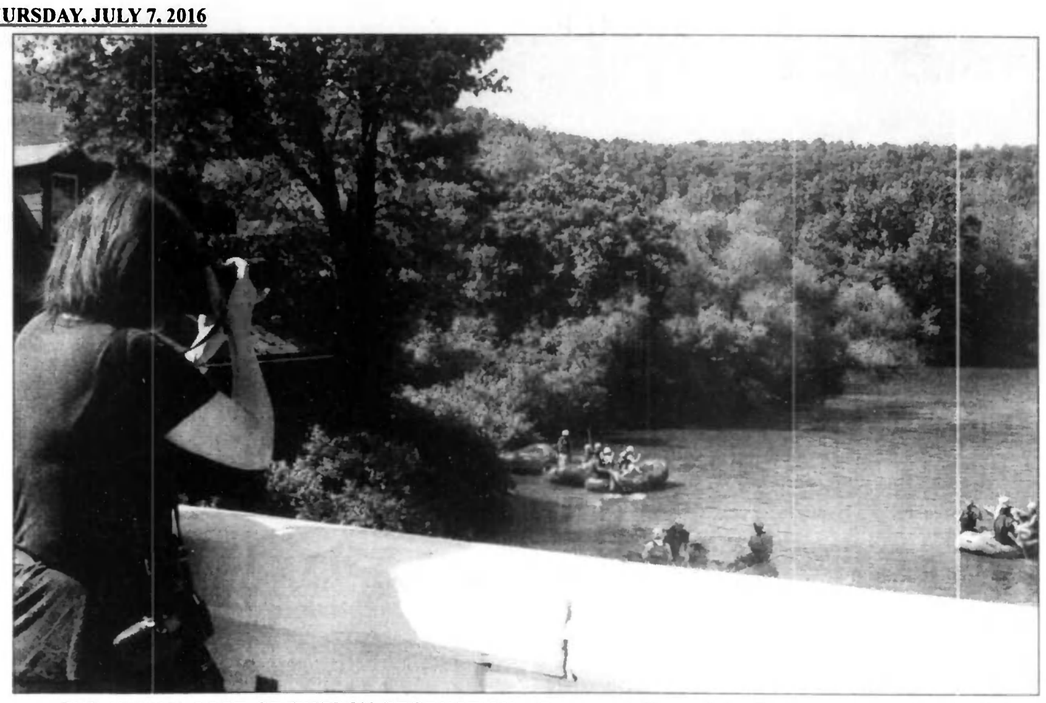
THE FIRECRACKER REGATTA is held every 4th of July weekend at Deep Creek Lake, and sailors had a gorgeous day for the event this past Saturday, as 42 Flying Scots in several different fleets participated. Favorable wind conditions, with northwest winds of 8-10 knots for the opening race on Saturday, allowed all three races of the regatta to be completed. See the sailing column on the sports pages for details.

Photo Project Conducted To Document Communities Threatened By Fracking



THE HUMAN COST OF ENERGY PRODUCTION is the name of a collaborative photojournalism project that, according to the project organizers, "aspires to bring heightened awareness of fracking's external costs, including the conditions in which those disproportionately impacted by energy production live, work, and play, by weaving the art of conservation photography at its finest with compelling journalistic storytelling." Representatives of the Environmental Integrity Project (EIP) and the International League of Conservation Photographers (iLCP), hosted recently by the local anti-fracking group Citizen Shale, took a tour of farms, businesses, and natural resources in Garrett County, all of which are allegedly threatened by fracking. Above, visitor Karen Kausmaski takes a picture of whitewater rafts in the Youghiogheny River in Friendsville. See story.

For three days at the end of June, the local anti-fracking group Citizen Shale hosted the Environmental Integrity Project (EIP) and the International League of Conservation Photographers (iLCP) on a tour of farms, businesses, and natural resources in Garrett County that the group says are threatened by fracking.

The Human Cost of Energy Production is a collaborative photojournalism project that, according to the project organizers, "aspires to bring heightened awareness of fracking's external costs, including the conditions in which those disproportionately impacted by energy production live, work, and play, by weaving the art of conservation photography at its finest with compelling journalistic storytelling."

The main focus of this two-stage project, according to Citizen Shale president Paul Roberts, is to tell the stories of people living in the shale gas fields of the Marcellus in southwestern Pennsylvania, and those who live near "downstream" facilities needed to convey, process, and distribute oil and gas in "Refinery Row" near Corpus Christi, Texas, but the project team also visited western Maryland to photograph some of the still-untouched landscapes, where a moratorium on fracking could be lifted as early as 2017.

The team from EIP and iLCP worked with Nadine Grabania and Natalie Atherton of Citizen Shale to map areas in western Maryland facing most immediate threats from fracking. They then interviewed and photographed local residents at work in their homes and businesses across the county.

A second photographer shot aerial flyover footage from a Lighthawk aircraft of farms in Pleasant Valley and Friendsville. The plane flew over the watershed of the Youghiogheny River from Deep Creek Lake to Friendsville, while rafters floated the river on a water release from the DCL dam.

Prior to the team's western Maryland visit June 25 through 27, the team had been working in southwestern Pennsylvania, where Mary Greene of EIP and Karen Kasmauski of iLCP interviewed a number of individuals whose lives have experienced harm from fracking and who have banded together to wage grassroots, on-the-ground campaigns to protect their families and communities.

While Kasmauski (http://www.kasmauski.com/index) photographed the individuals who were interviewed, iCLP's Garth Lenz (http://www.garthlenz.com) photographed various aspects of the landscape – both on the ground and aerially – to illustrate the vast and varied impacts of fracking. They photographed well pads, impacted landscapes, truck traffic, rail congestion, vents and flares, compressor stations, impoundments, pits, distressed vegetation, where possible, and any other views that demonstrate the encroachment of fracking on families, schools, and towns.

The team also photographed individuals who had been living near fracking for several years.

"My life changed after seeing a photograph of one of the team members from the Human Cost of Energy Production," said Grabania. "Seeing the photo of a young girl, around the same age as my own daughter, in her soccer uniform, with fingers black and swollen from benzene exposures moves me to work even harder to be sure that we don't bring this harmful industry to Maryland. No one just 'comes down' with benzene poisoning. We should be helping those already harmed rather than expanding this public health crisis to include families and workers in Mountain Maryland."

Roberts said that for the EIP/iLCP team the comparison was "unavoidable."

"Western Maryland today, with its rolling hills and bucolic landscapes, embodies what no longer exists in SW Pennsylvania," he said.

To welcome the EIP/iLCP team members to Garrett County, Citizen Shale hosted a potluck reception for them following its June board meeting.

"Though it was a chance to unwind after long photo shoots in the hot sun," Roberts said, "team members continued to take photos, never missing a chance to document the treasures local residents are working hard to preserve."

The end result of the interview and photography processes will be iLCP portrait and landscape photographs complemented by EIP's written personal vignettes. Roberts said that these can be packaged and utilized in a number of ways, including exhibitions (potential venues in Washington, D.C., the EPA, and State House in Annapolis); at least three articles in national level press outlets; use of the images and story narratives in a coordinated social media campaign and in an online imagery gallery; and exhibition photographers featured as a panel at iLCP's 2017 WiLDSPEAK Symposium.

EIP's mission is to investigate causes and sources of pollution, inform the public of its findings, and use legal and analytical expertise to improve public health, particularly with regard to those who bear a disproportionate amount of the nation's pollution burden. The group combines research, reporting, and media outreach to help local communities obtain the protection of environmental laws, while holding corporations and government agencies accountable for pollution.

iLCP's mission is to further environmental and cultural conservation through photography. Its Conservation Photography Expeditions connect local, national, and/or international organizations, such as EIP, with an elite group of the world's top wildlife and nature photographers.

Garth Lenz, for example, has produced definitive aerial images of Tar Sands development in Alberta, Canada.

The objective is to produce a body of images that fully captures the threats and opportunities faced by communities, and to enhance conservation partners' ability to achieve positive outcomes by strategically influencing the public and policy makers.

GCSO Seeking Information On July 4th Thefts

Police are investigating two thefts that reportedly occurred over the holiday weekend. The following incidents are unrelated and being investigated separately by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

A Toshiba laptop computer and $12 cash was reportedly removed from a vehicle parked in Loch Lynn. Sometime between the evening of July 3 and the morning of July 4 the items were taken from the car while it was parked at 107 Roanoke Ave.

Deputies are also investigating the theft of a black and silver 2010 Yamaha Raptor 700 SE four-wheeler that was reportedly taken from a Maryland Highway residence on July 4. Sometime between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., the vehicle was removed from the 3400 block of Rt. 135, where it had been chained and locked to a utility pole for sale. It is believed that the suspect(s) removed the rear wheel to disconnect it from the pole.

Anyone with information concerning these crimes or others is encouraged to contact the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911 or online at www.garrettcountycrimesolvers.org. Tipsters may remain anonymous.

Pa. Driver Flown To Ruby After Vehicle Hits Tree

A Pennsylvania man was flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital after his vehicle struck a tree in McHenry early Sunday morning. Maryland State Police troopers responded to Rock Lodge Road just south of State Park Road at approximately 6:45 a.m.

Investigation revealed that John Robert Comer, 27, Bentleyville, Pa., had been traveling south on Rock Lodge Road, when he reportedly failed to negotiate a right-hand curve in the road and traveled across the northbound lane and off the northbound shoulder. The vehicle then traveled down a steep embankment and struck a tree.

Comer was flown by STAT MedEvac to the Morgantown, W.Va., hospital. Investigation is continuing, and charges are pending for driving under the influence.

Drinking And Driving Charges Issued To Two

Two drivers face drinking and driving charges following single-vehicle accidents this past week. The following incidents are unrelated.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the intersection of Bittinger and Swanton roads at approximately 1:30 a.m. Friday morning. Investigation led to the arrest of Rhonda Lynn Ward, 44, Keyser, W.Va., who was reportedly found to be driving under the influence of alcohol.

Ward was charged with driving under the influence, driving while impaired, driving on a suspended license and failure to stop at a stop sign. She was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

In a separate incident, Maryland State Police troopers responded to a report of a disabled vehicle at the intersection of Rt. 40 and Green Lantern Road at approximately 7 a.m. Monday morning. Upon arrival, troopers observed a red GMC Sierra partially in the roadway. The driver, George Rostosky Jr., Finleyville, Pa., was reportedly found sleeping behind the wheel.

When troopers were able to wake Rostosky, he removed his foot from the brake and backed into a telephone pole. He was charged with DUI, DWI, consuming alcoholic beverage in the passenger area of a vehicle, and unsafe backing.

Friendsville Way Established By Local Residents

The Friendsville Way is a new business group recently formed to establish communication and coordinate efforts between businesses and residents. The group meets the first Thursday of the month at 6 p.m. at the Friendsville tTownHhall.

It is the organization's mission to give purpose and opportunity to the community through collaboration of creativity and trade. The community is making strong efforts to use its existing resources as a means to create economic growth and sustainability.

"The Friendsville Way is all about positive energy," said John Croskey, president of the Friendsville Way and owner of Ancient Healing Oils. "We are people interested in personal growth, and we share the same vision for the community where our businesses are located. We may not all live in Friendsville, but we all call Friendsville 'home.'"

Those interested in membership are not required to own a business or live in Friendsville. Those interested in becoming an official member must pay the annual membership fee.

"When we come together, things happen and being persistent even when it feels as all is lost..." said Croskey, "that is when today's dreams and goals become tomorrow's reality, and we have some wonderful dreams to explore."

Among other assets to be promoted are Friendsville Community Park, historic main street, hiking on the Kendall Trail, Bear Creek trout fishing, and world class kayaking and rafting on the Upper Youghiogheny.

The town recently published a new color brochure, which is available at various town businesses, as well as the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's Deep Creek Lake Visitor Center, McHenry, or online at www.visitfriendsville.org.

The new town website has information at the bottom of every page as a way for readers to join the town mailing list.

The early dues for 2016 are only $20. Any individual, business, or organization interested in joining the Friendsville Way should contact Croskey at john@goaho.com.

LAKES APPRECIATION MONTH PROCLAIMED – The Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday Issued a proclamation recognizing July as Garrett County Lakes Appreciation Month. In issuing the proclamation, commission chair Paul Edwards read a list of all the local lakes: Deep Creek, Herrington Manor, and New Germany, managed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources; Randolph Jennings and Youghiogheny, managed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; three drinking water reservoirs – Broadford, Savage, and Piney Branch; Lake Cunningham, operated by the University of Maryland Extension; town small lakes in Accident and Grantsville; and Lake Louise and Little Meadow, both privately owned. Barbara Beelar, Friends of Deep Creek Lake, expressed her organization's appreciation to the current Board of Garrett County Commissioners and their "extensive" work to protect and restore Deep Creek Lake, and reminded them that the local lakes are more than natural, recreational, and drinking water resources, they are also important economic resources for the county and local region. The copy of the proclamation will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society for placement in the Transportation Museum's second floor Deep Creek Lake exhibit. From left are Commissioner Larry Tichnell, Friends of DCL member Ellen Williams, Beelar, Edwards, Commissioner Jim Hinebaugh, and Bob Hoffmann, Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association.

Three Charged With Impaired Boating On DCL

Maryland Natural Resources Police officers patrolling Deep Creek Lake on Saturday charged three Pennsylvania residents with impaired boating.

Timothy William Horn, 55, Fayetteville, and Kathy Jean McCleary, 49, Chambersburg, each received three citations for operating a vessel while under the influence.

Eric Richard Guarino, 27, Malvern, was stopped after officers noticed a person riding on the stern of his vessel. He received three citations for impaired boating and one citation for negligent operation.

All three are scheduled to appear in Garrett County District Court on Aug. 17.

Education Board To Hold Regular Monthly Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, July 12, at the central office in Oakland, on the third floor in the board room.

The executive (closed) session is to begin at 4 p.m. and run until about 5 p.m. The work session, which is open to the public, is to begin at 5:30 p.m.

In the open session, a report on the Learning Beyond the Classroom bus will be presented. At about 5:50 p.m., the new student member of the education board will be appointed.

An update and attorney general opinion regarding the transgender guidelines for the school system will be heard under new business, which is to begin after the new student member appointment.

An electric distribution bid will be updated, and a report on child protective units will be given.

The final report of the Commission to Review Maryland's Use of Assessments and Testing in Public Schools will be heard around 6 p.m.

Public comments will be accepted at 6:10 p.m., after which the work session will be adjourned.

The business meeting is to begin at 7 p.m. This will include the superintendent's report, and an action item on the 2016-17 student handbook. Public comment will be accepted at 7:12 p.m.

Other regular business, such as a report from the Maryland Association of Boards of Education and the calendar, will be at the end of the meeting, which is to adjourn around 7:30 p.m.

The agendas for the Work Session and Business Session can be accessed on the Garrett County Public Schools website www.garrettcountyschools.org (users should go to the Board of Education page and select the links to Agendas). They can also be accessed at BoardDocs (www.boarddocs.com/mabe/garrett/Board.nsf/Public.)

Agendas are not considered final until the board takes action to accept them at the start of each meeting. Part or all of the meeting may be closed, as is provided in Maryland state law.

In other business, the education board will meet in closed session on Thursday, July 14, 4 p.m. in the central office to discuss negotiations. This meeting will not be open to the public, as is allowed under Maryland law.

Thank You

Our family would like to thank all our friends, neighbors, church families and relatives, for all the acts of kindness, sympathy and love that we received before and after the death of our loved one, Roy Garland Jenkins. We appreciated all the prayers, visits, cards, phone calls, hugs, food, flowers, donations and words of kindness and compassion.

Thanks to Dr. Somi Rikhye and staff at Garrett Regional Medical Center and the doctors and staff at the West Penn Burn Center, Pittsburgh and all who visited him there. Thanks to the Newman Funeral Home, Pastor Martin Stewart and Pastor James Oester, to Rodney Durst and Carol Stewart for the music at the funeral. Thanks also to the pallbearers and the Grantsville Post 214 American Legion.

We thank the members of St. John's Lutheran Church for the meal and the ladies of the Gospel Center who assisted them.

God's Blessings to All

Zoning and Fracking...

For some folks in these parts the word "zoning" is considered to be among the most foul in the category of swearing, evoking all kinds of neuroses, nightmares, and various other reactions in those who so categorize the concept. Garrett County, of course, does not have countywide zoning, as candidate after candidate for county commissioner takes a solemn oath to never, ever even consider inflicting such a scourge on their constituents.

Well, guess what. The fact of the matter is that approximately 60% – yes, a majority – of county residents reside in zoned communities/areas. Most, if not all, of our eight municipalities have zoning, as does the relatively massive Deep Creek Lake watershed. And guess what else: Zoning in those areas has, for the most part, worked extremely well at protecting the rights of all properties owners without severely infringing on the rights of any property owners.

The towns of Mountain Lake Park and Friendsville, because both have zoning, had the authority to pass ordinances that ban the industrial drilling practice of fracking within their borders, with the former passing such an ordinance four years ago, and the latter doing so just this past week. It is unclear if such municipal ordinances would hold up in court if they were challenged either by the state or the gas industry, but at least the gauntlet has been thrown down by those towns' governing bodies.

Next week there will be a hearing, the primary topic of which will be a petition filed by lake business people and residents to add language to the zoning ordinance that will match language that is contained in the watershed plan – that being the banning of fracking within the lake watershed. It will be interesting to see if the county commissioners, all of whom have indicated either strong or lukewarm support for "safe" fracking (despite the fact that such does not exist), decide to approve the amendment to the watershed zoning ordinance.

It is hoped that the other six municipalities in the county will follow the lead of Mountain Lake Park and Friendsville by passing their own fracking-ban ordinances. Such action would make a powerful statement to the members of the state legislature, which will soon make a final decision on whether or not fracking is to be made legal in Maryland; a powerful statement with or without the support of Wendell Beitzel, George Edwards, and the commissioners.

For local residents who just are not yet sure where they stand on the fracking issue, the viewing of the documentary film titled Fracking Western Maryland? is highly recommended, and another opportunity to do so is being offered this Saturday at Garrett 8 Cinemas. Many local residents were out of town at the film's premiere back in March, and there are certainly many summer residents and visitors here right now who probably also were unable to see the premiere. It is a compelling, eye-opening, educational piece that will absolutely help those who are still unsure or uninformed about fracking to take a side. That's Garrett 8 Cinemas, 9 a.m., this Saturday, July 9.

To the Editor:

I'm writing today in two voices: First, as a founding board member of Engage Mountain Maryland; and second as the 5th of 7 generations of Garrett County natives.

My Engage Mountain Maryland voice is here to state that the proposed MDE Marcellus shale drilling regulations are without a doubt the worst possible regulations they could present to the citizens of Maryland. They are not based on current science nor current studies, nor current law and regulations.

The idea that MDE would choose – or was directed – to design Maryland regulations after Pennsylvania and West Virginia is preposterous. There is a huge amount of evidence from our neighboring states that fracking cannot be done safely, nor responsibly.

My Garrett County native voice is here to state that we are not the "dumb, redneck hicks" that the western Maryland delegation portrays in Annapolis. We have a huge number of businesses that rely on tourism and the second-home market for our incomes. The second-homes market in Garrett County produces 60% of our county budget alone... that number does not include the tourism dollars and residual dollars generated from those markets.

We are insulted that MDE under Governor Hogan is proposing regulations that mirror those of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and we are furious that MDE officials believe that they have done a good job with said regulations because they are a "compromise between the gas industry and the environmentalists!" (I am not an environmentalist, by the way).

The MDE mission is "to protect and restore the environment for the health and well-being of all Marylanders." It is your job, MDE, to create and enforce regulations to protect the environment for the health and well-being of all Marylanders. ALL of us! The proposed regulations are backing us into a corner, and we are ready to fight!

Sincerely,
Dawn R. Beitzel

To the Editor:

Sewage spills seem to be ubiquitous around Deep Creek Lake. Each year, residents hear reports of raw sewage running from one of many pumping stations into Deep Creek Lake. Sometimes it's 6,500 gallons (as was the recent spill), and sometimes it's in excess of 40,000 gallons.

Even man-made aquatic ecosystems like Deep Creek Lake are resilient. They can adequately adapt to stressors, given that those stressors arise over a long period of time. However, if stressors arise suddenly, the ecosystem cannot adapt and starts to show signs of collapse. Deep Creek could likely adapt to the stress of over-development, which adds sediment and run-off to the lake. Bacteria that breaks down nitrogenous waste could bloom, and various plant species that eradicate phosphate along with other contaminants could spread within reasonable constraints.

The lake cannot adapt to combined stressors – over-development, abundant watercraft use, invasive grasses, and constant sewer spills. Sooner or later, the levy will break. Signs of this have been consistent, such as the fish kill that took place several years ago and the abundant growth of invasive grasses.

In addition to sewage, the state is using herbicide to combat the invasive grass (another easily preventable stressor). Mandatory, enforced vessel wash-down stations at all boat launches would have prevented invasive grass.

It would seem that the sewage problem would be the easiest to solve. The county receives millions and millions in property tax revenue. It should easily provide a competent sewage system and the capable manpower to operate it. So what's the issue? Why are the pumping stations lining the lake reeking of decaying human waste? Fecal matter is only one component of raw sewage, as potentially dangerous chemical compounds could be part of the mix.

This all goes without mentioning mercury, an element with which Deep Creek's fish are saturated. In 2012, the EPA declared that Deep Creek did not meet its standard as a recreational fishery because of bioaccumulation of mercury within fish tissues. EPA advised very limited consumption of Deep Creek's fish.

Our leadership seems intent on securing a green light for hydraulic fracking, which will compound ecological issues in the county. Can we not close one Pandora's Box before opening another?

To the Editor:

How can MDE in its Marcellus Shale Issues Paper justify reducing setbacks from fracking sites by more than 50% simply by an additional cement casings layer?

Cement is not a good casing, and industry has long had a problem in installing casings deep underground, where it is impossible to know whether it has been done in a way that ensures viability over time. The cement shrinks as it cures, cracks as it bonds, and de-bonds as it shrinks. Natural and unnatural movements under the Earth cause the cured cement to crack and de-bond further. These failure rates are 7 times higher in unconventional, hydraulically fractured wells than for conventionally drilled wells.

Additionally, 6% of unconventional wells leak at the onset, exposing us to dangerous chemicals and VOCs. Rates of well leakage go up with the age of the well.

While there has not been enough time to access long-term failure rates in the Marcellus, for off-shore wells, the failure rate at 3 years is 21%, at 5 years 31%, and over 50% at 17 years. But, the initial failure rates in the Northeast are much higher. Wells here are longer, must curve laterally, often access substantial over-pressured reservoirs, and must withstand more intense fracturing pressures and larger water volumes. These factors influence well integrity, especially as it pertains to the viability of cement casings.

The oil and gas industry knows about these problems and has not been able to solve them! Surely MDE knows about these problems as well, and knows that adding another layer of cement casing does nothing to change the physical properties of cement underground. Surely MDE has access to the research that shows the preponderance of well leaks. Surely MDE knows that an extra layer of casing – casing that will still fail – is not a sufficient way to protect the public, environmental, and economic health of the citizens of Maryland. Surely MDE knows that this extra layer is not justification to reduce the setbacks from streams, homes, schools, historic sites, and other sensitive areas where living organisms grow and thrive – including our children, and their children, and so on.

Reducing setbacks based on the faulty promise of protection from an extra layer of cement casing is pure folly and dangerously irresponsible. MDE has not met its responsibility to the citizens of Maryland to provide regulations that keep us safe. Then again, I don't believe such regulations exist.

To the Editor:

Tuesday night the small river town of Friendsville took a step forward for Maryland and banned fracking and associated damaging, industrial activities, such as waste disposal and water extraction within that jurisdiction. At the public hearing before the town council vote, there was an outpouring of support for the ban from 50+ people in attendance.

Town council member Jess Whittemore noted that the Hogan administration's proposal for regulated fracking in Maryland would only limit construction and operation of a gas well pad within 2,000' upstream of the town's public drinking water supply's surface water intake. Meanwhile, 2/3 of Garrett County's landmass drains its surface waters through the town of Friendsville, making this 2,000' setback an insult rather than protection.

Such insults from the Hogan administration aren't going over well in Garrett County. Consistently comparing their suggested regulations to those of Pa. and W.Va., Hogan's Department of the Environment ignores what many Garrett Countians have witnessed in the destruction of water supplies, despoiling of land, and health harms of their close neighbors in these bordering states.

Friendsville joins Mountain Lake Park in banning that which would destroy our county. Citizens at the hearing wondered why none of their county and state elected representatives were present at this well-publicized and historic event?

Many called for Garrett County to enact a ban to protect all the source waters of its citizens, and most realized that, while the Friendsville municipal ban will offer some protection, only a statewide ban of fracking will keep the toxic chemicals that Governor Hogan's "remove-barriers-from-customer-service" approach to drilling would bring to their beloved river, the Youghiogheny.

Folks also spoke of Oakland, Grantsville, and Frostburg next!

Ann Bristow

To the Editor:

I sat in a very encouraging meeting last night in Friendsville. The town council recognized the dangers of fracking and banned it within the municipality. It is clear in America that we are no longer entitled to clean water and healthy air. In fact, only those fortunate enough to have ethical and caring local leaders are fortunate enough to get protections.

One person in the room did rightfully see these protections as a dilemma. He came in wearing discolored boots that looked to be held together with spray foam insulation bubbling out of the soles. He said, "Look at my boots. I won't even show you my feet..." And he went on to say that he is being harmed by his job working around chemicals, but that he does not have a choice. He has looked for other jobs, but can't find one.

He should not have to trade his good health for a paycheck.

Our leaders in Friendsville (and Mountain Lake Park in 2011) have done their job to protect citizens. But our county government is failing to do its job, to bring and support healthy jobs here. When will we hold our county economic development office to the fire? Why do they get to take the easy way out for a couple dozen jobs that clearly hurt those workers? Why are we not questioning their complacency as our neighbors are being harmed?

But it is really everyone's job; we can all make a difference. We can "buy local" so we are not sending jobs out of our community. Let's support healthy businesses in our community, so all of our neighbors can make healthy job choices.

To the Editor:

My grandfather had a dairy farm. My father milked the herd by hand. Like many of you, I deeply love farms and farmland.

I get it that gas leases look like good money. But here's what the landman won't tell you:

If your windows crack from fracking, or your well goes bad, your insurance may not cover those big expenses. Far worse, if your neighbor's well goes bad or if there's an environmental spill, and you're sued for millions, most policies will not cover you, even if you get umbrella coverage. Signing a gas lease means you're a business partner with the gas company.

Google "Fracking Homeowner's Insurance."

People are pleading with their neighbors not to frack. If fracking happens and people get sick, they won't be pleading anymore. They'll be suing – suing you, if you have a nearby gas lease. Maybe Billy Bishoff for telling farmers that fracking is safe. And Shane Grady of the Energy and Property Rights Coalition. You could lose everything.

The second "gotcha" is your land's mortgage value. More banks every day are refusing to write mortgages on land with gas leases. If you need a home equity loan or a second mortgage, you may be screwed. In addition, if your bank ever sold your mortgage to Freddie Mac or Fannie May, the minute you sign a gas lease you violate the terms of the mortgage. Even real estate agents are raising red flags: They can sell your property, but the whole shebang falls apart because the buyer can't get a mortgage. That's how land values go down. Look up "Fracking Mortgage."

Another terrible thing you deserve to know about is royalty cheating. Pennsylvania mandates a 12.5% royalty, but many, many people quickly receive 1%. Some even get negative royalty statements... they owe the gas company money! Why? Because your lease says the gas company can deduct maintenance and expenses for that four-acre drilling monstrosity and those endless trucks tearing up your road. They don't even have to tell you what the money is for. The Supreme Court under George W Bush ruled in favor of gas companies.

All over this USA, they cheat people. Google "Fracking Royalty Scam."

Struggling as a farmer is better than being ruined. Delegate Wendell Beitzel and Senator George Edwards, for shame! The hardworking, good farmers of your district deserve the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth... so help me God.

Respectfully submitted by a hardworking, hard-headed, and honest farmer's granddaughter,
Katie Ritter

OaklandBASE Group Formed To Help Strengthen, Grow Economy

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council, recognizing the need for economic revitalization, recently established a diverse group of "dedicated and motivated" citizens who formed a group called OaklandBASE (Building a Stronger Economy).

The group's mission is "to be an organization committed to strengthen and grow the greater Oakland economy responsibly and sustainably for current and future generations through the coordination of various individuals and private and public entities."

"At the center of this vision are the core values that are essential to the success of this revitalization effort," said Michelle Ross, Oakland business coordinator, "including assisting, improving, and strengthening current businesses and their owners; locating, recruiting, and developing new business and business owner opportunities; and discovering, defining, and developing workforce skills, knowledge, and abilities to support current and new business ventures."

As a result of the group's efforts to tailor public policy and infrastructure to help create an improved business environment, the mayor and town council has endorsed multiple incentives available to both current and future business owners.

"These incentives are designed to be flexible to better meet the unique needs of various enterprises," Ross said.

Examples of approved incentives include tax reductions, water and sewer rate reductions, and assistance with signage façade improvements.

"Coupled with the county's customizable incentives, Oakland offers valuable opportunity and assistance to existing and aspiring entrepreneurs," Ross said.

Incentive applications and additional information can be obtained online at oaklandbase.com website. Ross can assist with the business startup and incentive process. Business owners are invited to email her at mainstreetgoba@gmail.com or call her at Town Hall at 301-334-2691.

try prizes, tools of their trade and scholarships. Skill Point Certificates were awarded in 86 occupational and leadership events to students who met a predetermined threshold score in their competition, as defined by industry. The Skill Point Certificate is a component of the SkillsUSA Work Force Ready System, a national assessment program for career and technical education.

"This showcase of career and technical education demonstrates our SkillsUSA partnership at its finest," said SkillsUSA executive director. "Our students, instructors, and industry partners work together to ensure that every student excels. This program expands learning and career opportunities for our members."

The SkillsUSA Championships event is held annually for students in middle school, high school, or college/postsecondary programs as part of the SkillsUSA National Leadership and Skills Conference. More than 300,000 students and advisors join SkillsUSA annually, organized into more than 18,000 sections and 52 state and territorial associations, according to Lawrence.

He describes this national, nonprofit partnership of students, instructors, and industry as a "verified talent pipeline" for America's skilled workforce that is working to help solve the skills gap.

"SkillsUSA is a vital solution to the growing U.S. skills gap," Lawrence said. "This nonprofit partnership of students, instructors, and industry ensures America has the skilled workforce it needs to stay competitive."

Founded in 1965 and endorsed by the U.S. Department of Education, the association serves more than 300,000 member students and instructors each year in middle schools, high schools, and colleges. This diverse talent pipeline covers 130 trade, technical and skilled service occupations, the majority STEM (science, technology, engineering, math)-related.

A MILLION THANKS
"A Million Thanks" supports our active, reserve and veteran military by sending millions of letters of thanks and encouragement directly to our service members. It is very uplifting for our troops to continue to receive support from us at home. The letters make a big difference in their morale.

Oakland Nursing and Rehabilitation Center has partnered with them to be a drop-off location in the state of Maryland. There is a mailbox in our lobby in which letters can be placed. The letters will be forwarded and distributed to service men and women.

ONRC with community help would like to show our troops how much patriotism Garrett County and surrounding area residents have by supporting them and letting them know how proud we are that they are serving our country and keeping each of us safe!

There are a few guidelines:
1. Do not include postage.
2. Do not send edible items or other care package items... letters and cards only.
3. Do not use glitter, confetti, or anything that is not securely attached to the letter or card.
4. Please send positive and encouraging messages only.
5. Be creative!!! Draw pictures, talk about you, and let them know their service does not go unnoticed.
6. Include your address or email address if you wish. Most military will write back to you!
7. *Attention parents and /or teachers of young children: We ask that if children are too young to include a message of thanks, please write one on their behalf so our service members can get a message along with the drawing.

In addition to contacting Grimm for more information, persons may go to the class's Facebook page, titled Southern Garrett High School Class of 1981, which also includes all the necessary information.

A farewell breakfast will be held on Sunday, July 24, at the Oak-Mar restaurant (tentative location) in Oakland, beginning at 10 a.m. A planning committee will then discuss the 40th reunion.

All classmates are encouraged to attend any or all of the events.

New Germany SP To Host Program By Blacksmith

Local metal sculptor and blacksmith Kenny Braitman, will present the art of blacksmithing at New Germany State Park on Friday, July 15, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. This program will include hands-on demonstrations and instruction on the art of sculpting metal.

Braitman's metalwork has been featured in many shows throughout the region. He specializes in combining traditional blacksmithing techniques with contemporary design, often merging metals with glass, stone, and found objects.

"Together they sometimes make a stronger statement than any of the elements individually," Braitman said. "Incorporating materials found in nature lends a soothing, comforting feel for me."

Braitman is the owner of Carey Run Forge in Frostburg.

The presentation is free of charge, and will take place outside the New Germany Lake House. For more information, persons may call the Ranger Station at 301-895-5453.

health and welfare, our environment, food, scenery, and the landscape, all of which it would negatively affect.

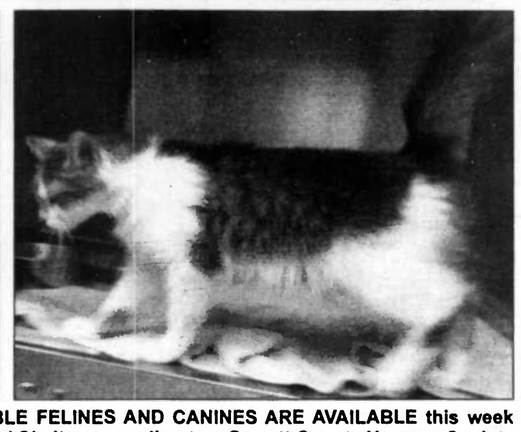
"In Friendsville, we have neighbors looking out for one another," he continued. "We care about the natural beauty, our wildlife, and certainly our young people. What would life be like for them in 20 years if fracking is permitted in Maryland?"

Earlier this year, the Prince George's County Council voted to ban fracking, and Montgomery County passed a similar measure in 2014. Over 100 organizations have endorsed the Don't Frack Maryland campaign and are calling for a statewide ban.

"Western Maryland's representatives in Annapolis tell their colleagues that everyone here supports fracking. But they do not reflect our views," said Paul Roberts, president of Citizen Shale, one of the organizations wanting a ban. "The Friendsville Town Council's vote tonight is further evidence of the strong sentiment in our community against this hazardous industrial activity."

Thomas Meyer, senior Maryland organizer with Food & Water Watch, added, "With tonight's vote in Friendsville, the message to the Maryland legislature should be loud and clear: 'Ban fracking now.' Hundreds of concerned citizens came out to public meetings last week and demanded that their leaders ban fracking in Maryland, and communities across the state are taking action to protect themselves. The General Assembly should heed the calls of their constituents and ban fracking in Maryland once and for all."

Adorable Adoptables



NUMEROUS ADORABLE FELINES AND CANINES ARE AVAILABLE this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, according to a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. Some of them are pictured. Priscilla, above left, is a young brown tabby cat who was given up by her owner. "Priscilla doesn't like dogs," the spokesperson noted. Lacy, above right, is a very friendly longhaired female. "She is loving times 10," the spokesperson said. Below left is Sarge, an 8-year-old hound mix. "He is neutered, housebroken, and was given up by his owners," the spokesperson said. "He really wants a new home." Bernard is a young, very nice black/white tuxedo male feline who was picked up as a stray in McHenry. "Come and meet all the nice cats and dogs at the county shelter who need a good home," the spokesperson said. "Also, you can look for any kind of pet on Petfinder.com by entering what you are looking for and your ZIP code. It will only post animals that are at a shelter or rescue, no pet stores or breeders." HART recently took some kittens and one dog from the shelter to a rescue facility. More information is available by calling the GC County Shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Photos courtesy of the GC Humane Society, a nonprofit volunteer organization.

Local Chiropractor, Nurse, And Therapy Dog Volunteer At W.Va. Flood Cleanup

In response to the June 23 flooding in much of West Virginia, Swanton couple Ken and Cindy Mankamyer loaded up their SUV with supplies and their therapy dog Schooner, and headed south to the small town of Clendenin, W.Va., which was almost completely under water when flash flooding struck.

"They are our neighbors; we wanted to go and help," Cindy said.

When the Mankamyers arrived, they found that many of the local volunteers helping others were flood victims themselves, working hard to help others clean up the heavy mud, remove debris, and deliver urgently needed supplies.

The local couple learned that a school teacher named Heather had taken the lead in setting up and staffing a makeshift volunteer dispatch center, where she and her friends recorded names and addresses of residents in need of assistance. Her list grew daily, and on Saturday, July 2, she dispatched 500 volunteers to various homes and businesses throughout Clendenin and neighboring towns.

The teacher sent out volunteers in vehicles loaded with water, bleach, diapers, cleaning supplies, protective gear such as masks and gloves, and pet food, and directed them to "drive down this road and honk your horn or knock on doors to find people who need things."

As long as 10 days after the flooding, there were people who had not yet received help. One elderly woman with serious health problems was found living in the muck, the Mankamyers said. She was sent by ambulance to a nearby hospital.

Ken Mankamyer, a chiropractor, set up a portable work table at several locations where he worked on many sore and tired backs, offering relief to weary, emotionally drained flood victims and exhausted volunteers. Many expressed gratitude in how much better they felt after the adjustment.

"One young man said 'Thanks, Doc! My back feels so much looser!' before he went back the heavy lifting," Ken said. Someone else told the local volunteers that having a chiropractor there to treat victims and volunteers was a most unique disaster response and was much appreciated.

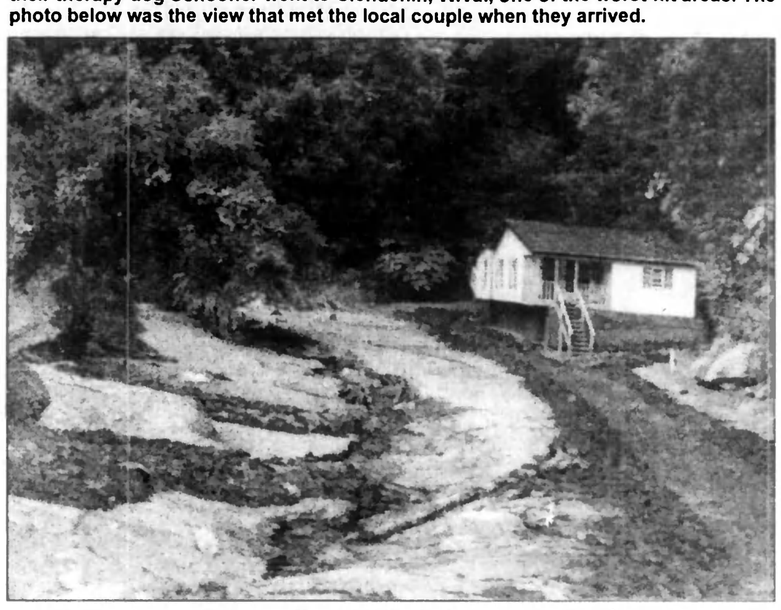
Cindy worked at the dispatch center, moving supplies and cleaning, then assisted a team sent to a local dentist where volunteers were clearing debris and mud from his basement and office.

"The work was back-breaking, the muck was thick, and the soggy debris was heavy," Cindy said. "The absence of electricity made working in dark basements even more challenging, but the spirit and the enthusiasm was all positive as we sweaty, mud-covered volunteers worked side by side for hours on end."

The Mankamyers said it was heartwarming to witness the optimism and hope in the residents of Clendenin; one lady who lived very near the Elk River (which rose a reported 34 feet over its banks at that location) was seen dragging soggy and muddy household items into her yard to dry.

"Well," she said, smiling, "it's a good time to purge some things."

LOCAL COUPLE OFFER THEIR HELP AFTER WEST VIRGINIA FLOOD – Cindy and Ken Mankamyer of Swanton, pictured above, were compelled to jump into the relief effort in West Virginia last week, where much of the state was affected by devastating flash flooding on June 23. Cindy is a nurse and Ken is a chiropractor, so they provided services in those areas, as well as simply helping to dig through the silt. They and their therapy dog Schooner went to Clendenin, W.Va., one of the worst-hit areas. The photo below was the view that met the local couple when they arrived.



It was said that many residents carried no flood insurance, yet were heard to say that they will rebuild because they love the town.

"Everywhere we looked, there were stations giving out free supplies, water, and nourishment to victims and helpers both," Ken said.

Schooner, the Mankamyers' 6-year-old certified therapy golden-doodle, did his part to relieve stress to many in the area.

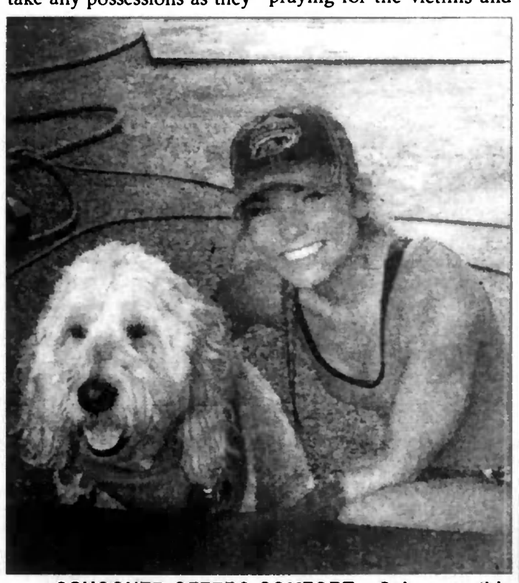
"He would eagerly perform a cute trick, or just rub his head against their leg as he was being petted in gratitude," Cindy said. She said she found herself in tears many times throughout the day, hearing stories of devastation and loss. But one particular story she heard had a happy ending. A local family was headed out of town overnight when the flood waters rose, and when word reached them, they raced back home, expecting to find the dead bodies of their pets. When they somehow reached their home, they heard a bark, and saw their dog straining to keep his footing as he stood atop an outbuilding, his front paws clinging to the top of a chain link fence, with only his head barely above water. Most likely the dog had been in that position for 5 or 6 hours.

Ken also told of a husband and wife who barely escaped with their lives. The wife decided to wake her sleeping husband on the second floor of their home when she saw the water reach her porch. By the time they reached the living room, water was waist-deep. Others told how the water rose so shockingly fast that they had no time to take any possessions as they evacuated.

The Mankamyers wished to thank all the friends, patients, co-workers, and Oakland businesses who so generously donated money or supplies for them to take to Clendenin.

"That restores my faith in humanity," said Ken. Other friends and family offered to help behind the scenes and by praying for the victims and volunteer efforts.

"We can all do something," Cindy said. "The needs are great and this recovery will be underway for a long, long time."



SCHOONER OFFERS COMFORT – Schooner, this golden-doodle, is the Mankamyers' certified therapy dog. He went on the trip to Clendenin as well and offered his comfort to all those stressed in the disaster areas. He is pictured with Miss Teen West Virginia USA Cassy Trickett.

ONE OF THE MOST UNIQUE RELIEF EFFORTS was provided by Ken Mankamyer, who offered his chiropractic services to flood victims and volunteers. With stress levels high and backs hurting from lifting too much, the relief offered by the local practitioner was much appreciated.

Moylan, Malloy Hear Variety Of District Court Cases

A number of cases have been processed in Garrett County District Court in Oakland over the past week, with sentences handed down by Judges Stephan M. Moylan and Edward A. Malloy for a variety of offenses.

James Russell Miller, 54, Keyser, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of less than $100.00.

Miller was charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after Ofc. Adam Rounds responded to 7-Eleven/Luke's Liquors in reference to a theft.

According to the report, Miller had stolen Maker's Mark Whiskey, valued at $63.99, unbeknownst to his neighbor who drove him to and from the store.

Miller was placed in custody on March 13 at his residence following a conversation with Rounds.

Malloy found the defendant guilty and sentenced Miller to 60 days in the Garrett County Detention Center, all of which was suspended. Malloy also handed down a criminal fine of $42.50 and ordered that Miller must pay a restitution of $63.99 to Luke's Liquors Umstott Inc., by Aug. 1 through the court.

Rachel Elizabeth Howe, 37, Grantsville, received a "stet" verdict for a neglect of minor charge.

Howe was charged by the Maryland State Police on Sept. 5, 2015, when Trooper Whetzel responded to a report of two children being left unattended at home.

According to the report, Howe told Whetzel that she had left them there the previous three Saturdays and one day throughout the week over the previous three weeks.

Howe would leave at 8 a.m. and not return until 8 p.m. on the days that she left, according to the report.

Moylan handed a "stet" verdict to Howe after Howe gave an "other" plea.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

The following cases are DUI/DWI traffic violations that took place throughout the month of June.

James Martin Hershman, 53, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Moylan found the defendant guilty and sentenced Hershman to three years in the GCDC, 18 months of which were suspended. Moylan also ordered three years of probation to be supervised by the Division of Parole and Probation upon release.

Ronald John Marc, 71, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Moylan found the defendant guilty and sentenced Marc to three years in the GCDC, 18 months of which were suspended. Moylan also ordered three years of probation to be supervised by the DPP upon release.

Daniel Paul Shockey, 25, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Moylan found the defendant guilty and sentenced Shockey to 60 days in the GCDC, all of which was suspended. Moylan also ordered a $250 fine and one year of unsupervised probation.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

BATHROOM AIR FRESHENER

by Dr. Thomas Sheahen

Q. How does a bathroom air freshener work? Are there any harmful chemicals in them?

A. A spray can of air freshener is about as harmless a chemical as you can find in a home. What it mainly does is spray an aerosol into the air. Aerosols are extremely tiny particles which serve as nucleation sites for gases in the air to accumulate on.

The reason a bathroom can smell bad is because of the gas hydrogen sulfide = H_2S. The nose of virtually all animals is extremely sensitive to that smell, serving as a warning that the substance emitting it is unhealthy. Humans have acquired that same sensitivity. We can detect about one part in 10^{15} – much greater sensitivity than for other smells, such as food or flowers.

Hydrogen sulfide is a polar molecule, and as it bounces among the nitrogen and oxygen molecules of air, if it contacts a tiny aerosol, it will immediately stick to it. That's the end of it – it won't affect your olfactory sensors when attached to a particle. A single aerosol particle can capture millions of such molecules, and a quick squirt of air freshener releases millions of aerosol particles. Even the most Chaucerian bathroom gas emission will clear up quickly.

In a spray can, there are a bunch of other chemicals that have no involvement with collecting H_2S. First of all, there is a propellant. That's just a gas under pressure that provides the blast to expel the aerosol from the can. Years ago the chemical Freon was used (CFC, the same chemical as in air conditioners), but for nearly a generation a different propellant has been used. If you find a really, really old can of air freshener, you don't need to take it to a hazardous-waste disposal site. Go ahead and use it up; there is no significant risk at all.

Also, the spray can contains some inexpensive perfume to create a new smell that gives the impression of something happening. That has greater consumer appeal than just waiting several seconds for the aerosols to collect all the H_2S molecules.

Most other smells are likewise gaseous molecules that will attach to an aerosol, and therefore an air freshener is useful in the kitchen and elsewhere.

Where air freshener is not very useful is against smells that regenerate themselves, such as in a damp basement or mildewed closet, where bacteria are constantly emitting new gases. For those situations, eliminating the bacteria requires thorough cleaning first, after which the air freshener works just fine.

Dr. Sheahen lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may email them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

OTHER RULES AND REGULATIONS

1. Each driver must fill out an entry blank. Only one driver per car.
2. All drivers must hold a valid driver's license in the state where he/she lives. Participants under the age of 18 require a signed parental/guardian consent form.
3. The track or promoter reserves the right to approve or reject any and all entries.
4. You must pay regular admission to enter the Garrett County Fairgrounds as well as registration for the Demolition Derby. There will not be any reimbursement. Registration is $30, with $10 going to the Mad Dog Award.
5. No drinking of alcoholic beverages on track, emergency vehicle area or pit area. Any driver or pit person under the influence of alcohol or drugs will be immediately disqualified and removed from the grounds.
6. Any driver or crew member disobeying the rules will cause his or her car to be disqualified. Unsportsmanlike conduct will not be tolerated and will be grounds for disqualification and barring from future derbies. Drivers are responsible for the actions of their crew members.
7. Contestants of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company Demolition Derby are not employees of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company. The DCVFC will not be responsible for any damage caused by driver's negligence on the track or in the pit area. Drivers and pit personnel are responsible for any damage caused by their negligence on the track or in the pit area.
8. The promoter, track owner or fair association will not be held responsible for any cars, parts or personal property before, during and after the show or overnight.
9. Each driver and mechanic must SIGN IN at registration desk and have their vehicle INSPECTED at least ONE HOUR prior to showtime. Only driver of the car to be permitted with car during inspection.

RUNNING THE DERBY

1. Safety belt, DOT approved helmet, goggles or face shields are required. Long pants and shirts or jackets are required.
2. NO deliberate head-on collisions and no deliberate hitting on the driver's door. This could result in disqualification.
3. Vehicles must have dependable brakes at all times, and boundaries must be observed.
4. No cars are permitted in the competition area before the heat in which they are to participate.
5. A vehicle will be disqualified if any door comes open during the heat.
6. One minute limit is enforced by the track officials for making competitive contact with another car. Hits must be aggressive. Simple contact within the time limit does not constitute combat and could be considered sandbagging.
7. All cars are to be removed from the fairgrounds or race track following the show or they will become property of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company.
8. No one riding on outside of cars anytime due to insurance regulations.
9. Boundaries must be observed at all times. Any car shoved or driven out of bounds or in, on, or over a pole may be immediately disqualified if Derby officials feel it is a safety hazard.
10. The derby will be composed of individual heats and one feature per class.
11. Co-winners (last two cars running) from each heat will advance to the feature event as well as the crowd's choice driver and the Mad Dog winner.
12. No cash prizes will be awarded to heat winners as that prize money will go toward the Mad Dog Award winner for each heat.
13. A Mad Dog Award will be determined by track officials after each heat to the driver whom track officials feel ran the hardest. The winner of the Mad Dog Award from each heat will win a $75 cash prize and automatically advance to the feature event.
14. The winner of the feature event will take the winnings. No cash prizes will be awarded for second place.
15. A Mad Dog Award will be determined by track officials for the driver who ran the hardest during the feature event. A separate cash prize will be given for the winner of the Mad Dog Award in the feature event based. Prize money will be based on how many cars register for the event.
16. Additional safety regulations may be imposed, depending on track.

THESE RULES SUPERSEDE ANY AND ALL PREVIOUSLY USED.

The West Virginia native band will perform this Friday, July 8, at 7 p.m. in the Mountain Fresh Pavilion, located at the Oakland town parking lot. Admission is free, but donations are accepted to help defray festival costs. Refreshments will be available beginning at 6 p.m. The group features Leanne Dotson, lead singer; Molly Riffle, vocals and fiddle; Logan Metheny, upright bass; Nate Linger, mandolin and vocals; Dave Metheny, banjo; and Justin Riffle, guitar and vocals. The band blends gospel and country with a hard-driving bluegrass sound.

The Arts

Pianist Michael Adcock Is Next In Music At Penn Alps Series

Music at Penn Alps will continue its summer concert series with pianist Michael Adcock, who will perform on Saturday, July 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of Penn Alps in Grantsville.

Adcock has cultivated a versatile career as soloist, chamber musician, and pre-concert lecturer. Recipient of the 1998 Lili Boulanger Memorial Award, the pianist was also a prizewinner in the 1996 Washington International Competition and the Kosciusko Foundation Chopin competitions in Chicago and New York. Performing throughout the United States, he has also pursued his career in France, Italy, and Australia. He gave his Carnegie Recital Hall debut in 1998.

A native of Virginia, Adcock attended secondary school at the North Carolina School of the Arts, where he received the Irwin Freundlich Memorial Piano Award. He earned a bachelor's degree from the Oberlin College Conservatory. At Oberlin, he was twice awarded the Kaufmann Prize in chamber music and received the Hurlbutt Award as most outstanding graduating senior in the conservatory. He earned a master's degree, artist diploma, and doctoral degrees from the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, where he studied with Leon Fleisher and Ellen Mack. At Peabody, Adcock was a prizewinner in the Yale Gordon and Harrison Winter Concerto competitions, in addition to being an adjunct member of the theory and chamber music faculties.

A former artist-in-residence at the Aspen Institute, Adcock now lives in Silver Spring, where he is a faculty member of the Washington Conservatory in Bethesda. The pianist has been associated with many local chamber series and summer festivals and was for 17 years a faculty member of the Musicorda Festival.

His program will include music composed by François Couperin, Franz Schubert, Sergei Rachmaninoff, J.S. Bach, Sergei Prokofiev, George Gershwin, and more.

Tickets are $20, with those 19 and younger being admitted for free. Tickets may be purchased online at musicatpennalps.org or at the gift shop at Penn Alps. For more information, persons may go to the web page at musicatpennalps.org or call 443-414-3955.

ARTS COUNCIL OPENS TEMPORARY GALLERY – The Garrett County Arts Council is now able to resume its retail operations for its artist members this summer and through December at its new "pop-up" Gallery Shop. This temporary home is located at 25227 Garrett Highway in McHenry, just north of Wisp Resort. The hours are Monday to Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Guests are invited to stop by and see artwork created by Gallery Shop artisans. Stuck Enterprises is allowing the GCAC to use this space as a temporary home from now until Dec. 31. Carriage House Antiques has provided the antique furniture for displaying the artwork. A permanent home is still being sought by the GCAC's board of directors, but this area will suffice for the summer and fall, according to board officials.

TOTL Theatre To Open Summer Season On July 15 With Musical

The TOTL Theatre Company will offer its 11th season of stage productions at Deep Creek Lake from July 15 through Aug. 4. The theatre troupe will present three mainstage shows this summer, all at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley, Deep Creek Lake.

Opening the season for two weekends will be the off-Broadway show Bingo: The Winning Musical. According to Lynn Broderick, artistic director, this musical recreates the antics of six bingo players whose methods of playing and winning are honed to perfection. The production is appropriate for all ages.

The show will be staged July 15, 16, 22, and 23 at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley. Show time is 7:30 p.m. and tickets may be reserved by calling 304-680-1002 or purchased online at www.totltheatre.org.

The second offering will be Neil Simon's Biloxi Blues. It continues the story of Eugene Morris Jerome from Brighton Beach Memoirs.

Biloxi Blues will play July 28 to 30 at the Barn at Ridgeview. Show time is 7:30 p.m. and tickets may be obtained by following the directions noted above.

The final offering of the summer season will be Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap.

"Set in an English inn on a cold snowy night, unexpected guests begin to arrive because the roads are too dangerous to traverse," Broderick said. "Trapped for a night together, a mysterious series of murders begins to occur. As with most of Christie's works, the ending is almost impossible to predict."

The Mousetrap will be given Aug. 4 to 6 at the Barn. Show time is 7:30.

All shows this season are licensed exclusively through Samuel French Inc., the director said. Information about the TOTL Theatre Company can also be found on the websites of the Garrett County Arts Council, the Preston County Arts Council, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Julia Child To Be Portrayed At Preston Arts Ctr.

A West Virginia Humanities Council History Alive program featuring the famous Julia Child will be given at the Preston Community Arts Center, 123 South Price Street, Kingwood, W.Va., on Sunday, July 10, at 2 p.m., The famous cook will be portrayed by Karen Vuranch of Fayetteville.

"In the 1960s, a tall, gangly woman with a preposterous voice and joy of life revolutionized the art of cooking for Americans," a spokesperson said. "Julia Child became an icon of gourmet cooking and, using her remarkable energy, humor, and skill, changed the way Americans thought about eating."

Child collaborated on a two-volume cookbook called Mastering the Art of French Cooking, which has since become a standard guide for the culinary community. She became a television icon with her cooking shows as well. Child was also the inspiration behind the 2009 film Julie & Julia, which was based on a cooking blog by Julie Powell.

For more information, persons may call the West Virginia Humanities Council at 304-346-8500 or visit www.wvhumanities.org.

For information about this program or other events at Preston Community Arts Center, persons may call 304-329-6336.

Has Care Act

isting partnerships and the new ones we create will support the Health Insurance Connector in reaching those people in our area still without health insurance. It is vitally important that our community comes to truly understand how the effective use of health insurance can increase quality of life and improve financial security."

AHEC West will provide assistance to people in the region who have questions about or want to shop for health insurance from Maryland's Health Insurance Marketplace, the Maryland Health Connection.

AHEC West will employ certified navigators throughout the region to help consumers with issues such as determining eligibility for financial help in purchasing insurance, enrolling in insurance outside an open enrollment period, and understanding how to use an insurance plan. People will also receive assistance in comparing plans to find the one that best meets their needs, and individuals eligible for Medicaid will also be able to get assistance in enrolling from the Health Insurance Connector.

The connector will reach the uninsured population in each county through a number of methods, including working with partner agencies throughout the region and tapping local resources that may have access to the targeted population. The goal is to continue the historic declines in the uninsured rate and to improve the overall health of the region.

According to figures released by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Affordable Care Act has reduced the percentage of the national population without health insurance to 9.2 percent, the lowest rate recorded in the last 50 years. Prior to the enactment of the Affordable Care Act, the uninsured rate for the nation was 15.7 percent.

In the far western region, the estimated uninsured rate in 2015 was 8 percent in Garrett and Washington counties and 10 percent in Allegany County, according to Enroll America. Prior to implementation of the Affordable Care Act, those rates ran 15 percent in Garrett, 13 percent in Washington, and 16 percent in Allegany.

Immediately following Neely's presentation, the commissioners signed a resolution that would give them the authority to implement the PACE program in Garrett County.

The Maryland Clean Energy Center will work with county government to establish the program. Commissioner Jim Hinebaugh noted that the county was not making any financial commitment to PACE at this point. The resolution just allows the commissioners to explore, develop, and implement the program.

More information is available at mdcleanenergy.org/mdpace.

The commissioners also saw a presentation by program manager Corey Ramsden, Maryland Solar United Neighborhoods (MD SUN).

"THE EMPIRE STRIKES BRASS" is the name of the concert being presented by the River City Brass of Pittsburgh, appearing on July 17 at Wisp Resort, hosted by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $19 for adults and $5 for students. Children under 5 are admitted free with any paying adult The band has one of the most active schedules among American touring ensembles, performing dozens of concerts on tour each year for community performing arts series, corporate events, and major music festivals.

"The River City Brass's unique repertoire, virtuoso musicians, and accessible performances make the ensemble an ideal choice for the GLAF audience," said Mary Callis, GLAF executive director. The band's mission is to entertain, educate, and engage audiences of all ages by sharing American musical culture in the Pittsburgh region, nationally, and internationally. More information can be found on the GLAF website at www.artsandentertainment.org.

The nonprofit organization helps homeowners across the state to form cooperatives to save money and make going solar easier, while building a network of solar supporters.

Ramsden said MD SUN has worked with about 15 groups since January 2015. A local cooperative, Mountain Maryland Solar Co-op, will be launched on Tuesday, July 26. An informational session about solar energy and forming a co-op will be held on that day at 6:30 p.m. at Garrett College, Room 224, Continuing Education Building.

Ramsden said a co-op enables homeowners to gather together to release a common request for proposals to area solar panel installers and obtain a group rate. He stressed that MD SUN provides education and assistance with the bidding process, but the homeowners and their group are the ones who make the actual solar company selection.

Those who join the Mountain Maryland Solar Co-op on July 26 could have a system installed within eight months, Ramsden noted. They could also see a 10 to 20 percent discount on the cost by joining the co-op, compared to installing a system on their own.

More information is available by visiting mdsun.org/mountain-md, emailing solarteam@mdsun.or, or calling 240-334-7720.

Also on Tuesday, the commissioners signed the National Association of Counties (NACo) Rural IMPACT County Challenge resolution presented by Community Action and the Allegany County Human Resources Development Council (HRDC). IMPACT stands for Integration Models for Parents and Children to Thrive. The challenge is a national effort to "combat" rural child poverty.

Community Action Committee and HRDC recently hosted an all-day site visit in Grantsville for federal and state agencies participating in the Rural IMPACT Initiative.

The White House Rural Council selected the two local nonprofit agencies in September 2015 as partners to participate as one of 10 demonstration sites in the US. The goal of Rural IMPACT is to reduce child poverty by forming a learning community around the delivery of services, such as work force delivery and coordinated education, health, and early child education.

Selected sites develop and implement an action plan utilizing a rural, two-generation (parents and children) approach to address locally identified needs and goals over the course of a year's time.

Gregan Crawford, Community Action's director of strategic initiatives, said NACo is seeking 100 counties to pass a resolution in support of taking a leadership role in addressing the challenges and barriers related to rural poverty. These include education, job creation, transportation and access to health care.

Crawford said NACo wants a plan created with actual "measurable" results. He indicated Community Action and HRDC have been doing that for many years, and the commissioners' adoption of the resolution will help keep that going.

Community Action president Duane Yoder added that there seems to be much interest across the nation in the Rural IMPACT Initiative, and the NACo resolution will fuel that momentum. He expressed his appreciation to the commissioners for their support in the effort.

The commissioners unanimously approved the resolution, which notes there were approximately 1.4 million poor children living in rural areas in 2014 in the U.S., and that high rates of poverty persist for generations.

Commissioner Paul Edwards read the resolution, which states, in part, "Now therefore let it be resolved that we, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, do hereby sign on to the call to action to reduce the number of children living in poverty, commit to sharing lessons learned with other counties in our state and across the country to support a national initiative to encourage all county officials, employees, and residents to participate in the Rural IMPACT County Challenge."

The commissioners also resolved to convene a diverse team of leaders from multiple agencies committed to reducing the number of children and families living in poverty; to continue to support development of a plan with measurable outcomes that improve access to early childhood education, nutrition, workforce development, and health and human services; implement research-based approaches that advance the plan; and create a process to track progress using data and information systems, and to report on successes.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, July 19, at 6 p.m. at the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department.

ing them to organize group installations, and strengthening the state's solar policies and its community of solar supports. MD SUN has worked with several communities to develop co-ops across the state, including Montgomery County, Prince George's County, and Baltimore city. It has help hundred of Marylanders go solar, according to Herdering.

"I am excited to work with residents in western Maryland to educate them about the benefits of solar energy," said Corey Ramsden, MD SUN program manager. "If you've never thought about going solar before, this is the perfect opportunity to do so."

Western Maryland residents interested in learning more about the presentation and/or joining the Mountain Maryland Co-op can sign up at mdsun.org/mountain-md or by calling Ramsden at 240-334-7720.

According to Ramsden, joining the co-op is not a commitment to purchase solar panels. Once the group is large enough, MD SUN will help the co-op solicit competitive bids from area solar installers and provide any other help needed. MD SUN does not profit from this assistance.

Co-op members will select a single company to complete all of the installations. They will then have the option to purchase panels individually based on the installer's group rate. By going solar as a group and choosing a single installer, each participant generally saves up to 20 percent off the cost of his or her system.

Unbeaten Lakeview Takes Down Meyersdale, Team One, Flintstone, KMK

Lakeview Auto extended its unbeaten campaign after recording 19 hits and beating Meyersdale 19-1 last Thursday at Northern High School.

Everything seemed to go Lakeview's way right from the beginning after three runs scored in the bottom of the first.

Lakeview followed that up with six runs in the bottom of the second to extend the lead to 9-0.

Meyersdale tried to inch back into the game with a run in the top of the third, but Lakeview erased any hope of a miracle comeback by scoring an emphatic 10 runs in the bottom of the third to close out the game's scoring.

Peyton Carr went 5-for-5 at the plate with two triples, three singles, and two RBIs. Elliott Schilpp laced four singles and brought in four runs.

Jake Rush added three singles, Hunter Meyers hit a couple singles, and Ian Eggleston accounted for a double, single, two RBIs, and two runs scored.

Lakeview Auto followed that up by thrashing Team One Auto Mall 15-0 at Broadford Park.

It only took Lakeview four runs to score all of its runs after scoring three in the first, five in both the second and third, and two in the fourth.

Team One was held scoreless as Carr pitched a five-inning shutout and fanned 11 batters.

Meyers, Schilpp, and Carsyn King each hit two singles, and Carr and Rush added a double and single to highlight Lakeview's 12 hits.

The bats remained hot in Lakeview's most lopsided win of the season after taking down Flinstone 19-0 at Allegany College.

Flinstone found itself down 10-0 in the first inning before the team could do anything about it.

Lakeview continued to increase the lead with a run in the second, five in the third, and three in the fourth to cruise to another comfortable win.

Carr led the way with four singles, four runs, and four RBIs. Schilpp blasted a triple and knocked two singles, King added a double and single, and Rush, Ethan Fratz, and Eli Reed all hit two singles. Schilpp, Fratz, Rush, and Reed had two RBIs apiece.

Schilpp, Rush, and King also enjoyed their time on the mound by combining for a one-hitter and seven strikeouts.

The strong pitching continued on Tuesday as Schilpp led Lakeview to another blowout win after holding KMK Insurance to just two hits in an 11-0 victory at Holler Field.

Lakeview held a 4-0 lead going into the fifth inning before scoring two in the fifth and five in the sixth to finish off KMK.

Carr knocked three singles and drove in three runs while scoring two of his own. Cody Eyler hit a couple singles and accounted for an RBI.

Schilpp balanced his seven-strikeout pitching display by lacing three singles.

Lakeview (19-0-1) will pursue its 20th win of the season when the team hosts Kiwanis on Thursday at 6 p.m.

Madigan's Auto Sales Edges Chaney-Buskirk

Nathan Tasker held Chaney-Buskirk to four hits to lead Madigan's Auto Sales on its way to an 8-5 win last Friday evening at Broadford Park.

Chaney-Buskirk dealt the first blow in the top of the first by taking a 3-0 lead.

The lead wouldn't hold as Madigan's scored in five consecutive innings with one in the first and second, two in the third to take the lead, and two more in each of the fourth and fifth innings.

Chaney-Buskirk crawled back with a run in the top of the fifth and sixth to close the gap to 8-5, but Madigan's held the team scoreless in the final inning.

Isaac Bittinger hit two of Madigan's Auto's seven hits, both singles, to lead the team's effort at the plate.

Custer Lifts Cork's Cars Past Cumberland Optimist

Cork's Cars cruised past Cumberland Optimist 11-6 with the help of Landon Custer's four hits yesterday at Holler Field.

Cork's took a commanding 7-1 lead after two innings after scoring three in the first and four in the second.

Cumberland answered with a run in the bottom of the third, but Cork's responded with two more runs in the top of the fourth to widen the gap to 9-2.

Optimist looked to put together a rally after scoring two in the bottom of the fourth and adding another run in both the fifth and sixth innings to put the team within striking distance, trailing 9-6.

However, Cork's put the game to rest in the final inning by scoring two crucial insurance runs and silencing Optimist's attack.

Custer blasted a triple and three singles for his four hits, and Sam Kennedy added three singles to also lead Cork's attack.

Cork's Cars (6-11) will continue action tomorrow against Weimer Automotive at 8 p.m. at Broadford Park.

FIRECRACKER REGATTA A GREAT SUCCESS
by Conrad Lundeen

The 4th of July weekend offered sailors favorable wind conditions, so all three races of the Firecracker Regatta were completed. Turnout was exceptional, with 42 Flying Scots scoring (18 Gold, 13 Silver, 8 Masters, and 3 Challengers). A large fleet charging down Deep Creek Lake with wind-filled spinnakers is a beautiful thing to see! But a large fleet also means crowding for favored start positions and congestion at mark roundings, especially when trailing boats from one fleet become commingled with the lead boats from another. Thus, fewer starts were "all clear" and several boats had the opportunity to practice sailing in tight circles as they completed penalty turns. But right-of-way rules and good sportsmanship prevailed, and a splendid time was had by all.

Northwest winds at 8-10 knots promised fast sailing for the opening race on Saturday. The race committee set a challenging course – a triangle followed by a windward-leeward leg and a beat up to the finish in the vicinity of North Glade.

In the Gold Fleet, John Meredith got a lead at the start that he never relinquished. As the race progressed, Spinnenweber, Dunham, and Buffington were the main contenders, with Palmer and Gauthier close. The wind died at the finish. This theme would characterize virtually all of the weekend races. Despite his best efforts, Spinnenweber stalled yards from the finish and watched Dunham and Buffington catch a puff and sail over the line.

Racing in the Silver Fleet was very competitive, with four boats exchanging leads during the effort. Trying to find a lift near shore on the first windward leg, Deakin removed himself from contention by running aground and relearning a valuable lesson. Emily Meehan was closing fast at the finish. Though she edged out Von Eckartsberg, she could not catch Yonke, who finished in first with a comfortable lead.

As is frequently the case, Masters sailing was congenial and close, with several boats sailing side-by-side and bow-to-transom. Sailing around the triangle, Gregory did a zag and a zig so he could round the gybe mark set to sail directly to the leeward mark. Lacking his foresight, the rest of the fleet lost time executing the gybe maneuver while rounding the mark and could only watch in consternation as Gregory opened a comfortable lead. He stalled just short of the finish and several contenders had hope of overtaking him. But his lead was too great and they had to settle for runner-up positions. In the end, Meehan finished second, with Vandall a close third.

As the start for the second Saturday race approached, wind velocity dropped to 2-7 knots and shifted to the west. The race committee was forced to postpone racing and alter their planned triangle to a shortened windward-leeward course with two roundings. After several efforts to square the start line in shifting winds, a veteran sailor commented on VHF radio, "This is Deep Creek Lake. You'll never get it perfect. Just do the best you can." Truer words were never spoken, and racing commenced soon thereafter.

Some Gold Fleet sailors were "over early," and had to restart. This disadvantage is hard to overcome in light winds. In the end, Palmer finished with her lone win over Meredith, who finished second. Darrell Van Hutten started well, found the puffs, and raced to a solid third-place finish.

The Silver sailors split tacks at the start. Some headed toward Holy Cross while the remainder chose to beat up the middle of the lake. Even so, the fleet remained tightly packed until Von Eckartsberg made an aggressive move at the leeward mark and opened a commanding lead on the downwind leg. Shafer and Yonke were unable to overcome the advantage and finished second and third, respectively.

On Sunday, the final regatta race was held in the Green Glade area. The windward-leeward course with three roundings allowed fair competition. Winds were generally easterly at 5-8 knots, but swirled and shifted throughout the race. Wind conditions, motorboat waves, and constricted geography made for a real challenge.

John Meredith led the Gold Fleet off the line and found very favorable wind on the right side of the course. With each rounding, he leveraged this advantage into a huge lead. The rest of the fleet was barely in sight when he crossed the finish line. Competition was tight among five boats vying for runner-up, with positions changing on almost every tack. Ultimately, Palmer finished ahead of Gauthier, with Dunham, Spinnenweber, and Van Hutten right behind.

Yonke grabbed the early lead at the Silver Fleet start, and sailed through the middle of the course all the way to a first-place finish. By the second rounding, the shifting wind had boats reaching to the leeward mark and the top competitors chose not to hoist their spinnakers. They were able to maintain good speed and minimized interference with other boats, which was a challenge since the Gold, Silver, and Masters fleets had mixed together. Kammer and Deakin threaded their way to second- and third-place finishes, respectively.

Racing in the Masters Fleet was very tight, with many lead changes. The competition gave Gregory a good run, but he gradually opened a lead that got him across first. On the final leeward leg, Frank Meehan fouled Riebel among a mash of Gold, Silver and Masters boats. While completing his penalty turns, Meehan had the leisure to survey the entire race course and observe Meredith making way (way, way, a lot of way) along the eastern shore. On the beat to the finish, Meehan sought to follow Meredith's trail and managed it well enough to cross the finish just ahead of Anderson.

It was great to see three Challenger boats sailing two races over the weekend. Racing was so evenly balanced that all three boats finished the regatta with the same total score! Regatta standings, shown below, had to be determined by tie breakers.

Thanks to Spencer Deakin, Frank Meehan, and many others for helping me get this column together. All mistakes are mine alone.

Unbeaten Oaks Sweep Potomac Valley With Ease

The Oakland Oaks (12-0) extended its undefeated campaign with a convincing doubleheader sweep over Potomac Valley in PenMar-WV League action on Saturday at Garrett College.

The Oaks took control of game one early and relied on strong pitching and steady scoring to cruise to an 11-0 win behind 10 hits.

After scoring five runs in two innings, Oakland scored three in each of the third and fourth innings to put the game out of reach.

Tristan Graeff had a double, single, three RBIs, and two runs. Mike Logsdon added a double and a couple of RBIs. Tristan Lucas went 3-for-3 and scored three runs.

Nathan King and Bryan Lenhart took the mound and held Potomac Valley to only two hits combined in the opening game.

Game two was more of the same as the Oaks' 13 hits were backed by Scott Cooper's one-hit pitching performance in an 11-1 rout.

Potomac Valley's only run came in the top of the first, but the lead was short-lived as Oakland immediately responded with two runs of its own.

After two more runs in the second and fourth, the Oaks racked up five in the bottom of the fifth to apply the 10-run rule and put an end to the series.

Logsdon went 4-for-4 with a triple, double, and two singles, which drove in four runs. Travis Renner enjoyed a triple of his own while also knocking a single and getting two RBIs.

Ross Conley added three singles and an RBI, and Alex Banko added two singles.

Oakland continues action next Saturday in a doubleheader against Tri-State which begins at 1 p.m.

SGAA Raffle Prizes Include Ford, Cash

Members of the Southern Garrett Athletic Association are continuing to sell raffle tickets for a 2012 Ford F-250 diesel pick up, along with numerous cash prizes.

Numerous custom features, added at High Mtn. On-Off Road, are detailed on the SGAA Facebook page, which also has photographs of the truck.

In addition to the grand prize, there will be one first-place prize of $500, two second-place prizes of $250, and 10 third-place prizes of $25.

The drawing is planned for the last home football game of the 2016 fall season. The winners will be chosen "lottery style" using randomly selected balls.

Tickets are $25 each and are available at the following local businesses: Shaffer Ford Sales, High Mtn. On-Off Road, Midway Discount Liquors, 7-Eleven (Oakland), Backbone Mtn. Sports Shop, Mane Attractions Hair Salon, Perfection Plus, Sorellee's Pizza and Zip'Eez Convenience Store.

They are also available from any SGAA member or by contacting the SGAA through its Facebook page or email at sgaa.rams@gmail.com.

THE BEST SHOT in the annual Sporting Clay Throw Down, a fundraiser that supports the Chris Lantz Memorial Fund, was Bill Haines, who shattered 90% (45 of 50) of the clay "pigeons" in the event. Pictured with him is Mary Lantz, mother of Chris Lantz. Sponsors of the contest were Wings of Challenge, Sang Run Sports Shop, and Backbone Mountain Sport Shop.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, is underway.

There was one winner for the week ending July 2:

Smallmouth bass: 3.5 lbs., 19", caught by Johnny Carr, Franklin, Pa.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and certificates are also awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. In order to participate, anglers must register their catches at Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House, 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry.

The contest opened the first weekend of May and will continue through the first weekend of October.

PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971

Maryland Leads Nation In Farm To Summer Prog.

More Maryland school districts purchase local foods for summer nutrition programs than those in any other state in the nation, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The USDA's recently released Farm to School Census has placed a spotlight on Maryland's success. Nationally, 22 percent of districts participating in Farm to School purchase local foods for their summer programs. Maryland is at the head of the class, with 59 percent of participating school districts buying local food during the summer, according to the USDA.

School districts can take advantage of receiving Maryland's fresh, local offerings by serving them in the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP). The SFSP is a USDA program that combats childhood hunger by reimbursing agencies for meals served to children during the summer.

"Summer can be a difficult time for children who rely on school meals," said Dr. Karen Salmon, acting state superintendent of schools. "Without access to nutritious food, many of our students experience hunger and the subsequent negative health and learning effects. Incorporating local foods into the summer nutrition programs not only supports Maryland agriculture, but also enhances the healthfulness of the meals children receive."

"I commend the school systems for buying Maryland-grown products throughout the school year," said Maryland agriculture secretary Joe Bartenfelder. "The Summer Food Service Program offers an additional opportunity for schools and other providers to incorporate products grown by Maryland farmers into summer meals. Children who otherwise may not have the opportunity to experience biting into a fresh local juicy peach or eating a slice of local watermelon can now have a chance if they participate in the program."

In addition to offering local foods, some SFSP agencies have begun serving summer meals at farmers' markets across the state. Anne Arundel County Public Schools, for example, has partnered with the county health department and Shlagel Farms to operate a pop-up market at one of their existing SFSP sites, Brooklyn Park Middle School.

The SFSP is open to children and teens age 18 and under and to individuals over 18 who are mentally or physically disabled. To locate a summer meals site, persons are invited to go online to www.mdsummermeals.org. More about Maryland's Farm to School Program can be found at http://mda.maryland.gov/farm_to_school/Pages/farm_to_school.aspx.

[illegible] DEPARTMENT HAD A CELEBRATION OF MERIT

Fourth of July Parade Termed The Most Colorful In Years, With Many Organizations Taking Part

PRIZES ARE AWARDED

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department successfully concluded its annual Fourth of July celebration and jubilee week last Saturday evening after having staged one of the best and most colorful parades in Oakland's history on Thursday afternoon.

Companies of sixteen fire companies, eight bands, two drum corps and other organizations, including Boy and Girl Scout troops of Oakland, the parade on the Fourth passed over the streets of Oakland and was witnessed with great pleasure by between eight thousand to ten thousand people.

Prizes totalling $100 were awarded as follows:

Bands—Queen Sylvia's Band, Kitzmiller, West Va., 1st; Miskey's Band of Loch Lynn Heights, 2nd.

Fire Companies—Parsons, W. Va., 1st; Tri-Towns, Westernport, 2nd.

Drum Corps—Kelly-Mansfield Post, American Legion, Piedmont, W. Va., 1st; Meadow Mountain CCC drum and bugle corps, 2nd.

Besides the winners named above, there were a number of other organizations in line of march that gave the judges considerable trouble in deciding upon the winners.

Other bands included the Bowlesburg High school, Westernport, Newburg, Parsons, Kingwood and Oakland Boys' Band.

Other fire companies came from Westover, W. Va.; Blackville, W. Va.; Bowlesburg, W. Va.; Bloomington, Grantsville and Friendsville, in this county; Tri-Towns and Westernport; Meyersdale, Pa.; Terra Alta, W. Va.; Masontown, W. Va.; Thomas, W. Va.; Kingwood, W. Va.; Hambleton, W. Va., and Davis, W. Va.

The parade was headed by a group of riders from Camp Minnewonka, near Bayard, several members of the Bayard Fire Department and the Oakland Band did not compete for prizes.

Fair weather prevailed on July 4th which helped materially in making the day so pleasureable and successful. The Sam Lawrence Shows and carnival attracted many of those in town to their various rides and shows and the day was concluded with a free dance set at the carnival grounds and a display of fireworks.

The Lawrence Shows remained during the entire week.

Members of the local fire company were unable to state what the net proceeds of the affair amounted to, but it was felt that financially it had been successful.

Interest Rates Lowered On Land Bank Loans

Farmers in Garrett county will save about $1,000 a year as a result of legislation just now enacted by Congress affecting interest rates on Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner loans.

The temporary rate of 3½ per cent on first mortgage land bank loans will be continued for two years ending June 30, 1942. During this period the interest rate on first and second mortgage Land Bank Commissioner loans will be reduced from 4 to 3½ per cent. Land bank and Commissioner loans were originally written at contract rates averaging about 5 per cent.

At present about 140 Garrett county farmers have land bank and Commissioner loans outstanding aggregating $351,209.

Mission School Opens At Mt. Lake Park

The opening program of the Mountain Lake Park Summer School of Missions was held last night in the auditorium at Mountain Lake Park.

The school will continue until the evening of July 16, with class instruction throughout the day, speaking and pageantry at the evening sessions.

A number of outstanding people in the missionary field are present for this annual event.

Rummage Sale

The ladies of the Mountain Lake Park Civic Club will hold their annual rummage sale on July 18, 19 and 20 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The sale will be held in the Brown store room on Alder street, Oakland. Anyone having goods to donate may get in touch with Mrs. Charles Bolgiano in Mountain Lake Park. Just send your donation will be called for.

DIARY OF THE WAR

Condensed For Readers Of The Republican

FRIDAY—The British attacked certain units of the French fleet to prevent their being surrendered to Germany. Action was near Algeria. A battle cruiser was damaged, a battleship sunk and another heavily damaged, two destroyers and an airplane carrier were sunk. One French battleship succeeded in getting out of the harbor but the Dunkerque was hit by a torpedo and badly damaged. Several French units were already in British ports and had been taken over without bloodshed except in case of submarine turnout. British and German air forces continued bombing activities. Germans claimed a British plain carrier had been hit.

SATURDAY—France protested vigorously against attack on Mediterranean fleet. A French squadron was bottled up by British at Alexandria. Entire east and south coasts of British were made into home defense area. British airmen attack Nazi bases on continent and naval bases at Kiel, Emden and Wilhelmshaven. Sporadic fighting between Italian and British continued in Mediterranean. Gibraltar was bombed. A pro-nazi government was in charge in Rumania.

SUNDAY—Britain's navy continued violent action against French fleet. British planes damaged hangars and workshops in Sicily. Flyers attacked a German aircraft factory and Dutch airports. The Chinese-Japanese war entered upon its fourth year, and although Japan is victorious in battles she is far from subduing China. Germans continued air raids over England. England enrolled another 300,000 men.

MONDAY—British bombed German objectives in the Mediterranean and Africa. Germans attacked British Isles throughout night and day. British claimed aerial advantage as they could attack over a wide area difficult to defend by Germany. A sub torpedoed five German merchant ships in convoy off coast of Norway. Hitler and Count Ciano, Italian foreign minister, conferred but matter discussed was secret. Russia rushed more armored divisions into Bessarabia to consolidate Soviet occupation of these Rumanian territories.

TUESDAY—German bombers continue to fly over Britain. Eight planes were shot down and four more in a dogfight over a British convoy. British raids continued on German objectives. British destroyer Whirlwind was sunk by torpedo. Japan claimed U. S. marines had insulted Japanese army by arresting fifteen in International Settlement. Marine commander said they were not insulted or mistreated. Great Britain rejected Japan's demand to close road to China through Burma.

WEDNESDAY—Edward, King of England until he married his American-born wife, and is now Duke of Windsor, was made governor and commander-in-chief of the Bahama Islands, located off the Florida Coast in the Atlantic Ocean, where he and his consort will take up their residence in a short time. The Eastern Mediterranean vessels of the French battle fleet surrendered at Alexandria, Egypt, to the British. The vessels thus falling into English hands include one battleship, four cruisers and a number of other vessels. Italy and Germany are thought to have agreed on a three-way attack on Britain, Italy to blockade Britain and sever her empire trade routes. German continued aerial attacks and claimed heavy damage on British objectives. British raided objectives on Continent all the way from Norway to Holland. Same sort of raiding continued between British and Italian forces in Africa. France set up a new dictatorial type of government with Petain as the figurehead. Germany and Italy want Rumania to cede part of Transylvania to Hungary. Japan wants an apology from the United States over the arrest of sixteen Japanese gendarmes in the International Settlement.

THURSDAY—President Roosevelt asked for about 5 billion additional for defense program, declaring that arms would not be used in war of aggression. A great air battle raged over the English channel which Britain interpreted as the beginning of the attack on England. British said 37 Nazi planes were destroyed. England and Italy both claimed victories in naval battle in Mediterranean.

Invitations To Tennis Tournament Will Be Mailed This Week

Invitations to the twenty-first annual tennis tournament at Mountain Lake Park, for the Western Maryland championship, are being mailed this week-end. The tournament will be held August 12 to 17, under the auspices of the Women's Civic club of the Park. It is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

CARNATION COMPANY TO BEGIN CONSTRUCTION

The Carnation Company expects to begin construction on its plant here this week, L. M. Fraley was informed this morning by letter from E. L. Grimes, attorney.

M. A. Sween, Clarksburg, and Glenn Hoffman, who will be manager of the Oakland plant, were here on Monday and conferred with their representatives and the city officials.

In Mr. Grimes' letter this morning he stated that the company had purchased the property at Oakland and had requested to have the deed from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad recorded.

Elderly Man Jailed As Seller of Shine

Louis Durr, 69, Charged With Sale of Liquor at Home Near Frostburg

Accused of selling moonshine liquor at his home on the western outskirts of Frostburg, Louis Durr, 69, a former Garrett county farmer, waived a preliminary hearing on Tuesday morning in the Trial Magistrate's court in Cumberland and was held under $500 bond for action of the Grand Jury there in October on a state charge of selling liquor without a license.

The man lives alone in the house but is the father of nine children. Chief Benjamin Thomas and Officer Hugh Duncan, Frostburg, raided the place after receiving complaints that liquor was being sold. They said they found one pint and a half-pint of moonshine in bottles.

Thursday, 7:30 P. M. The Women's Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Truman Bittinger.

Friday, 7:30 P. M.—The Ever-ready Circle will hold its business meeting at the home of Mrs. George Coddington.

RED HOUSE LUTHERAN PARISH
A. K. Jones, Pastor

Next Sunday morning there will be church services at both Gnegy and the Red House. Sunday schools at the usual time. The young people's program in the evening at 7:30, if weather conditions are favorable for an outdoor service. Cars leave the church at 7:15, and it is expected that many entire families of the community will endeavor to attend.

The general theme of the series of sermons by the pastor is "The Christian Life." The true disciple is sure that God's goodness and power enfolds him, that His wisdom protects and directs him and that all of life is enriched and made useful by God's merciful kindness. The mighty God never intended that His dear children should be the ignorant followers of petty politicians, nor the misguided puppets of godless dictators. Neither are they forced to yield to the immoral customs and habits of this evil generation. Trustfully they follow the Saviour who came to save mankind and direct our thoughts in glad and joyous worship of our heavenly Father.

Joseph W. Martin, Jr. Named GOP Chairman

Will Direct Willkie Presidential Campaign for Republicans

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, House minority leader, was named chairman of the Republican national committee and director of the Willkie presidential campaign, on Tuesday at Washington. John D. M. Hamilton, present committee chairman, was selected as executive director. He will work under Martin.

Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, announced the appointments after he had met with a subcommittee which the national committee authorized to make the selections.

Mr. Willkie met his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, for the first time on Monday, and afterward reported that they were in "full accord" on campaign plans. McNary said he was "impressed with Willkie's sincerity," and expressed the belief that he would make "a great campaigner and a splendid president."

Contenders Pledge Support

Senators Vandenberg, Taft and Bridges, unsuccessful contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, pledged their support to the nominee.

Around 100 Boys Expected For Tri-County 4-H Camp

Between 80 and 100 boys from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties are expected to attend the annual tri-county 4-H camp, to be held at the Bittinger Recreation area from July 21 to July 27.

The camp is to be in charge of Milo S. Downey, assistant State Boys' club leader; Harry W. Beggs, assistant county agent of Washington and Allegany counties, and John H. Carter, county agent of Garrett county.

The program will include instruction in handicraft, marksmanship, first aid and swimming, and the afternoons will be devoted to recreation. Among the instructors will be J. A. Conover, of the Extension Service; James Brown, county agent of Wicomico, and a representative of the National Rifle Association.

Board of Regents to Inspect Timber Cutting Project

Inspection of the work of the State Forestry department in Western Maryland has been tentatively scheduled for this week-end by the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland.

In what will be the first visit of the board in this section in years, the nine members will travel to New Germany, Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, and visit the timber cutting project now in progress near Oakland.

State Forester F. W. Besley will conduct the tour assisted by H. C. Buckingham, district forester.

To Teach In Oakland

Miss Lena Georg has accepted a position in the Oakland Elementary school. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Georg, of Accident, and completed her work at State Teachers' College in June, where she was active in extra-curricular activities.

EDITOR COMPLETES FIFTY YEARS OF SERVICE TODAY

B. H. Sincell Has Been Editor of The Republican Since July 11, 1890. His 21st Birthday Anniversary

CONGRATULATIONS GIVEN

Today represents the completion of fifty years of service for Benj. H. Sincell, editor of The Republican. Publishing his first newspaper upon his 21st birthday anniversary he completes his half century today, his 71st birthday anniversary, an accomplishment achieved by few men.

Mr. Sincell was born July 11, 1869, in Frederick, a son of the late Charles H. and Leah Richardson Sincell. He moved to Oakland while yet a lad and during his young manhood was employed in newspaper offices in Preston county, both at Terra Alta and at Kingwood. Later he was employed by Capt. James A. Hayden, founder and owner of The Republican at that time.

Deciding that newspaper work was to be his career, he purchased The Republican and issued his first newspapet on his 21st birthday which was just 50 years ago today.

Since that time he has been actively identified with the community and the entire county in promoting and supporting many activities for the community welfare. Since becoming editor Mr. Sincell has improved his newspaper office until today it is considered one of the best equipped in this entire section, having two linotypes, a Kelly automatic job press, a new Cox-o-type newspaper press just installed this past April, many kinds of types and all other machinery and equipment necessary for a modern and up to date plant.

He married Lillian B. Morris, Kingwood, on October 16, 1895, and they have continuously resided in Oakland since, at present residing on Second street in their home built in 1912.

He is a member of the Lutheran church, Masonic lodge, the Knights of Pythias lodge and the Oakland Rotary club. He has four children, C. Morris Sincell, Fairmont, W. Va.; Donald R. Sincell, Oakland, associate editor; Mrs. Elmer Haulenbeek, Mckeesport, Pa.; and Mrs. Robert Ruckert, Washington, D. C. A daughter Mary (Mrs. Eldred Roberts) died several years ago.

The business and professional men are extending congratulations over a page in The Republican today which is a complete surprise to the editor.

He has efficiently edited and blue penciled many a story of his associates for several years, and has deleted paragraphs and items which they often considered of hot news value, but this time they have completely kept this part of the paper bidden from him until actually off the press today.

As proof of this assertion, if any proof is needed, is the fact that his photos have eventually found space in this paper, something that has never been accomplished heretofore.

Kidnaped In China

Dr. Frederick Bankhatdt, who was kidnaped in China, carried into the mountains, tied to a stake and threatened with death, will speak at the Mountain Lake Park auditorium on Saturday night and Sunday morning.

:-: FIFTY YEARS OF FAITHFULNESS :-:

By
THE REVEREND DAVID M. FUNK
Newport, Ky.

A half century of faithful contribution to the life and leadership of community welfare is most noteworthy!

I desire to join with the thousands within Garrett county and those outside and offer my hearty congratulations to Mr. Benjamin H. Sincell, Editor of The Republican, Oakland, Maryland, where fifty years ago he edited his first issue of a paper which has long since become an institution within Garrett county and a part of her people.

The vocations and professions all offer varied and useful service to a community—but few people have so great opportunity in reaching so many people and in bringing into the life of whole areas such welcomed service as the columns of a newspaper offers. Journalism, newspaper work, and the free press has been an indispensable contribution to a free people. Within the western part of our state and particularly within the homes of Garrett county The Republican has been for 63 years a welcome weekly visitor. For nearly twenty years since I first came to Oakland I have been reading the paper weekly. I have been the editors pastor, I know him personally as an editor and his aims, ideals, and stewardship, and how he has sought to share, from week to week, helpful information through the news, with his large family of subscribers.

On the occasion of his fiftieth anniversary as Editor I not only congratulate him personally on the fine achievments of a half century of faithful stewardship, but I know his approach to the homes of the county will continue to place before our people those ideals and fundamental values of a democracy—namely: religion, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness through free thinking, led and stimulated by a free church and a free press. I know that your publication will continue to stimulate and guide our thinking and remind us of the realization of greater happiness and contentment found through our free institutions and great heritage characterizing the American way of life.

May the rich reward of a half century of valued stewardship to Garrett county bring from the heart of your constituency a response, leaving with you, Mr. Sincell and your co-workers, lasting satisfaction and joy on the occasion of your fiftieth anniversary as The Republican's editor.

Hearty congratulations and my kindest felicitations and hope for the future.

Friendsville has Terrific Blast: Fireworks Cause

A firecracker placed in an intake pipe of a presumably empty 560-gallon gasoline tank apparently ignited fumes that caused a terrific explosion at Friendsville last Thursday.

The tank was owned by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and was lying on the west side of the building owned by the Yough Motor Company. Who placed the firecracker in the tank has not been determined. Numerous persons, adults and children, were near the site of the explosion, but fortunately no one was injured.

The explosion was so great that the glass was blown out of seven 33x36 windows as well as many smaller windows in the Yough Motor Company's structure.

Both ends of the tank were blown out, one of which was estimated to have been hurled sixty feet in the air.

Mt. Choir Festival Is Scheduled For July 28

Afternoon And Evening Sessions To Be In Amphitheatre Mountain Lake Park

The seventh annual Mountain Choir Festival will be held in the Amphitheatre, Mountain Lake Park, on Sunday afternoon and evening, July 28th.

There will be a rehearsal by the Festival Choir Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The afternoon session will present a choral program by the visiting choirs together with a short address by Mrs. Roleigh Lee Stubbs, newly-elected president of the Federation of Music Clubs, West Virginia Chapter.

The evening session will commence at 7:30 o'clock when the Festival Choir will sing Choral Vespers, featured at the Baltimore Festival in April.

The Festival Choir will be augmented by the Junior Choir of St. John's Lutheran church, Baltimore, which will sing a short cantata by C. Griffith Bratt and directed by the composer. Rev. Lloyd Keller, D.D., pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, and past president of the Baltimore Ministerial Union, will give the meditation.

Other new music to be featured will be that of Ferdinand Kuehn, Baltimore, who composed numbers especially for the use of this Festival. Mr. Kuehn will be Festival accompanist. Rev. Felix G. Robinson is the director.

Instead of admission by tickets a free-will offering will be taken up at both sessions to cover expenses.

Farm Groups Meet

The Yough Community Boosters held their regular meeting in the Selbysport school house on July 1. Music was furnished by Claude Fike, John Frazee, Charles Thomas and James Frantz. The speakers were Merle Garletts, John Conover, and John Magruder.

The Asher Glade Community club held its regular meeting on July 2 in the Asher Glade school house. Dr. Brown, of Friendsville, the speaker, told of his experiences in the World War.

The directors of the Garrett County Farm Bureau met at Accident on Monday evening, July 8, at which there was a discussion of the operations and purposes of the wool pool. A committee was appointed to work with the Extension service and other organizations in holding a county-wide picnic sometime in August. Members of that committee are Harry Porter, Marvin Callis and William Tarbell. The Farm Bureau is giving $10.00 toward expenses of the picnic.

New Telephone Directories Are Now Being Issued

The new issue of the Garrett county telephone directory is now being issued to subscribers in this area, according to an announcement made by W. R. Pancake, manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, at Oakland.

Subscribers are requested by Mr. Pancake to be careful to remove personal papers from their directories before discarding them. Because of many changes in directory listing, it is urged that all old directories either be turned in or destroyed when the new book is delivered.

Firemen Answer Alarm

The Oakland Firemen answered an alarm last Sunday night about 9:30 when a small shed on the town's property at the north edge of town was discovered to be on fire. The origin of the fire is not known. The blaze was extinguished.

ARREST HERE HAS LED TO SOLVING MANY ROBBERIES

Grafton (W. Va.) Garage Mechanic Caught In Oakland by Truck Owner Early Sunday Morning

MUCH LOOT RECOVERED

Arrest of Ivan Taylor, 26, a garage mechanic of Grafton, West Va., in Oakland early Sunday morning after an alert owner of a truck caught him about to remove a tire from the vehicle, has led to the solution of numerous house breaking jobs in Taylor and Preston counties, it has been reported by authorities in those West Virginia counties.

Ed Schmidt, owner of the truck, captured Taylor after the Grafton man drove up alongside his truck after having perviously loosened the lugs on the wheel. Shortly before Taylor is alleged to have taken a radio out of Thomas Foster's automobile which was parked in the street near the Schmidt truck.

Getting in touch with local authorities, Schmidt decided to wait beneath the truck for further developments and they were not long in coming.

About one o'clock a car without lights drove up and stopped. Schmidt stepped out with a gun and Taylor was taken to jail. The radio stolen from the Foster car was found later in the Taylor car.

Coincident with Taylor's arrest in Oakland, Grafton police swooped down on Taylor's home and reportedly seized a large quantity of what they believe to be stolen property. Included in the loot were jewelry, watches, cameras, guns, 2,000 rounds of ammunition, hunting knives, a portable dental outfit, fishing tackle, a typewriter and many other items. Preston county authorities at Kingwood also cooperated in the investigation.

Sheriff J. W. Owens said this morning that Taylor had been turned over to Preston county officers. He said also that West Virginia police had stated that Taylor had confessed to at least fifteen charges of breaking and entering.

Taylor would either spot parked automobiles or would break into a residence when the owners were absent from the city and would ransack the premises at his leisure.

Loses Father and Mother Within A Week By Death

C. E. Sharps, owner of the Sharps Motor Company here, has lost both his father and mother by death within the space of a week.

His father, Lewis A. Sharps, 83, died at his home in Newburg, W. Va., on Tuesday, July 2, after a short illness. Funeral services were conducted last Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the residence with interment in the Newburg Knights of Pythias cemetery. Mr. Sharps was a retired merchant.

His mother, Mrs. Anna Squires Sharps, 79, died Tuesday at her home, just a week after her husband. She had been ill since last fall. Her funeral will be conducted Friday.

Survivors include two sons, C. E. Sharps, Oakland, and W. W. Sharps, Newburg; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Vanzandt, and a foster-daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Horchler, both of Newburg.

Box Supper for Benefit of Log Church Building Fund

A box supper and social will be held on Saturday night, July 13, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Varley, near Altamont. All provisions have been made for those who enjoy a good supper and an evening of fun, and everyone is invited to be present.

This event, sponsored by members of the Log Church, Altamont, is for the benefit of the Log Church Building Fund, and is the first of many similar activities which will be held by this group during the summer months. Plans are under way for the erection of a Parish Hall on the grounds of the Log Church and those in charge are hoping that by the close of the summer season this project will be well on the way to completion.

Hunting Permits Available

Hunting licenses have been in the office of A. G. Ross, clerk of the circuit court, for the past several days, and already there have been more than 30 issued to those anticipating an active hunting season.

The laws and regulations have not been received yet, but there are no changes from those issued last year, it was stated. One can legally hunt rabbits beginning September 1, as also dove.

New Germany To Host Coyote Adventures Camp

New Germany State Park will host a 3-day Coyote Adventures Family Day Camp on July 26, 27, and 28. This is a free "nature immersion program" for families with children ages 7-14, designed to help children experience and connect with the natural world.

The program will take place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m each day, with a break for lunch. Activities will include Native American storytelling, nature games, discovery walks, wetland studies, and journaling.

Children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian at all times. Participants should dress appropriately for the outdoors and bring a backpack with drinking water and a packed lunch. The use of cell phones and other electronic devices will not be permitted during the program.

Families must preregister by calling the ranger station at 301-895-5453. Additional Coyote Adventures activities will take place on July 16, July 30, Aug. 13, and Sept. 3.

Coyote Adventures is an organization founded by Jack Slocomb and Margie Hartman. Slocomb is a trained naturalist, wilderness leader, and published writer of essays and poetry relating to the natural beauty of the Allegheny Mountains. He brings to the program some 40 years of experience as an outdoor leader and recently received a Kamana II Naturalist certification. Hartman has been a parent mentor for Coyote Adventures Family Outings for five years and is an active member of the Allegany-Garrett Counties' Bird Club.

Annual Tri-State Festival, Auction, Cruise-In Scheduled For July 15, 16

The 18th annual Tri-State Festival, Auction, and Cruise-In will be held Friday and Saturday, July 15 and 16, at the Garrett County farirgroudns in McHenry. Proceeds from the two-day "family affair" will support missions work by area Mennonite and Brethren churches.

Activities will begin Friday, July 15, at 4:30 p.m., when a market place will offer fair-trade handicrafts from around the world at the Ten Thousand Villages table, plus baked goods, plants, woven rugs, crib quilts, homemade household items, and new and used books. A large silent auction will begin at 5:30, featuring nearly 200 items in the following categories: antiques and collectibles, books and music, children's, Christmas, decorative, fabric (includes sewn, embroidered, crocheted, quilted, and woven items), food, and home and garden, and also various services. Many of the items are handcrafted.

Horse-drawn carriage rides on the fairgrounds will be available both days,

The Saturday, July 16, schedule will begin with a pancake and sausage breakfast. Other food items available for purchase throughout the day will include barbecued chicken, pulled pork, french fries, and strawberry shortcake.

A classic auto cruise-in will begin at 9 a.m., in which antique and classic vehicle owners are invited to participate. No registration is required and prizes will be awarded.

There will be a variety of children's activities on Saturday, including an auction just for them and barrel train rides.

The benefit auction will begin at 9:30 a.m., offering over 100 quilted items including vintage, antique, and original feed sack pieces. Most items are hand-quilted and some are hand-pieced.

Other auction items will include handcrafted furniture, such as a lawn flower cart, outdoor nativity sets, fire ring, a children's table and chair set, a bed board seat, bentwood rockers, and poly-lawn furniture. A 1957 John Deere 620 tractor will be sold at 12:15 p.m.

Also available for purchase will be a variety of tools and Husqvarna chain saws, wind chimes, hand-thrown Lais pottery, and a wood-carved feather by International Waterfowl champion carver Gary Yoder. There will be various vacation packages up for bid, as well as homemade baked goods, golf outings, and train excursion tickets for the Potomac Eagle in Hampshire County, W.Va.

The all-volunteer event is sponsored by Mennonite churches of western Maryland, southwest Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. All proceeds benefit victims of hunger, famine, and war, both worldwide and in the United States, through the Mennonite Central Committee (MCC), which is the relief and development arm of Mennonite and Brethren churches, based in Akron, Pa. (www.mcc.org). The American Institute of Philanthropy's Charity Watch gives MCC an "A" rating.

The fairgounds are located along Mosser Road just off U.S. Rt. 219 in McHenry. There will be free parking and no admission charge. For more information and/or to obtain a schedule of the Saturday auction, persons are invited to call 814-322-8660 or go online to www.tristatesale.org. That internet site also offers a list of the auction items, which will be continually updated.

Bethel Christian School Offering Pre-K Program

Bethel Christian School is starting a new pre-kindergarten program in Oakland. The program will be open to 4- and 5-year-olds, and will be academic-based with a Christian background, according to Kristine Ayers, the school's new director.

The pre-K program will begin in September and be held in what was formerly the Stewart Funeral Home located along Second Street adjacent to the Oakland post office.

Ayers said that the school has recently been staffed with new administration and has made changes in the curriculum.

"The goal of our program will be to prepare children for their first year of school in kindergarten," Ayers said. "They will be taught basics, including starting them in reading and writing."

There is a limited number of spaces for the pre-K, and parents are invited to contact Ayers at 304-698-1196 to set up an appointment. Persons may also send an email to bethelchristianmd@gmail.com.

Bethel also has a program for youth from kindergarten through grade 12, as well as an adult program.

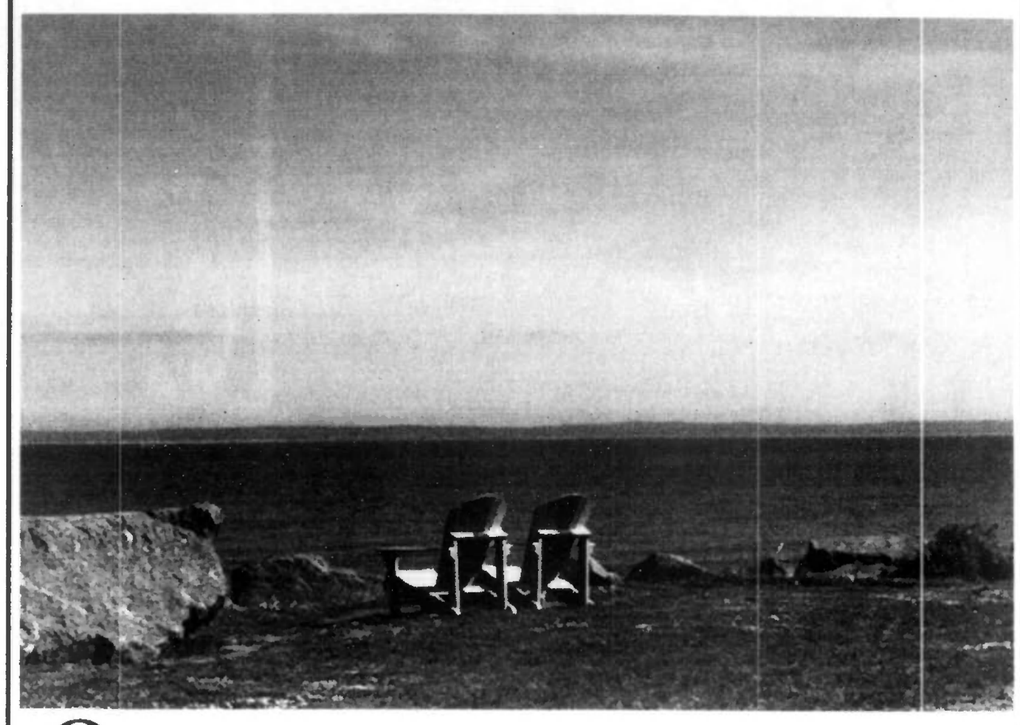
GOD IS OMNIPRESENT



Outside on a summer evening, with the vast expanse of sky overhead and a warm breeze gently blowing, it can feel like God is all around us. Where does God live? He's not in a body like we are. He can be as many places as he needs to be; He is omnipresent, omnipotent, and omniscient. He lives especially in our hearts. Celebrate His presence in your life and heart at your house of worship this week.

Breaking Promises

An important theme which runs through the Bible is the inability of humankind, both individually and collectively, to keep our promises. The Israelites are chastised again and again for stubbornly pursuing their own selfish interests and breaking the covenant they had with God. God continues to forgive them, and in the New Testament when Peter asks Jesus how many times he should forgive his neighbor, Jesus tells him that he should forgive him not just seven times, but seventy-seven times, reflecting the divine patience for human weakness. We are all prone to breaking our promises and to sinning against God and our fellow man, and should be comforted by His everlasting mercy. Our sinning will someday come to an end, but His mercy and forgiveness will last forever. Strive to be more faithful in your own life and to mirror God's everlasting mercy when those around you fall short.
— Christopher Simon

"Then Peter came to Jesus and asked, 'Lord, how many times shall I forgive my brother or sister who sins against me? Up to seven times?' Jesus answered, 'I tell you, not seven times, but seventy-seven times."

— Matthew 18:21-22 NIV

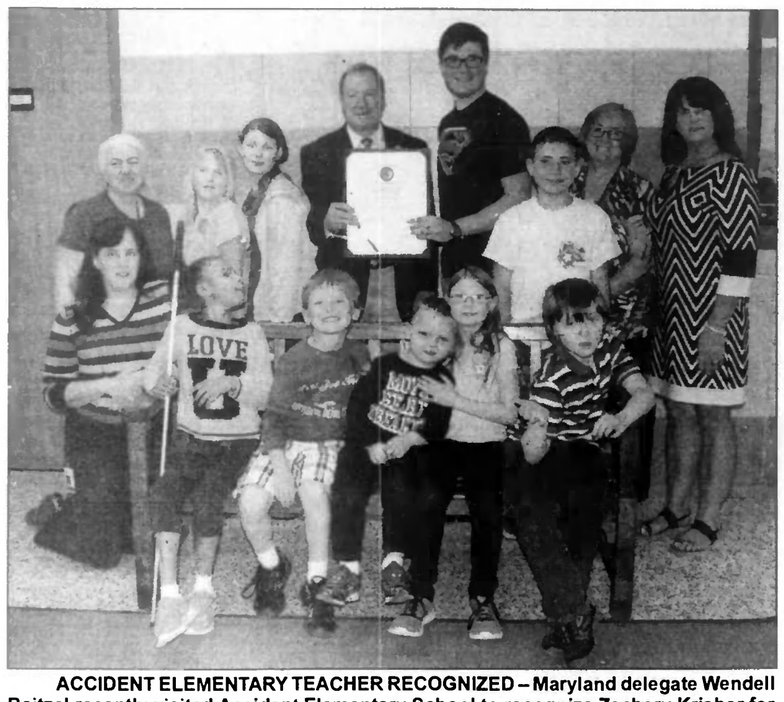
4-H Club News



ACCIDENT ELEMENTARY TEACHER RECOGNIZED – Maryland delegate Wendell Beitzel recently visited Accident Elementary School to recognize Zachary Krisher for his Hour of Code accomplishments. Krisher had collaborated with Southern High School to create academic games using technology. The technology games created by high school students were then used by Krisher's special education class. Accident Elementary received a $5,000 grant to continue several technology projects. At the school-wide assembly, Krisher celebrated with David Yoder, principal, Beitzel, fellow co-workers, and students. Pictured above in the front row, from left, are Rhonda Oates, Miracle Pickerel, Preston Mrljak, Bryson Thomas, Skylar Lewis, and Lincoln Durst. In the second row are Sheila Lewis, Hayden Wilt, Brook Lewis, Beitzel, Krisher, Tonka Miller, Charla Beiler, and Cheryl Landon.

BITTINGER
by Anna Major, reporter

The Bittinger 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting on June 21 at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger. Christopher Marple, vice president, called the meeting to order and read the treasurer's report. Anna Major, assisted by Tucker Fratz, led the Pledge of Allegiance and 4-H pledge. Eight members and two visitors were in attendance.

Anna Major reported on the Western MD 4H/FFA District Show, in which she won Reserve Champion middle weight market goat and first place in the Intermediate Showmanship class.

Club members agreed to purchase additional club T-shirts, fair market animal buyer gifts, and a group "Thank You" ad in the Republican newspaper. The club will also assist the All Stars Club with the corn booth at the fair by husking corn on Monday, Aug. 1, from 2 to 3 p.m.

All of the club's cow patty bingo tickets were sold during the meeting. New service learning hours forms were given to each member for the Presidential Award given at Achievement Night.

A picnic at New Germany State Park will follow next month's regular meeting on July 10 at 4 p.m. The club will provide fried chicken, and each family is asked to bring a covered dish.

The regular meeting ended with an ice cream snack and a gift bag provided by Dairy Maid Samantha Wilt in honor of Dairy Month.

The first 4-H fair booth meeting followed with six members in attendance.

RYAN'S GLADE
by Nick Friend, reporter

The June meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club was held on June 21 at at the Rush farm.

A brief meeting was held before starting farm tours. There were reminders about animal health checks and Quality Assurance.

The Extension Office is looking for intermediate and senior 4-H members to help set up the 4-H building for the fair. The dates they are doing so are July 20 and July 27. Interested members should contact the Extension Office and speak to Wanda.

After the meeting, farm tours were conducted by Emma Rush, Mariah Moon, Sam Kennedy, and Nick and Tailynn Friend. Members gave demonstrations about their fair animals.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday July 19, at the Wilt residence for a meeting and the remainder of the farm tours.

Local Republicans Hold Meeting At McHenry Business

Ruth Umbel, campaign coordinator for Amie Hoeber, a candidate for Maryland's sixth congressional district, hosted a dinner meeting recently of 20 local Republican leaders at Perkins Restaurant in McHenry.

Umbel introduced Steve Fratz, Garrett County Board of Elections director. Fratz provided the latest statistics on voter registrants and an update on new laws and regulations that he learned about during the recent Maryland Association of Election Officials conference in Cambridge.

Umbel talked briefly about precinct organization, "getting out the vote," the GOP booth at the Garrett County Agriculture Fair, opening a local Republican headquarters, and the start of Gov. Larry Hogan's 2018 re-election campaign.

State delegate David Voght, who represents Carroll and Frederick counties in Annapolis, praised Umbel's loyalty, organizational skills, and work on behalf of the Republican Party. He also emphasized the importance of electing a Republican for president, Congress, and Senate.

Tom Sheahen, Garrett County Republican Central Committee chairman, addressed the issue of getting out the vote in Garrett County, where registered Republicans outnumber Democrats by a two to one margin.

Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, precinct chairwoman, spoke about techniques and strategies for accomplishing that goal.

Umbel announced the appointment of Lisa Herman, a member of the Northern Republican Women, as the new member of the Garrett County Liquor Control Board. Umbel also recognized Lois Rowe as a new election judge and Tim and Paula Thomas as new volunteers for Hoeber's campaign.

In addition to those previously mentioned, also attending the meeting were Anne Rebele, Robin and Will McGill, Gary and LuAnne Ruddell, Del. Voght's aide, Sheila O'Neill, Mildred Husselbach, Judy and Larry Lovell, and Janice Leighton.

Umbel announced that the joint Southern and Northern Republican Women's picnic is scheduled for Wednesday, July 13, at the Accident pavilion. Elected and other officials will be in attendance.

"Anyone can come," Umbel said. "Bring a covered dish."

Persons planning to attend are asked to RSVP by contacting her at 301-387-5035 or ruthumbel@comcast.net.

"It is challenging but yet somewhat familiar if you have ever played gin rummy," noted a spokesperson. "It has different 'suits' and certain 'hands' that are determined by a card issued for each year by the American Mah-jongg League." Garrett County's Mah-jongg League meets every Monday and Wednesday at various restaurants around the county, beginning at noon with a social hour and followed by games at 1 p.m. "We are a teaching league and know that sometimes a new player wants some practice sessions before coming to lunch with the more experienced players. They plan is to offer just such practice sessions at the center on Thursdays throughout the summer and fall until you feel comfortable to join the league players." To obtain more information and to make a reservation, persons are asked to call 301-501-0304. Pictured are Judi Kuhnle, Judi Schiff, Pat Gregory, and Kay Carlson at a recent Mah-jongg League gathering.

Loch Lynn Church Slates Annual Back To School Blast

Loch Lynn Church of God has scheduled its annual Back to School Blast for Saturday, Aug. 6, from 9 to 11 a.m. Book bags filled with school supplies, along with clothing, will be given away.

The church will hold the event this year at "The Bridge" campus, located at 121 East First Avenue, Loch Lynn.

"For the past several years, Loch Lynn Church of God has helped students of our community acquire school supplies and a backpack needed for the coming school year," said an event organizer. "With the rising cost of living, we understand that it has put a strain on a lot of families in our area, and we want to be a blessing to those who could benefit from this outreach."

Those who have school-age children/youth (Headstart through 12th grade) who like to participate or have questions about the event are asked to call the church office at 301-334-3221.

Reservations are necessary because of limited supplies. The deadline for sign-up is Friday, July 29.

First United Wins Golden Worksite Wellness Award

Van Mitchell, secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, recently presented a gold level Wellness at Work Award to First Untited Bank & Trust in recognition of its "exemplary" accomplishments in worksite health promotion.

The Wellness at Work awards were presented as part of the seventh annual maryland Workplace Health and Wellness Symposium at the BWI Marriott in Linthicum Heights last month. First United Bank was one of 42 businesses to receive an award and one of only nine to receive the gold level, according to Chuck Ollson, FUBT vice president and chief human resources officer.

"We are honored and pleased to be recognized as a gold level Healthiest Maryland Business for the second year in a row," he said. "At First United, a healthy workforce is a priority, and wellness a key part of our company culture."

He said the company's wellness program, formed in 2006 and based on a coordinated strategy to promote health lifestyles, has been very beneficial to the associates and their families.

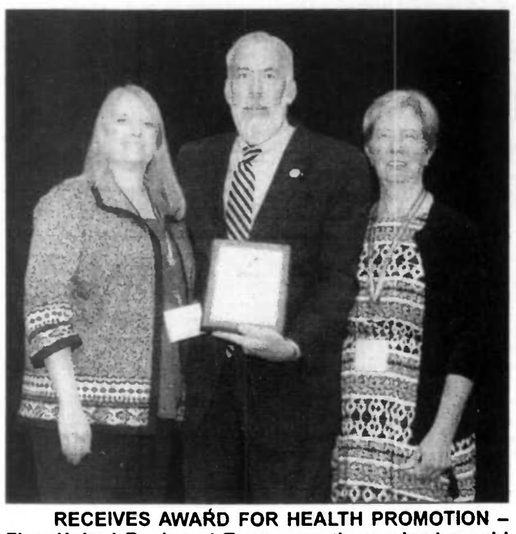
"Providing annual health screenings that promote personal health awareness, fun activities and challenges that improve health, and ongoing educational opportunities under the leadership of our Wellness Committee have been key to our success," Ollson said.

"We were amazed to see over 500 individuals at this event (the symposium)," said Karen Malecki, vice president and director of strategic initiatives at First United. "It really showed us the overwhelming commitment that Maryland businesses have toward achieving and maintaining a healthy workforce."

The Wellness at Work Awards are sponsored by Healthiest Maryland Businesses, the state's initiative to support healthy workplaces. The awards program recognizes Maryland employers for their notable accomplishments in health promotion. Gold, silver, and bronze level awards were presented at the symposium.

To be eligible for an award, businesses are required to establish leadership support for wellness, create wellness committees, survey the needs and interests of their employees, set health improvement goals, and develop monitoring tools to track their outcomes over time.

Launched in 2010 and based on the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Healthiest Maryland Businesses helps businesses create customized wellness plans, wet wellness goals, and monitor progress. Six regional coordinators around the state provide personalized guidance to businesses of all sizes. To date, more than 460 businesses have signed on to take advantage of this program, according to FUBT.



RECEIVES AWARD FOR HEALTH PROMOTION – First United Bank and Trust recently received a gold level Wellness at Work award during the seventh annual Maryland Workplace Health and Wellness Symposium in Linthicum Heights. FUBT was one of just nine businesses to receive the award at the event. The awards were presented by Van Mitchell, secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. See story. Pictured, from left, are JoLeen Haskiell, FUBT humaneresources payroll and benefits manager; Mitchell; and Karen Malecki, FUBT vice president and director of strategic initiatives.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.asp. The center also has a Facebook page.

Saturday, July 9

• 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. – Art in the Park. Original artwork and fine crafts will be on display and for sale at this annual event on the shore of Deep Creek Lake at the Discovery Center. There will be jewelry, photography, pottery, baskets, painting, and more by regional artisan vendors. Food, nature programs, silent auction, a kids' art project by the Garrett County Arts Council, and live animal exhibits will all be available.

Sunday, July 10

• 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. – Art in the Park. Original artwork and fine crafts will be on display and for sale at this annual event on the shore of Deep Creek Lake at the Discovery Center. There will be jewelry, photography, pottery, baskets, painting, and more by regional artisan vendors. Food, nature programs, silent auction, a kids' art project by the Garrett County Arts Council, and live animal exhibits will all be available.

Monday, July 11

• 10 a.m. – Fishing with the Naturalist. Guests age 7 and older are invited to join the park naturalist for a course on fishing basics. Poles, bait, and tackle are provided. The cost is $4 per person, and adults (16+) must have their license. Preregistration is required, as space is limited.

Tuesday, July 12

• All Day – The Science Room will be staffed to help guests with hands-on activities.

• 2 p.m. – Butterflies and Flowers. All are invited to join the naturalist for a walk around the Discovery Center grounds observing the butterflies that use native plants. The difference between native and non-native plants and their effects on the environment will be discussed.

• 10 a.m. – Snakes Give Me the Freak Out. This is a reptile and amphibian program featuring author Deborah Brenneman. Guests may come meet her and get their own copies of her book, titled Snakes Give Me the Freak Out, which she will autograph. Brenneman is a science teacher at the Hickory Environmental Center in Accident. "Deborah's love of life, children, and writing make her books fun and educational, and give a nod to our local species of snakes," a spokesperson said.

Wednesday, July 13

• 8 a.m. – Birding at Deep Creek. Guests will learn how to bird by sight and sound as they listen for distinctive songs on a stroll through the park. Experienced and beginner birders can meet around the Discovery Center. Birders should bring their own binoculars.

• 2 p.m. – Buzzing Bees, Bzzzz, Bzzzz. All are invited to "come see what all the buzz is about." There are more pollinators than just bees, and there would not be most of the current crops without these small creatures. Guests may come learn all about it, and make a special craft to take home and plant to help support wandering pollinators.

Thursday, July 14

• 9:30 a.m. – Brant Mine Hike. Guests can join a guided hike with the naturalist to the historic Brant Mine. The hike begins in the center's mine room. Hikers will see the remnants of a coal mine that was operated in the 1920s, as well as possibly some wildlife along the way. Moderate walking. (Approx. 2 hours)

• 10 a.m. – Healthy Parks Healthy People Hike. Guests may join ranger Matt Tillet for a 5-mile hike through the woods on Meadow Mountain to learn about the natural world, and to get hearts pumping. This hike begins at the Discovery Center.

• 1 to 3 p.m. – Smokey Bear Visit. Smokey will be at the Discovery Center during these two hours. All are invited to stop by for a photo and to meet this important bear.

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

Saturday, July 9

• 10 a.m. – Guided Hike Along the Green Trail. Hikers should meet at the Herrington Manor Ranger Station to join the park ranger on a guided hike along the Green Trail. Walkers will see some of the local flora and learn about one of Herrington Manor's newest projects – the Wildflower Meadow.

• 11:30 a.m. – Roaming Ranger. Join the ranger naturalist at the Swallow Falls campground to meet the park's corn snake. The ranger will be able to answer questions about the park and what events are happening in the local area.

• 1 p.m. – Snake Feeding Time. All may meet at Herrington Manor Nature Center below the park office to watch the naturalist feed the park's corn snake.

Sunday, July 10

• 11 a.m. – Mystery Hike. Interested hikers are invited to meet at the Herrington Manor Ranger Station and join the park ranger for a hike to a secret hiking location. This program is at a separate site which requires about a 5-minute drive. Personal vehicles are required. (If fewer than four people show up for the program, it will be canceled.) 90 minutes.

Tuesday, July 12

• 11 a.m. – Healthy Hiking. Guests are invited to meet at the Herrington Manor Ranger Station and find out about a way to get in shape while enjoying the great outdoors. This all-inclusive fitness hike is designed for everyone.

Shepherd Of Hills Returning To DCL Site For Services

The Shepherd of the Hills church has voted to "return to its roots" by offering worship services back on the shores of Deep Creek Lake, where the mission church began 12 years ago.

Beginning Sunday, July 10, and each Sunday thereafter, lakeside worship will be held at 4 p.m. in the Sitzmark Room (lower level) of Will O' the Wisp. All vacationers, visitors, and any who live in the Deep Creek area are welcome to attend.

The worship services are casual. Will O' the Wisp is located on the shore of the lake, along Rt. 219, at 20160 Garrett Highway.

"The apostle Paul speaks to us how it is through the fruits of the spirit (love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control) that Christ engages us in a call," said Pastor Rick Egtvedt. "A call obligates us to love our neighbor as we love ourselves, while we are also called to love God with our heart, mind, and soul; a call to invest ourselves in a community of faith, a 'mission at the lake' to reach out to all those who come to the lake without ever having heard the word or after having been hurt elsewhere. It is about ensuring God's Word and Sacraments are made available. This is the heart of who we are, this is the heart of what we are called to do, this is the heart of why Shepherd of the Hills came into being. This is why we at Shepherd of the Hills are not just going to stick our heads in the sand and continue to do the same things we've always done.

"That will mean that, like Jesus, we will not have a place of our own, that we will have to simplify things for daily set-up and tear-down, that we will have to stack and move chairs, that we will have to give up our beautiful oak altar for a plastic table with linens," the pastor said. "Yet we will be free to develop new programs and worship styles as we will explore what lakeside worship can be here at the lake and on this mountaintop."

The church community became a mission congregation of the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) in 2004. The first services were held at Will O' the Wisp. It then moved to Garrett Eight Cinemas and then to the Sand Flat Plaza. As a result of the noticeable drop in visitors since moving two miles south of the central lake area, SOTH has decided to move back to Will O' the Wisp.

For more information, persons may contact Pastor Rick Egtvedt at 301-501-0812, or go to the church website at www.shepherdofthehillslutheran.org.

Paw's Korner

Home Alone

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My 1-year-old dog, "Clemente," gets extremely anxious whenever I leave home. He barks nonstop, as my neighbor has mentioned repeatedly. I put him in his crate whenever I leave, but it doesn't matter if I'm gone for 20 minutes or all day -- he will not stop barking until I get home. I tried leaving him out of the crate when I go out for short periods, but then he just barks, claws at the door and scatters my shoes everywhere. What else can I do? -- Beth N., Brooklyn, New York

DEAR BETH: Reducing your pet's anxiety when you leave home can be really tough. Regardless of his history -- whether he was a shelter adoption or brought home from a litter -- Clemente's perception is that you are leaving, and he doesn't know why or for how long. How will he eat if you're gone for days? Why won't you take him with you? A lot of things are running through his mind. Even if you just go out of sight for a few minutes, some pets get really worried. I've come out of the bathroom to find my dog and cats clustered together, staring up at me mutely with eyes that seem to say, "Where did you GO?" There are many things to try, all of which involve reassuring Clemente that you will come home. Contact a trainer who specializes in easing anxiety (Clemente's vet may have some good recommendations). Most importantly, do it soon. Right now he's got some anxiety, but that could develop into more destructive behaviors. Now is the time to really build that relationship with your dog and help him feel more confident that you are always there for him.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was noted 20th-century English historian A.J.P. Talyor who made the following sage observation: "Conformity may give you a quiet life; it may even bring you to a University Chair. But all change in history, all advance, comes from the nonconformists. If there had been no troublemakers, no dissenters, we should still be living in caves."

* Those who study such things say that the typical raccoon weighs twice as much in September as it does in March, at the end of the long, lean winter.

* Standard Oil of Louisiana opened the first gasoline superstation in 1912 in Memphis, Tennessee. It offered 13 pumps and a maid who served ice water to customers. On opening day, a gallon of gas cost $0.29.

* You might be surprised to learn that Cirque du Soleil, the largest theatrical producer in the world, was founded by two street performers who never completed high school.

* Iconic actress Marilyn Monroe spent much of her childhood in foster homes and an orphanage, and her troubled life has been much publicized. Considering her struggles with depression, anxiety and addiction, it should not be surprising that Monroe's will named the Anna Freud Center, a mental-health research, training and treatment center dedicated to helping children, as a beneficiary.

* A global survey of people's vacuuming habits finds that more than 60 percent of vacuumers in Colombia, Mexico, Brazil and Chile listen to music while performing that chore -- more than anywhere else in the world. Only a third of Americans listen to music, though; according to the survey, the favorite pastime of vacuumers in the United States is just to think about vacuuming.

Moments in time — The History Channel

* On July 14, 1881, Sheriff Pat Garrett shoots Henry McCarty, known as Billy the Kid, to death at the Maxwell Ranch in New Mexico. Garrett had been tracking the Kid for three months after the gunslinger escaped from prison only days before his scheduled execution.

* On July 15, 1903, the newly formed Ford Motor Company takes its first order: an $850 two-cylinder Model A automobile with a backseat. The car was delivered a week later. The Model A could accommodate two people side-by-side on a bench; it had no top, and was painted red.

* On July 12, 1933, the first three-wheeled, multi-directional Dymaxion car designed by Buckminster Fuller is manufactured in Connecticut. It had a steel chassis and a body made of ash wood, covered with an aluminum skin and topped with a painted canvas roof.

* On July 11, 1945, the Soviet Union promises to hand over power to British and U.S. forces in West Berlin. Although the division of Berlin into zones of occupation was seen as temporary, the dividing lines quickly became permanent.

* On July 13, 1955, nightclub owner Ruth Ellis is convicted of murdering her boyfriend, playboy race-car driver David Blakely. Ellis was later executed by hanging, becoming the last woman in Great Britain to be put to death.

* On July 17, 1967, Jimi Hendrix drops out as the opening act for teenybopper sensations The Monkees. The booking of psychedelic rock god with the made-for-television Monkees was the brainchild of Hendrix's manager, Mike Jeffery.

* On July 16, 1995, Amazon officially opens for business as an online bookseller. Within a month, the fledgling retailer had shipped books to all 50 states and 45 countries. Amazon eventually morphed into an e-commerce colossus, selling everything from groceries and furniture to live ladybugs.

Collecting by Larry Cox

Q: I have heard that paint-by-number pictures from the 1950s have become collectible. I have several that my daughter did that are quite good. Are they salable? -- Alice, St. Johnsville, New York

A: "Paint-by-Number" pictures were originally produced by Max Klein, an engineer and owner of the Detroit-based Palmer Paint Company, and Dan Roberts, a commercial artist. The first examples issued in 1951 under the Craft Masters brand were an immediate success. Each kit had a picture board with light blue or gray-lined areas that were numbered to match certain colors. In recent years, many of these paintings have popped up in shops and at antique malls, mostly priced in the $25-$35 range. During the 1950s and '60s, more than 12 million of the kits were sold.

Q: During the 1950s, my mom was a big fan of Don McNeill and his Breakfast Club, a network radio program. She purchased his book, which was published in 1953. Would it be of interest to a collector? -- Scott, Arvada, Colorado

A: "Don McNeill's Breakfast Club" was broadcast from Chicago and debuted in 1933. It continued until 1968, making it the longest-running network radio show ever. The program was a blend of poetry, anecdotes, guest stars, interviews and even occasional marches around the breakfast table. The show was essentially spontaneous and unrehearsed, with McNeill closing each program with his signoff tag: "Be good to yourself." While "Don McNeill's Breakfast Club" was extremely popular as a radio program, when an attempt was made to adapt it to television in 1954, it failed to capture the same audience.

McNeill published several books, including "Don's Other Life" in 1944, "Don McNeill's Breakfast Club" (1953), "Twenty Years of Corn" (1953) and at least 10 editions of his yearbooks. The yearbooks often sell for about $20 each, with the other three publications generally priced in the $15-$35 range. Prices can vary due to condition and demand. For example, McNeill memorabilia is especially popular in Chicago, which means prices in Chicagoland can be higher than in other parts of the country.

One of the better references is "Hake's Price Guide to Character Toys" by Ted Hake and published by House of Collectibles.

'The Last Ship's' third season chugs along

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

The end is nigh — at least on television. Apocalyptic programs are having a moment. Whether it's a zombie apocalypse a la AMC's "The Walking Dead" or a mysterious viral outbreak as in CW's "Containment," the end of the world has viewers on the edge of their seats.

A topic usually reserved for the big screen, or — at the very least — TV movies, is now popping up just about everywhere and continuing on for season after season. TNT's answer to the trendy post-apocalyptic genre is one of television's current hits: a new episode of "The Last Ship" airs Sunday, July 10. Based on William Brinkley's 1988 novel of the same name, the drama follows the crew of the fictional destroyer USS Nathan James as they scramble to save humanity in the wake of a devastating outbreak that wiped out most of the world's population.

Michael Bay ("Transformers," 2007) — known for his big-budget action movies — serves as the executive producer, which explains the show's fast pace and big-screen feel. Eric Dane ("Grey's Anatomy") leads the cast as Tom Chandler, former commanding officer of the Nathan James who was promoted to chief of naval operations by President Michener (Mark Moses, "Desperate Housewives") at the end of season 2. In the beginning, he worked with Dr. Rachel Scott (Rhona Mitra, "Boston Legal"), a paleomicrobiologist who created a cure for the pandemic, which they are now distributing throughout the world.

This season, Mike Slattery (Adam Baldwin, "Firefly") took the helm of the Nathan James as captain, having been promoted in the season 2 finale. Meanwhile, lieutenants Danny Green (Travis Van Winkle, "Transformers," 2007) and Kara Foster (Marissa Neitling, "San Andreas," 2015) were promoted to parents at the end of season 2 as they welcomed their baby into the world.

Van Winkle talked about how things have changed for his character at this year's WonderCon, speaking of his struggle with being away from his new family.

"As a father this year, it's been an interesting journey because, like a lot of military personnel, they have to go on missions and they're away from their families, and it's a very real story that a lot of people live," he explained.

Fans of the series will see a few new faces in season 3 as well. Bridget Regan ("Jane the Virgin") climbs aboard as Sasha Cooper, an undercover agent sent to China to help the U.S. with the rebuilding process. She'll often deal with China's new leader, Peng (Fernando Chien, "Red Dawn," 2012), who took over China in the wake of the outbreak. Dichen Lachman ("Aquamarine," 2006) joins the team as skilled helicopter pilot Jesse, and Elisabeth Rohm ("Law & Order") appears as Allison Shaw, a brilliant chief of staff to President Michener.

According to The Hollywood Reporter, season 2's finale was intentionally open-ended as showrunners Steven Kane and Hank Steinberg wanted to entice viewers to want a third season. Their strategy paid off, and TNT renewed "The Last Ship" for another season in August 2015.

However, fans had to wait a little longer than expected to see the season 3 premiere, and with good reason. Although the opener had originally been scheduled for June 12, producers were sensitive to the victims and families affected by the Orlando Pulse nightclub shooting and postponed the season premiere until June 19 because it included a scene involving a shooting at a nightclub.

The two-hour premiere set things in motion for season 3, which promises to be a good one. In 2015, Entertainment Weekly touted the second season as more interesting than the first, which suggests the show has not yet reached its peak, despite waning ratings. Some may wonder where the show might go from here, now that there's a cure for the virus, but there's still plenty of potential for intrigue as Peng appears to be withholding the cure from some areas. There's also talk of a mutation of the virus, which may be resistant to Dr. Scott's cure.

Those kinds of twists may be enough to draw more viewers to "The Last Ship" this season. The show could use some help, as viewership dropped to just under three million average viewers for season 2, compared to around four million for season 1. Judging by the sheer number of apocalyptic dramas on the airwaves, there's a real market for the genre. After all, "The Last Ship" isn't the only such series reeling in viewers. The CW has a couple of them with "Containment" and the futuristic nuclear disaster series "The 100." NBC had a hit last summer with its alien-invasion series "Colony," and CBS currently boasts one of the summer's hottest series with "Zoo."

All of those series pose some serious competition, but in addition to a fabulous cast and fast-paced plot, "The Last Ship" also features some realistic sets. The show is filmed in and around San Diego aboard the USS Dewey, which stands in for the USS Nathan James, as well as the USS Halsey and the USS Iowa museum ship.

They're all compelling reasons to watch "The Last Ship" week after week. In this week's episode, President Michener faces pressure from regional leaders, and Chandler's mission becomes even more complicated. Tune in to TNT to find out what happens next in a new episode of "The Last Ship," airing Sunday, July 10.

Robotic drama

USA Network's critical darling returns for season 2

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Robotic drama: One of last summer's most beloved shows is returning to the small screen. The first season of USA Network's "Mr. Robot" was a critical darling, and won two Golden Globes, including the one for the Best Television Series-Drama, and found a comfortable home on many TV critics' "best of" lists for 2015.

Now, "Mr. Robot" is back for a second season, which premieres Wednesday, July 13, on USA Network. Starring Rami Malek ("Night at the Museum," 2006) as computer hacker Elliot, the first season dealt with his involvement with a group of activist hackers led by the mysterious Mr. Robot, played by Christian Slater ("Archer"), who won a Golden Globe for his stellar performance.

The second season continues the story from the cliffhanger ending that wrapped up the first, some new actors have been recruited for round 2, and they appear to be up to the task. Joining the cast in recurring roles are Craig Robinson ("The Office"), Sandrine Holt ("Terminator Genisys," 2005), Michael Maize ("National Treasure: Book of Secrets," 2007) and rapper Joey Bada$$.

Throughout the first season, viewers got to know Malek's Elliot — an employee at a cyber security company, he suffers from depression and social anxiety disorder. Unable to connect with people in person, he hacks into the computers and accounts of his coworkers as his way of connecting with them. When he's contacted by the enigmatic Mr. Robot, though, he's asked to help them take down one of his employer's biggest clients.

The result is a psychological thriller with a high-tech twist that kept audiences guessing right up until the final episode. The second season of USA Network's "Mr. Robot" premieres Wednesday, July 13, on the cabler.

Truth or justice: Despite the best of intentions, truth and justice don't always go hand in hand. Springing from the mind of writer Richard Price ("Ransom," 1996) and based on the original British series "Criminal Justice," HBO's "The Night Of" premieres Sunday, July 10, on the premium channel.

Riz Ahmed ("Nightcrawler," 2014) stars as Naz, a college student who heads out to a party in New York's Lower East Side. On the way there, he meets a charming and attractive young woman who turns up dead the next morning — and he's the one accused of committing the crime.

With his memories of the previous night's partying hazy, even Naz can't say for sure that he's not the guilty party. He winds up caught up in a criminal justice system that already acts like he's guilty of murder, and he quickly finds his old life ripped away from him.

It's heavy stuff, and it's seemingly ripped right out of today's newspaper headlines. Such heavy subject matter needs some gravitas on screen to pull it off, and Ahmed's got a co-star who fits the bill perfectly.

Emmy winner John Turturro ("Transformers: Dark of the Moon," 2011) takes the reins as a darkly witty lawyer who takes on Riz's case, despite its severity being way out of the league of his normal cases.

Filmed around Manhattan, "The Night Of" promises to bring a dark twist to TV's ever-popular crime genre. The new limited series premieres Sunday, July 10, on HBO.

Saturday

The Greenbrier Classic

(2) (5) (6) (19) 3:00 p.m.

The Old White course in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, hosts some of golf's greatest players at this year's Greenbrier Classic. The event, which attracts the sport's biggest names, has been extended to 2021 with the PGA Tour.

Boxing

(300) HBO 5:00 p.m.

People's List

(4) (4) (4) 8.00 p.m.

Co-hosts Jerry O'Connell and SuChin Pak bring viewers the week's biggest news in pop culture, lifestyle and human-interest stories in this new episode. The program also profiles celebrities and social media stars, as well as everyday people.

Angel From Hell

(2) (5) (6) (19)
8:00 p.m.

When Allison (Maggie Lawson) gets nervous about dating, Amy (Jane Lynch) encourages her to have a fling to help her gain confidence in the first of back-to-back new episodes. Later, Amy meddles in Allison's new relationship.

Deadly Trust

(29) LIFE 8:00 p.m.

A former con artist who is desperate for money agrees to drive an elderly woman insane so her children can inherit her fortune in this premiere made-for-television thriller. Rya Kihlstedt, Harriet Harris and Patrick Fischler star.

Hello World!

(56) DISC 8:00 p.m.

Usher's new song "Stronger" provides the soundtrack as sea turtles and red foxes demonstrate how facing adversity makes them more resilient in the premiere of this new docuseries. Each episode features chart-topping recording artists.

The American West

(51) AMC 10:00 p.m.

Take a fascinating look at American history as this docu-series delves into the past of the Wild West. Set between 1865 and 1890, the program explores how America became the "land of opportunity" in the aftermath of the Civil War.

Jerry O'Connell co-hosts "People's List"

SWANTON

Otterbein United Methodist Church News

The church council will meet next Wednesday, July 13, at 7 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Swanton Otterbein is serving as a drop-off location for those recently affected with the flooding in the neighboring state of West Virginia. Many items are needed. Persons are asked to call Pastor Carl Lee for further information at 240-321-3171.

Bible study on the book of Revelation is held at the church on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 7 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m., and the worship service begins at 11 a.m. at Otterbein. The worship service in Kitzmiller begins at 9:30 a.m. All are welcome.

The United Methodist Women continually accept Rada Cutlery orders throughout the year. The coordinator for this, Joni Wilson, can be contacted at 301-387-6332 to place an order

Basement Sale/Breakfast/ Hoagie Fundraiser

An indoor basement sale will be held at Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church next Thursday and Friday, July 14-15, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. Breakfast will be offered for purchase, with a menu of biscuits and sausage gravy, juice, and coffee. Hoagies and other goods will be offered for lunch, and a dinner of hot dogs, chili dogs, sloppy joes, and fresh-made hoagies will also be available. Early orders for hoagies may be placed by calling Pastor Carl Lee at 240-321-3171. The cost is $5. Delivery for hoagies will not be provided. A bake sale will also held each day.

Camp Agape

Camp Agape is a day-camp at which campers will have the opportunity to "discover the world that God created." Camp Agape will be held July 25-29 at 1276 North Glade Road, Swanton, from 9:15 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. each day, with Friday culminating in a parent program and picnic.

Camp Agape welcomes campers age 4-18 years. "Nature, crafts, singing, worship, Bible study, making new friends, and sharing with new and old friends will be featured once again this year," stated a camp spokesperson.

There is no fee charged to participate; however a free-will offering is accepted each day. Special surprises will be shared throughout the week. Applications are available on the camp Facebook page found at www.facebook.com/agapedeepcreek. Questions should be forwarded to Kendra Rinard, director, at 301-334-6230.

The next planning meeting for Camp Agape will be held this evening, July 7, at 6:30 p.m. at the Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church. All those teaching and leading at camp are asked to attend. Schedules will be handed out. Helpers are always needed, and all are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Swanton Community Center

A barbecued chicken dinner will be served this Saturday, July 9, beginning at 4 p.m. at the center. The menu will consist of half a chicken, baked beans, coleslaw, roll, dessert, and beverages. The cost is $10, with a child-size meal (¼ chicken) available for $5. Carry-outs are available by calling 301-387-9191.

The Swanton Community Association will meet on Monday, July 18, at 7 p.m. All are invited and encouraged to attend. The community's support is needed.

St. John's Lutheran Church/ Meadow Mountain

The Sunday worship service at St. John's begins at 9 a.m. All are invited to worship and also to a coffee hour following the service.

The church is located at 5214 Bittinger Road north of Swanton. Interim pastor Don Thomas may be contacted by calling 814-395-3845.

Birthdays/Anniversaries

Among those in the community celebrating a birthday recently are Phyllis Friend on July 6, Barbie Sweitzer on July 7, Glen Custer on July 8, Shirley Lipscomb on July 9, and George Rexroad on July 10.

Among those celebrating a wedding anniversary recently are David and Janice Schofield on June 28, Allen and Sungvien Uber on July 5, and Jamie and Ellida Bernard on July 7.

New Recording

Local musician Lynn Beckman recently completed a recording session for Mon Hills Records (a subsidiary of WVU). The project includes 15 original songs written by Lynn. The tentative release date for the new CD is sometime in August.

DAR MEMBERS VISIT "MADONNA OF THE TRAIL" – Members of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution recently traveled to Beallsville, Pa., to visit the Madonna of the Trail statue, located along historic U.S. Rt. 40 (the National Road). "This monument is a tribute to pioneer mothers who helped blaze the path westward in the developing our country," said a chapter spokeswoman. The Beallsville statue is just one of 12 Madonna of the Trail monuments that were commissioned by the NSDAR. They were installed in each of the 12 states along the National Road, which extended from Bethesda to Upland, Calif. Created by sculptor August Leimbach and funded by contributions, the statues were dedicated in 1928 and 1929. From left are Yough Glades Chapter members Ann Marie Miller, Sherry Georg, Shelby Carmack, Beverly Beard, and Lillan Reckner.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Notice of Special Permit Application for Commercial Operation
The Department of Natural Resources, Deep Creek Lake NRMA has received a Special Permit application for the commercial use of the land and waters of Deep Creek Lake. The Deep Creek Lake Management Area office is beginning its review of the application and hereby serves notice of its willingness to accept public comment, in writing until Friday July 15th, 2016. Comments should be addresses to the Deep Creek Lake NRMA, 73 Brant Road Swanton, MD 21561. Comments received after Friday 15th, 2016 cannot be guaranteed inclusion in the review process.
The following is a brief summary of the application. The complete application is on file and available for review at the Deep Creek Lake Management Office. For directions call (301)387-4112.
The Will 'O the Wisp is requesting permission to install a non permanent water playground area. The area will not exceed COMAR distance and size requirements. The facility is made of inflatable material and can be removed easily at the end of the season. The facility will not encroach on the adjacent areas of use. Six additional transient dock slips have been requested to use as a parking area on the lake for the facility. Lifeguards will be on duty during hours of operation of the facility. The volume of individuals permitted at the facility will be limited by tickets that schedule a specific time frame of facility use. The facility will be licensed by the Garrett County Health Department and operate from mid June through Mid September from 10:00am – 6:00pm daily. 7/7-14(2)

PUBLIC NOTICE
The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on Thursday, July 21, 2016, starting at 7:00 p.m. in the County Commissioners Meeting Room, Second Floor, Courthouse Annex, Oakland. The Board will review the following docketed cases:
1. VR-753 - an application submitted by Michael Kennedy, for a Variance to allow the construction of a residence to within ten feet of the side and rear property lines and to allow a deck to within 0.5 feet of the rear property line. The owner has purchased the buy down from the State of Maryland. The lot is less than 17,400 square feet in size and less than 60 feet in width. The property is located at North Shore Drive, in Swanton. The parcel can be found on tax map 59, parcel 110 and is zoned Lake Residential 1 (LR1).
2. VR-754 - an application submitted by Deep Creek Marina, LLC, for a Variance to allow the reconstruction of a boat storage building to within five feet of a side property line, within the existing building footprint. The property is located at 1077 Deep Creek Drive, in McHenry. The parcel can be found on tax map 50, parcel 255 and is zoned Town Center (TC).
3. VR-755 - an application submitted by First United Bank and Trust for a Variance to allow a free standing sign that would exceed the maximum height restriction as established, by the Board, at a previous variance hearing. The property is located at 38 Vacation Way, in McHenry. The parcel can be found on tax map 42, parcel 428 and is zoned Town Center (TC).
Interested persons are invited to attend. Please enter the building from the Alder St. entrance.
7/7-14(2) By the authority of the Board of Zoning Appeals

PUBLIC NOTICE
The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will conduct a Public Hearing on Tuesday, July 12, 2016, at 6:00 p.m. located at Garrett College – Room 205 – Continuing Education Building, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, Maryland, to review a citizen proposal to amend the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance.
The specific amendment proposed is:
• Amend Section 157.024(A)6 to read that "Natural Gas Wellheads" are not permitted (N) in all zoning districts.
NOTE: The Garrett County Planning Commission voted to send this request on to the Board of County Commissioners with a favorable vote (5-1); however, they suggest amending the language to read "Natural Gas Wellheads including associated surface infrastructure, provided consistent language is included in the revised Comprehensive Plan".
Copies of the amendment are available from the Department of Planning and Land Management, located at 203 South Fourth Street, Room 210, Oakland, MD 21550. The Board welcomes any comments on these proposed amendments, at the hearing or in writing before the hearing. 6/30-7/7(2)

DEFENDANTS
NOTICE
ORDER OF PUBLICATION
The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in all that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 3, Garrett County, Maryland, containing 20.55 acres, more or less, and more particularly described in deed from William Reece Hagerman and Carolyn Lee Hagerman to Edward C. Olga and Susan M. Olga dated April 2, 1988, and recorded April 6, 1988, in Liber 509, folio 851, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.
The Complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one (1) day from the date of sale has expired.
IT IS THEREUPON, this 28th day of June, 2016, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of July. 2016, warning all persons interested in the said property to be and appear in this Court by the 29th day of August, 2016, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint, or thereafter a Judgment will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title, free and clear of all encumbrances.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF APPLICATION RECEIVED AND TENTATIVE DETERMINATION
Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 15DP3667, NPDES Permit MD0070629:

Maryland Energy Resources, LLC, 1570 Stoystown Road, P.O. Box 260, Friedens, PA 15541 submitted a renewal application for a permit which regulates discharges of mine drainage and storm water from an underground coal mine, located along Durst Rd., southwest of Grantsviile, MD, to the North Branch Casselman River (Use III waters). For the renewal, the permittee has requested an increase in the flow limitation at Outfall 001 to 2.2 million gallons per day.

Continuous monitoring is required for pH, conductivity (001 only), and temperature and an automatic shutoff is required in the event of a pH or temperature excursion.

The permit also proposes requirements for wastewater operator certification, biomonitoring, in-stream conductivity monitoring, restrictions on the use of treatment chemicals, best management practices, protection of downstream endangered species, and a storm water pollution prevention plan, and additional requirements for acid mine drainage.

If a written request is received by July 27, 2016, an informational meeting on the application and/or a public hearing on the tentative determination can be scheduled. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn.: Mr. Michael Richardson, Chief, Industrial and General Permits Division and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a meeting or hearing by July 27, 2016 will constitute a waiver of the right to an informational meeting or public hearing on the tentative determination of this permit.

Written comments concerning this tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Richardson at the above address, on or before August 8, 2016. Any hearing-impaired person who requests an informational meeting or public hearing may request an interpreter by contacting Mr. Richardson at (410) 537-3654 or 1-800-633-6101, or by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled meeting or hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, Including the application, fact sheet, and draft permit, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Richardson by telephone to make an appointment or by written request to the above address. Oak Park Church To Host 18th Annual Yard Sale To Benefit Bolivian Children

Oak Park Church of the Brethren will host its 18th annual yard sale on Thursday and Friday, July 14 and 15, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday, July 16, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the following non-profit organizations: Shalom es Mi Casa and Semillas de Esperanza in Sucre, Bolivia, for orphaned and abandoned children from the streets of the city. Today, Shalom and Seeds house over 100 children.

"This environment, along with a formal education and invaluable services, provides a brighter future for these children and young adults," noted a spokesperson.

The project began in 1997, when American missionaries living in Suere and a team of volunteers from the United States were working on building a Bible college. During this time, a Bolivian woman with her own story of a troubled childhood was working at the college.

"She could not ignore the harsh conditions the children on the streets were enduring," said the spokesperson. "These 'street children' were common, with many of them living in doorways or cardboard boxes along the side of the road for shelter. They slept with stray animals for warmth and begged for food and money. These children had little or no schooling and very little hope for the future."

She began housing a few girls at her apartment at the Bible College and some boys in one of the unfinished dormitories being built there. Those first 10 children were taken to school, fed, protected, and formed as the first family some of them had ever known.

She and the missionaries combined their efforts to take in more children. They sought help from their friends and volunteers from the Oakland area. Many of these people began raising money to help build a home for the children.

The focus of the mission team quickly changed from various short-term projects to building a long-term, sustainable solution to protect as many children as possible. Meanwhile, the missionaries' local church, along with community members, began asking how they could sponsor a child. A system was established, under local leadership, and sponsorships were initiated.

Shortly after, a property was obtained in Sucre and construction began. The children finally left the Bible College and had a place of their own at Shalom es mi Casa, "Shalom is my Home." That home became a fully functioning facility of homes, where the current 100 children live in families of up to 10 children with adult house parents. A second property was obtained in 2006, and Semillas de Esperanza, "Seeds of Hope," was built to provide more homes for the growing number of children.

Today the missionary team and on-site directors run day-to-day operations in Sucre. The financial support and building projects are still managed by the team in Oakland. Funding for the projects is made up entirely of donations and sponsorships.

Volunteers and friends visit the homes all year round. However, a January work trip has become a tradition. During this time, the team continues construction and upkeep at the homes and celebrates Christmas with the children. The team and the children of Shalom also designate a day during this time to invite people from the street, mostly children, to come to the home and be served a meal.

"The children of Shalom are reminded of their humble beginnings and taught the importance of sharing what they have."

The team worked to finish the wall, which will surround two new homes for the children. Other construction was continued at Esperanza for future administrative offices as well. The team also spent time painting various homes and offices at Shalom, creating a garden, making tables, mending clothing, and making bedsheets. First aid kits were assembled for each home, and a first aid class was taught to the house parents and some of the older children.

As both Shalom and Seeds reach capacity, the team continues to see a great need in Sucre. They have been able to obtain a third property, next to Esperanza, to bring more of these children off the streets. One of the main construction goals of last year's trip was to build a wall around that newest property.

The sale will be held in the Family Life Center building located behind the church. There is ample parking, and the building is air-conditioned and handicapped accessible. Hot food, baked goods, coffee, and soft drinks will be available. Picnic tables are located on site for visitors.

Anyone interested in donating new or used items in good condition may call 301-334-9125 for information. Yard sale goods need to be delivered to the church no later than noon on Wednesday, July 13. Clothing donations must be limited to baby and young children's clothes.

The event provides an opportunity for service learning hours for middle and high school students. Forms and information are available at the church by calling the office at 301-334-2243

ST. JOHN'S ASSISTS FLOOD VICTIMS – St. John's Lutheran Church of Meadow Mountain recently conducted a drive to collect nonperishable food items and cleaning supplies for victims of the recent floods in West Virginia. At least 23 people died in the floods and 1,200 homes were destroyed in several counties. The items collected were all transported to Glade Mennonite Church, where they were then transported to distribution points in West Virginia. Rev. Don Thomas is St. John's interim pastor, assisted by Dave Terlizzi.

Garrett Co. Comcast Subscribers To Have Access To Md. News

Congressman John K. Delaney (Md.-Dist. 6) announced Monday that Comcast Cable subscribers in Garrett County will now have access to Maryland-based news programming.

Starting later this month, local news broadcasts from Baltimore will be available on Xfinity On Demand to Garrett County Comcast Cable subscribers. To date WJZ (CBS) and WMAR (ABC) have agreed to distribute their local programming, via Xfinity.

Additionally, Comcast has offered to promote the online availability of these newscasts through the broadcasters' websites and apps to customers in Garrett County.

The new service comes after Delaney, Sen. George Edwards, and other local elected officials, along with community members, met and consulted with Comcast to offer this news programming to local residents.

Garrett County is designated as part of the Pittsburgh, Pa., television market by the Nielsen Company and the Federal Communications Commission and, therefore, has not received Baltimore programming.

"Maryland residents deserve access to Maryland news, whether they live in Garrett County or on the Eastern Shore," Delaney said. "Garrett County residents have excellent newspaper and radio news, but for too long television has been a missing piece. On Demand access to Maryland television news is an important first step. I'd like to thank Comcast for working with local stations in Balti-

A BOUNTIFUL HARVEST – 'Tis the season for the Earth's bounty to be savored, for sure, as is evidenced each week now at the Mountain Fresh Farmers Market in Oakland and at other fresh food vending sites across Garrett County. The spring and early summer have provided good growing weather this year, and local farmers are at the beginning of a promising season. All are encouraged to buy locally across the county, and to feast on these natural and healthful foods grown right here on the mountaintop. Photo by Lindsay Mulliken.

Tractor-Trailer Accident Kills Kentucky Driver

A Kentucky man lost his life in a tractor-trailer accident along I-68E early Tuesday morning. Maryland State Police troopers responded to the 5:25 a.m. scene.

Troopers arrived at the 17-mile marker to find a 2006 Volvo tractor overturned with a semi-trailer loaded with recycled plastics. The driver was identified as Dewayne Cameron, 37, Louisville, who was pronounced dead at the scene by the Medical Examiner's Office.

The vehicle had reportedly been traveling east, when it traveled off the right side of the roadway and overturned on the shoulder. Cameron was ejected from the vehicle. The tractor-trailer is owned by AMG Logistics, Bolingbrook, Ill.

The eastbound lane was closed for a period of time while the accident was cleaned up.

HOW.MANY* BOXES OF COOKIES DID SHE SELL?? Delaney Rinard was recently honored by the Black Diamond Girl Scout Council for being a top cookie seller. The Junior Girl Scout pounded the pavement to sell an astounding 1,768 boxes of cookies this spring. She was ranked 7th out of the entire council, which encompasses Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, and Virginia. A special celebration was held at the Tygart Lake State Park in Grafton, W.Va., to congratulate the young achievers. Delaney, who is a member of Oakland Troop #55004, is pictured with Beth Casey, the chief executive officer of the Black Diamond Council. Delaney is the daughter of Kendra and Tracy Rinard, Oakland. This is the second time she has been honored for her cookie-selling prowess, having sold more than 1,000 boxes last year.

Man Sentenced To 15 Years For Forgery Charges

A 50-year-old Oakland man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court yesterday to 15 years in the Division of Correction (DOC) for six charges to which he had pleaded guilty in April.

For each of four charges of forgery or issuing false documents, Leslie Allen Bittinger was sentenced to 10 years in the DOC to run concurrently, as well as a concurrent sentence of two years for issuing a forged prescription. For an additional charge of issuing a false document, he was sentenced to five years in the DOC to run consecutively, with all of that sentence suspended. In that case, he will be on five years of probation upon his release from his other sentences. Conditions of probation include paying restitution to 10 businesses which were the victims in all cases in which Bittinger was originally charged.

According to the state's attorney, the charges involving forgery and issuing forged documents were placed in August and September by criminal investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, who responded to complaints from a number of businesses about checks that Bittinger presented to them. The checks were returned to the businesses as being either written on a closed account or written with an account that

Some 200 Attend Film Showing, Panel Presentation On Fracking

Some 200 persons attended the second public showing of the documentary film Fracking Western Maryland? at Garrett 8 Cinemas, Deep Creek Lake, on Saturday. The showing was followed by a panel of activists addressing the question of "What's Next?" in an effort to prohibit fracking for natural gas in Maryland, as a moratorium against the practice is scheduled to expire in October 2017.

The showing of the film was hosted by Friends of Deep Creek Lake (FoDCL), Citizen Shale, the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association, the Chesapeake Citizen Action Network, the Maryland Sierra Club, and the Chesapeake Sustainable Business Council.

. Barbara Beelar, director of FoDCL, opened the panel presentation, noting that within the next 10 months a major decision about the future of Garrett County will be made in Annapolis. She reminded attendees that there are limited avenues – and limited time – for Garrett Countians, part-time residents, and visitors to express their opinions about fracking, noting that there is no binding referendum nor any upcoming election to support a candidate supporting one's view.

The question of "next steps" emerged at the end of the Maryland Department of Environment hearings on that agency's recommendations for regulations on fracking in the state. Most who attended any of the three hearings were of the opinion that the regulations had been "watered down" from the originally proposed regulations formulated by a commission appointed by former governor Martin O'Malley, that they were not strong enough, and that they do not include the necessary compliance and enforcement components to ensure that drilling in Maryland would be safe. The panelists were asked to provide specific recommendation on steps citizens can take to

Federal Telehealth Grant Awarded To Help GC Children

U.S. Senators Ben Cardin and Barbara A. Mikulski (both D-Md.) on Monday announced $300,000 in funding from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) to the Kennedy Krieger Institute's (KKI) KKI-NECT (Network for Early Childhood Telehealth) Program.

KKI-NECT connects rural children in three Maryland counties – Garrett, Worcester, and Dorchester – with screenings and specialty care for social, emotional, and behavioral care through the use of telemedicine.

KKI-NECT will partner with children's local primary care provider and or a school-based health center provider. Kennedy Krieger's Baltimore headquarters will serve children on the Eastern Shore and in western Maryland through satellite sites located in Dorchester, Worcester, and Garrett counties.

In Garrett and Worcester counties, members will be primary care providers within regional hospital networks. In Dorchester County, network members will be nurse practitioner and physician's assistants at school-based wellness centers.

"Your ZIP code should not dictate the quality of healthcare available to your loved ones," said Sen. Cardin, a member of the Senate Committee on Finance Health Care Subcommittee. "Far too many people in Maryland and in rural communities across the country are unable to access the care they need and deserve because of where they live in relation to the location of healthcare specialists. These federal funds will help knock down the boundaries that would, in some cases, prevent young Marylanders from receiving the tools and services they'll

Solar Saturday Event Scheduled In Friendsville

A Solar Saturday event will be held at the Mountain Hollow Health Food Store in Friendsville, 132 Walnut Street, on Saturday, July 23, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. The Friendsville Renewable Energy Effort (FREE) is the sponsor.

The day's activities will include presentations from several "Mountain Maryland" residents who own solar systems on the process of contracting and having photovoltaic (PV) panels installed on a home. At least one solar installer will be present with a PowerPoint presentation on the details involved. There will also be a presentation on the tax incentives offered by the government and Solar Renewable Energy Credits (SRECs) paid to the solar system owner.

There will also be a presentation on energy saving initiatives offered to residents from the Maryland Energy Administration, including a free quick energy audit of a home for Potomac Edison customers.

According to organizers, the goal of Solar Saturday is to encourage local residents to sign up for an estimate on their own solar systems. A large group of individuals signing up will enable a potential contractor to lower his/her price through bulk purchasing.

While the meeting is for all local residents, FREE will only be discussing Maryland installations, as each state

Commissioners Hear Concerns About Proposed Fracking Ban Amendment

"We don't want fracking in the Deep Creek Lake watershed or anywhere else in Garrett County for that matter," was a common message presented to the Garrett County commissioners during a public hearing at Garrett College Tuesday evening.

The commissioners scheduled the event to garner input on a proposed amendment to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance. About 70 people attended the hour-long event.

Commission chair Paul Edwards explained that the watershed ordinance currently permits wellheads and the storage of natural gas and drilling equipment, with a minimum setback of 2,000 feet from the high water elevation line of Deep Creek Lake (measured at 2,462 feet above sea level) and a minimum setback of 1,000 feet from the property line of any lot not owned or leased to the entity responsible for the gas drilling, removal, or storage operation.

The proposed amendment, presented to the commissioners by the Garrett County Planning Commission, would prohibit vertical natural gas drilling/hydraulic fracturing and related surface infrastructure in all nine watershed zones. The amendment was originally proposed by 11 Deep Creek Lake residents/business owners.

"The commissioners will not engage in dialog," commission chair Paul Edwards told the crowd at the beginning of the hearing.

Each person was given three minutes to speak. Twenty people voiced their opinions, with the vast majority of them favoring the amendment's adoption. Two people opposed the idea.

"I was born and raised on this property 78 years ago," said Richard Bernard about home. "This property, most of it, has been in my family for 165 years. We've maintained it and paid the property tax, and the title says we have 12TH BEST IN THE WORLD – Project Kraken, which is the Garrett College robotics team, recently participated in the 15th annual Marine Advanced Technology Education (MATE) Center International Remotely Operated Vehicles (ROV) Competition at the NASA Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas. There were 69 teams representing 16 different countries, with more than 1,200 participants this year. Of the 31 teams in the more advanced Explorer Class, consisting of teams from many major colleges and universities, Project Kraken finished a highly respectable 12th place. This photo was taken when the team was in line awaiting their first product demonstration. From left are coach/mentor Phil Malone and team members Tim Gotsch, Scott Brenneman, Kevin Maust, Jonathan Oester (holding the team's ROV), and Dallas Brenneman. TOTL'S SEASON TO BEGIN WITH MUSICAL – The TOTL Theatre Company is ready to open its 11th season of stage productions at Deep Creek Lake, with its first opening tomorrow night, July 15, at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley. The troupe will present three main-stage shows this summer, opening with an off-Broadway show titled Bingo: The Winning Musical. According to Lynn Broderick, artistic director, this musical recreates the antics of six bingo players whose methods of playing and winning are honed to perfection. The production is appropriate for all ages. It will be given on July 15, 16, 22, and 23, with all shows beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be reserved by calling 304-680-1002 or purchased online at www.totltheatre.org. Pictured seated from left are Elizabeth Nelson, Leah Broderick, and Kiersten White. Standing in the same order are David Kirk and Cassie Hackbart.

NORTHERN ENVIROTHON TEAM EXCELS IN STATE COMPETITION – The Northern High School envirothon team participated in the Maryland State Envirothon Competition at Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg on June 22 and 23. Competing against 15 other top teams from around the state, the local students won first place in the wildlife category and finished fifth overall. The winning score of 96% in wildlife was the highest score earned by any team in any category. Awards are given to the teams earning the five highest overall scores in addition to category honors at the state level. "This team has spent countless hours studying and practicing for the competition, and I am extremely proud of what they have accomplished," said team advisor and NHS science teacher Rebecca Kenyon-Sisler. The annual competition, in its 26th year, challenges students to identify and categorize living resources, perform soil surveys, and solve other complex natural resource issues. The NHS team was selected to advance to the state competition after placing first at the county competition held at the Western Maryland 4-H Center in April. Pictured are the team members with prints titled "Evening Light" and "Loon Sunrise," which were received for placing fifth overall and first in wildlife. Shown from left are senior Garrett Baker and recent graduates Ben Beeman, Kyle Klotz, Kylie Frantz, and Katie Carpenter.

GC Board Of Realtors Releases Second Qtr. Stats

The Garrett County Board of Realtors recently released its second quarter stats on the market recovery in Garrett County. Despite a 50% surge in home sales in April, the market in Garrett County posted an increase of 5.1% for the second quarter according to the board.

Average prices decreased by 0.6% because of a drop of 18.6% in April. Median process declined by 11.2% as compared to the same time period in 2015.

"Clearly the market is still in the state of recovery in terms of prices," said GCBR president Amy Zimmerman. "However, we are encouraged by periods of price appreciation and unit sales. The substantial decreases in active inventory are also a positive sign."

The following is a summary of the Garrett County real estate market in the second quarter: homes sales – 123, up 15%; average sold price – $283,123, down 0.6%; average median sold – $206,400, down 11.2%; sales pending units – 129, down 5.1%; average active inventory – 493, down 14.5%; and average months of inventory – 12.1, down 25.3%.

Monthly housing statistics for Garrett County are compiled by data as reported by Metropolitan Regional Information Systems Inc. (MRIS). For the purpose of this report, "units" are defined as the closed sales and "pending units" are properties under contract. Months of inventory are based on the current active inventory and monthly sales for the corresponding month.

Blaze Damages Two-Car Garage In Grantsville

A dozen members of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department responded to 175 Hill Street at 2:08 p.m. on Monday after fire in a residential two-car garage was spotted by a neighbor, who then called 911.

According to a notice of investigation released by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office, the fire started in the interior attic of the garage and was brought under control in about five minutes following arrival of the Grantsville VFD units. The preliminary cause of the fire has been ruled accidental.

The garage, which is owned by Cynthia Thatcher, sustained an estimated $3,000 in damages, and there was an estimated loss of $1,000 in contents. There were no injuries reported.

Judge Eiswert Hears Variety Of District Court Cases

A number of cases have been processed in Garrett County District Court in Oakland over the past week, with sentences handed down by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert for a variety of offenses.

Jawan Karim Brodie Jr., 23, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of forging private documents.

Brodie was charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after Ofc. D. Lewis responded to First United Bank reporting a possible fraud after the defendant opened an account and deposited $1500.

According to the report, Brodie had forged the check using the victim's name. The charges came four days later when the victim confirmed the check was not authorized. Brodie had made several withdrawals from the account.

Eiswert found Brodie guilty on June 28 and sentenced the defendant to one year in the Garrett County Detention Center, nine months and 29 days of which were suspended. Eiswert also ordered Brodie to two years of unsupervised probation.

Nicholas R. Owens, 24, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree assault.

Owens was charged on May 9 by the GCSO when Ofc. Richard Virts responded to reports of an assault that occurred between two inmates assigned to the work crew.

According to the report, Owens had struck the victim in the leg with a weed eater operating at a high speed, which cut through the victim's jeans.

Witnesses said that the defendant's intentions were not accidental, because Owens was laughing after he clipped the victim.

Eiswert found Owens guilty on June 28 and sentenced the defendant to 60 more days in the GCDC.

Lesa Jean Paugh, 47, Friendsville, held a "not guilty" plea to a charge of second-degree assault.

Paugh was charged by the Maryland State Police on March 11 after Ofc. Rodeheaver responded in reference to a report of an assault.

According to the report, the assault occurred during an altercation between Paugh and the victim while they were both intoxicated. Paugh had struck the victim with a metal baseball bat. The defendant fled the scene after the altercation.

Eiswert ruled a not guilty verdict for the defendant on June 28.

Oakland Police Notify Drivers Of New Traffic Pattern

The Oakland Police Department recently announced a new traffic pattern in downtown Oakland.

Drivers making a right hand turn from Alder Street onto Third Street may no longer turn right on a red light. Turns may only be made when the light is green. This change is to improve pedestrian safety at that intersection.

DUI Checkpoint Slated For Next Week By MSP

The Maryland State Police of the McHenry Barrack will conduct a DUI sobriety checkpoint at an undisclosed location in Garrett County, during the week of July 17 to July 23.

The goal of the checkpoint is to reduce the number of drunken and drugged drivers on Garrett County roadways and to educate the public about the dangers of drunk driving. MSP troopers will be assisted by officers from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and the Maryland State Highway Administration.

"Ban Fracking Now" Event Set By Sierra Club

The Maryland Chapter of the Sierra Club will hold a "Ban Fracking Now" event in Garrett County this Saturday, July 16.

The Fracking Ban Kickoff will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. at Ace's Run Restaurant, Deep Creek Lake, where local advocates will speak about the negative effects of fracking while listeners have coffee.

The speakers will include James R. "Smokey" Stanton, chairman of the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association; Paul Roberts and Nadine Grabania, owners of Deep Creek Cellars and board members of Citizen Shale; Barbara Beelar, representing Friends of Deep Creek Lake (FoDCL); and Josh Tulkin, director of the Maryland Chapter of the Sierra Club.

A boat tour will be hosted by FoDCL from approximately 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A first-hand perspective of what fracking will likely look like in the Friendsville area will be provided at Deep Creek Cellars from 3 to 6 p.m. Participants are invited to take a tour of several potential fracking sites in that area, with the tour followed by a discussion of upcoming action opportunities.

Deep Creek Cellars is located at 177 Frazee Ridge Road, Friendsville.

Persons planning to participate in any of Saturday's events are asked to RSVP at sierraclub.org/DontFrackWesternMD.

Making Matters Worse...

While things are not overly rosy with the Democrat Party and its presidential nominee Hillary Clinton, the Republican Party is truly in a sad state of affairs these days, with the likes of Donald Trump as its nominee for president, a person with whom some of the nation's longtime, most staunch GOP members have major disagreements.

But as the Republicans prepare for next week's convention, it seems that many of the stands they are taking in their platform are simply going to make matters worse for the party in the eyes of the majority of voters.

One of the most controversial (most ridiculous) platform items is that the GOP is going to push for something called "gay conversion therapy," a practice that alleges that homosexuality is a condition that can be "cured," a practice that has been debunked and denounced by all credible medical groups. Several states have banned gay conversion therapy for minors, but the GOP is not ready to accept the consensus among psychologists that this pseudoscience does nothing more than harm the children it purports to cure. Yet, the Republicans want the federal government to have the authority to overrule those states that have already banned the practice for minors. Brilliant.

The Republicans have also decided that they really do want to build the "Trump Wall," a physical barrier that is to "cover the entirety of the southern border and must be sufficient to stop both vehicular and pedestrian traffic." Absurd.

The platform also contains the statement that all coal is now "an abundant, clean, affordable, reliable, domestic energy resource." Granted, the burning of coal for electric power is far less polluting of the air and water than it was several decades ago, but let's face it, this blanket description of coal's "absolute purity" is still inaccurate. These words that are now part of the GOP platform were taken directly from the American Coalition for Clean Coal Electricity website. No big surprise there. (Sounds a lot like the words "fracking is safe," also alleged on a regular basis by the gas industry.)

A call to teach the Bible as literature in the public school system is another slat in the GOP platform, which on the surface seems relatively innocuous since the Bible is indeed a unique set of works that includes a wide variety of literary forms. The problem, of course, is how would an instructor or students absolutely avoid using such a class as a soap box to either promote or demote particular religious beliefs? The moment that occurs, we have a constitutional violation of the separation of church and state.

It will be interesting to see if these radical – some bordering on bizarre – GOP goals, coupled with Trump's own personal extremism, lead to the Democrats securing complete control of both the White House and Congress come November 8. That would be no big surprise.

To the Editor:

In the wake of the recent meeting at Garrett College for the ostensible purpose of allowing public vetting of draft regulations governing Maryland's gestating fracking industry, one is left with an appreciation for authentic, grassroots democracy; an unruly phenomenon, offering emotional, heartfelt discourse, with glimpses of highly informed, incisive, analytical thinking.

This, a macro assessment of the glass half-full. But we're not here to pull our punches, as the despoliation of irreplaceable landscape and resources, in combination with gutted property values attendant upon the onset of a rapacious, destructive industry, are far too consequential to dwell for long on a picaresque exercise in Americana. Sadly and infuriatingly, the meeting served as little more than political theater.

Lest there be any doubt about the intentions of its political and bureaucratic organizers, this surely was dispelled by the events of the previous colloquy in Allegany County, when MDE's "Issue Papers" were released just six hours prior to the start of the meeting. If industry sycophant politicians disrespected their Allegany County constituents in this wise, making a mockery of an informed dialogue, why would their approach to Garrett County residents differ?

In fact it did not. MDE bureaucrats tasked with the professional application of thick lipstick to an industrial, porcine snout, spent the first 40 minutes of a two-hour meeting performing their roles as industry enablers, before turning the mic over to members of the public, who were presumably deeply grateful for their ensuing two minutes at the rostrum. Speakers were enjoined from questioning those on the dais (who seem not to have spent significant time contemplating the meaning of "public servant"), so accountability of any sort was as snow on a hot summer day

Further, MDE representatives, along with the mute politicians in attendance, were at inherent cross purposes with almost all who spoke. MDE's institutional presence was required in the context of that meeting in order to provide professional cover to an industry and its handmaiden politicos determined to exploit when the exploiting's good. Flammable water, earthquakes, and an industrialized Appalachian landscape be damned. Garrett County residents and property owners subscribe to an entirely different set of facts and were under the impression that they had some say in the matter at hand. What a shock to find out a large constituency fails to see itself as a means to an industry's profitable end! The battle is joined.

To the Editor:

The reprint of a front page from the past was a real highlight of history last week! The Republican for July 11, 1940, contained one column summarizing the events of the war, and in that week it told the story of what we now refer to as the "Battle of Britain." The Royal Air Force held off the Nazi air attack in a series of very costly dogfights – but it was enough to get Hitler to go away and fight against Stalin instead.

The events of that period was what Winston Churchill called "their finest hour," and the bravery of the Royal Air Force during the Battle of Britain was subsequently described as "Never have so many owed so much to so few."

In America we think of World War II as starting with Pearl Harbor. The British people had been under Nazi attack considerably earlier, and stood up with great honor and distinction against the world's most powerful war machine at the time.

Tom Sheahen

To the Editor:

As many of our readers (including our elected officials) claim to "not be a scientist," let me provide the following quote:

"Science is a way to teach how something gets to be known, what is not known, to what extent things are known (for nothing is known absolutely), how to handle doubt and uncertainty, what the rules of evidence are, how to think about things so that judgments can be made, how to distinguish truth from fraud, and from show." – Richard Feynman

Now that we have over 1,000 scientific peer-reviewed studies that show unequivocally that the process of hydraulic fracturing (fracking) for natural gas is harmful to public health, our water, air, and soil, where is the debate?

The only debate, it seems, comes from those who would put our health, air, water, and planet at risk to supplement their personal gain. In a word – greed.

Another thought from Dr. Feynman – "Reality must take precedence over public relations, for nature cannot be fooled."

It is time we all tell our commissioners, our senator, our delegate, and, yes, our governor that this is our health, our air, and our land – and that we will not let it be taken from us.

Mike Herdering
Citizen

To the Editor:

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners held a public hearing Tuesday on a zoning amendment related to natural gas production in the Deep Creek Lake watershed.

Billy Bishoff of the Garrett County Farm Bureau was there, opposed to the amendment. I had a question about the Farm Bureau that I just had to ask – Does the bureau provide insurance to cover their farmers from fracking-related damage?

He sat down at the edge of a table, closed his eyes, and said "No."

Aha! So when crops fail, when cows die, when water turns purple, yellow, and green, we farmers are left to pay the price. We're not insured against fracking.

Bishoff moved the conversation to the bureau's membership, that the members wanted to frack their land... but I reminded him of my painful experience of being rejected by the farm bureau, that I never saw any questionnaire regarding our perspectives on hydraulic fracturing. In fact, I only remember my partner and I, as members, being mocked, harassed, and dismissed when we called with our concerns about fracking.

I encouraged Bishoff to ask his membership, of which Who?Ra Farm is no longer a part, if they would still support fracking if they knew that no insurance company will cover damage caused by pollution associated with fracking.

So there it is; they take farmers money to insure them, use it to lobby the state to fracture our communities, and then leave the farmer and their neighbors with the bill to clean up the mess.

Farm bureau members, neighbors, I encourage you to look up your coverage, as I have yet to find any insurance company to cover pollution. Some more specifically will not cover fracking damage. You should contact your agent and ask him/her why.

Kim Alexander

To the Editor:

The "suggested" hydraulic fracking regulations proposed by the Hogan administration embrace the approach to regulation advocated by Delegate Beitzel for the last several years. Delegate Beitzel argues Maryland should have regulations similar to those in West Virginia and Pennsylvania; the regulations should be lenient so drilling companies will drill in Garrett County.

In some cases, the Hogan administration suggests reducing setbacks to protect streams, wetlands, and drinking water wells because Pennsylvania and West Virginia have similarly lenient regulations. In another case, the Hogan administration suggests gutting the Comprehensive Development Plan in order not to "unduly burden applicants" seeking drilling permits.

Unfortunately, Governor Hogan's "suggested" regulations do not comply with mandates in Maryland law that require "The drilling and production of oil and gas should be conducted in a manner that will minimize their effects on the surrounding environment."

In addition, Maryland law requires "... the use of the most environmentally sound drilling and production methods are necessary to prevent adverse environmental consequences that would be detrimental to the general welfare, health, safety, and property interests of the citizens of the state."

The Hogan administration's "suggested" regulations also violate the mission and goals of the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE). Specifically, "MDE's primary customers are the public whom we protect" – not drilling companies.

Also, one of the goals of MDE is "Using science-driven regulation and policy to protect the environment more effectively." No scientific evidence is presented in the MDE white paper to justify the more lenient regulations suggested by Governor Hogan.

If the regulations are not based on science, they do not comply with mandates currently in Maryland law or MDE's mission and goals, and they must be withdrawn and redone in a manner consistent with mandates in Maryland law.

More importantly, why does Delegate Beitzel advocate more lenient regulations favoring drilling companies over his constituents' health and welfare? Is he simply pursuing his own economic self-interest at the expensive of his neighbors? Does he not understand or appreciate the uniqueness of Garrett County?

Delegate Beitzel's approach to regulation confirms Don Sincell's view that our elected officials "are selling us out, and that includes our own senator, especially our own delegate, and, yes, even our fence-riding Garrett County commissioners, all of whom took an oath to keep their constituents safe. How dare you do this to us?" he asks.

Sincerely,
Michael Bell

To the Editor:

Our government officials have provided misleading information and omitted that which would give an unfavorable impression of fracking. My main concern is that government officials will be the stewards of our water. Looking at their track record, I do not want that to happen.

We have a $40 million man-made river. Officials tell us that it is a success while they are trying to dump it. The same officials structured the taxpayer funding in a way that prohibits selling it. They admitted to losing only $2.4 million holding the 2014 canoe championships. They admitted inflating the attendance by including vendors as participants. I thought that they would have included the flock of geese flying over the non-event.

Rocky Gap lost millions of dollars until they introduced gambling. We have inefficient, subsidized windmills dangerously close to residences. Elected state officials voted with the governor against our local board of education citing loyalty to the party. Will they be loyal to Trump's Republican campaign?

State officials have denied independent voters their right to vote for certain local officials. They have allowed two political parties, which have offered the most distrusted candidates for president, to control elections. They have done nothing about people receiving money to preserve agricultural land who cheated. One elected official sought a legal opinion claiming that fracking was not considered industrial development, which would allow him to receive more money from the taxpayers.

Our legislators introduced a bill allowing businesses to sell alcohol on Sunday. After being reviewed by legislators, general assembly staff, and Allegany County officials, the bill passed containing the incorrect license class, which defeated the intent to help those businesses. Time and money were wasted again.

State officials have applauded the transparency of gas companies, but wanted the list of chemicals injected into our water table to be shared only by the gas companies and government officials. That would be the same as a farmer asking a wolf to help the fox guard the hen house.

Sewage overflowing into Deep Creek lake on a regular basis from a system approved by the county, state, and federal governments is a good indication that they are not capable of protecting our water supply. Drilling test wells to see if they pollute our water is absurd. A permanent ban is the only protection from our government. Science says no. Trust says hell no!

mineral rights. And that is what I'm here for tonight. I want my mineral rights above and below the ground, without any regulations on my property."

Billy Bishoff, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau and the Energy and Property Rights Coalition, indicated his groups had no opinion on matters regarding Deep Creek Lake or changing the current setback regulations. Their concerns pertain to the "further reaches" of the watershed, where under Maryland law wellheads would normally be permitted.

"They are permitted under the zoning now," he said. "We feel that they should be permitted in the future, and we are opposed to this action. We feel that if they were not permitted, it would be a taking of a property right without due compensation or reasonable cause, and it would immediately discount the value of the gas on that property."

Bishoff told audience members who oppose drilling that there was a "perfectly equitable and fair way of resolving" the problem.

"Put yourselves together a buying group and go out and purchase from these landowners and buy their gas," Bishoff said. "And you will control it."

He noted that a leasing group in 2008 offered property owners $1,150 an acre, plus a 17 percent royalty.

Oakland resident Paul Naylor said his family owns mineral rights in Garrett County, owns property at Deep Creek Lake, and his wife's family has gas leases in Pennsylvania.

He added that he has experienced first hand the industrial nature of unconventional drilling, fracking, in Greene County, Pa.,

"I was recently on my in-laws' porch, watching all the tanker trucks going up and down the road that used to be just families going home," Nayor said. "It's really an industrial activity, and I don't think it's compatible with a resort economy. I really don't. And it's a one way trip."

Barbara Beelar, Friends of Deep Creek Lake, asked the commissioners to approve the amendment. She noted, however, that disallowing fracking

HOSPITAL UPGRADES TO NEW LABORATORY ANALYZERS – The Garrett Regional Medical Center Laboratory recently upgraded equipment with the purchase of two new Ortho Clinical Vitros 5600 analyzers. "This vital lab equipment does all the chemistry test and immunodiagnostics," said Kathy Greaser, GRMC director of marketing. "That means all of the glucose tests, thyroid, pregnancy test, cardiac, vitamin D, PSA, anemia, diabetes testing, and more can all be processed on this equipment." Pictured is chemistry supervisor Wendy Miller, who uses the new analyzers every day in the processing of blood samples for diagnostic testing. "The Vitros 5600 allows for auto-verifying of normal results and holds abnormal results in a queue for technicians to review and process as appropriate," said Lois Frazee, director of laboratory services. "It also allows for additional testing per slide to be done simultaneously, making the laboratory process more streamlined and efficient." Diagnostic blood tests can identify the warning signs of a developing chronic condition and assist the physician to better tailor the treatment plan to the individual's situation. GRMC statistics show that 380,000 chemistry tests were performed over the last year, a dramatic increase from previous years. "Blood tests are especially important in the prevention and treatment of heart disease, cancer, and diabetes, some of the most common health issues identified in Garrett County," explained Steve Peterson, GRMC vice president and chief information officer. "The Ortho Clinical equipment is state-of-the-art and brings current testing technologies to help the lab run more efficiently and improve patient care." The GRMC Laboratory Department is open for outpatient testing Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.; Saturdays from 7 a.m. until noon; and closed on Sundays and holidays.

Invasive Zebra Mussels Found On Bottom Of Pontoon Boat At DCL

The Deep Creek Lake community recently learned of a close call. A pontoon boat was preparing to launch at Deep Creek Lake State Park on June 4 when "launch stewards, conducting voluntary boat inspections, identified Zebra mussels," according to a Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) press release on June 17. The boat had been last used on the Monongahela River, where zebra mussels are established.

"Through our efforts, we were able to successfully prevent the introduction of an aquatic invasive species into Deep Creek Lake," said DNR secretary Mark Belton. "While we were successful this time, we need for every Marylander to remain attentive and vigilant as they transport themselves, their equipment, and their vessels from one water body to another."

Unlike other aquatic invasive species found in Deep Creek Lake, there is no method to control them once they have been introduced into the lake, so prevention is the key, according to Barbara Beelar, director of Friends of Deep Creek Lake (FoDCL), who added that the DNR is undertaking a multi-year chemical control program for hydrilla, costing $200,000 per annum and a total of at least $1 million.

A meeting was held a couple weeks ago in Annapolis to discuss a plan of action against the zebra mussels, focusing on the legal authority of the DNR to act to prohibit invasive species introduction.

"Zebra mussels are one of the most serious threats to U.S. waterways," said Beelar. "Native to the Caspian Sea, the mussels were brought into the Great Lakes via ballast waters of transoceanic vessels in the mid 1980s. Since then they have rapidly spread and now are in areas surrounding DCL, as shown on a U.S. Geologic Survey map."

Though only thumb nail in size, these mussels establish dense colonies on hard surfaces, with tens of thousands living in just one square yard, said Beelar, adding that the colonization of zebra mussels brings substantial negative impacts of water quality and recreational uses.

According to documents from DNR and the Zebra Mussel Coalition, colonies build up on hard surfaces – boats and motors, docks, buoys, intake valves for water use (such as by the Wisp Resort and Green Glade Golf Course as well as all intake values at the hydro-electric dam). Negative impacts on ecosystems, according to the DNR, include "reductions in plankton, dissolved oxygen, and increases in bacteria and phosphorus which would have negative consequences to resource users and Chesapeake Bay restoration goals." Waterways with zebra mussels will see an increase in blue-green algae and increased phosphorous, with possible dead zones and fish kills.

Beelar said that the zebra mussel is not to be confused with the established freshwater mussel found in some of the lake coves with muddy bottoms.

"These mussels are larger, with patterns running longitudinally,' she said "The zebra mussel is smaller, clusters in intense colonies, and has the distinctive cross-hatched pattern."

Persons who believe they have found a zebra mussel are asked to immediately send a report to DNR at http://dnr2.maryland.gov/Invasives/Pages/zebra_mussels.aspx. Matthew Ashton, the zebra mussel specialist, monitors this site daily.

"This aquatic invasive species is distinct from other aquatic plants already found in Deep Creek Lake," Beelar said at the recent meeting of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association. "Eurasian watermilfoil, hydrilla, and curlyleaf pondweed can be controlled with applications of chemicals. But there is no control program for zebra mussel once this invasive is established in a waterway

"We have to be clear," she continued. "Unlike the other invasives which are already in DCL, prevention is the only option, and we do not have such protect at DCL today. We need a comprehensive prevention program as the only line of defense, and this was the intent of the bill FoDCL introduced into the General Assembly in 2015."

Compared to other states, Maryland lags behind many other states in adoption of aquatic invasive species watercraft inspection and decontamination programs, according to Beelar.

She said that, since 2004, the state has had a law on the books which prohibits introduction of such invasive species into Maryland waterways, but no comprehensive program was developed to implement programs, nor were any funds allocated. There is also no action plan for enforcement by Natural Resources Police.

"With hundreds of miles of waterways in the state, installation of inspection stations does appear to be both daunting and cost-prohibitive," she said, adding that there is also the issue of the delicate balance between vessel owners' private property rights versus the responsibility of the state to protect 'the commons' – the state-owned waterways – with the attorney general finding in 2015 that protection of waterways trumps rights of boat owners.

In 2015, FoDCL introduced a bill into the General Assembly to target prevention of limiting the effort to just the state-owned and managed lakes. The bill draft incorporated model language from watercraft and inspection programs in other states, requiring vessel inspection and cleaning prior to launching and with enforcement and fines for non-compliance. The State Lakes Invasive Species Act became law in 2015.

The draft bill included language from other states, specifying the following prior to launching: "Cleaned vessel and removed all visible organized material, including plants, animals, and mud." The term "mud" was removed, in response to objections from a DCL marina operator.

Julie Bortz, DNR water quality specialist, told the DCLPOA audience, "My concern is that we cannot protect the lake from what we cannot see," noting that the zebra mussel larva is the size of "the period at the end of this sentence," so visual inspection will not detect it.

Until implementation of the law scheduled for April 1, 2017, the launch steward inspection is only voluntary. While the majority of vessel owners have reportedly been cooperative with the visual inspection, a few have refused, and there is no way to stop them launching their boats.

Beelar said that there are other components of the current effort that fall short of standards for the effective, comprehensive prevention effort established in other lakes.

"DNR has decided not to install a cleaning station at the state park, which would enable vessels found to have invasives to be cleaned by trained launch steward staff or volunteers using high-pressure spray washers and water at 104 degrees," said Beelar. "After cleaning, a vessel needs to be drained and dried for five days to ensure that no invasives have survived. There is also no option for cleaning of vessels leaving the infested Deep Creek Lake waters, nor standards and certification for the various marina operators which launch off-lake boats."

The State Park launch ramp is open 24/7 from about April 1 until end of November, or when ice develops on the lake. There is only partial inspection coverage by the launch stewards, who work from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. during the school break, but no coverage is provided once school is back in session.

DNR's Bruce Michael acknowledged that zebra mussels may already have been introduced into the lake, but added that there is an outside chance that the DCL waters do not have composition to support Mussel colonies. DNR took water-quality samples in 2009 and came away with the conclusion that "the risk of zebra mussel invasive is low, based on calcium concentrations... but data are not sufficient to quantify that risk."

The sampling in 2009 was limited to the main stem areas of the lake, and not in the coves – particularly the sediment impacted coves, where water conditions may be more condusive for colonization. Matt Ashton, DNR specialist, emphasized the need for vigilance.

"While conditions in DCL may not be able to support a long-term nuisance level invasion, the lake could serve as a temporary stop for an infested boat before traveling to another more suitable water body," he said.

"This issue is a perfect example of the 'ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure' philosophy," stated Ellen Williams of FoDCL. "The only viable option we have to protect the lake is to prevent introduction of zebra mussels. We hope that DNR and the governor will now make the necessary commitment to supporting a prevention-based approach, providing funding for comprehensive watercraft inspection and decontamination program We have no other option. If zebra mussels become established in the lake, we will lose recreational and economic benefits of this state-owned natural resource."

Man Accused Of Providing CDS, Alcohol To Minor

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Tuesday morning following an investigation into a controlled dangerous substance complaint made received on Saturday.

Cody Lee Latta, 31, was arrested after investigation revealed that he had provided CDS and alcohol to a juvenile. He was charged with CDS distribution and contributing to the condition of a minor.

He was arrested in the lobby of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and taken without incident to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

become better informed and more involved in this debate.

Nadine Grabania, owner of Deep Creek Cellars and co-founder of Citizen Shale, built her recommendations on events highlighted in the film revealing the powerful role of Democrat state senator Joan Carter-Conway, chair of the Senate Education, Health, and Environment Committee. Grabania said that any consideration of a bill on fracking must be considered by this committee before it goes to the floor of the Maryland Senate for a vote. In the past, bills have not made it out of this committee, blocked by Chairman Carter-Conway.

Grabania recommended that the senate speaker Michael Busch (michael.busch@senate.state.md.us) be contacted to urge him to pressure Senator Conway to allow any forthcoming bill to pass out of the committee for consideration by the full senate. After the panel, CS volunteers invited the audience to write postcards to Speaker Busch to urge passage of a ban on fracking. Over 60 postcards were collected.

Steve Green, owner of High Mountain Sports, spoke primarily about his concern that fracking will have an extremely negative impact on tourism, and thus on his business and most other businesses in the county that are heavily dependent upon tourism. He spoke in support of the proposed amendment to the Deep Creek Lake zoning ordinance banning wellheads and other fracking-related surface infrastructure in the DCL watershed, but added that the entire county needs to have similar protection.

"Deep Creek Lake needs protection countywide from fracking," he said. "Tourism will be impacted from fracking beyond the watershed."

James "Smokey" Stanton, chair of the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association, spoke of organizational efforts to support development of comprehensive regulations and compliance to provide protection to the Youghioghgeny River watershed. YRWA members attended the June MDE hearing on the proposed regulations early this month, from which Stanton and his organization came away convinced that the proposed regulations are insufficient to provide protection and the necessary level of enforcement and compliance components. With regret, Stanton stated that he believes the only option left for citizens now is to become involved in efforts to prevent the Maryland General Assembly from passage of a bill to allow fracking.

Two of the panelists covered topics deemed to be of critical importance, but not incorporated into the proposed MDE regulations. Annie Bristow, a former member of O'Malley's Safe Drilling Initiative Commission, noted the failure of the effort in Annapolis to include a requirement for a health study to be done during the fracking moratorium. From a public health perspective, Bristow said that there are scores of studies emerging on a range of negative health impacts from fracking and exposure to the various chemicals used in the process.

Health advocates had urged inclusion of an 8-year moratorium to provide time for health professionals and scientists to assess emerging data to determine the health risks. Instead of the 8-year moratorium, a 2-year moratorium bill was passed and the requirement of a public health study was stripped from the bill.

Bristow told the audience that the MDE regulations do not include this topic either, so the result is that several health advocacy groups are joining the coalition of state organizations working for a ban on fracking.

Beelar focused on the absence of any consideration of the economic impacts – positive or negative – connected with fracking. She said she asked the Governor's Commission in 2011 to provide information on impacts on the county's resort-dependent economy, and in particular on Deep Creek Lake. No such study will be forthcoming from the state, nor is it incorporated in the MDE regulations, Beelar said, adding that this analysis has fallen to the county.

The Shale Gas Advisory Committee appointed by the Garrett County commissioners is currently reviewing a Request for Proposal drafted by an outside consultant. Beelar urged pressure on the county to fast-track this process so the study findings will be available in the next couple of months and open for public review and comment prior to the General Assembly session.

Beelar concluded by asking, "How can the General Assembly pass any bill if we do not know the economic consequences? If there is no study for consideration, we will urge rejection of any bill to allow fracking until it is done."

Don Sincell spoke in his role as a member of the Mtn. Lake Park Town Council. The council four years ago unanimously adopted a ban on fracking within the town limits. He said that this action received nationwide media coverage because of the willingness of a small community to stand up to natural gas companies. Even though such municipal ordinances may ultimately be challenged in court by natural gas companies, Sincell said that passing them is a strong statement against fracking.

Noting that the town of Friendsville also passed a ban on fracking just last week, Sincell said efforts should be made to encourage the town governments of the six remaining municipalities in the county (Kitzmiller, Deer Park, Loch Lynn, Oakland, Accident, and Grantsville) to take a similar step.

Brooke Harper, Maryland outreach coordinator for Chesapeake Citizen Action Network, then spoke about ways for citizens to get their local government involved. She encouraged audience members to use the CCAN Activists tool kit to guide their efforts going forward (http://chesapeakeclimate.org/wp/wp-content/uploads/2016/06/CCAN-Fracking-Activist-Toolkit-Summer-2016.pdfT). The kit provides step-by-step details on how to encourage a town/city to endorse a fracking ban in Maryland, how to contact one's elected officials, sample resolutions, and how to write letters to the editor and submit articles to local newspapers.

As persons left the theater, they were provided with pamphlets titled "What's Next? A Resource Guide for Citizens" listing key decision-makers, how to contact panelists and sponsors to get involved, and email addresses for submitting letters to editors. That listing is also available on the web site friendofdcl.org.

"Beautiful Person" Contest Accepting Nomination Forms

Contest organizers for the 2016 Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person contest are accepting nominations until Friday, Aug. 26. Last year's winner was Chuck Trautwein, a technology teacher for Garrett County Public Schools and robotics team mentor.

"The Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person contest is for those who have enriched the lives of our citizens by their acts of kindness and concern," said spokesperson Carol Riley-Alexander. "Each year we conduct a search for our unsung heroes who selflessly assist those around them. They are volunteers of any age whose acts of goodwill have previously gone unnoticed. These 'Beautiful People' make a difference in Garrett County by donating their time and talent to help those in need."

This is the 30th year for the program, which is hosted each year by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners.

"If you know of someone who continuously contributes their time and talent to enhance the quality of life and community spirit in Garrett County, remember to send in a nomination form so they can be honored at the annual Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person awards presentation," Riley-Alexander said.

Nomination forms are available on the county government's website, www.garrettcounty.org, or by calling Riley-Alexander at 301-334-8970.

"Please remember the award is based on volunteer service only," she stressed.

Farming On The Mountaintop

W. Lantz Selected For Inaugural GOAL Leadership Program

The Maryland farm Bureau (MFB) has announced a new leadership program, Growing Our Agriculture Leaders (GOAL), to recruit and train future county Farm Bureau leaders.

"Meeting and networking with our agriculture leaders across the state and nation is often cited as one factor that led current Farm Bureau leaders to their positions," said Chuck Fry, MFB president. "We are looking forward to seeing how this program will grow these participants into Farm Bureau leaders and Maryland agriculture advocates."

The inaugural GOAL team spent two days, June 14 and 15, touring the Eastern Shore of Maryland to gain a better understanding of agriculture drivers east of the Chesapeake Bay. The team was also able to meet and learn from past and present Farm Bureau leaders and explore the inner workings of MFB.

The first tour stop was Amick Farm Poultry Processing Facility in Hurlock. Here, the team was able to see each step of the poultry process from start to finish in a state-of-the-art facility.

"This is a significant learning experience for our GOAL team because poultry is the number one agriculture commodity in Maryland," noted Fry.

Team members then visited Emily's Produce in Cambridge to learn about what MFB has done for the Jackson family's farm and produce stand. An episode of Maryland Public Television's Maryland Farm & Harvest was being filmed at Emily's Produce at the same time the GOAL team was visiting.

"MFB is a strong supporter of Maryland Farm & Harvest," Fry said.

GOAL team members ended the first day at Layton's Chance Winery in Vienna with tour, dinner, and wine tasting. Layton's Chance is owned and operated by the past Dorchester County Farm Bureau president William Layton, who diversified his grain farm to include a successful vineyard and winery.

On the second day of tours, GOAL members traveled to Horn Point Laboratory Oyster Hatchery in Cambridge, one of the largest hatcheries on the East Coast. In the last decade, the lab has raised and placed 1 billion oysters back into the Chesapeake Bay, according to Fry.

The final stop was at the Maryland Wye Research Farm in Queenstown. MFB vice president John Draper gave the team members a tour of the farm, showing various research projects, such as variety trials, long-term phosphorous draw down, and a sprayer demonstration hosted at the farm from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The next GOAL event was held this week in Washington, D.C. Members visited the American Farm Bureau Federation to learn about important national policy issues and Capitol Hill to meet with Maryland legislators during their last week of session before they go on a summer break.

For more information about the GOAL program, persons can contact Parker Welch at pwelch@mdfarmbureau.com or call 410-922-343426. Information about joining MFB can be found at mdfarmbureau.com.

MFB is a private nonprofit membership organization. It is controlled by its members through the democratic process and is financed by voluntary membership dues. Its strength comes from the active participation of over 36,000 member families who belong to the state's 23 county farm bureaus. For the last 100 year, MFB has served to promote and protect Maryland agriculture and rural life.

Dairy Producers Can Enroll To Protect Milk Production Margins

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) in Maryland announced that dairy producers can now enroll for 2017 coverage in the Margin Protection Program for Dairy (MPP-Dairy). The voluntary program, established by the 2014 Farm Bill, provides financial assistance to participating dairy producers when the margin – the difference between the price of milk and feed costs – falls below the coverage level selected by the producer.

The MPP gives participating dairy producers the flexibility to select coverage levels best suited for their operation. Enrollment began July 1 and will end on Sept. 30 for coverage in calendar year 2017. Participating farmers will remain in the program through 2018 and pay a minimum $100 administrative fee each year. Producers have the option of selecting a different coverage level during open enrollment each year.

USDA has a web tool to help producers determine the level of coverage under the MPP that will provide them with the strongest safety net under a variety of conditions. The online resource, available at www.fsa.usda.gov/mpptool, allows dairy farmers to quickly and easily combine unique operation data and other key variables to calculate their coverage needs based on price projections. Producers can also review historical data or estimate future coverage needs, based on data projections. The secure site can be accessed via computer, Smartphone, or tablet, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

To complete enrollment, producers must make coverage elections during the enrollment period and pay the annual $100 administrative fee that provides basic catastrophic protection that covers 90 percent of milk production at a $4 margin coverage level. For additional premiums, operations can protect 25 to 90 percent of production history with margin coverage levels from $4.50 to $8, in 50-cent increments. Once enrolled, dairy operations are required to participate through 2018 by making coverage elections each year. Producers can mail the appropriate form to the producer's administrative county FSA office, along with applicable fees without necessitating a trip to the local FSA office. If electing higher coverage for 2017, dairy producers can either pay the premium in full at the time of enrollment or pay 100 percent of the premium by Sept. 1, 2017. Premium fees may be paid directly to FSA or producers can work with their milk handlers to remit premiums on their behalf.

Also on July 1, FSA began accepting applications for intergenerational transfers, allowing program participants who added an adult child, grandchild, or spouse to the operation during calendar year 2014 or 2015, or between Jan. 1 and June 30, 2016, to increase production history by the new cows bought into the operation by the new family members. For intergenerational transfers occurring on or after July 1, notification to FSA must be made within 60 days of purchasing the additional cows.

Dairy operations enrolling in the new program must meet conservation compliance provisions and cannot participate in the Livestock Gross Margin Dairy Insurance Program.

More information can be found online at www.fsa.usda.gov/dairy or by visiting a local FSA office.

In Loving Memory of
Of a Very Special HUSBAND
on our anniversary, July 14, 1951
Phillip Wilt Sr.

When God was making husbands as far as I can see, He made a special soul mate especially for me, He made a perfect gentleman, compassionate and kind, With more love and affection than you could ever wish to find, He gave my darling husband a heart of solid goid, He gave me wonderful memories only my heart can hold, He was someone I could talk to that no one can replace, He was someone I could laugh with till tears ran down my face,
Next time we meet will be at Heaven's Door, When I see you standing there i won't cry any more, I will put my arms around you and kiss your smiling face, Then the pieces of my broken heart will fall back into place.

Love and miss you so much.

Garrett Robotics Team Finishes 12th In International ROV Competition

The Garrett College Robotics team, Project Kraken, recently participated in the 15th annual Marine Advanced Technology Education (MATE) Center International Remotely Operated Vehicles (ROV) Competition at the NASA Johnson Space Center's Neutral Buoyancy Lab in Houston, Texas. The competition highlights the role that ROVs play in exploring in inner and outer space, from the Gulf of Mexico to Jupiter's moon Europa.

There were 69 teams representing 16 countries, with more than 1,200 participants in attendance this year. There were 31 teams in the more advanced Explorer Class, which included mostly teams from colleges and universities, and 38 teams for the Ranger Class, which consisted of primarily high school teams.

Project Kraken, from Garrett College, competed in the Explorer Class, and finished #12 overall in the Explorer Class.

Working in partnership with the Marine Technology Society ROV Committee, MATE created the ROV competition as a way to engage students in STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) and expose them to science and technology careers; encourage students to develop and apply technical, teamwork, and problem-solving skills; to provide funds, materials, and technical expertise to support student learning; and to provide the industry with skilled individuals who can fill workforce needs.

The MATE competition challenges K-12, community college, and university students from all over the world to design and build ROVs to tackle missions modeled after scenarios from the ocean workplace. The competition's class structure of beginner, intermediate, and advanced complements the education pipeline by providing students with the opportunity to build upon their skills – and the application of those skills – as they engineer increasingly more complex ROVs for increasingly more complex mission tasks.

For Outer Space Mission to Europa, a few of the missions in this year's competition included the following: connecting the environmental sample processor (ESP) to the power and communications hub, opening the door of the power and communications hub, retrieving the ESP's cable connector from the elevator, and inserting the cable connector into the port on the power and communications hub. For Inner Space Mission-critical equipment recovery, goals included placing four pieces of mission-critical NASA equipment into a collection basket, and returning the collection basket to the surface.

"During the two-day competition, Project Kraken demonstrated great teamwork and problem-solving skills, for which they have been preparing for over the past year," said Phil Malone, the Garrett team's coach/mentor. "They impressed the judges with their excellent performance and team spirit.

"It was great to see this rookie team step up and solve unexpected problems which arose during the competition," Malone continued. "They overcame difficulties which would have stumped a less determined team."

"The trip was not just about competing, but a great experience for learning," said Dr. Qing Yuan, team coordinator. "It was not only a great experience to participate in the competition, it was also a great honor and privilege to be able to compete in the NASA neutral buoyancy lab pool, which is a once-in-a-life time experience. It was very inspiring, eye-opening, and encouraging for the students to interact with other team members from all over the world. We are already looking forward to the 2017 MATE competition in Long Beach, California."

The members of Project Kraken noted their appreciation to the following individuals and organizations: Phil Malone for dedicating his time and expertise to the team and for making it possible to compete at the competition; Garrett College for support and funding; GEARS Inc. (Garrett Engineering and Robotics Society) for sponsorship and support; Wisp Resort, for the team's use of the pool for practice the week prior to the competition while the CARC pool was closed for maintenance; and to all individuals who donated funds to support the Garrett College robotics team.

For more information about the Garrett College team, persons are invited to contact Dr. Qing Yuan at qing.yuan@garrettcollege.edu.

Building Resilience Will Be Topic Of Training Session

Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development is offering a training session titled Building Resilience: How to Find Strength in Times of Change. The session will be instructed by Mark Isabella on Tuesday, Aug. 2, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the McHenry campus of Garrett College.

This interactive session will explore the mindsets and behaviors associated with resilient responses to change. Participants will learn effective, research-based approaches for dealing with challenges and problems; the importance of relationships in managing stress; and strategies for nurturing growth in difficult times.

"Change is relentless, life can be difficult at times, and problems are becoming more complex than ever," said Isabella. "Participants will learn new ways to adapt to survive and thrive in this volatile environment."

Isabella is the owner of Isabella & Associates, a private training, coaching, and consulting company. He is also assistant director for Innovation and Change Leadership with the West Virginia Division of Personnel.

A consultant with 22 years of experience, he specializes in providing active and creative training. He has served clients in the public, private, nonprofit, and educational sectors, working with all levels of staff, from frontline employees to senior executives. He is also a featured guest facilitator for West Virginia University's Mountaineer Leadership Academy.

For more information on this session and/or to register, persons may contact Connie Meyers, director of professional development & contract training at Garrett College, at 301-387-3084 or via email at connie.meyers@garrettcollege.edu.

To Have Access

more to deliver Maryland-based news programming to Garrett County residents. When Sen. Edwards and I brought this issue to their attention on behalf of our constituents, they came to the table and partnered with us on a solution."

"Comcast is proud to have the technology and capacity in place to enable a creative solution for those Garrett County customers who want to view local Baltimore news programming on their televisions via Xfmity On Demand," said Christine Whitaker, senior vice president of the Comcast Keystone Region.

"I would like to thank Congressman Delaney for his efforts to get this important first step in place and to the numerous residents of Garrett County who helped with this effort," Edwards said. "This is a first step in the process, and we need to keep working on this issue to get more access to Maryland television for all of Garrett County."

Grant Awarded

need to succeed later in life. I will continue to work to make sure that every American – and specifically every child – can fully enjoy access to the best healthcare system in the world."

"This federal funding will save money, save time, and save lives," said Sen. Mikulski, vice chairwoman of the Senate Appropriations Committee which funds HHS. "Through innovative rural telehealth programs, we can make healthcare more affordable and more accessible in our communities. Now children and families from rural parts of western Maryland and the Lower Shore will be able to receive specialty treatment from doctors without delay and without facing long commutes. I will continue to fight for federal funding that promotes innovations that create more affordable access to healthcare."

"We are grateful for this opportunity and excited about the ability for teleeducation, consultation, and evaluation for developmental and behavioral disorders to allow us to serve children in the most rural parts of our state," said Mary Leppert, director of the Center for Development and Learning at Kennedy Krieger Institute, and the grant's principal investigator. "The establishment of a telehealth network learning collaborative creates a tremendous opportunity to expand service to more children, ensuring they have the same opportunities as their peers in less remote areas. Due to a shortage of specialists who conduct diagnostic evaluation in rural areas, this initiative will increase the capacity of providers to offer services locally while simultaneously bridging the disconnect between primary care physicians and school-based systems."

The Kennedy Krieger Institute is an internationally recognized institution dedicated to improving the lives of children and young adults with pediatric developmental disabilities and disorders of the brain, spinal cord, and musculoskeletal system, through patient care, special education, research, and professional training.

KKI-NECT will seek to address a shortage of specialists who conduct diagnostic evaluations in rural areas. The use of telemedicine will reduce the distances families must travel to procure services for their children, thereby increasing the number of children receiving services and overall educational outcomes, according to Leppert.

In February, Cardin introduced the Creating Opportunities Now for Necessary and Effective Care Technologies (CONNECT) for Health Act, bipartisan legislation that would expand telehealth services through Medicare, improve care outcomes, make it easier for patients to connect with their health care providers, and help cut costs for patients and providers.

GC Foundation Awards Scholarships

The Garrett College Foundation annually presents scholarships to Garrett College students. Following are the names of some of the scholarship recipients for the 2016-2017 academic year.

Casey Slagle, a current student who resides in Oakland, has been awarded the Garrett College Employee Scholarship and the Hazel Fratz Wright Scholarship. He is pursuing an associate in arts degree in arts and sciences/social and behavioral sciences.

Robin Rihl, a 2016 graduate of the Hawaii Academy of Arts & Science and a resident of Pahoa, Hawaii, has received the Garrett College Foundation Grant. She is an adventure sports management major.

Garrett Owens, a 2016 graduate of Southern High School who resides in Oakland, has been awarded the Wayne G. Kelley Memorial Scholarship and the Hazel Fratz Wright Scholarship. He is working toward an associate of science in engineering degree/electrical engineering

Alexis Sharpless, a 2016 graduate of Southern High School who lives in Kitzmiller, has received the Leah Welling Huber Memorial Scholarship. She is studying nursing.

JASON MICHAEL CARROLL is the headliner for the Western Maryland Truck Show's Saturday night concert on Aug. 27 (pictured above). Other featured bands will be the Ol' Buzzard Band, Corey Hager & the Wild Cards, and Country Express. See story for details.

Tickets On Sale For Truck Show Concert Aug. 27

Tickets for the Western Maryland Truck Show Saturday night concert on Aug. 27 are now on sale.

This year's concert will be headlined by country singer Jason Michael Carroll. The hit-maker from Youngsville, N.C., is gearing up to release his first new album since 2011, featuring the single "Close Enough." He will soon be on a cross-country tour and overseas to perform for the military.

Carroll rose to fame in 2006, releasing his debut album, Waitin' In The Country. The album produced three Top 40 hits, including "Alyssa Lies," "Livin' Our Love Song," and "I Can Sleep When I'm Dead" and went to number one on the U.S. country charts, selling nearly half a million copies.

He has opened for Brooks & Dunn, Trace Adkins, Alan Jackson, and was a featured part of Carrie Underwood and Martina McBride's 2008 tour. He has also performed on Good Morning America, the CMA Music Festival, and on the Grand Ole Opry stage many times.

Local favorites the Ol' Buzzard Band will perform at 7:45 p.m. An ensemble from the hills of western Maryland and Pennsylvania, the members note that their influences range from Hank Williams to Freddie Mercury. The Ol' Buzzard Band has been featured on 100.1The Wolf, 94.1QZk and Morgantown, W.Va.'s, 97.9 WKKW radio.

At 6:45 p.m, Corey Hager & the Wild Cards will take the stage. From Ripley, W.Va., Hager released his debut contemporary country album in 2015, and has performed over 60 high-energy shows, establishing himself as a regional artist. He has opened for country stars, including Sam Hunt, Joe Diffie, Easton Corbin, Chase Bryant, and Sammy Kershaw.

Country Express will open the show at 5:50 p.m.

"With a playlist that spans generations of great classic country songs, this band plays all the hits and will get you warmed up and ready for the rest of the night," a spokesperson said.

The band will also play at the official After Party at the Grantsville American Legion starting at 10 p.m.

Always family-friendly, the 18th annual festival will feature big rig trucks, food and craft vendors, children's activities, and musical entertainment, all taking place at Grantsville Community Park, 174 Miller St., Grantsville.

Other festival events include a big rig Show & Shine all weekend long; lawn mower tractor pulls and a movie under the stars on Friday night; a big rig truck convoy through the scenic Pennsylvania countryside; a children's Power Wheels Derby and candy drop on Saturday; and "Touch-A-Truck" and a worship service on Sunday.

"We are always trying to make our event fun for spectators and participants," said organizer Jim McFarland. "This year, I think we've got a really great concert lineup, and we reduced our ticket prices to only $7 in advance and $10 at the gate to encourage everyone to attend."

All events are free to the public except the concert. Children under 8 will be admitted free, and must be accompanied by an adult.

To purchase tickets and obtain additional information, persons may visit www.westernmarylandtruckshow.com.

Garrett County Arts Council To Host Annual Artist Studio Tour

Visitors will be invited to step inside the studios of a number of local artists to "see where creativity happens," said a Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) spokesperson. The council is sponsoring this annual event, along with the artists taking part, on July 23 and 24. The hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Artists from all corners of Garrett County and the local region will discuss and demonstrate their work, answer questions about their artistic processes. and display their hand-crafted artworks that will be for sale. The studio tour is free and will include more than 30 artists at 11 separate studio locations, as well as the Garrett County Art Council's new, temporary Pop-Up Gallery Shop in McHenry.

"The Artist Studio Tour is a great opportunity to learn about the artists' creative processes, the tools and materials they use, and the paths they followed to become artists," said Joan Lyon, GCAC president.

The tour will feature a broad variety of original art work, including drawing, collage, and paintings in acrylic, oil and watercolor; fused art glass; metalwork; weaving; woodcrafts and turnings; jewelry; photography; and pottery.

The historic studios of the resident artists at Spruce Forest Artisan Village in the Grantsville Arts and Entertainment District will be open. Demonstrations and artwork there on display will include metal sculptures by Mike Edelman, weavings by Ann Jones, wood turnings by Gene Gillespie, wheel-thrown functional pottery by Lynn Lais, metal jewelry by Doug Salmon, and bird carvings by Gary Yoder. Several guest artists will also be onsite that weekend.

In Bittinger, the Loft Shop, owned and operated by Alan and Sue Arnson, will present woodwork and turnings by Alan and paintings and mixed media by Sue. Also featured will be the nature and landscape photography of Bob Carney, and pottery by Josh Brown.

Located in Swanton is glass artist Julie Turrentine's Snowbird Creations Glass Studio. Her creations include garden glass sculptures, centerpiece bowls, and signature jewelry pieces. Along Ezra Savage Road, just off Turkey Neck Road, Mary Lou Bauer's studio will feature transparent watercolors from her current show, Living with Color. Nearby is Appalachian Studio of watercolor artist Robert Yonke. His subjects include sailing, the mountains, local wildlife, and landscapes. His paintings on both paper and canvas will be available.

At Vision Quest Studios in Friendsville, the work of photographer Crede Calhoun will be on display. His renowned nature photography has been published on the covers and pages of numerous outdoor and nature magazines. A few miles away is Bear Creek Studios, home of woodworker Jeff Lyon and potter Joan Lyon. Guest artists there will include Connie Pardini of Wirestorm Creations with her sterling silver and copper jewelry, ornaments, and wind chimes; and painter Barbara Bednarzik, who creates works with watercolor and a variety of mixed media and natural materials.

Along North Ridge Road in McHenry, fabric artist Joan Chaney will showcase her hand-crafted quilts, wall hangings, and table runners. Neighboring, Deep Creek Pottery, located along Laurel Ridge, will feature a wide range of functional pottery and ceramic art by hosts Ron and Lorie Skidmore. Guest artists at this location will include Marcia Warnick with her 4Wheels Photography, Brenda Caldwell with steampunk jewelry and "whimsydoodles," mixed media and paintings by Maggie Pratt, and Amy Umbel with her Fiddlehead Woodworking pieces.

Four Storm Artists Gallery near Swallow Falls State Park will feature the nature and landscape photography of Caroline Blizzard from Hawk's Flight Studio, the outdoor and nature photography of Neal Blizzard from Ruddy Duck Studio, and original jewelry designs in sterling silver and natural gemstones from Karina Stonesifer's studio Bird Dog Jewelry. The gallery also represents the works of more than 20 artists from around the county. Nearby along Swallow Falls Road, acrylic painter Sharon Elsey will showcase her work that includes pastoral landscapes and whitewater sports scenes.

The Artist Studio Tour is free. The 2016 Studio Tour booklet and map is available at a number of area locations, including the Pop-Up Gallery Shop at 25227 Garrett Highway in McHenry, the Garrett County Visitors Center in McHenry, Ruth Enlow libraries, and various businesses throughout the area. There will also be yellow directional signage along the tour route to guide drivers to the sites. Visitors can start anywhere on the tour and follow the route in any order.

Persons may also download a copy of the booklet at www.garrettarts.org.

NEXT TO PERFORM AT THE LITTLE YOUGH SUMMER MUSIC FESTIVAL will be the Way Down Wanderers, who will take the stage this Friday, July 15, at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. Described by one critic as "equal parts fast-paced and soulful," this five-piece modern-folk Americana act "draws In listeners with energy, originality, and soulful generosity." The Wanderers have built an enthusiastic and fast-growing following across the country, earning Deli Magazine's Readers Choice title of "Chicago's Best Emerging Artist, 2014." "Youthful and professionally trained, these young men captivate audiences with soaring instrumentals, foot stomping sing-alongs, and a lively stage show and have created a buzz for themselves with their unplugged, off-stage encores, and propensity for performing self-titled 'rest-stomps' – free acoustic sets at rest and truck stops along their tour routes," another reviewer noted. Admission to the performance is free, but donations are accepted to help defray the cost of festival. Food vendors will available to attendees beginning at 6 p.m.

Home is Where the Heart Is

by Hannah Lease

Garrett County is a place where all seasons are best friends and where long-lasting relationships have begun. This county rests in the countryside of Western Maryland and next door to Backbone Mountain. In this area, spring comes with peace and joy, full of tears and laughter as the flowers bloom and the Earth is lush with green, pink, yellow, and blue from the grass, carnations, lilies, tulips, the heavenly sky and the Easter eggs that the friendly Easter Bunny brings. For Garrett County is growing with color.

Summer is welcomed by school children, since school is over and the fun has begun. Pool parties and yard sales fill the countryside with excitement. Even our neighbors, the Amish, participate in activities. We all, in friendly competition, bring our animals, tractors, jams, and such to the Garrett County Agricultural Fair, which draws people from all over, so we can make friends from different walks of life. It is a time of fellowship, food, and fun.

Fall is the season when art galleries, orchards, and bakeries describe the variety of smells, sights, and sounds that this season brings. The Buckwheat Festival and the Autumn Glory Festival draw people from far and wide to see the wonders of God's creation and the things man has discovered or made. Carnival rides, live music, and parades are ways to build bridges between cultures and different people. Churches in the area sell warm turkey dinners after the Grand Finale Parade on Saturday.

Winter brings activities such as Christmas caroling, the Winterfest Ice Sculpting, the Wisp Resort's winter sports, and coffee and hot chocolate sales, which may include doughnuts and pastries. People will gather around Christmas trees, fireplaces, and dining tables to play games and swap stories of the good ole' days and really bond together. Holidays like Christmas, New Year's, and Valentine's Day are welcomed eagerly, so people can enrich old friendships and relationships. Christmas is really special to me, because Jesus Christ was born on Christmas, to be our best friend. Also, the Annual Dunk brings people and the cold water of Deep Creek Lake together at the same time.

The seasons that come to my home town are not ordinary, but extraordinary. But, without people who care about each other and who join together in times of joy and sorrow, Garrett County wouldn't be so special. This area has been blessed with the power of unity, because this area has seen its share of new relationships birthing, old ones being refreshed, and broken ones being healed. Of any friendships I have ever been in, they have started here, in the tri-state, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia area. This is our home, where forever our hearts will find rest and their share of brokenness and healing. Home is Where the Heart Is and my heart belongs here, where I feel the love and majesticness of Garrett County, my home.

Community Action "Icon" Pam Nelson To Retire September 1

by Glenn Tolbert

To many she's an icon in the social services world of Garrett County. She oversaw complete services for those who needed it. These services included transportation, education, and daily delivery of meals. For 38 years she worked in a variety of capacities at the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC) agency for the betterment of Garrett Countians who needed her the most.

"It doesn't seem real that I am retiring September 1st," said Pam Nelson, whose most recent position has been vice president of community services and family development for GCCAC. "This agency has been a major part of my life. I started here as a supervisor for the VISTA [Volunteers in Service to America] program. In that job I was an assistant planner, basically writing grants.

"One of the biggest changes that occurred at GCCAC was in 1984 when we incorporated the Area Agency on Aging and Garrett Transit Service," she continued. "We also added energy assistance programs."

Through the years, Pam has overseen the continually expanding client base, trying to help people from Garrett County's most vulnerable population.

"I will miss the challenges and the fact that there is always something on the horizon," she said, "something out there that may make people's lives better. I will also miss the energy of this agency. We work with a whole range of county residents, from helping the elderly to helping people buy their first homes. That's pretty major."

As with most careers, Pam said that there were many moments of joy coupled with times of disappointment.

"Most days when I got home I felt like I had accomplished something, and I planned for the next day's activities," she said. "Some days things did not go as expected, and you always had to look for ways to make things better; because if you didn't, you were stuck."

Kudos to Pam Nelson come from one of her directors, Pamela Hageman, director of the Agency on Aging.

"Pam has supported me in bringing together my education in aging issues and direct service experience to create foundation for Aging and Nutrition services," she said. "With the many changes to programs, staffing, and funding, I have relied on Pam's knowledge and insight to help with transitions and new directions. She is a calm and reasoned voice in delicate or difficult situations; I will miss the opportunity to 'run things by her.' I have yet to find a topic or issue about which Pam has not been able to provide experience and wisdom."

Pam and her husband John, who is the retired county director of planning and land management, have two children – a married daughter, Lauren, who is a teacher in San Diego and the mother of a 10-month-old daughter; and son Michael, who is a Ph.D. chemist in Montgomery County.

Michael was married just last month in a ceremony at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland, at which Pam slipped and fell on stairs at the church and sustained a seriously broken arm. But she handled the accident much like she would have any other crisis at work, promptly undergoing surgery at Garrett Regional Medical Center and still making it to the wedding reception in time to dance with her newlywed son.

"Pam has given her whole career to Community Action and its purpose," said longtime GCCAC director Duane Yoder. "She has contributed more than anyone anywhere to Community Action's mission of improving the economic security and quality of life for low- and moderate-income persons in Garrett County, and as such helped make us a model in work we do around two-generation and community-development services.

"What makes Pam unique is her dedication combined with a quiet demeanor that enabled her to ride out numerous storms for over 38 years," Yoder continued. "She leaves a legacy and a path that will be a part of Garrett County for a very long time."

NOT EVEN A SHATTERED ARM sustained during the wedding of her only son Michael could keep Pam Nelson away from the reception, as she "quickly" underwent surgery at Garrett Regional Medical Center and arrived at the event in time to dance with the groom. Pam persevered in similar fashion throughout her nearly 4-decade career with Garrett County Community Action inc., from which she will retire Sept. 1.

Md. Heritage Area Grants Awarded To Garrett Co. Projects

Maryland Heritage Areas Authority (MHAA), a state heritage organization, recently awarded 52 matching grants totaling nearly $2.7 million to Maryland nonprofit organizations, local jurisdictions, and tourism groups. The Mountain Maryland Gateway to the West Heritage Area received a total award of $229,598.

The grants fund historic preservation, natural resource protection, and educational programs in 13 state-designated Heritage Areas. By supporting capital projects and educational activities, the grants are designed to spawn renewed interest in Maryland culture from residents and visitors, boosting tourism-related jobs.

"We had such a variety of great applications from throughout our heritage area this year, and we are so pleased to have five projects awarded in another round of tough competition," said Jen Durben, Mountain Maryland Gateway to the West Heritage Area and groups director. "These grants will allow the recipients to create new resources and expand awareness of heritage here in Garrett County."

The Mountain Maryland Gateway to the West Heritage Area submitted seven grant applications, with five of those projects receiving funds, Durben noted. They are as follows:

• Town of Friendsville ($14,279) – The Friendsville Interactive Historical Walking Tour & Historical Tour Website.

• Garrett County government ($80,000) – The Meadow Mountain Trail, Heritage Phase.

• Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Forest Service ($20,079) – Visitation and economics of recreation/tourism in western Maryland state forests.

• Mountain Maryland Gateway to the West Heritage Area ($100,000) – Management grant for management services of the certified Heritage Area with a goal to promote heritage tourism.

• Mountain Maryland Gateway to the West Heritage Area ($15,240) – Marketing grant for brand awareness marketing campaigns and milestone celebration events.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is the official management entity for the Mountain Maryland Gateway to the West Heritage Area and also serves as the destination marketing organization for the county.

The local Heritage Area and groups director administers the program and works with stakeholders by offering technical and grant assistance for heritage related initiatives that preserve heritage resources and enhance tourism in the county.

Hear Concerns

within the watershed alone will not protect the lake. Since the proposed amendment is not a subsurface ban, horizontal drilling from wellheads outside the watershed could still go under the Deep Creek Lake area and cause harm.

"Therefore, we are still vulnerable, because this is only land use," Beelar said about the proposed amendment. "It is not subsurface."

Deep Creek Lake resident/business owner Steve Green said he was recently asked why he is so passionately against fracking.

"The answer is," he said, "Everything I value in my life is threatened – my family, my health, my fitness, and my business."

Green said the amendment must be passed, but similar protection is needed in all areas of the county, not just the Deep Creek watershed.

"This is a good step, but we need to go further with that," he said about the proposal.

Retired engineer Pete Versteegen of Deep Creek Lake said he also has property rights: The right to breathe clean air and use clean water.

"In my opinion, a small accident with fracking would severely reduce the visitor industry in our area," he said.

Versteegen said he was against any kind of fracking in Deep Creek watershed.

"But even more so, I want to see a ban for all of Garrett County," he added.

Others concurred, stressing that countywide zoning is needed to accomplish that goal. Councilman Jess Whittemore noted that Friendsville recently passed a fracking ban, but that will not be enough to protect his town and its water sources once the statewide moratorium is lifted next year.

"Friendsville needs the commissioners' help," Whittemore said. "Protect everyone in the county, not just the most wealthiest properties; initiate the process of adopting countywide zoning; and stop this selfish, greedy land and horrible destructive use of our property. Help the people of Friendsville."

"Our organization favors a statewide [fracking] ban," said Citizen Shale representative Paul Roberts. "A statewide ban would protect everyone equally."

In lieu of a total ban, he indicated, zoning is needed.

"Zoning is not a dirty word," Michael Ahern said. "I understand the need to protect one's individual liberties. However, it's also intended to protect the general population from adverse health consequences, environmental consequences."

He stressed that the commissioners needed to do more than just approve the amendment; they should to "go back to the drawing board" and figure out a way to protect the entire county.

Frank Shap, former assistant director of the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, also urged the commissioners to approve the amendment.

"I think it makes sense," he said. "I think it s been well documented by the petitioners."

He noted that he has had the pleasure of working with all three of the current commissioners

"These are all good people," Shap said. "They know what they're doing. They're smart. And I know in their heart of hearts that they want to do the right thing for the county."

He pointed out that Commissioner Jim Hinebaugh, a former Garrett County Department of Economic Development director, came up with the idea of a county scholarship program, "single-handedly" attracted ClosetMaid to the county, and supported Beitzel and Pillar Innovations to attract and produce equipment, processes, and systems for the energy industry.

"Sure, they're a provider to the shale gas industry," Shap said about Beitzel and Pillar, "but they have the resources, if directed appropriately, to look at sustainable or renewable energies in the future, which is really where the future is."

He encouraged the commissioners to look at what could be done "from a positive standpoint," based on the county's track record.

"Garrett County has a superb reputation in the state and the region," Shap told the commissioners. "We should not throw it all away by making a mistake on fracking, and I ask you to really consider that strongly."

The commissioners will accept written comments on the amendment until Friday, Aug. 12, Edwards said at the end of the hearing.

Hot Stove Playoffs Feature Lakeview Auto, Grantsville

The Hot Stove Baseball League concluded its regular season earlier in the week, and two Garrett county teams made it into the Hot Stove League Playoffs.

Lakeview Auto (19-0-1) finished the regular season undefeated and topped the National League West division. Grantsville Sons of the American Legion (13-7) advanced out of the American League East division.

Each team began a best-of-three series on Monday in the first round of the playoffs.

Lakeview Splits Keyser, Rubber Match On Friday

Lakeview used a late offensive surge to edge Keyser 8-6 in the first game of the best-of-three playoff series on Monday at Rick Hamilton Field.

Both teams traded runs in the first inning before Lakeview took a 3-1 lead in the bottom of the second.

Keyser responded in the top of the fourth inning with a run to close the gap, but Lakeview responded with a run of its own.

Then, undefeated Lakeview was put on the ropes when upset-minded Keyser knocked in three runs to take a 5-4 lead in the top of the fifth.

However, Lakeview's offense helped swing the momentum in its favor with a four-run spot in the bottom of the fifth to take a crucial 8-5 lead.

Keyser kept battling with a run in the top of the final inning, but Elliott Schilpp put the rally to rest and got the save.

Peyton Carr blasted a triple and single for an RBI, Carsyn King added a double and two RBIs, and Ryan Harvey rounded out Lakeview's attack with an RBI-single.

Lakeview suffered its first loss of the season in game two as Keyser took control early and evened the series with a 12-4 win yesterday at Rick Hamilton Field.

Keyser started the game by stunning Lakeview with five runs in the bottom of the first and followed up with two more in the second to take a quick 7-0 lead.

Lakeview tried to crawl back into the game with a run in the top of the third, but the effort was cancelled out by a Keyser run in the bottom of the inning.

Trailing 8-1, Lakeview grabbed two runs in the top of the fourth and proceeded to hold Keyser scoreless in the bottom half of the inning.

However, Lakeview was unable to capitalize on its newfound momentum as Keyser added an insurance run in the fifth to make it 9-3.

Lakeview managed to score one more run in the sixth, but the gap proved to be insurmountable once Keyser brought in the final three runs of the game in the bottom of the sixth.

Eli Eggleston led Lakeview's seven-hit effort with two doubles.

Lakeview (20-1-1) and Keyser (14-6-1) will meet in the playoff series' rubber match tomorrow evening at the Hot Stove Complex at 5:30 p.m.

Hot Stove Baseball League Finishes Regular Season

Lakeview Blasts Kiwanis, Finishes Regular Season With Undefeated Record

Lakeview Auto finished its regular season campaign with a league-best 19-0-1 record after defeating Kiwanis 13-0 last Thursday evening.

The game was never in doubt from the beginning when Lakeview strung together eight runs in the bottom of the first inning.

Lakeview added a run in each of the second and third innings before scoring three more in the fourth.

Peyton Carr closed out the season with another win on the mound, holding Kiwanis to just two hits in his six-strikeout, complete-game effort.

Jake Rush hit a double and a single and tallied two RBIs. Ryan Harvey also brought in two runs off a single.

Lakeview cruised into the playoffs with its undefeated record, winning the National League West division.

Grantsville SAL Crushes Flintstone, Enters Playoffs

Grantsville Sons of the American Legion enjoyed a playoff-sealing, 13-1 win over Flintstone at Memorial Field, headlined by Sam Beeman's seven strikeouts.

Grantsville landed the first blow in the second inning by scoring four runs. The gap widened to 6-0 after the team scored two more in the top of the fourth.

The lead would extend to 8-0 in the top of the fifth before Flintstone grabbed its only run in the bottom of the inning to make it 8-1.

Grantsville proceeded to counter Flintstone's run with five of its own in the top of the sixth to put the game to rest.

Beeman, credited as the winning pitcher, contributed on the offensive side as well by driving in two runs off a triple and double.

Garrett Emory and Landon Broadwater both followed suit by knotting a pair of singles and two RBIs.

Madigan's Splits With Cresaptown, Grantsville, Misses Playoff Berth

Despite splitting its final two games, Madigan's Auto Sales fell just short of a playoff berth and finished the regular season with a 12-7-1 record.

Madigan's could only muster up one hit in the season's penultimate game as the team fell to the Cresaptown Eagles 11-2 at the Hot Stove Complex at the Allegany County Fairgrounds.

Cresaptown scored first with a couple runs in the bottom of the second and added a run in the third to take a 3-0 lead.

Madigan's answered in the top of the fourth with two runs of its own, but the 3-2 deficit would be the closest the team would come as the Eagles responded with three runs in the bottom of the inning.

The Eagles soared to an 11-2 lead after knocking in four runs in the fifth and one in the sixth to end the game's scoring.

Cresaptown (16-2) took home the American League East division title and made it into the playoffs.

Madigan's ended the season on a high note with a 16-2 win over Grantsville SAL to wrap up the regular season.

Madigan's scored early and often with five runs in the first, two in the second, and three in the third to take a quick 10-0 lead.

Grantsville couldn't string together a rally as Madigan's put the game away for good by scoring six more runs in the fourth.

Trent Tasker and Isaac Bittinger led Madigan's at the plate with three hits apiece, and Marshall Smith accounted for two singles.

Brandon Lucas only allowed one hit and threw two strikeouts in the five-inning game.

Grantsville's lone hit came off a single from Carter Stakem.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

RIGHT ON THE NOSE!
by Dan Muss

Well, my sciatica was taken care of with a course of Prednisone, but now I'm grounded with a chest infection; my breathing sounds like a freight train. So, again, I'm depending on reports from the other racers. Here's Larry Anderson's account of his encounter on Saturday with... himself:

"Usually it's the crew who comes back bruised from a hard day's racing. (Many a crew has had to explain to the physician that, 'no, I don't have a spouse abuse issue.') The wind was high, the spray was flying, and uncleating the mainsheet to release pressure on the mainsail was a priority. The line was wet – my sailing glove was wet – and the cleat didn't let go. Instead, my hand let go, and my closed fist swung from the elbow straight into the bridge of my nose! At first I thought we would have to retire from the race, but the sharp initial pain subsided quickly. Maybe like a baseball player who gets hit by a pitch, we wanted to stay in the game. So now there's a little cut where the sunglasses dug in, and some soreness. But I'll live to sail another day.

"With last month's 'death roll' still freshly in mind, we did not fly the spinnaker and sailed pretty conservatively in the 15-ish knot winds. We rounded the final mark number five of five, trailing Gregory, Kemp, Meehan, and Silverman. As the final leg developed, Silverman fouled Meehan and had to take his penalty turns. Meehan was covering us, but did not tack right away to continue the cover when we tacked to port. We kept getting lifted on the new tack toward the finish, and edged him out for a 'sorely' deserved third place.

"On Sunday we were on the committee boat along with the Silvermans and a new recruit, Monica. With winds nearly as strong as those on Saturday, Meehan and other Masters on the ill and injured list, Gregory had no one to race against in the Masters, so he switched to the Silver Fleet in order to have competitors.

"As the winds developed, the TWL (triangle-windward-leeward) course meant for a meaningful reaching leg, which we don't see too often. There was plenty of planing going on as the boats sped downwind under spinnaker on the reach. Ray Gauthier (skippering) and Joni Palmer beat Harry Carpenter and Melanie Dunham by a couple of boat lengths in the Gold Fleet. The real excitement at the Gold finish was the competition between seventh and eighth place. Josh Bullock in FS 160 tacked onto starboard in front of Charles and Sarah Buffington in FS 5947 at the starboard end of the finish line to finish sixth. The Buffingtons (on port) lost speed toward the finish. In that instant, Bruce Spinnenweber and Susan Wolffe came screaming toward the finish (also on port) close to the committee boat end of the line. The Spinnenweber boat obscured the view of the Buffingtons' finish. Monica (the new recruit!) captured all this on cell phone video, and the outcome is being reviewed by the official scorer at this writing. We, on reflection, believe it was a tie. We'll see what New York has to say."

Mark Schaeffer had this to report from the Gold Fleet:

"On Saturday, building winds and cool temperature set the stage for a great day of racing. The Coraors were PRO for the day, and they set a nice windward, leeward course out of Bull Run.

"After checking the line, we decided that the pin end was the best place to start. I clocked the line at 45 seconds. We found ourselves at the committee boat end of the line with one minute until the start... perfect. We gathered speed and ran down the line bobbing and weaving to avoid all the other boats. When the gun sounded, we shot out of the line like a cannon. With a full head of steam, we rounded the first mark in the lead with Carpenter and Wolffe close behind.

"On the downwind leg, Carpenter passed us, and we were second at the mark. We maintained second through the next leg, but Wolffe was hot on our heels. I felt like an outlaw being tracked down by the posse! Well, the sheriff got his man on the next leg, and I was now in a respectable third.

"Crossing the finish, Lee Coraor hesitated in calling out my number. He then said '5807, the Blind Squirrel.' Louise looked at me quizzically. I said, 'Even a blind squirrel gets a nut every once in a while.'"

And Greg Shaffer filed this exciting report:

"On Saturday the Silver Fleet was into its pre-start gyrations, with wind shifts so strong at times that it was difficult to even cross the start line on starboard tack. As the starting gun sounded, most boats were following the lead of the Gold Fleet and starting at the boat end of the line on starboard tack. I had chosen to start at the pin end of the line on the opposite tack and found myself with an almost immediate sizeable lead. This was not due to some genius insight on my part, but because my wife/crew wanted to be as far as possible from the other boats in the gusty conditions.

"Thomas Yonke and his dad, Eric, had wisely chosen to bring along a third person, and they managed to round the windward mark in the lead. As we rounded the windward mark, I looked down to check the spinnaker that we normally raise at this point and it wasn't there. I remembered that I'd promised to leave the spinnaker on shore in order to cajole my wife into sailing in the conditions that were beyond her comfort level. Fortunately, the wind didn't remain square to the course, reducing the handicap for sailing without the spinnaker.

"The second race of the day was then cancelled because the winds were too high.

"Good conditions were again forecast for Sunday's race. PRO Larry Anderson had been out early and set up the course for a triangle-windward-leeward race. With the higher winds keeping many of the powerboaters home sipping coffee, Larry was able to set the course farther north on the lake, in an area not sailed very often. The higher winds kept some sailors away, but two Laser sailors made it out to test themselves. As the countdown to the Silver Fleet start was winding down, somehow three boats tried to occupy the same space at the same time. This somewhat jammed up the rest of the fleet as they were charging for the start line. The offending sailor dutifully did his turns of 720 degrees to exonerate himself for offense, and the fleet was off.

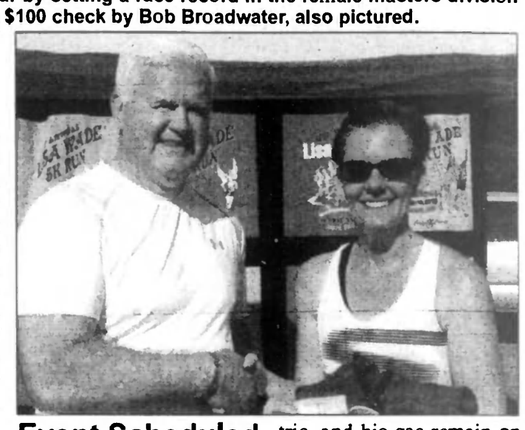
THE FASTEST FINISHERS In the annual Lisa Wade 5-K Run held Saturday In Westernport were Woody Snowberger of Ridgeley, W.Va., above left, who recorded the best time of the day (17:02), and Jordon Hamrick of Bruceton Mills, above right, who was not only the fastest female finisher (17:55), but also the overall second fastest runner. In the photo below is Heather Parks, who claimed the Broadwater bounty for the second consecutive year by setting a race record in the female masters division (40+). She was presented a $100 check by Bob Broadwater, also pictured.



Snowberger And Hamrick Fastest Wade 5K Runners

Some 125 runners and over 100 walkers participated in the 16th annual Lisa Wade 5-K/1.5-Mile Fun Run/Walk and the ninth annual Corey's Course, held Saturday in Westernport. Leading all runners in the 5-K was 32-year-old Woody Snowberger of Ridgeley, W.Va., who recorded the fastest time of the day at 17 minutes, 2 seconds – a course record.

Placing second and the fastest female in the event was Jordon Hamrick of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., who finished in 17:55, followed by Shane Ickes of Keyser, W.Va., in 19:09.

The Female Masters division (40 years of age and over) was won by Heather Parks, who recorded the fourth best time of the day at 19:33, breaking her own record that she set last year.

Placing fifth overall was the Male Masters winner, Ron Hamrick, also of Bruceton Mills, with a time of 19:43.

Rounding out the top 20 finishers in the 5-K were the following: Zach Warnick, 16, Oakland, 19:50; Danielle Hayes, 19, Berkeley Springs, W.Va., 20:13; Benjamin Ridgel, 15, Keyser, 20:34; John Littley, 17 Frostburg, 20:38; Drew Helbig, 14, Oakland, 20:50; Randall Arnold, 27, Keyser, 21:04; Caleb Barclay, 16, Grantsville, 21:11; Kyle Klotz, 18, Oakland, 21:23; Drew Gilbert, 26, New Creek, W.Va., 21:33; Kevin Wallizer, 38, Winchester, Va., 21:34; Ricky Cook, 31, Wiley Ford, W.Va., 21:34; Kevin Cuozao, 41, McHenry, 21:48; Nathan Roelofs, 22, 22:05; Corey Winter, 16, Cresaptown, 22:05; and Larry Ferrens, 62, LaVale, 22:21.

The race is held in memory of the late Lisa Wade of Swanton. The race is coordinated/managed by the Georges Creek Soccer Club under the direction of Steve Amann and the timing services of the Queen City Striders.

It will cost nothing to sign up and estimates will be provided free of charge. Light refreshments will be offered.

FREE was formed in early 2015, with the goal of making the town of Friendsville energy independent. Several different ways of producing renewable energy have been researched by the committee, including solar, wind, hydro, and bio-gas.

"While wind, hydro-electric, and bio-gas remain on the to-do list, our committee has determined that the easiest and least intensive electrical generation available to the general public will be that generated by solar photo voltaic panels," stated a FREE spokesperson.

He added that the cost of solar is decreasing and that Garrett County has several solar projects planned or actually being constructed now. Though cloud cover is frequent in Garrett County, solar panels still produce well in this location, he said, adding that Germany has about the same number of peak solar hours per day as Alaska, but that country still produces about 50% of the solar power produced in the world today.

A larger solar installation is also planned by FREE to supply the municipal needs of Friendsville, including street lighting, and electricity for

The national convention of the Crittenton rescue work, now in session at Mt. Lake Park, proves to be one of unusual interest. Mr. Crittenton has established fifty-one rescue homes and industrial missions from each home. They had one of the best meetings of the season to begin with on Tuesday night. Messrs. Crittenton, Morton and Wallace captured the people with songs. Sunday promises to be a big day.

St. Patrick's Catholic church, Cumberland, was robbed early Monday morning of two gold and silver chalices and a large gold ciborium, valued altogether at $500. The large valuable golden ostensorium was removed, but left standing on the floor, the thieves evidently having been scared away before they could secure it. The gold of the tabernacle was not disturbed. The thieves gained entrance through a window at the sacristy, back of the altar, and escaped through a rear door. They found the keys to all the receptacles for the holy vessels. The altar was thoroughly ransacked.

It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of DeWitt Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, burns, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin troubles may be cured by it quickly and permanently. Oakland Pharmacy.

A London doctor took a long ride on a bicycle and reports that this is what happened to him: "Paresthesia in the fourth and fifth fingers, with annulled sensibility, and paresis in the interrossei, lumbricals and the abductor pollicis." Hereafter, whenever any of our local bicyclists feel badly after a ride, they will know what is the matter with them—probably.

The best business lever is advertising, not shaped advertising is the longest lever and the quickest to move trade. Dull times are the times to put forth the greatest effort and the most money. People don't usually ask for what they have already. Advertising is merely asking for trade. When the store is full every day cut down your space. Don't expect that you will get a big trade in dull times, but keep out and you will find that the advertising was profitable. Dollable right at the time and enormously profitable after a while.

"July 18, 1896, our store, four dwelling houses and three barns were washed away by a flood. Soon after the community was visited by an epidemic of bloody flux. In a short time we sold ten dozen of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and in every case where it was used the results were all that could be desired. In fact our physicians admitted that it would do more toward bringing about a cure of flux than they could do"—Bush & Knisley, Auburn, W. Va., Oct. 8, 1896. Sold by Oakland Pharmacy and Dr. J. W. Laughlin, Deer Park.

Mr. Wm. Kimmel, of Oakland, was a visitor to our city the first of the week.—Mr. Arthur White, one of Oakland's handsome young men, was a visitor to Piedmont this week.—A large number of visitors are at Mt. Lake Park, Deer Park and Oakland for the heated term. Brothers W. H. Gilbert, Cowan and Richardson and others are representing Piedmont at Mt. Lake Park.—Piedmont Independent.

Vim, vigor and victory—those are the charisties of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, billiousness and all stomach and liver troubles. Oakland Pharmacy.

"I crave but One Minute," said the public speaker in a husky voice; and then he took a dose of One Minute Cough Cure, and proceeded with his oratory. One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled for the throat and lungs. Oakland Pharmacy.

Ron C. R. Bush, president of the Garrett County (W. Va.) Court, says that he has had three cases of flux in his family, during the past summer, which he cured in less than a week with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Mr. Bush also states that in some instances there were twenty hemorrhages a day.—Glenville, W. Va. Pathfinder. This remedy has been used in nine epidemics of flux and one of cholera, with perfect success. It can always be depended upon for bowel complaint, even in its most severe forms. Every family should keep it on hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Oakland Pharmacy and Dr. J. W. Laughlin, Deer Park.

Song Recital.

On Friday evening next Mr. Samuel Blight Johns, formerly of Oakland, will appear in Shartzer's Opera House in a song recital. He will be assisted by Miss Edna Striver, an elocutionist, and by his sister, Miss Evelyn Johns, as accompanist. Mr. Johns is possessed of a voice of unusual range which he has perfected by careful study under the best teachers.

Postmaster Asked to Resign.

Representative McDonald has recommended the appointment of Thomas W. Bittinger as postmaster at Grantsville, in place of Lewis, the Democratic incumbent. Mr. Lewis was appointed only last fall, but has been asked to resign on account of irregular conduct.

Another Prisoner in Jail.

Monday afternoon Constable E. M. Coddington brought up to Oakland from Friendsville, Orson J. Carwin, who had been committed to jail by Justice Frantz, on a peace warrant sworn out by John Conn. Carwin, who is a young man, became enamored with Conn's wife and persuaded her to leave home, which she did several weeks ago. Conn went after her, but she refused to go with him. Carwin then threatened Conn's life, and Conn swore out the warrant. Bond was given at the time for Carwin's good behavior, but his bondsmen became suspicious of him and turned him over to the authorities, consequently he will be a guest at Castle Brown until his case is disposed of by the court.

Call for Your Letters.

List of letters remaining in the postoffice at Oakland, Md., for the week ending July 17, 1897: Mrs. E. Friend, Mr. Chas. Wilson, Mr. Frank Heck, Master Clayton [illegible], Mrs. Victoria Walker, Mrs. [illegible], Miss B. Armsteine, Miss [illegible] Funk.

For Sheriff.

Emery S. Fredlock, of District No. 1, announces himself in to-day's REPUBLICAN as a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county. Mr. Fredlock is a prominent farmer of the district and will receive the nomination he is an acceptable candidate to Republicans throughout the county.

Dwelling Burned.

Sunday afternoon between four and five o'clock the dwelling on Mr. W. Casteel's farm, occupied by Mr. Benj. F. Bittinger and family, was burned to the ground, along with its contents. None of Mr. Bittinger's family was home at the time of the fire except three of his smaller children. Mr. Bittinger's loss of about one hundred dollars, while Mr. Casteel's loss will be several hundred. The insurance on the house was $300. There is reason to believe that the fire was of incendiary origin.

The Kindergarten at the Park.

The summer Kindergarten at Mountain Lake Park will this year be conducted by the teacher of former years, Miss Susan P. Pollock, who has gained a reputation as a teacher throughout the land. Speaking of her recently the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegram said: The famous kindergartner, Miss Susan Plessner Pollock, principal of the Froebel Normal Institute Kindergarten and School, 1436 Second street, N. E., Washington, D. C., addressed the pupils of Miss Barrington's Kindergarten Normal Training Class in the school, corner of State and Second streets, yesterday afternoon. Besides those enjoying the privilege and honor of having Miss Pollock with them a few invited guests, including some kindergartners, were present.

July Term of Court.

On Monday last the July term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county convened in the court house, with Associate Judge David W. Sloan on the bench. The original docket has sixty-five cases, the appeal docket nine and the trial docket ninety one cases. On the call of the dockets judgments were entered in uncontested cases.

A jury was summoned to enquire into the mental condition of Mrs. Hattie Harden. After a number of witnesses had been examined the jury [illegible] to be of unsound mind and she will be sent to the hospital for the insane at Cumberland.

The remainder of Monday was taken up by trying appeal cases.

Tuesday morning the case of Herman Bokman vs. Bernard Sterding was taken up and occupied the whole day. This was a suit for trespass.

A Successful Year.

At the annual meeting of the parish [illegible] of St. Matthew's church the rector made a report of the work accomplished during the year just closed, which showed not only activity in spiritual matters, but the fact that besides paying the salary, a sum amounting to over $500 had been raised and paid over to the current expense fund, repairs, improvement and payment of debts. The fact that St. Matthew's parish is now free from debt will be noted with pleasure by all interested in the Episcopal church. It is to be hoped that the present rector, Rev. Mr. Brayshaw, and his estimable wife, will continue their residence in our midst.

Street Improvement.

Tuesday morning Mayor McCrum set a number of men to work breaking the unsightly piles of stone fronting Second Street. The stone will all be broken and used to cover the street level with the curb. After all the rock is crushed the gutters will be built and a covering of fine rock screenings from the stone quarry at Swanton will be added as a top dressing to the surface of the street. Wherever this has been used as a dressing it has been found very satisfactory.

Besides the improvement the citizens of town will be extremely happy to know that the street is some more clean.

Meridian at Oakland.

At a meeting of the County Commissioners held last week an order was passed to have stones erected at the court house to mark the true meridian line for the use of surveyors in testing the variations of their compasses. An act of the Legislature calls for the erection of two stones a short distance apart at the court houses in Maryland, a distinctly visible needle point to be placed on the summit of one and a bar sight on the other. The act further requires the surveyors of the county to test once a year to test their instruments by these stones. Since the State Geological Survey has commenced, the meridian has been established in several of the counties. The work could not have been done previous to this without considerable inconvenience and cost, but State Geologist Clark, with the aid of the fine astronomical instruments loaned by the United States Government, performs the service with ease, and without cost, as he goes along with the State survey. The only expense incurred by the commissioners would be the purchase of the stones, costing about $50.

Rails for the B. & O.

The delivery of the new eighty five pound steel rails to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which has been authorized by the decision of Judge Goff of the United States Circuit Court, will begin at once. The contract for the rails was awarded to Messrs. Carnegie & Co., of Pittsburg, some time ago conditionally, that is to say on condition that the rails would be delivered if the court authorized the issue of receivers' certificates to pay for them. They will be used in relaying the track of the first division, from Baltimore to Brunswick, second division, from Brunswick to Cumberland, and third, from Cumberland to Grafton, displacing the old sixty seven pound rails. Parts of other divisions will receive some of the new rails. The best of the old sixty seven pound rails displaced will be used on branches and sidings. When the new rails are laid the roadbed will be in excellent condition, and better than ever before in the history of the company.

In His Holy Temple.

The regular services will be held in Garrett Memorial church on Sunday morning at 11 a. m. Subject: Streams that Gladden.

SPECIAL NOTICE. By special arrangement, Evangelist Charles N. Crittenton, founder of the National Florence Crittenton Association for the rescue of fallen women and girls will preach in St. Paul's M. E. church Sunday morning next at 10:30. All are cordially invited to hear this distinguished evangelist, who has a national reputation both as a speaker and a philanthropist. Seats free and all are welcome.

The contemplated exchange of pulpits between Rev. G. W. Grimes, of Clarksburg, and Rev. S. K. Arbuthnot, of St. Paul's M. E. church, has been deferred for the present.

Services at St. Matthew's P. E. church Sunday at 7:30 and 11 a. m. Sermon by the Rt. Rev. Henry Melville Jackson, bishop co-adjutant of Alabama.

Remarkable Discovery of Oil and Coal in India.

What is said to be the greatest discovery ever made is reported from Alaska. Some gold prospectors several months ago ran across what seemed to be a lake of oil. It was fed by innumerable springs and the surrounding mountains were full of coal. They brought samples to Seattle, and tests proved it to be of as high grade as any ever taken out of Pennsylvania wells. A local company was formed and experts sent up. They have returned and their report has more than borne out first reports.

It is said there is enough oil and coal in the discovery to supply the world. It is close to the ocean. In fact the experts say the oil ooze out into the salt water. It is said that the Standard Oil Company has already made an offer for the property.

idn't exist. Officers eventually obtained a search warrant for Bittinger's residence, where evidence consistent with the production of the checks was located.

During the course of investigating the forged check cases, drug task force and criminal investigators were contacted by an Oakland pharmacy where Bittinger had presented a prescription to obtain narcotics. Pharmacy personnel noted discrepancies on the form and alerted police, who confirmed with the physician's office that appeared on the form that the document was not legitimate. During execution of the search warrant, officers had also located evidence related to the creation of forged prescriptions, the state's attorney said.

Sailing Column

"By the time the boats had reached the windward mark, the wind had backed such that it was a beam reach to the jibe mark, which most boats sailed without the use of their spinnakers. However, as the boats turned at jibe mark, the colorful sails came up and flew toward the leeward mark. Some boats had a difficult time managing the billowing spinnaker in the gusty winds, but those who held on found great boat speed.

"Wind slowed at leeward mark as the boat rounded up for the second windward leg. The oscillating winds split the boats on both sides of the lake as they tried to stay on the favored tack. The previous shift to the left offered some promise, as several boats continued up the shore of Thousand Acres, hoping for a lift to avoid another series of tacks. The racing was good, with close crosses between boats as they worked their way back up the lake and even drew an audience as some people came out and sat on their docks to watch the friendly competition."

Barn Quilt Day Set For July 16 At Mtn. Fresh

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association, FTC team 2818 G-FORCE, and Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County Inc. invite the public this Saturday, July 16, to celebrate the addition of a barn quilt on the market pavilion. The quilt square, called "Market Blazing Star," was mounted on June 25 at the pavilion beside the Oakland town parking lot off 2nd Street.

From 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., the market will be filled with activities and displays involving quilting and quilting heritage, which has always been a part of farm life.

FTC team 2818 G-FORCE and parents have been painting Garrett County barn quilts for two years, and will be available to talk about the barn quilt painting process. The team will have 12-inch square decorative barn quilts for sale during the event. Members and their families will also demonstrate how they lay out, draw off, and paint the barn quilts. The team members will also do robotics demonstrations.

Area quilters will bring historic and modern quilts for display throughout the market day.

The St. John's Lutheran Church of Red House Ladies Circle Quilting Group members will demonstrate quilting techniques. In addition to traditional hand quilting, the Quilting Group members will show techniques for knotting a quilt, embroidery of quilt squares and borders, and cross stitch methods used in quilting.

Barn Quilt Association officials will share information about the barn quilt project, barn quilt self-guided tours, and how to sponsor a barn quilt on a barn in the county. Painted barn quilts ready to be hung in the county will be available for a close-up look.

The Farmers Market pavilion will receive its second "Blazing Star" barn quilt on Saturday as well, to match the first mounted last month.

The Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County Inc. shares the Appalachian heritage through the creation of large quilt squares painted and mounted on barns and other buildings in and around Garrett County.

For more information, persons may visit www.GarrettBarnQuilts.org.

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association sponsors producer-only farmers markets in Oakland, featuring fresh produce, herbs, meats, cheeses, jellies, baked goods, and crafts. For more information about the market, persons may visit www.MountainFresh.org or call 301-334-6960.

the town park and the town municipal buildings. FREE has collected donations to pay for the engineering needed for a flood plain construction permit to build a 50,000-watt solar array, to be located along the edge of the new town parking area on the west side of town.

"The municipal array has been designed to be as unobtrusive as possible so that residents on the west side of town will not lose their view of the sunset," said FREE president Rob Smith, noting that the array is tentatively to be located in the southwest corner of the parking area.

"The town can pay for the 50-kilowatt array simply by investing the dollars it would normally pay to the power company for its electric bill," Smith said. "This way their monthly cost for electricity will remain constant for the 12 to 14 years it will take to pay off the cost of construction, and after that cost is covered, the town will have free electricity for the remaining life of the array, 12 to 15 years, netting the town a tidy sum of money in avoided operating costs."

The FREE committee will present its proposal to build the array to the Friendsville town council next Monday, July 18. FREE can be contacted at levysmith883@yahoo.com or 301-746-5625. Mountain Hollow Health Food can be called at 301-746-5124.

New Guidelines Announced For Free, Reduced-Price Meals In Md. Schools

The Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) has announced revised income eligibility guidelines for free and reduced-price school meals. The guidelines are set by the federal government and adopted by MSDE. They are used to determine eligibility for free or reduced-price meals in the child nutrition programs for the period July 1, 2016, through June 30, 2017.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) annual adjustments to the income eligibility guidelines (IEG) are required by Section 9 of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act. The guidelines are intended to directly benefit those children most in need. They are revised annually to account for changes in the consumer price index. The free and reduced guidelines were obtained by multiplying the 2016 federal income poverty guidelines by 130 percent and 185 percent, respectively, and by rounding the result upward to the next whole dollar.

Household size and income is the most common way to determine eligibility. For example, a child from a family of four is eligible for free school meals if the household's current annual income is below $31,590. If the family's annual income is between $31,590 and $44,955 the child is eligible for reduced-price meals.

Meal benefit applications will be sent home from school at the beginning of the school year. U.S. citizenship is not required to be eligible for free or reduced-price meals. Parents/guardians should fill out the application completely and send it back to the school. Schools cannot approve incomplete applications.

Household Size	Free Meals			Reduced-Price Meals
	Year	Month	Week	Year	Month	Week
1	$15,444	$1,287	$297	$21,978	$1,832	$423
2	20,826	1,736	401	29,637	2,470	570
3	26,208	2,184	504	37,296	3,108	718
4	31,590	2,633	608	44,955	3,747	865
5	36,972	3,081	711	52,614	4,385	1,012
6	42,354	3,530	815	60,273	5,023	1,160
7	47,749	3,980	919	67,951	5,663	1,307
8	53,157	4,430	1,023	75,647	6,304	1,455
For each additional family member add...	$5,408	$451	$ 104	$7,696	$642	$148

The school will inform households whether their children qualify for free or reduced-price meals. Parents/guardians may speak with school officials if they disagree with the school's decision or they may appeal the decision and request a fair hearing.

Children enrolled in a Head Start program, children certified as homeless, migrant, or runaway, foster children, and children living in households that receive Food Supplement Program (FSP) or Temporary Cash Assistance (TCA) benefits are eligible for free meals and do not need to fill out an application. Some FSP and TCA households will receive a letter from the school informing them that their children are eligible for free meals. FSP and TCA households that do not receive a letter by the beginning of the school year should fill out an application.

Other children who may be eligible for free or reduced-price meals include those in households participating in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC). Parents/guardians of these children should complete an application.

Parents/guardians may reapply at any time during the school year, and are encouraged to do so if their household size goes up, they become unemployed, their income goes down, or their household qualifies for FSP or TCA.

School meals include: School Breakfast Program, National School Lunch Program, After-School Care Snack component, and Special Milk Program. Meals served must meet nutrition requirements set by the USDA.

The school meals programs are administered in Maryland by MSDE and by the USDA on a federal level. Persons are invited to the MSDE website at www.eatsmartmaryland.org for information regarding the child nutrition programs operating in Maryland.

Individuals who want more information concerning schools or facilities that participate in one of the Child Nutrition Programs are invited to call 410-767-0199.

MVA Now Issuing Licenses, ID Cards Through The Mail

As of this past Monday, the Maryland Department of Transportation's Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) is now issuing all driver's licenses, learner's permits, and identification (ID) cards through the U.S. mail, with delivery to be completed within 7 to 10 business days. The agency says Maryland's new cards feature multiple layers of security to help prevent identity theft and fraud.

If a customer's current license or ID is valid and not up for renewal, there is nothing he or she needs to do until it's time to renew.

Customers now applying for the new secure cards will still visit an MVA office and go through the following steps:

- Bring any required documents;
- Take any required tests;
- Have photo taken; and
- Pay at this office.

At the end of the application process, customers will keep their existing card (if they have one) and receive an interim document (receipt), which is valid for 30 days. The updated information is automatically available to law enforcement, and customers can continue to drive with these two documents in their possession. Customers will then receive their new card in the mail within 7-10 business days.

"As always, we encourage our customers to 'skip the trip' to get a duplicate card or renew their driver's license and ID card via web, kiosk, and mail," said MVA administrator Christine Nizer. "If they choose any of these easy methods, there is no change to the current process."

Because customers will receive their new secure card in the mail, officials strongly encourage Marylanders to ensure their correct address is on file at the MVA, which is consistent with Maryland law. The U.S. Postal Service does not forward MVA mail. Customers who need to update their address are advised to go online to www.mva.maryland.gov and type "address change" in the search box. The MVA also offers the option to receive cards the next day through the U.S. Postal Service.

The new cards feature iconic Maryland symbols, including the Chesapeake blue crab, the Baltimore oriole, and the State House. Maryland's driver's license was last updated in 2003, and the old technology is vulnerable to counterfeiting and fraud. More about the new driver's licenses and ID cards can be found online at www.mva.maryland.gov/secureid.

FFAA Sponsoring Tours Of Frazee Ridge, Sang Run

The Friend Family Association of American (FFAA) will sponsor bus tours to Frazee Ridge and Sang Run, historic sites important to the early settlement of the Friendsville area.

The Frazee Ridge tour will take place this Sunday, July 17, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. The event will include stops at the Chisholm, Lint, and Lowdermilk farms; the Lower Frazee and the Great Crossings cemeteries; and the sites of the Frazee Ridge School and the Great Crossings Baptist Church (the first church organized in Garrett County.) This historical and cultural significance of each location will be discussed.

Persons interested in taking the Frazee Ridge tour should meet at the FFAA building, located in Friendsville at the corner of Maple and First streets, by 1:15 p.m. The bus will depart at 1:30 p.m. The cost of the tour is $5.

The Sang Run tour will take place on Sunday, Aug. 7, from 1 to 5 p.m. This tour includes a brief history of the "Sanging Grounds," Friend's Delight," and early settlers of the area, plus stops at the historic Friend's Store, Old Election House, and the Sang Run Cemetery.

Such sites as the Meshach Browning farm and grist mill, Sang Run Academy, Spooky Hollow, and the John Friend saltpeter cave will be pointed out along the way.

IT'S HOT, AND HE'S WEARING A FUR COAT – The brief summer on the mountaintop is here indeed, with temperatures in the upper 80s some days, which has to be awfully warm for a furry black bear. This one was taking a dip in the Casselman River last week, and Grantsville resident Scott Graham snapped his picture. The water temperature is in the 70s, generally, so the big mammal was probably finding some pleasant relief.

Persons interested in taking this tour are asked to meet by 1:15 at the FFAA building. The bus will depart at 1:30 p.m. The cost is $5.

For additional information about these tours, persons can call Ronn Friend, FFAA secretary, at 301-746-4690.

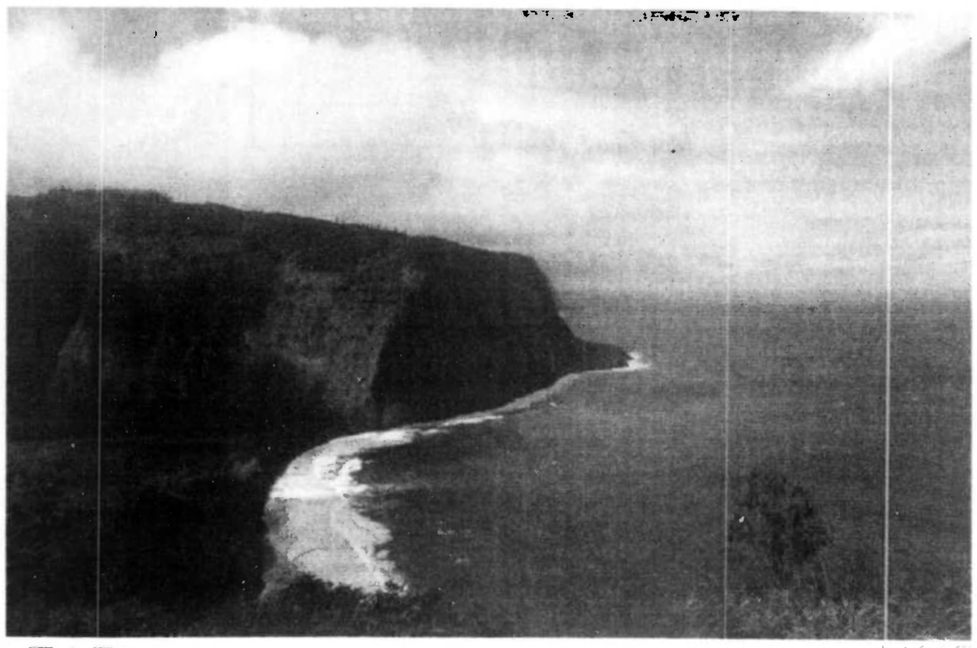
CLOSER TO THE SHORE



Wading into the waves, the surf envelopes us with its foamy coolness; it can also endanger us with its powerful undertow if we venture out too far. It's easy to wander from the safety of the shore. In the same way, we may lose sight of God as we become preoccupied with life. Before we know it, life can wear us down and leave us feeling separated from God. But He is always with us, waiting for us to seek Him. Stay close to the protection of God's love at your house of worship.

Transcendence

Transcendence occurs when we have an experience which gives us a glimpse beyond our mundane physical world. Sometimes this happens when we experience God in the stillness of prayer or solitude. Other times this happens when we confront the power or vastness of nature. The starry sky can overwhelm one with the sense of eternity, just as the power and size of the ocean can make us aware of God because we feel so small by comparison. Transcendent experiences where we feel the presence of God can't be forced, but we can make ourselves ready for them, and put ourselves in situations where they are more likely to happen. Nature and solitude are two of the more common ways to foster transcendent experiences, but many people also get them through being in sacred places, such as churches or temples. Some find the experience through works of art or music, and it can also come via our contact with holy men or women. Truly holy people often radiate God's love so strongly that one feels God's presence through that person. One problem with transcendent experiences is that they don't last forever. Despite glimpsing eternity in the experience, we inevitably fall back into the humdrum monotony of everyday life, and that return can be a letdown. We should seek these experiences, but realize that they are but a glimpse of our ultimate origin and destination.

– Christopher Simon

Danny McBride and Walton Goggins team up in 'Vice Principals'

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

There's nothing like a good comedic rivalry. All the better when it's between a blustering, moustachioed jerk and a Machiavellian, brown-nosing dandy, throwing down on the battlefield of a high school hallway or cafeteria.

That's the order of the day for "Vice Principals," the new dark comedy from the co-creators of "Eastbound & Down," set to debut on HBO. Emmy nominee Walton Goggins ("Justified") steps away from more serious past roles to go up against "Eastbound's" Danny McBride in the series, which made waves at South by Southwest back in March. "Vice Principals" debuts Sunday, July 17, on HBO.

Originally envisioned for the big screen, the series is based on a screenplay written by McBride and collaborator Jody Hill, before the two even sold "Eastbound." As is becoming the trend these days, it was determined that "Vice Principals" needed more screen time than theaters could give it to do the story justice, so it was rejigged for television and found a home at HBO.

The show revolves around Neal Gamby (McBride) and Lee Russell (Goggins), rival vice-principals at suburban, run-of-the-mill North Jackson High School. When the longtime principal (exciting cameo alert! Bill Murray, "Ghostbusters," 1984) steps down to take care of his ailing wife, Gamby and Russell both set their sights on his job, assuming that one of them will be chosen as his successor. Their loathing for one another is palpable, and it's no holds barred as they fight tooth and nail, sabotaging each other in order to land the coveted position.

Unfortunately, their dreams are dashed by the wholly unwelcome arrival of Belinda Brown (Kimberly Hebert Gregory, "Devious Maids"), a confident, powerful and highly capable woman who swoops in and nabs the principal's chair out from under both of them. From then on, the hostile VPs decide to put their enmity on the backburner, joining forces to concentrate their efforts on ousting their new boss — and the sooner the better.

Judging by the promos, the show is going to have audiences in stitches. McBride's sweatervested, rancorous Gamby plays beautifully against Goggins' loudly dressed, softly drawling Russell as the two go to absurd lengths to antagonize each other and anyone who gets in their way.

"It's the adults that are going through all of the social [crises] that usually you see teenagers going through," McBride said in an HBO promo. "Their jobs are to discipline children, but ultimately they have the same sort of behavior as the kids that they discipline."

Indeed, it's evident from the get-go that both men care more about being king of the castle than they do about actually running the school properly. The smiling and affable Brown appears to be the only one who actually has the students' and school's best interests at heart, yet her seconds-in-command are singularly focused on getting her out of the picture.

Russell, the VP in charge of curriculum, is quite well liked by the staff and students of North Jackson High, while Gamby, VP in charge of discipline, is loathed by one and all — and unsurprisingly so. The brief promo clips show Gamby hollering at students, Gamby cursing at students, Gamby hurling popcorn at students and Gamby getting hit in the face with some hideous-looking cafeteria meat by students (or possibly by Russell — it wouldn't be surprising, judging by their relationship).

HBO screened the show's first two episodes at SXSW, and reviews have been mostly positive. "Vice Principals" won the festival's 2016 Audience Award, and critics praise the comedic pairing of McBride and Goggins, in particular.

The network has picked up an 18-episode order for the series, which will encompass a full school year. The plan is for two seasons — each one covering a school term.

Walton Goggins stars in "Vice Principals"

The two leads are undoubtedly magic together, but there's good stuff happening with the supporting cast as well. Not to be contained by the school walls, Gamby's antipathy spills into his personal life with abandon. This is chiefly directed at his ex-wife's (Busy Philipps, "Cougar Town") new husband, Ray (Shea Whigham, "Boardwalk Empire"), who's just about as lovely and supporting a guy as you could ever hope to meet, and whose good deeds and genial demeanor are consistently met with venom from Gamby's end.

While Gamby's general hostility is pretty unwavering in most areas of his life, we do see some genuine warmth from him with his daughter, Janelle (Maya G. Love in her first acting role), for whom his love is obvious. It's her presence in his life that frequently puts her dad in the path of his ex and her reviled (by Gamby, anyway) husband. For her part, Janelle puts up admirably with her dad's behavior in a further demonstration that the adults really are the kids here.

With "Eastbound & Down," McBride and Hill found great comedic success with the sort of broad, irreverent humor that could only really pass on HBO. The pair know how to make a character likable in his intense unlikability, and if they can make the same shtick work with Gamby and Russell, the show is sure to be a hit.

Don't miss the premiere of "Vice Principals" when it airs Sunday, July 17, on HBO.

Keep screaming

Fox's comedy slasher is recruiting for a second season

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Keep screaming: The queens of screams are getting some frightful new friends. Fox's "Scream Queens," starring Emma Roberts ("American Horror Story") and slasher flick queen Jamie Lee Curtis ("Halloween," 1978), was a big hit in its first season, and production is well underway for its second, which is scheduled to premiere in the latter half of September.

A new season means new cast members — especially considering the body count that stacked up in the first — and this darkly comedic slasher show is lining up some big names for its sophomore run.

John Stamos ("Full House") was the first new name announced, adding an older character to the group of young starring ladies. It's a continuation of what could have been a short-lived relationship between the actor and Fox after his show "Grandfathered" was canceled in May after just one season.

He's joined by smoldering young stud Taylor Lautner ("Twilight," 2008), who rose to fame for starring as the warewolf Jacob in the Twilight Saga films.

The rookie duo plays a pair of doctors working in a hospital that specializes in treating bizarre and strange illnesses. Much as the first season was a darkly satirical look at college fraternities — and how they're depicted in slasher films and TV shows — the second season is doing the same for hospitals.

In addition to Roberts and Curtis, there are some other faces returning for season 2 as well. Lea Michele ("Glee"), Keke Palmer ("Winx Club: Enchantrix"), Abigail Breslin ("Zombieland," 2009), Billie Lourd ("Star Wars: The Force Awakens," 2015), Glen Powell ("The Dark Knight Rises," 2012) and Niecy Nash ("The Soul Man") are all returning to their roles, and their characters are now involved with the hospital in some capacity.

The first season of "Scream Queens" was praised by critics for its scathing humor that played up the stereotype of sorority girls being mean-spirited and shallow. The switch to a hospital provides all new targets for the biting nastiness — and all new targets for a new killer. Season 2 of "Scream Queens" is scheduled to premiere Tuesday, Sept. 20, on Fox.

One last look: After two beloved seasons, "Looking" is going out in style. The HBO dramedy was canceled in March, after two critically adored seasons. Despite its loyal fan base, it never quite pulled in enough sets of eyes to keep it going, but that's not to say that HBO is leaving things hanging.

"Looking: The Movie" airs Saturday, July 23, on the premium channel, and should bring some closure to the stories that have developed over the course of the show's run.

"Looking" was and is a comedic drama that follows three gay best friends living in San Francisco as they go about their lives in typical sitcom fashion: going on dates and falling in love, following their career dreams, and supporting each other in all they do.

Jonathan Groff ("American Sniper," 2014), Frankie J. Alvarez ("Smash") and Murray Bartlett ("Guiding Light") star as best friends Patrick, Agustin and Dom, respectively.

The film picks up with Patrick returning to San Francisco for a big celebration with his buddies. It turns out that everything isn't sunshine and roses, though, as he carries unresolved relationship issues that he must deal with before he can move on with his life.

"Looking: The Movie" promises to finally bring Patrick, Agustin and Dom's storylines to satisfying conclusions, and to close the door on this beloved story about their lives. "Looking" may not have had enough viewers to keep it on the air, but at least HBO cares enough about its fans to make this one last hurrah.

The final chapter in Patrick, Agustin and Dom's story airs Saturday, July 23, on HBO.

Guiding Alaska

49 TRAVEL 2:00 p.m.

The rugged band of brothers behind the Tikchik Narrows Lodge prepare for the new season in the first of two back-to-back new episodes. Later, several new adventurers arrive at the lodge ready to fish. Also, a widow honors her late husband's memory.

UFC's Road to the Octagon

8 10 53 10 5:00 p.m.

Cameras go behind the scenes as the stars of UFC train for highly anticipated upcoming bouts in this special series. This new episode takes a look at world-class boxer and mixed martial artist Holly Holm and kickboxing champ Valentina Shevchenko.

Angel From Hell

2 5 5 19 8:00 p.m.

Allison (Maggie Lawson) reveals to Amy (Jane Lynch) just how stressful Thanksgiving was following her mother's death, so Amy proposes a new holiday instead in this new episode. Amy's "Funsgiving" features games and nontraditional foods.

Hello World!

56 DISC 8:00 p.m.

Steven Tyler's recently released country song "Red, White & You" serves as the backdrop to this new episode. Find out how several North American critters, such as prairie dogs, hawks and wild mustangs, like to spend their summer vacation.

Dr. Dee: Alaska Vet

58 ANPL 8:00 p.m.

The tables turn for Dr. Dee when she takes her own dog to a specialist in Anchorage for eye surgery in this new episode. There, she reconnects with her stepdaughter and a barrel racing horse. Elsewhere, things go awry at a remote clinic.

Hell on Wheels

51 AMC 9:00 p.m.

As the drama nears its conclusion, former confederate soldier Cullen Bohannon (Anson Mount) has been hired to work for the Central Pacific Railroad to bring the railroad over the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Colm Meaney also star

Dr. Dee Thornell from "Dr. Dee: Alaska Vet"

Dog Needs Safe Haven From Fireworks

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My 2-year-oid, mixed-breed spaniel, "Dougle," is terrified of fireworks, thunderstorms, loud noises ... you name it. I really want him to enjoy our summer parties, but he cowers as far away from the backyard as possible. How can I keep him calm enough to watch our fireworks display? -- Greg in Fort Myers, Florida

DEAR GREG: Um, don't. I think it's very rare to find a dog that is confident and happy and unaffected by loud bangs and weird lights. Most dogs are completely freaked out by fireworks, thunderstorms and similar loud noises. And by freaked out, I mean extremely stressed. The aftereffect of that stress can impact your dog for hours, days, weeks ... even months. It can manifest in a number of ways, from separation anxiety to soiling in the house and even aggressive behavior. Why even think about putting Dougie through that? Instead of trying to coerce Dougie out of the safe space where he hides during storms and fireworks, emphasize to him that it's totally OK to go to that space. Put soft bedding down, some toys, water and food dishes nearby, along with an article of clothing with your scent on it. Give him a smaii treat each time he goes to his safe space, and one when he exits. During a thunderstorm, spend time in that space with or near him. Consider purchasing a Thundershirt, which many dog owners swear by. During a party, let Dougie socialize with the guests if he's comfortable, but take him to his safe space before the fireworks start. Give him lots of praise before and after the event. Send your questions or pet care tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

Birding BITS

BY Cindy Brook

Bee Friendly

Please plant some flowers that bees like to visit. Some favorites are pentas, daisies, marigolds, bee balm and thistle. You also can buy flower seed mixes specifically for bees. I love watching bees. They are nice to have around and are very important to our environment.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was noted American poet and feminist Adrienne Rich who made the following sage observation: "Language is as real, as tangible, in our lives as streets, pipelines, telephone switchboards, microwaves, radioactivity, cloning laboratories, nuclear power stations."

* When you were growing up, did kids call each other "chicken" to insult each other's bravery? In all likelihood, the answer is yes. That word has been used since the 14th century to insult those considered to be cowardly.

* It was once against the law in some places -- England, for example -- for a man to marry his brother's widow. It was considered to be an incestuous relationship.

* On a per-capita basis, Canada is the most educated place in the world; more than half of the country's residents have earned at least one college degree.

* According to a study conducted by researchers at Emory University, heterosexual couples who spend more than $20,000 on their wedding were three and a half times as likely to have shorter marriages than those who were more frugal. This principle extends to the ring, too; men who spent more than $2,000 on an engagement ring were more likely to end up divorced.

* It takes about 70 hours to read the entire Bible aloud -- even longer if you take breaks to sleep and eat (and shower, one would hope).

* Aside from being plant products, what do pinecones and pineapples have in common? You might be surprised. Not only do both have scales (which are obvious to see), but the scales share the same pattern: 13 rows spiraling one way, and eight rows spiraling the other way.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On July 21, 1775, Patriot minutemen in whaleboats raid Little Brewster Island, in Boston Harbor. The raiders temporarily drove off the island's British guard before burning the wooden parts of the point's lighthouse. Ten days later, 300 minutemen returned to the island to prevent the British from making repairs.

* On July 19, 1799, a French soldier discovers a black basalt slab inscribed with ancient writing near the Egyptian town of Rosetta. The Rosetta Stone contained passages written in three different scripts -- Greek, Egyptian hieroglyphics and Egyptian demotic -- providing the key to deciphering hieroglyphic language.

* On July 24, 1911, American archeologist Hiram Bingham gets his first look at Machu Picchu, an ancient Inca settlement in Peru. The site itself stretches for 5 miles, with over 3,000 stone steps linking its many levels. Today, more than 300,000 people visit every year.

* On July 22, 1923, John Diilinger joins the Navy in order to avoid charges of auto theft. A decade later, Dillinger's reputation was forged in a single 12-month period, during which he robbed more banks than Jesse James did in 15 years.

* On July 18, 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt is nominated for an unprecedented third term. In 1947, Congress passed the 22nd Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which stated that no person couid be elected to the office of president more than twice.

* On July 20, 1969, American astronaut Neil Armstrong becomes the first human to walk on the surface of the moon. As he stepped from the lunar lander, Armstrong say: "That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind."

Q: I have a Hallmark Christmas ornament that I received as a gift in 1989. It is "Stocking Mouse" and is in its original box. How much is it worth? -- Willow, Jackson, Mississippi

A: The first Hallmark ornaments were issued in 1973. The Hallmark Keepsake Ornament Collectors' Club was organized in 1987 and its members offered exclusive issues. Your ornament was introduced in 1981 and is worth about $45. It originally sold for $4. One of the better price guides is "Warman's Companion Hallmark Keepsake Ornaments" by Mary Sieber and published by Krause Books. Informative and portable, this guide features company history, more than 500 illustrations and values that I think accurately reflect the marketplace.

Q: While cleaning out a storage barn in Vermont, I found an oval belt buckle with "SNY" on its face. What do I have? -- Steve, Manchester, New Hampshire

A: You have a Civil War artifact. This buckle could have been worn by a member of the New York militia, since "SNY" is an abbreviation for State of New York. It also was worn by members of Brooklyn's 23rd Regiment. Regardless, if authentic, it is worth about $500, according to "Warman's Civil War Collectibles" by John F. Graf and published by Krause Books.

Q: I have a "Jimmy Carter for President" T-shirt that was purchased at a campaign rally but never worn. What do you think it is worth? -- Fred, Morrilton, Arkansas

A: I found your T-shirt referenced in "Warman's Political Collectibles: Identification and Price Guide" by Dr. Enoch L. Nappen and published by Krause Books. According to Dr. Nappen, your T-shirt is from 1976 and is valued in the $15-$20 range.

Q: I have a copy of the "Spalding Official Baseball Guide of 1937" and wonder about how much it might be worth. -- Ray, Blairs, Virginia

A: Your book was edited by Carl Hubbeli, and I have discovered that most copies are valued in the $15-$60 range. As with most collectibles, condition is paramount. Stained, marked or missing pages can dramatically lower its value.

Garrett Chamber Welcomes Eight New Members

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce welcomed eight new members from May 1 through June 30. They are Steptoe & Johnson PLLC; the Green Turtle Sports Bar & Grille; Prevention Business Solutions, Fun Unlimited; Take Life Outdoors LLC; Maryland Mountains Fly Fishing; Hidey, Coyle & Monteleone – Attorneys at Law; and Trout's House Seafood.

Located at 1085 Van Voorhis Road, Suite 400, Morgantown, W.Va., Steptoe & Johnson is a full-service law firm that specializes in litigation, labor and employment, energy, and business and transactional law. The firm employs more than 300 attorneys nationwide.

The Green Turtle is described by its owners as a "community hangout for all ages that serves great food and drinks in a fun, casual atmosphere built on excitement and unity of sports." The business is located at 75 Visitors Center Drive, McHenry.

Prevention Business Solutions, located at 20160 Garrett Highway, Oakland, focuses on "doing it right the first time" to prevent unwanted business outcomes from happening. The business integrates with organizations, management systems, and quality management to achieve desired results, according to a chamber spokesperson.

Located at 173 Friendsville Road, McHenry, Fun Unlimited is an amusement center with 94 games. The business features a vintage arcade room for persons age 16 and over that has 30 social and vintage games from the 1960s. It also offers an internet cafe with free Wi-Fi, plus a snack bar with pizza, fajitas, and ice cream.

Take Life Outdoors offers Amish-made, maintenance-free custom outdoor lawn furniture made from recycled milk jugs. The furniture comes with a 20-year warranty. The store is located in Suite J, Fort Drive, McHenry.

Maryland Mountain Fly Fishing provides tours near Deep Creek Lake. Tour guide Tony Lolli has 25 years of experience. Newcomers to the sport of fly fishing are his speciality, and he will guide individuals and families, all equipment provided, according to the spokesperson. More information is available at tonylolli8.wix.com/marylandmountainsfly.

Hidey, Coyle & Monteleone is a four-attorney law firm located at 110 Washington Street, Cumberland. The business serves Allegany and Garrett counties, plus nearby counties in West Virginia.

Located at 2437 Deep Creek Drive, McHenry, Trout's House Seafood brings Eastern Shore seafood to Deep Creek Lake. Ordering ahead is suggested by calling 240-285-6565.

Details on these members, along with a complete and most up-to-date member list, can be found on the chamber's website, visitdeepcreek.com.

The chamber's new 2016 Community Profile & Membership Directory also includes a comprehensive membership listing of all chamber members as of Nov. 25, 2015, listed alphabetically, categorically, and by primary representatives. Directories are available for pickup at the Center, located at 15 Visitors Center Drive in McHenry.

There are typically five reasons why companies/organizations join a local chamber of commerce: networking/promotion, business advocacy, cost savings and benefits, education and training, and community involvement. The Garrett County Chamber provides programming and opportunities in each of these categories. Details are available on the chamber's website or by contacting Nick Sharps, membership development manager, at nick@garrettchamber.com or 301-387-5237.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is the largest professional business association in the region, representing nearly 600 member firms. The chamber was formed to organize, support, and represent Garrett County's business community in advancing common interests, and additionally to promote Garrett County's hospitality and recreation industry by attracting visitors to the county through comprehensive marketing.

RAFFLE WINNER ANNOUNCED – Hospice of Garrett County Inc. recently raffled off a handmade quilt made locally by a Friendsville resident who wishes to remain anonymous. Shown from left are Shirley Bender, Grantsville, who the quilt; Helen Hetrick, Grantsville, who sold the winning ticket; and Donna Brenneman, executive director of Hospice. All proceeds will benefit the Garrett County Hospice "We Honor Veterans" program, which recognizes patients who have served in a military branch. "It is more than an honor to recognize these veterans of Garrett County, who may or may not have had a ceremony upon their return from service," said Brenneman. "It is such a blessing to have the patients surrounded by their family during the pinning ceremony to present them with a flag blanket and a certificate. In many cases, families are hearing stories of their loved ones' military experiences for the first time. Hospice is proud to be part of this memorable and precious experience." For more information regarding Hospice or the We Honor Veterans program, persons are invited to call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151.

MASTER GARDENERS COMPETE – University of Maryland Extension master gardeners and interns learned about container gardening at their June meeting, hosted by Julie Wagner, owner of Julie's Greenhouse. The gardeners then competed among themselves to see who could design the most creative and overall best container gardens. Kathy O'Conner and Don Watson were named the winners. From left are Rebecca Lowe, O'Conner, Mary Ellen Dore, Wagner, Jerry Knutson, Roberta Carlino, Maggi Coene, Watson, and Bill Kerrick. The Extension office will offer two opportunities for local residents to take master gardener basic training. See story for details.

Master Gardener Training Sessions Slated In August

The University of Maryland Extension will offer two opportunities for master gardener basic training next month in Garrett County. The first is a week-long, intensive training from Monday, Aug. 8, to Friday, Aug. 12, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville.

"The course will cover lots of gardening topics, including information on starting a school garden and child-friendly gardening activities," said Ashley Bodkins, Garrett County Extension office. "Those people with an Maryland teaching certificate can receive three CPD credits for completing the basic training course."

The course fees includes the purchase of the Master Gardener Handbook, materials for constructing a wooden salad box, and more.

The second opportunity for taking the Master Gardener Basic Training course will be held on Tuesdays, Aug. 16-Nov. 15, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension office, located along Rt. 135 near Mountain Lake Park

"In order to become a certified Maryland master gardener, participants will be asked to donate 40 hours of community service through educational outreach activities," Bodkins said. "Sign up today to learn more about soils, botany, fertilizers, plant propagation, plant diseases, insects, ecology, herbs, and much more."

For more information about the classes, including the costs, and to sign up, persons are invited to call the local Extension office at 301-334-6960 or email abachtel@umd.edu.

The Master Gardener Program began in 1978 as a way of extending horticulture and pest management services to the public.

"Today, the Master Gardener mission to educate Maryland residents about safe, effective, and sustainable horticultural practices that build health gardens, landscapes, and communities is more important than ever," Bodkins said.

Lincoln Funeral Train Is July 21 Program Topic

The Oakland B&O Museum summer speaker series will continue next Thursday, July 21, at 7 p.m. at the 1884 Oakland B&O Station Museum. The speaker scheduled for that evening is Daniel Toomey of Baltimore, and his topic is "The Lincoln Funeral Train."

Toomey is a graduate of the University of Maryland and the author or co-author of a dozen books, including The Civil War in Maryland and Baltimore During the Civil War. He has lectured for a number of historical organizations and colleges, including the Smithsonian Institution and Johns Hopkins University. His course – The Civil War in Maryland – has been taught throughout the state.

Toomey has contributed to a number of radio and television programs, plus several video productions. He also serves on the Maryland Military Monuments Commission, and was project historian for the Maryland Memorial erected at Gettysburg in 1994. It was Toomey who wrote the inscription for that monument.

Toomey has won numerous awards for his historical research and exhibits, including the Gettysburg National Battlefield Award in 1985, and he was the 2001 recipient of the Peterkin Award given by the National Park Service at Fort McHenry. He is currently the guest curator at the B&O Railroad Museum and designed The War Came by Train exhibit – the largest Civil War railroad exhibit ever presented. He also wrote a book by the same title.

Toomey said that, after four years of Civil War, the

DANIEL TOOMEY

Union faithful began to celebrate a hard-fought victory, but that celebration was cut short by the shocking news that President Abraham Lincoln had been assassinated on April 14, 1865.

Lincoln left his home in Springfield, Ill., in 1861 for his presidential inauguration in Washington, D.C. Traveling by train, he passed through eight northern states, with the dual purpose of celebrating his election and introducing himself to people who had elected him. Following his death, the decision was made to return Lincoln's remains to Springfield along nearly the same route.

Under strict control of the United States Army and the secretary of war Edwin Stanton, the Lincoln funeral train would travel over 1,600 miles, utilize 25 different railroads, and take 13 days to complete, according to Toomey, whose program will cover the planning and vast amount of logistical resources committed to this signal event in American history. Then he will "take audience members on board" the Lincoln funeral train as it passes through the major cities in the north to witness firsthand the epic demonstrations of grief that awaited its arrival.

For more information about the program, persons are invited to call 301-616-0661.

Diehl's Ford Sales Raises $5,000+ For STEAM Fund

Diehl's Ford Sales in Grantsville, Salisbury (Pa) Elementary School, and members of the local community recently raised over $5,000 for the school's STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, and Math) fund. The money was raised through a test-drive event as part of the Ford Motor Company's Drive 4 UR School program.

More than 200 participants from the Salisbury area test drove a Ford vehicle at Diehl's Ford Sales in April. Ford Motor Company then donated $20 each, with funds going toward the school's STEAM fund.

"I am more than thrilled that so many people from the local community turned out to support the school," said Greg Diehl. "Participants had the chance to take a fun, casual drive in one of our vehicle, while lending our students and community a much-needed helping hand. I've never been more proud to be a Ford dealer."

Ford dealerships across the United States have helped raise more than $30 million to date for local schools and non-profit organizations. The money raised during the program has helped ensure that extracurricular activities like sports and music programs continue in local communities despite budgetary constraints and funding cuts.

Northern Rescue Sets Block Party

"PROOF Pirates" Family Event To Begin On Sunday

Pleasant View Baptist and Deep Creek Baptist churches will host a community family event, "PROOF Pirates," this Sunday, July 17, from 4 to 7 p.m. and Monday, July 18, through Thursday, July 21, from 6:30 to 8:15 p.m. at Glades Pavilion, Glades Square, Oakland.

Open to the public, PROOF (planned, resurrecting, outrageous, overcoming, forever) Pirates activities are free for children and adults of all ages.

Sunday evening kicks off with a community party, which includes music, free food, and amusements from Friendly Inflatables (weather permitting).

"So bring you family and friends – every pirate welcome," said an event organizer. "Monday through Thursday we'll have music, a scripture talk, 'pirate' games, and snacks. Join us for a great pirate adventure."

Ask The Everyday Scientist

DIGITAL REMASTERING

by Dr. Thomas Sheahen

Q. I see that a lot of CDs for sale are labeled "Digitally Remastered." What does that mean?

A. It used to be that digital remastering was an important technological advance that greatly improved the quality of music. Nowadays, the term has turned into just one more sales gimmick.

Think way back to when a famous conductor like Arturo Toscanini and the New York Philharmonic recorded a performance of a Beethoven symphony. That was probably done with early (1930s) technology – microphones, recording machines and tape, etc. The quality of the sound was far below what the actual original performance sounded like. There was extraneous noise introduced by the equipment (such as hiss), and both high and low frequencies were severely distorted. You could recognize the melody, but the experience wasn't real at all.

Recording tape was thin plastic with tiny grains of magnetic material deposited on the surface. A phonograph record was made of the plastic vinyl. The signal was a squiggly-shaped line carved into the vinyl, so that when a stylus (phonograph needle) moved through it, the wiggles of the stylus created an electrical signal which got amplified and broadcast through loudspeakers. Hopefully the listener heard something similar to the original performance.

Today, phonographs are mostly found in museums. You have to be an old-timer to remember listening to one.

In the 1950s, electrical engineers began experimenting with digital technology, by which an analog to digital converter could change any electrical signal into a string of ones and zeros. Circuitry eventually got so good that, a million times per second, the voltage represented by magnetic domains on a tape could become a bit-stream like 1010100110101011 or similar. Stringing those back-to-back (with assorted "control" strings inserted occasionally) would reproduce an entire symphony an hour long, even though it required billions of bits. In only a half century, digital representation has become the only game in town for recording music, pictures, film, movies, etc.

In the music world, everything changed in the 1970s when digital technology became cheap enough to be readily available. The CD (compact disc) made its first appearance in the 1980s, and before long CD players dropped way down in price (an example is the Walkman). There was very little sacrifice in quality associated with lower prices, because not much could go wrong with a string of 1's and 0's.

One of the major activities in those days was to go back and recover and improve the old recordings. Running the "master tape" recording of a Toscanini symphony through an analog-to-digital converter was the first step. Then, armed with a digital bit-stream, other electronic processes could be used to eliminate the hiss, pops, and glitches that were in the original recording. Moreover, the extremely low and high frequencies could be boosted up to compensate for the inferior ancient recording equipment.

That's what digital remastering was all about. The new "master" recording was as clear as the original performance. It's fair to call that recording digitally remastered.

The technique was applied to old movies, too. The original movie Wizard of Oz (1939) was filmed with three separate black-and-white cameras behind different-color filters. That early technology was replaced in the digitally remastered version. Colorization of many old black-and-white movies was done similarly. Today you can take your old Kodachrome slides to a store and have them all digitized and put onto a handy thumb-drive.

Nowadays, every musical performance, every movie, every cell-phone video, is initially recorded digitally. Analog equipment is in museums. However, it is possible to take any digital recording and change it in hundreds of ways.

Here's how this technology has turned into a sales gimmick: Suppose a singing group issues a CD and finds it doesn't sell very well. Then somebody suggests making the drumbeat heavier, or the female singer louder. They don't have to return to the recording studio to do it over. The technician merely changes the individual track that were made in the first place, and the re-mixed signal produces a "better" sound that, it is hoped, sells more. It's not expensive at all. The new version is labeled "Digitally Remastered" – a term that is technically true, but isn't really what people meant.

For example, the Beach Boys surfin' tunes of the 1960s were digitally remastered decades ago. But if a sales promoter decides it might sell better if the super-high-voice crooning "Barbara Ann" is enhanced a little more, you'll find a new CD in the store proudly labeled "New! Digitally Remastered!"

In this digital age, any revision to the master recording can be peddled as remastered.

Kehrwald Consulting

E. Amendolara Photography

Kehrwald Consulting, a management consulting business, wants to change the way nonprofit and for-profit organizations do business in western Maryland.

"We know that hiring permanent team members isn't always economically feasible, so we offer companies and nonprofits an alternative – an outside partner in their success," said Kristin Kehrwald, owner and Frostburg resident (pictured).

The company provides tailored marketing, project management, and fundraising services at affordable prices, including discounted services for nonprofits.

"We help our clients effectively bridge the gap between what they can do and what they wish they could do," Kehrwald said. "It's gratifying to help local and regional organizations realize their goals, whether it's a simple task like writing ad copy or something more complex like responding to a grant opportunity."

A seasoned communications and development professional, Kehrwald cut her teeth as a staff member on a congressional campaign and later in the fundraising offices of Baltimore-based nonprofit organizations. Since that time, she's staffed a capital campaign, worked for a county executive, handled media and public relations for a multi-state consortium, managed marketing communications for a law firm, ran a freelancing business, and led a small nonprofit organization.

Kehrwald recently served as the external affairs coordinator for the UMCES Appalachian Laboratory in Frostburg, where she oversaw a host of creative community outreach, development, and administrative initiatives, most notably the launch of a seven-part community learning series (625+ attendees) and a successful effort to increase fundraising revenue by 52%.

Kehrwald Consulting offers clients access to its larger network of graphic designers, printers, web designers, technology gurus, photographers, videographers, illustrators, caterers, administrative professionals, and policy experts. A woman-owned company, Kehrwald Consulting is registered with the eMaryland Marketplace and in the process of becoming a recognized Minority Business Enterprise in Maryland.

Kehrwald volunteers for a number of organizations and groups in Allegany and Garrett counties, and serves on WFWM's Advisory Council and FSU's Advisory Board for the Minors in Journalism and Public Relations. She is an occasional lecturer on media relations and marketing communications for FSU's English Department.

More information about Kehrwald Consulting can be found online at www.bigsavageideas.com or by calling 240-920-1003.

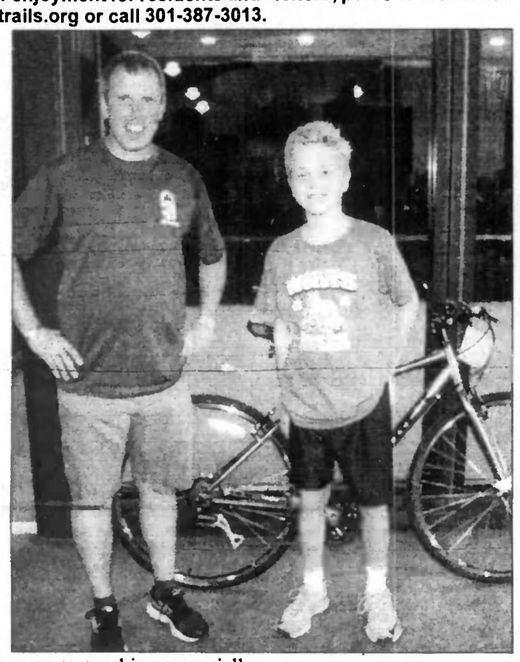
Puppy Training, Basic Obedience Courses Scheduled

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division will offer a puppy training and a basic obedience training at the GC Career and Technology Training Center, Accident, next month.

The puppy training is scheduled on Wednesdays, Aug. 3–31, from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. for dogs 10 weeks to 5 months old.

"Start your new pet off on the right paw with this 5-week puppy training class that encourages and reinforces good behavior," said a spokesperson. "The professional pet training will work with the natural instinct of puppies to stay near their pet parents, teaching potentially life-saving cues to help with those first months of life."



Simple cues such as sit, come, and stay will be taught. Basic manners, socialization, and an introduction to loose-leash walking will also be addressed.

The basic obedience training will also be held on Wednesdays, Aug. 3–31, from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m. This course is for dogs 5 months of age and older that have had no previous training.

"This 5-week course gives pets a solid foundation of basic behaviors," the spokesperson said. "Untrained adolescent and adult dogs can become easily distracted by their environment, which is why this class focuses on important impulse-control exercises."

Such cues as sit, stay, down, wait, and "leave it" will be taught. Basic house manners, problem solving, and loose-leash walking will also be discussed.

Both courses are being taught by Debbie Daniels. She grew up around animals, worked in a veterinarian hospital for year, and now is the owner of her own business, Your Happy Tails LLC., located in Garrett County.

Following these courses, more classes will be scheduled, including "Pet Emergency Preparedness and Pet First Aid & CPR for Small and Large Pets" and "Canine Massage," both taught by Daniels. "Intermediate/Advanced Obedience Training" and "Trick Training for Dogs" will be instructed by local resident Barbara Glover.

She has trained dogs to compete in obedience, agility, rally, dock diving, and field work.

For additional information on this course, persons may contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Registration is available by calling the Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Rounds Reunion Held At Big Run

The descendants of Nathaniel Rounds and Martha Olive Wilt recently held their 13th annual family reunion at the Savage River Pavilion in Big Run State Park near Grantsville.

More than 70 family members and friends were in attendance. Guests arrived from Maryland, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

Ken Buchen opened with a prayer, and a covered-dish luncheon and dessert table followed.

Throughout the afternoon, a variety of music was performed. Musicians included Robin Bagley, Jimmy Broadwater, Robert Broadwater, Loretta Hummel, and Rick Lashbaugh. Buchen provided sound equipment.

Items were donated for a raffle fundraiser. Patty Green provided a decorative rooster crow sign and two metal horse-themed planters, and Julie Warnick donated a Native American statue. Raffle winners of the donations were: Emma Jean Bosley, Leona Broadwater, Darlene MacMillan, and Maude Rounds.

Special attendees were recognized and presented with a small gift. Floyd MacMillan of Michigan traveled the greatest distance to the reunion; the youngest attendee was Lakin Rounds; the most recently married were Adam and Tiffany Rounds; and the longest married were Russell and Thelma Broadwater, 67½ years.

The 50/50 drawing was won by Loretta Hummel, but she donated her half back to the reunion fund. Dalton Combs won the guess-the-number-of-candies jar.

Fundraiser tickets were sold by Ella Rose Warnick and Patty Green. Maggie Allman helped pull the winning tickets.

Renee Warnick Mason presented a large genealogy display and collected family tree information. Genealogy books were available for viewing, and a display of family men who have served in the military was posted.

Numerous volunteers helped in reunion preparations to set up and take down tables and chairs and displays. They included Carol Allman, Ken Buchen, Diana Deal, Bill Mason's family, Junior and Dolores McKenzie, Dean Rounds family, Cecil Rounds, Glenn Rounds, and Lorin Rounds. Joshua Mason and Bill Mason grilled hot dogs, and Dolores McKenzie prepared coffee.

The next reunion will be held on Saturday, July 8, 2017, at the same location. If reunion or family information is needed, or if someone would like to volunteer for reunion activities, they may contact Renee Mason at rmasonapcinc@hotmail.com.

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.asp. The center also has a Facebook page.

Friday, July 15

• 11 a.m. – Creating an Owl. Guests can join the naturalist and discuss the adaptations and secrets of owls. Then meet one of the Discovery Center's owls up close and create a model of it. Develop nature journaling skills through observation and drawing or just come for fun.

• 2 p.m. – Tie Dye on the Beach. Meet on the beach to make a personal tie-dyed shirt with an original conservation message. Cost is $12 per shirt. (1 hour)

Saturday, July 16

• 11 a.m. – Hungry Critters. Guests are invited to meet the naturalists inside the Discovery Center as they feed the center's animals. Participants may be able to touch a live reptile or amphibian. Free.

• Afternoon – Scales and Tales. The naturalist will be at the beach during the afternoon for this interactive program.

• 2 p.m. – Little Guard. Children ages 5 to 12 years old are invited to meet at the beach and learn the skills of a lifeguard. Kids will run a relay practice throwing a lifesaving device, learn how to recognize a troubled swimmer, and more. No swimming required.

• 8 p.m. – Campfire Program: Astronomy Star Party with Gus Johnson. Visitors may join the knowledgeable staff at the Discovery Center parking lot for a night of star gazing. Everyone should bring chairs or blankets.

Sunday, July 17

• 11 a.m. – First Impressions. This interactive program shows that even "creepy crawlies with bad reputations" have their own important roles in nature. For all ages.

• 2 p.m. – Aviary Encounter. Guests are invited to learn about the center's birds of prey, hear stories, and watch the raptors eat.

Monday, July 18

• 10 a.m. – Fishing with the Naturalist. Guests age 7 and older are invited to join the park naturalist for a course on fishing basics. Poles, bait, and tackle are provided. The cost is $4 per person, and adults (16+) must have their license. Preregistration is required, as space is limited.

• 2 p.m. – Aquatic Adventures. Guests are invited to join the naturalist in the Discovery Room of the center for this activity. The group will head to the docks to use the aqua scopes and dip nets into Deep Creek Lake to catch fish and other animals that live there

• All Day – The Science Room will be staffed to help guests with hands-on activities.

• 10 a.m. – What's That Reptile? Guests are invited to come to the Discovery Center to learn about the reptiles and amphibians that reside there, and perhaps have a chance to touch the cold-blooded creatures.

• 2 p.m. – Butterflies and Flowers. All are invited to join the naturalist for a walk around the Discovery Center grounds observing the butterflies that use native plants. The difference between native and non-native plants and their effects on the environment will be discussed.

Wednesday, July 20

• 8 a.m. – Birding at Deep Creek. Guests will learn how to bird by sight and sound as they listen for distinctive songs on a stroll through the park. Experienced and beginner birders can meet around the Discovery Center. Birders should bring their own binoculars.

• 2 p.m. – Buzzing Bees, Bzzzz, Bzzzz. All are invited to "come see what all the buzz is about." There are more pollinators than just bees, and there would not be most of the current crops without these small creatures. Guests may come learn all about it, and make a special craft to take home and plant to help support wandering pollinators.

Thursday, July 21

• 9:30 a.m. – Brant Mine Hike. Guests can join a guided hike with the naturalist to the historic Brant Mine. The hike begins in the center's mine room. Hikers will see the remnants of a coal mine that was operated in the 1920s, as well as possibly some wildlife along the way. Moderate walking. (Approx. 2 hours)

• 1 to 3 p.m. – Smokey Bear Visit. Smokey will be at the Discovery Center during these two hours. All are invited to stop by for a photo and to meet this important bear.

• 2 p.m. – Edible Weeds Talk & Stroll. Visitors may join master gardener Jerry Knutson for a walk through the Discovery Center grounds identifying weeds for their edible value. All should meet on the Discovery Center deck.

HERRINGTON MANOR/SWALLOW FALLS STATE PARKS

Herrington Manor State Park, located at 222 Herrington Lane near Oakland. The office can be reached at 301-334-9180, or persons may visit the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/herrington.asp. Some activities are at Swallow Falls State Park, located close to Herrington. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice, and are weather dependent. Hiking shoes are recommended for the guided hikes. Children age 14 and younger must be accompanied by a parent at all times.

Saturday, July 16

• 11 a.m. – Roaming Ranger. Join the ranger naturalist at the Swallow Falls campground to meet the park's corn snake. The ranger will be able to answer questions about the park and what events are happening in the local area.

• 1:30 p.m. – Mystery Hike. Interested hikers are invited to meet at the Herrington Manor Ranger Station and join the park ranger for a hike to a secret hiking location. This program is at a separate site which requires about a 5-minute drive. Personal vehicles are required. (If fewer than four people show up for the program, it will be canceled.) 90 minutes.

• 4 p.m. – Snake Feeding Time. All may meet at Herrington Manor Nature Center below the park office to watch the naturalist feed the park's corn snake.

• 8:30 p.m. – Campfire Program. Visitors may meet at Herrington Manor Campfire Ring and join the park ranger for some s'mores. This gives all campers the opportunity to meet and greet some fellow cabin or campground neighbors, and to ask questions and find out what happenings and events are taking place in the local area.

Sunday, July 17

• 9 a.m. – Moth Watching for Beginners. Visitors may meet at the Swallow Falls Amphitheater and then accompany the park ranger on a search for moths that live in the area. The ranger will discuss these nocturnal creatures that survive in the dark, as well as some of the methods used to attract moths for observation.

• 1 p.m. – Guided Hike Along the Green Trail. Hikers should meet at the Herrington Manor Ranger Station to join the park ranger on a guided hike along the Green Trail. Walkers will see some of the local flora and learn about one of Herrington Manor's newest projects – the Wildflower Meadow.

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

The following activities have been scheduled at New Germany State Park, located along Rt. 495 near Grantsville. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. Further information can be obtained by calling the park office at 301-895-5453, or by visiting the web site: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/newgermany asp. The park also has a Facebook page.

Friday, July 15

• 4:30 p.m. – The Art of Blacksmithing. Local metal sculptor and blacksmith Kenny Braitman will present this program, which will include hands-on demonstrations and instruction on the art of sculpting metal. The presentation is free of charge, and will take place outside the Lake House.

• 6:30 p.m. – Old Time Jam. Musicians and listeners of all ages are invited to share traditional "old-timey" Appalachian music. The jam will take place at the Lake House and will last until 9:30 p.m. Admission is free; food and gift items will be available for purchase.

Saturday, July 16

• 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. – Coyote Adventures. This Coyote Adventures Family Outing is for families with children ages 7-14, designed to help children experience and connect with the natural world. Children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian at all times. Participants should dress appropriately for the outdoors and bring a backpack with drinking water and a packed lunch. The use of cell phones and other electronic devices will not be permitted during the activity. Families are encouraged to preregister by calling New Germany State Park at 301-895-5453. Additional outings will take place on July 30, Aug. 13, and Sept. 3.

Dawson and Mary Lou Dawson to William Bush dated December 29, 2010, and recorded in Liber 1565, folio 150, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.
Defendants

ORDER TO POST

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District 1, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to Rodney A. Sweitzer and Barbara Sweitzer on May 1, 2015:

All that lot, piece or parcel of land situate in Election District No. 1, known as Lot No. 6, Jennings Randolph Overlook Subdivision, containing 7.93 acres, more or less, and described in a quit claim deed from Erich D. Dawson and Mary Lou Dawson to William T. Bush dated December 29, 2010, and recorded in Liber 1565, folio 150, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one day from the date of the sale has expired.

It is thereupon, this 11th day of July 2016, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED that the notice be posted on the property by the Sheriff before the 10th day of August 2016, warning all persons interested in said property to be and appear in this Court by the 9th day of September 2016, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances. 7/14-28(3)

AUGUST 3, 2016 at 3:30 PM

ALL THAT FEE SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND and Improvements thereon situated in GARRETT COUNTY, MD and described as follows:

ALL THAT PROPERTY CONVEYED BY DEED DATED DECEMBER 20, 2001 AND RECORDED IN LIBER 878, FOLIO 122

The property will be sold in an "AS IS WHERE IS" condition without either express or implied warranty or representation, including but not limited to the description, fitness for a particular purpose or use, structural integrity, physical condition, construction, extent of construction, workmanship, materials, liability, zoning, subdivision, environmental condition, merchantability, compliance with building or housing codes or other laws, ordinances or regulations, or other similar matters, and subject to easements, agreements and restrictions of record which affect the same, if any. The property will be sold subject to all conditions, liens, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same including any condominium and of HOA assessments pursuant to Md Real Property Article 11-110.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $20,000.00 cash or certified funds shall be required at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price with interest at 6.990% per annum from the date of sale to the date of payment will be paid within TEN DAYS after the final ratification of the sale. Adjustments on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. If applicable, condominium and/or homeowner association dues and assessments that may become due after the time of sale will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, transfer taxes, title insurance, and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Time is of the essence for the purchaser, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property may be resold at risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser. The purchaser agrees to accept service by first class mail and certified mail addressed to the address provided by said Purchaser as identified on the Memorandum of Sale for any Motion or Show Cause Order incident to this sale including a Motion to Default Purchaser and for Resale of the Property. If the sale is not ratified or if the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title in accord with these terms of sale, the purchaser's only remedy is return of the deposit.

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY KNOWN AS NO. 52 GLENDALOCH LANE MCHENRY, MD 21541 CASE NUMBER 11-C-15-014261

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Lewis C. Hibbs, Jr., Susan Hibbs, La Loch LLC, recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1341, folio 487, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting Mark S. Devan, Thomas P. Dore, Christine Drexel, Brian McNair, and Angela Nasuta as Substituted Trustees, the Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse Door-Alder Street Entrance, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, 21550 on Monday, August 1, 2016, at 03:20 p.m.

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, as described in the Deed of Trust recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, in Liber 1341, folio 487, also being further described in a Deed recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1260, folio 97. The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to any existing building violations, restrictions and agreements of record. The purchaser assumes all risks of loss for the property as of the date of sale. Neither the Substituted Trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representations or warranties, either expressed or implied with respect to the property. The Substituted Trustees shall convey insurable title.

TERMS OF THE SALE: A deposit in a form acceptable to the Substituted Trustee in the amount of $50,000.00 will be required of the purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, at the time and place of sale. Any amount tendered at sale in excess of the required deposit will be refunded and not applied to the purchase price. Unless the purchaser is the Holder of the Note or its assigns, the balance of the purchase price shall be paid immediately with available funds within ten (10) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. Time is of the essence. The purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, shall pay interest at the rate of 7.50000% per annum on the unpaid portion of the purchase price from the date of sale to date of settlement. Real property taxes and assessments shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Ground rent, water and/or sewer charges public or private, if any, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property.

In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. If the purchaser defaults, the entire deposit is forfeited. The Substituted Trustees shall resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees, all other charges due, and incidental and consequential damages. Defaulting purchaser also agrees to pay the Substituted Trustees' attorney a fee of $250.00 in connection with the filing of a motion to resell.

In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of the deposit. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagor, the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney. The Substituted Trustees shall have the right to terminate this contract in the event the Holder or its Servicer has entered into any agreement with, or accepted funds from, the mortgagor. Upon termination of the contract, Purchaser's sole remedy shall be return of the deposit.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION NOTICE OF APPLICATION RECEIVED AND TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 15DP3667, NPDES Permit MD0070629:

Maryland Energy Resources, LLC, 1570 Stoystown Road, P.O. Box 260, Friedens, PA 15541 submitted a renewal application for a permit which regulates discharges of mine drainage and storm water from an underground coal mine, located along Durst Rd., southwest of Grantsville, MD, to the North Branch Casselman River (Use III waters). For the renewal, the permittee has requested an increase in the flow limitation at Outfall 001 to 2.2 million gallons per day.

Continuous monitoring is required for pH, conductivity (001 only), and temperature and an automatic shutoff is required in the event of a pH or temperature excursion.

The permit also proposes requirements for wastewater operator certification, biomonitoring, in-stream conductivity monitoring, restrictions on the use of treatment chemicals, best management practices, protection of downstream endangered species, and a storm water pollution prevention plan, and additional requirements for acid mine drainage.

If a written request is received by July 27, 2016, an informational meeting on the application and/or a public hearing on the tentative determination can be scheduled. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn.: Mr. Michael Richardson, Chief, Industrial and General Permits Division and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a meeting or hearing by July 27, 2016 will constitute a waiver of the right to an informational meeting or public hearing on the tentative determination of this permit.

Written comments concerning this tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Richardson at the above address, on or before August 8, 2016. Any hearing-impaired person who requests an informational meeting or public hearing may request an interpreter by contacting Mr. Richardson at (410) 537-3654 or 1-800-633-6101, or by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled meeting or hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the application, fact sheet, and draft permit, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Richardson by telephone to make an appointment or by written request to the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.36 per page. 7/7-14(2)

Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

JULY 27, 2016 AT 1:30 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with any buildings or improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, and any improvements thereon, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $8,000 in the form of certified check, cashier's check or money order will be required of the purchaser at time and place of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Sub. Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year's real property taxes are adjusted as of the date of sale, and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Taxes due for prior years including costs of any tax sale are payable by the purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for any recapture of homestead tax credit. All other public and/or private charges or assessments, to the extent such amounts survive foreclosure sale, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, whether incurred prior to or after the sale to be paid by the purchaser. All costs of deed recordation including but not limited to all transfer, recordation, agricultural or other taxes or charges assessed by any governmental entity as a condition to recordation, are payable by purchaser, whether or not purchaser is a Maryland First Time Home Buyer. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, subject to order of court, purchaser agrees that property will be resold and entire deposit retained by Sub Trustees as liquidated damages for all losses occasioned by the purchaser's default and purchaser shall have no further liability. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Sub. Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if ratification of the sale is denied by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest.

Condominium fees and/or homeowners association dues, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale forward. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Additional terms to be announced at the time of sale.

If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit without interest. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited, to the Trustees for application against all expenses, attorney's fees and the full commission on the sale price of the above-scheduled foreclosure sale. In the event of default, all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Trustees may then re-advertise and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser or may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser without reselling the property. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to receive the surplus, if any, even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulting purchaser and the defaulting purchaser shall be liable to the Trustees and secured party for reasonable attorney's fees and expenses incurred in connection with all litigation involving the Property or the proceeds of the resale.

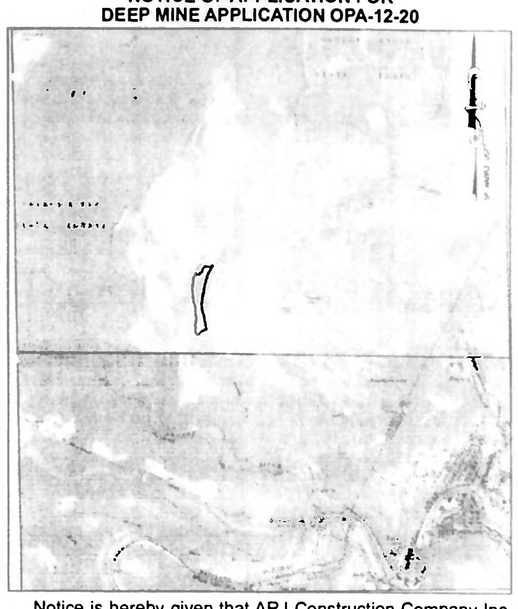
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR DEEP MINE APPLICATION OPA-12-20



Notice is hereby given that ARJ Construction Company Inc. has submitted an application to the Maryland Bureau of Mines for a deep mine operation permit. The proposed operation proposes 31 acres of surface operations area and 1588 acres of underground mining area, near Westernport, Maryland on the East side of Aaron Run, 2.9 miles Northeast of Westernport in Election District #4, Garrett County. N: 678,182 E: 722,437 (NAD 83 FEET MD State Plane Coordinates). Access to the site is from Westernport Road, 2.9 miles Northeast of Westernport, Maryland.

The application proposes to mine within 100 feet of the right-of-way of Westernport Road. The Maryland grid coordinates of the segment of road where mining will be within the specified distance are: N: 675,615 E: 722,475 and N: 678,512 E: 722,810 (NAD 83 FEET MD State Plane Coordinates).

The surface area to be mined is owned by Moran Coal Company, P.O. Drawer E, Westernport, MD. 21562. The mineral to be mined is owned by Moran Coal Company, P.O. Drawer E, Westernport, MD. 21562 and Junior & Clarabella Fazenbaker, 102 Duckworth Street, Westernport, MD. 21563

The permit area is within the U.S. Geological Survey Barton 7.5 minute quadrangle.

The application includes plans to construct two ponds which will control sediment and stormwater on the mine area. The ponds will be located within the proposed mine permit area. In addition to the coal mining permit, the construction of the ponds will require a separate small pond approval from the Bureau of Mines.

A copy of the mine permit application, which includes the pond plans for the small pond approval, is available for public review during regular office hours at the Bureau of Mines and the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development – Permits and Inspection Division Office, Courthouse Building, 203 South Fourth Street, Room 208, Oakland, MD. 21550

Questions concerning any aspect of the application may be directed to the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Permitting Section, at (301) 689-1440. Written comments, requests for public hearing, and requests to be included on the interested persons list regarding this application will be received until August 15, 2016, by the Bureau of Mines, Permitting Section, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532.

Further notice about this application will be provided only to those persons that submit comments, request a public hearing, or request to be included on the list of interested persons.

GriefShare Classes To Be Available At Loch Lynn Church

Community members who have experienced the death of a family member or friend are invited to enroll in a GriefShare program, to be held at Loch Lynn Church of God. Classes will be held on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. starting on Aug. 3.

The 13-week program features Christ-centered, biblical teachings that focus on topics associated with the death of a loved one. This DVD seminar also features nationally known grief experts and real-life stories of people followed by small group discussions.

"Many grieving people find they are only beginning the work of healing when friends or family have returned to their daily life routines," said a church spokesperson. "Past participants have voiced how helpful the information and follow-up discussions were to them."

Participants' bereavement experiences may be recent or not so recent.

"At GriefShare, you will find encouragement, comfort and help in grieving the death of a spouse, child, parent, sibling, other family member or friend," the spokesperson said. "It is an opportunity to be around people who understand the journey of grief. The program provides valuable information and tools for creating a new normal in life and renewing hope for the future."

The only cost is for the program workbook, which is $15. To register or obtain more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221. The deadline to sign up is Wednesday, July 20, in order to make sure enough materials are ordered.

The church is located along Rt. 560 at 8649 Gorman Road, Loch Lynn, between radio station WEBH and SUMMER READERS "DIVE INTO ADVENTURE" – Summer Reading Club at the Oakland library began recently with a "Dive Into Adventure," as Mike Malfaro and Kyra Griffith, both instructors at Garrett College's Adventure Sports Institute, took the participants on a rock climbing adventure. "A group of 44 children and 20 adults learned about rock climbing equipment, safety precautions, tying clove hitches and figure 8s, and the beautiful places you get to visit when pursuing this activity," said a Ruth Enlow Library spokesperson. Malfaro pointed out the importance of the buddy system and making sure all equipment is working properly. The photo shows him demonstrating how to tie a clove hitch to several participants. Summer Reading Club programs are scheduled at all Ruth Enlow Library locations during July. A complete list is available at src.relib.net.

SHA To Conduct Resurfacing Work On Rt. 40 Alternate

Next week the Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration (SHA) will begin resurfacing 3.5 miles of U.S. Rt. 40 Alt. (National Pike) between U.S. Rt. 219 (Chestnut Ridge Road) and Green Lantern Road. Weather permitting, the $2 million project will be complete in spring 2017.

Drivers can expect single-lane closures, with a flagging operation Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

SHA's contractor, Keystone Lime Co. Inc. of Springs, Pa., will patch, grind (remove the top layer of pavement), resurface, restripe the pavement, and install new guardrail. Additionally, significant drainage improvements will be made to the corridor, according to SHA.

Approximately 2,000 vehicles use this section of Rt. 40 Alt. each day, and motorists should plan extra travel time during the project work, a spokesperson for SHA noted.

In addition to a flagging operation, SHA will use barrels, dynamic message signs, and arrow boards to guide motorists through the work zone.

"While SHA and its transportation partners work hard to maintain safe traffic mobility in work zones, each driver needs to actively modify his or her driving style to help prevent crashes," the spokesperson said. "Stay alert and

"CAN'T YOU SEE we're starving here, mother!" (Baby house-wren translated into English.) Moms all over the world – and throughout the animal kingdom – are exceedingly familiar with such regular demands from their youngins', and this encounter was captured on camera by Lisa Rook in her back yard. Speaking (writing?) of animals, pet owners are reminded that during such times of soaring temperatures, their four-legged family members should not be left in hot automobiles, and should have access to plenty of water as well as shade. The weather prognosticators predict that the mercury could rise into the low 90s this weekend.

Risk Of Asthma Attacks Elevated Among Patients In Fracked Areas

Researchers at Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health published a new study in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) linking asthma attacks and proximity to drilling and fracking operations.

The analysis included more than 35,000 asthma patients ranging in age from 5 to 90 who live in the heavily fracked state of Pennsylvania. The study found that asthma attacks were 1.5 to 4 times more likely among asthma patients living closer to drilling and fracking operations than among asthma patients living farther away.

This study was published Monday, the same day public comments were due on recently released issue papers from the Maryland Department of the Environment, as MDE prepares to release regulations for fracking in Maryland. Evidence of adverse health outcomes continue to mount where fracking is occurring.

"Asthma has an enormous impact on the quality of life of the over 24 million people in the United States with this disease," said Lois Wessel, a family nurse practitioner with the Mid-Atlantic Center on Children's Health and the Environment. "The total cost of treating asthma in

Annual Kitzmiller Homecoming Set For This Saturday

The 28th annual Kitzmiller Homecoming is scheduled for this Saturday, July 23. The event will commence at 10 a.m. with local vendors, including craft makers, photographers, artists, and musicians at the former Kitzmiller Elementary School yard, 288 West Main Street.

There will also be historic carriage rides, inflatable entertainments for children, food, games, "make and takes," sporting tournaments, and live music by the Kenny Jones Band.

Later in the day, there will be a firemen's parade with local volunteer fire units, clowns, bands, politicians, and other participates.

The day will conclude with a fireworks display by Pyrotecnico over the Potomac River.

GC Commissioners Sign Resolution To Enable Businesses To Join MD-PACE

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners recently passed a resolution enabling property and business owners in the county to take advantage of Maryland's Commercial Property Assessed Clean Energy (MD-PACE) program.

The commissioners describe MD-PACE as an "innovative and affordable" way for commercial, industrial, and nonprofit building owners to pay for energy improvements.

Through MD-PACE, commercial, industrial, and nonprofit properties use private capital to finance 100 percent of efficiency and renewable energy upgrades, which are then repaid as a long-term surcharge on the property.

This kind of voluntary surcharge added to a property's tax bill is similar to a surcharge for a sewer or water line. According to the commissioners, this approach makes energy upgrades accessible, allowing owners to reduce energy and operational costs and improve their buildings' overall value.

"The interesting thing about this program is it can help make energy cost saving improvements affordable for smaller businesses that couldn't otherwise afford it," said Commissioner Jim Hinebaugh, former director of the Garrett County Department of Economic Development."

PACE programs are active in over 15 states nationally and have led to over $250 million of investment into commercial buildings, according to program officials.

Dung Hill Road Will Be Closed For Eight Weeks

The Garrett County Department of Public Works – Roads Division announced yesterday that Dung Hill Road, at the bridge, will be closed to through traffic beginning on Monday, July 25. This closure will be effective for approximately eight weeks.

The public is advised that an alternate route of traffic during this closure would be Legeer Road to Dung Hill Road, and vice versa.

Persons with questions are asked to call the Accident Roads Garage at 301-746-8156.

Survey Conducted To Obtain Data On GC Landfill Waste

What does Garrett County throw away? The Garrett County Department of Solid Waste and Recycling is expecting some answers to that question in the coming months.

The Maryland Department of the Environment is working with the Northeast Maryland Waste Disposal Authority (NMWDA) to sample a cross section of waste brought to Maryland landfills by commercial haulers.

"One goal of the survey is to maintain geographical diversity across the state in the sampling, making Garrett County an excellent candidate for participation," said Dave Baker, department manager "The Board of Garrett County Commissioners support this effort, which will gather data that can be used to look for ways to minimize the impacts of refuse on the environment."

Katherine McIlroy of NMWDA arrived this past Friday to document the status of sampling at the Garrett County landfill.

"Katherine spent the better part of the day observing the sampling being conducted by MidAtlantic Solid Waste Consultants (MSW)," Baker said. "Joe Vetrano and Natalee Henry of MSW led an efficient and enthusiastic

GC Commissioners Give Good News, Bad News On Bloomington Water Proj.

The Garrett County commissioners presented some good news and some bad news about the proposed Bloomington Water System Project during their public meeting in the town's fire hall Tuesday evening. About 20 local residents attended the event.

"The good news is, we have commitments from three funding agencies," commission chair Paul Edwards said about the $1.5 million initiative.

Those sources are the Appalachian Regional Commission, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development.

"I don't know the exact amount of money right now," Edwards said, "but that money's there specifically for this project."

The county wants to abandon Bloomington's deteriorating treatment plant/water storage tank and purchase water from nearby Westernport, which plans to install a new 750,000 gallon water storage tank, pump station, and 8,500 linear feet of waterline to improve service to about 1,500 households and 45 businesses in Westernport. Allegany County has secured at least $3 million in federal grants and loans for the project so far.

A planned Westernport extension line would also provide water service to nearby Luke, the Verso paper mill, and Bloomington. To get the water to Bloomington, Garrett County government would install a 6,000-foot pipeline. This would start at Luke's extension line meter, run along Rt. 135, go under the Savage River, and connect to Bloomington's current water intake pump. The water would then be distributed through the town's current lines. A new 100,000-gallon concrete water storage tank, however, would be needed.

Since the Westernport project has the potential to benefit several entities, Allegany County, Garrett County, state, and federal officials

Sierra Club Announces At Local Seminar Campaign To Ban Fracking

Approximately 70 people joined representatives from the Maryland Sierra Club, Friends of Deep Creek Lake (FoDCL), Citizen Shale, and the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association (YRWA) on Saturday for a day-long learning seminar about on-the-ground dangers of shale gas development in Garrett County.

The day began at Ace's Run Restaurant with a presentation hosted by FoDCL, at which Sierra Club, part of a statewide coalition that includes Citizen Shale from western Maryland, used the occasion to announce its support for a campaign to ban fracking in Maryland, planned for the 2017 General Assembly session.

"As the health effects have become well understood, there is a surge in opposition to fracking across the state," said Josh Tulkin, Maryland Sierra Club director. "We are inspired by Friendsville Town Council's recent decision to ban fracking within the town limits. No fracking is allowed by law in Montgomery County and Prince George's County, and Charles County is headed that way. We can leverage support from 48,000 [Sierra Club] members in Maryland alone to make it our top legislative priority."

Following the morning program, FoDCL led a boat tour of the lake for about 20 persons. Director Barbara Beelar and "captains" Bill Heinz, Richard Matlick, and Max Petersen showed examples of invasive aquatic species, shoreline erosion, sewer spills, and sediment accumulation.

The last stop of the tour was Cherry Creek Cove, where the largest lake tributary flows into the lake. Beelar said that DNR has determined that this tributary is of high concern if fracking were permitted because of the numerous mineral leases which have been signed both inside the DCL watershed and on abutting property along this stream. FoDCL volunteer Charlie Lefebure has been sampling three sites on Cherry Creek for the past four years as a part of the Marcellus Shale Water Monitoring project.

Beelar informed the boat tour participants that even if the county decided to prohibit the location of wellheads in the DCL watershed, fracking could still occur under the watershed surface through hori-

Oakland Man Is Sentenced For Soliciting Minors

A 23-year-old Oakland man was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court in three cases, resulting in an aggregate sentence of 10 years in the Division of Correction. Of that sentence, 8½ years were suspended.

After serving 18 months in the Garrett County Detention Center, Grayson Craig Shomo will be on probation for five years. Conditions of his probation include having no contact with the victims in the three cases, having no internet access, and complying with the requirements of the sexual offender management program.

Last July, investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office executed a search and seizure warrant and seized various electronic devices from Shomo's residence. During subsequent forensic examinations, it was discovered that Shomo had communicated with a number of underage females in the Oakland area, leading to further investigation and charges being brought in October and November 2015.

For a charge of sexual solicitation of a minor, Shomo was sentenced to four years in the Division of Correction, with three years suspended. This case involved a series of text messages between Shomo and a 13-year old in which he solicited her to perform various sexual acts, the state's attorney said.

For a charge of soliciting for child pornography, Shomo was sentenced to four years in the Division of Correction, with 3½ years suspended, to run consecutively to the first sentence. In this case, Shomo requested an underage female to send to him a video of her engaging in sexual activity.

For a charge of third degree sexual offense, Shomo was sentenced to two years in the Division of Correction,

AN AMAZING "SPECIMAN" of a 1940 Packard 160 Super-8 automobile is currently on loan to the Garrett County Historical Society's Transportation Museum in Oakland, courtesy of the vehicle's owners, Jeannette and Gary Fitzwater of Mountain Lake Park. According to the informational certificate accompanying the vehicle, this was the first year of what some people refer to as the "small" Packard. The body and trim of the larger original were redesigned to give the car a more updated appearance. It is an extremely rare vehicle, as no more than 160 of this particular model were produced and sold worldwide, and it is believed that fewer than 20 of them still exist today. The Fitzwaters have owned the car for over 35 years and have fully restored it during that time. It recently garnered first place in its class at a major antique auto show in Hershey, Pa.

BILOXI BLUES is the title of the next offering of Theatre on the Lake (TOTL), with performances slated for July 28, 29, and 30 at 7:30 p.m. each evening. A semi-autobiographical comedy by Neil Simon, Biloxi Blues portrays the conflict of Sgt. Merwin J. Toomey and Pvt. Arnold Epstein, as seen through the eyes of Pvt. Eugene Jerome, one of many soldiers stationed in Biloxi, Miss., during World War II. Cast members pictured above, from left, are Casey Johnson, David Kirk, Todd Hull, Josh Adili, AJ DeLauder, and Daniel Crowley. All performances of TOTL, a nonprofit organization, are staged at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley, located at the end of Gravelly Run Road, just off Rt. 219 at McHenry. Reservations may be made by calling 304-680-1002 or tickets may be purchased online at www.totltheatre.org. Photo provided by John Feather.

Annual Friendsville Days Set To Begin July 29 With A Picnic Dinner In The Park

Friendsville Days 2016 will be held on Friday and Saturday, July 29 and 30, with a variety of food, activities, and entertainment planned at Friendsville Community Park.

Friday's event will begin with a picnic-style dinner at 5:30 p.m. that is sponsored by the Friendsville Days Committee and free to the public. Musical entertainment will be provided by BS Entertainment at 7 p.m., and the crowning of the Friendsville Days Queen will also take place that evening. Door prizes, games, and food will be available throughout the evening

Saturday's event will begin with a parade at noon. Persons/organizations interested in participating in the parade are asked to contact Roger Sisler at 301-746-5476. The newly crowned Miss Maryland (sponsored by Friendsville Pharmacy) will also participate in the parade, as well as opening ceremonies following the parade. The ceremony will be held at the community park following the parade, and will include a 21-gun salute by county veterans.

The John Wyrick Band will provide the musical entertainment throughout Saturday. There will also be a bicycle decorating contest and a wing eating contest held at center stage. More details can be found in today's Friendsville News column.

The annual Car, Truck, and Motorcycle Show is slated for Saturday from 2 to 6 p.m. Registration will be held from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Friendsville Community Park Little League Field. Dash plaques and goody bags will go to the first 50 to register. For more information, persons may contact Pat Riep-Dice at 301-746-4280. A Kid's Choice trophy will be awarded, as well as the Buddy Dice Memorial trophy.

Saturday will consist of door prizes, food booths, games and rides, vendors, a puppet show, horseshoe tournament, three-on-three basketball tournament, sand volleyball, and more. The Senior Center will host bingo and a bake sale in the air-conditioned building also on Saturday.

The Steve Smith Band will be performing on Saturday evening beginning at 7 p.m. Fireworks will top off the evening at 10:15 p.m.

"The two-day event will hold something for everyone," said a spokesperson. "So bring a chair and stay all day."

The event will be held rain or shine. For more information on any of these events, persons may contact Lucretia Sines at 301-746-5933.

Amish Family Hurt In Crash Along Rt. 669

A collision involving an Amish buggy and a car near Springs, Pa., injured seven members of an Amish family around 10 a.m. on Sunday

Crews reportedly found the buggy "torn apart" when they responded to the scene on Route 669, and medical helicopters from three states were called.

Five children and two adults were thrown from the buggy during the collision.

According to reports, the father, William Yoder, 32, a 10-year-old girl, and a 3-year-old boy were flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va. Mary Yoder, 31, and three other children were transported by ambulance.

The driver of the car, Shirley Brinegar, 78, Salisbury, Pa., was not injured.

The incident occurred when both the vehicle and the buggy were southbound up a hill.

Responding to the scene were Pennsylvania State Police, the Salisbury Volunteer Fire Department, and the Grantsville Fire Department.

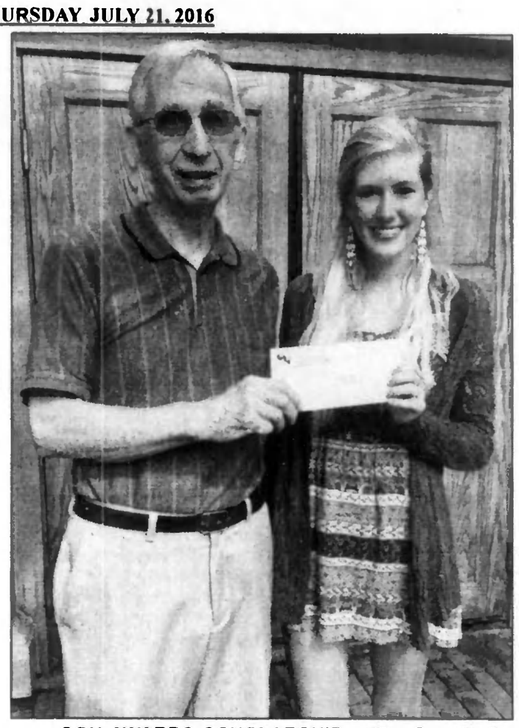
A state police helicopter was sent from the Cumberland barracks of the Maryland State Police, and medical helicopters were dispatched from West Virginia and Somerset, Pa.

Man Taken Into Custody On Sex Offense Charge

A McHenry man was arrested on sex offense and assault charges Tuesday. Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office Criminal Investigation Division executed the arrest following a week-long investigation.

Dustin Michael Fike, 21, was charged with third-degree sex offense, second-degree assault, and perverted practice. The charges stem from an incident that reportedly occurred in June.

Fike was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing. He was released from custody later the same day.



GOH AWARDS SCHOLARSHIP – The Garrett Organization for the Handicapped (GOH), now in its 40th year of service to Garrett County citizens with disabilities, recently awarded its Dorothy R. Leuba Schoiarship to Shay Tasker, a 2016 honors graduate of Southern High School. Shay, the daughter of Rick and Ronda Tasker, Swanton, plans to help persons with disabilities as an occupationai therapists upon completion of her studies at Garrett Coilege and West Virginia University. Shown presenting the award to Shay is Tom Graybill, of the GOH Scholarship Committee. GOH is supported by donations from Garrett County citizens, businesses, and civic organizations. The money is used to help meet the needs of county citizens who face essentiai expenses, unmet by other funding sources, related to the disabling condition of family members or persons in their care, and to assist in meeting expenses of post-high school education for those with disabiilities or those seeking to provide services to peopie with disabiilities. GOH may be contacted by writing to P.O. Box 223, Oakland, MD 21550.

WVU Research Concludes Fracking Waste Is Safe For Use On Highways

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. – Researchers at West Virginia University studied drilling wastes produced at two research wells near Morgantown and found they are well below federal guidelines for radioactive or hazardous waste.

Paul Ziemkiewicz, director of the West Virginia Water Research Institute at WVU, presented these and other findings from the Marcellus Shale Energy and Environmental Laboratory, or MSEEL, this week at the Appalachian Basin Technology Workshop in Canonsburg, Pa.

Dr. Ziemkiewicz and his research team are studying the solid and liquid drilling wastes that are generated during shale gas development. These include drill cuttings, muds, and produced water.

Drilling a horizontal well in the Marcellus shale produces about 500 tons of rock fragments, known as cuttings. WVU researchers have been studying the radioactivity and toxicity of the drill cuttings, which are trucked on public roads to county landfills.

MSEEL scientists found that using the "green" drilling mud BioBase 365 at the well site resulted in all 12 cuttings samples passing the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's test for leaching toxicity, allowing them to be classified as non-hazardous for non-radiological parameters like benzene and arsenic.

They determined that the drilling mud exerted a strong influence over the environmental risks associated with handling and disposing of drill cuttings.

Ziemkiewicz discussed the findings in the context of the West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and federal standards for transportation and landfilling. For example, the U.S. Department of Transportation classifies solid wastes exceeding 2,000 pico curies per gram (pCi/g) as low level radioactive waste requiring special permitting and handling.

"Radium is the dominant radioactive element in drilling wastes. In our study, the highest radium readings were below 10.8 pCi/g in the horizontal legs of the two production wells at the MSEEL site. Most were below 5 pCi/g," said Ziemkiewicz. "The highest radium level in produced water found so far was 17 pCi/g. All of these are well below the U.S. Department of Transportation standard."

Placing these materials in landfills, however, requires compliance with state landfilling regulations, which are based on exposure levels.

Ziemkiewicz's team has also sampled the waste streams at the two production wells to identify changes in organic, inorganic, and radiochemical composition over time. Among these findings, Ziemkiewicz noted that almost all contaminants increase through the production phase of an unconventional gas well while the volume of water drops rapidly. Toxic concentrations far exceed permissible levels for drinking water or discharge to streams. Most of this water is used for subsequent hydraulic fracturing operations. The remainder is disposed of under the states' underground injection well programs.

When the production wells were completed in early December 2015, about 50 gallons of produced water came out of the wells each minute. Within a week that dropped to four gallons per minute, and it is currently one third of a gallon per minute or 460 gallons per day.

The MSEEL project is led by West Virginia University and the Ohio State University, in partnership with Northeast Natural Energy, Schlumberger, and the National Energy Technology Laboratory of the United States Department of Energy. It is the first-ever long-term, comprehensive field study of shale gas resources in which scientists will study the process from beginning-to-end.

The project site consists of an intensively instrumented science well and two shale gas production wells where researchers from WVU, Ohio State, the U.S. Geological Survey, USDOE, and several other universities are studying what happens during and after hydraulic fracturing. The five-year MSEEL project includes engineers, ecologists, public health professionals, social scientists, and others. The comprehensive studies include monitoring of baseline air, noise, light, and water, as well as collecting of geological environmental and other data.

"This has not been done in a publicly funded study before," said Ziemkiewicz.

Adorable Adoptables

SEVERAL HOMELESS PETS ARE CURRENTLY HOUSED at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. They include Sweetie (above left), an adorable stray tabby who was found along Gorman Road. Above right is Luvvy, a female medium-haired tabby who had kittens that went to good homes and now needs one for herself. Below left is Andy, a very friendly male beagle who was picked up as a stray along Rt. 219. He is wearing a collar. Below right is Boo Boo, a black/white tuxedo male feline who was found in McHenry. For more information about these animals, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. "Please make sure your outside pets have adequate shelter from the sun, and please clean out the water bowl each week so that algae doesn't form in it and make your pet sick," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. Customer Service Initiative Allows Vets To "Skip The Trip" To MVA

Gov. Larry Hogan announced on Tuesday that the Maryland Department of Transportation's Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) will begin issuing permanent vehicle registration cards and license plate stickers to Maryland veterans who qualify as 100 percent disabled.

While the stickers and registration cards have been free to qualified veterans for several years, this allows qualified veterans to skip the trip to the MVA to renew their registration. This initiative was developed by employees at the MVA and is part of Hogan's initiative to improve customer service across Maryland state agencies.

"Since taking office, our administration has been committed to finding ways to provide veterans the support they have earned and deserve," said Hogan. "This includes tax relief, down payment assistance for home ownership, and expanded job opportunities. Tuesday's announcement is another opportunity to give back to our veterans and show our gratitude to those brave men and women who have served our country."

Qualified veterans do not need to take any action to enjoy this new benefit. The MVA will begin mailing the permanent registration cards and stickers on Monday, Aug. 1, to approximately 5,200 Maryland veterans who qualify as 100 percent disabled, as determined by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs.

Prior to this initiative, qualified Maryland veterans had to renew their vehicle registration, free of charge, every two years at an MVA office.

"Gov. Hogan challenged us to improve services to our customers, and we are delivering on his call to action," said transportation secretary Pete K. Rahn. "By avoiding a trip to the MVA, we are saving time not only for our veterans, but also for customers who must visit one of our offices to complete a transaction."

"In keeping with the governor's commitment to improve customer service, the MVA's new policy now makes vehicle registration more convenient for veterans living with disabilities," said Maryland Department of Veterans Affairs secretary George W. Owings III. "The issuance of permanent registration cards follows the designation of veteran on the front of the driver's license and identification card. These two new practices demonstrate Maryland's continued commitment to supporting the men and women who honorably served in the U.S. armed forces."

Last month, Gov. Hogan launched the Customer Service Initiative, a continuous program designed to foster improvements in customer service across Maryland state agencies. The initiative focuses on three core deliverables: a renewed focus on a strong service culture in state agencies, improved customer service training for state employees, and the establishment of new service performance metrics, which will allow the administration and all Marylanders to track improvements in customer service over time.

DRILLING MAP SHARED – Nadine Grabania of Citizen Shale uses a gas-driller's map to explain the industry's 2011 strategy for fracking near the Youghiogheny River in the Friendsville area, but the drilling never got started in Maryland because of a state-legislated moratorium – a moratorium that will expire in October. Grabania was among about 70 people who joined representatives last Saturday from the Maryland Sierra Club, Friends of Deep Creek Lake, Citizen Shale, and Youghiogheny River Watershed Association for a day-long learning seminar that focused on the various dangers/risks of shale gas development in Garrett County. See story.

zontal drilling from wellheads located in nearby parcels.

"Volunteers like Charlie Lefebure have provided us with quality baseline data so if fracking were to happen we will be able to measure impacts of our surface waters and the lake," Beelar said.

Speaking at the morning kick-off, James "Smokey" Stanton, chair of YRWA, listed fracking as a threat to the watershed equal to that of the widespread coal mining from the previous generation.

"Acid-minE drainage from abandoned mines is what got our organization started, back in the 1990s," he said. "And, of course, YRWA has been instrumental in dealing with that. But we must protect our surface and groundwater from fracking. Our elected representatives are not accurately portraying its potential cost to the environment. It's up to all of us to make that case."

Following the boat tour, the group then traveled to Friendsville to observe areas located relatively close to fracking sites just across the border in Pennsylvania, as well as likely sites that would be among the first in Maryland if fracking is ultimately permitted.

While the group was located along the Youghiogheny River north of Friendsville, Citizen Shale's Nadine Grabania noted what has kept Maryland "frack-free for seven years" was the intervention of residents in 2010-11, which led to the formation of Citizen Shale and eventually forced industry and western Maryland's elected state delegation to abandon earlier plans for some 300 gas wells in the county.

"Here they are again," she said. "But this time, we're all here."

Judge Moylan Hears Variety Of District Court Cases

Two cases were recently heard in Garrett County District Court, Oakland, with sentences handed down by Judge Stephen Martin Moylan.

Joy Schwartz Balogh, 62, Swanton, pleaded guilty to a charge of resisting/interfering with an arrest.

Balogh was charged on April 19 by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after Deputy J. Guy was dispatched regarding a domestic disturbance.

According to the report, Balogh struck the victim in the face and caused bleeding. The defendant claimed that she was shoved first and was only retaliating.

When Guy attempted to put Balogh in custody, the defendant proceeded to punch the officer in the stomach, according to the report.

Moylan issued a probation before judgment verdict, placing Balogh on one year of unsupervised probation. He was also fined $500, $250 of which was suspended.

Adam Lee Yommer, 37, McHenry, entered an "other" plea for charges of fourth-degree sexual offense/contact and second-degree assault.

Yommer was charged by the GCSO after Ofc. Bittinger responded to reports of a sexual assault on May 5.

According to the report, Yommer had reportedly grabbed the victim inappropriately after having a hug between them. A witness reported that he had grabbed the victim. Yommer denied any wrongdoing when approached a few days later which was all suspended, but also runs consecutively. In this case, Shomo had inappropriate sexual contact with an underage female.

Moylan ruled a "stet" verdict for both charges, with the conditions that Yommer must obey all laws and complete 40 hours of community service within six months.

Shomo entered guilty pleas to the charge in April, and sentencing was postponed for a presentence investigation report to be provided to the court.

In another case from last week, Jeremy Ray Guthrie, 29, Oakland, was sentenced for possession with intent to distribute cocaine to eight years in the DOC. Three years were then suspended, and Guthrie will be on probation upon his release from prison.

Guthrie was arrested by investigators with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in August 2015. After confirming information they received during an ongoing investigation, the vehicle in which he was a passenger was stopped along I-68 after entering Maryland.

After a certified drug-detection canine gave a positive alert, the vehicle and occupants were searched. A quantity of cocaine was found on Guthrie's person that officers who are qualified to provide expert testimony described as sufficient to establish Guthrie had the intent to distribute.

Guthrie pleaded guilty to the charge in April, and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered to be completed for sentencing.

In another Circuit Court proceeding from last week, Julia Anne Marie Chester, 28, Morgantown, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession with intent to distribute marijuana. Judge Ray Strubin then sentenced Chester to 18 months in the Garrett County Detention Center. Acknowledging a number of health conditions of Chester, the sentence was then suspended, and she was placed on three years of probation.

Chester was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in February. Officers came into contact with Chester while directing traffic along Swanton Road because of a disabled tractor-trailer. When Chester pulled up to one of the officers, he could smell the odor of burnt marijuana coming from the car, leading him to search the vehicle for contraband. Marijuana was found in various forms, including mixed with wax and in a number of large baggies in both the passenger and trunk areas of the car.

Also located in the car was $3,492, which was seized by the county after a certified drug detection dog gave a positive alert. At sentencing, Judge Strubin ordered that this money be forfeited.

In an unrelated case, Jarrod Olen Wilburn, 33, Grantsville, appeared in Garrett County Circuit Court and admitted to violating his probation. Judge Strubin then re-imposed 18 months of a six-year suspended sentence that was previously imposed by Judge Jim Sherbin in 2014.

In 2014, Wilburn pleaded guilty to conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute heroin and was sentenced by Sherbin to 10 years in the DOC, with six years of the sentence suspended. Wilburn was placed on probation upon his release from prison, and violated that probation by committing a second degree assault and illegally possessing a regulated firearm. He is serving an 18-month sentence for those charges.

For the violation, Judge Strubin re-imposed 18 months of the previously suspended sentence, to run consecutively to his current sentence.

Joseph Paul Otto, 34, Friendsville, also admitted to violating his probation. In 2012, Otto pleaded guilty to felony theft, and Judge Sherbin sentenced him to three years in the DOC, with two years suspended. Otto was placed on probation after his release from the jail.

Otto violated his probation in 2015 when he was arrested, and later convicted, in Fayette County, Pa., for possession of a controlled dangerous substance and CDS paraphernalia. In addition to incurring new charges, Otto had been in Pennsylvania without the permission of his probation agent and did not report the arrest to his agent, according to the state's attorney

For the violation, Strubin re-imposed six months of the previously suspended sentence.

Matthew Jacob Hebb, 21, Oakland, also pleaded guilty in two circuit court cases last week. In the first case, Hebb pleaded guilty to second degree assault, with additional charges dismissed. He was sentenced to six months in the Garrett County Detention Center, with five months suspended. He will be on probation upon his release from jail and was also assessed fines and costs totaling $675.

Hebb was charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in this November 2015 case after the victim disclosed inappropriate contact between she and Hebb, to which Hebb later admitted.

In the second case, Hebb pled guilty to displaying obscene material to a minor and related charges were dismissed. He was then sentenced to six months in the Garrett County Detention Center, which were suspended in favor of probation. Conditions of his probation include having no contact with this victim and paying fines and costs totaling $715.

In this case, officers with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office who were investigating the first matter searched Hebb's cell phone and located images shared between him and a juvenile. Among images that had been provided to the juvenile were those that the criminal statute defines as obscene. This led to his December arrest.

HOSPICE PRESIDENT RETIRES – The 2016-17 election was recently held by the Hospice board of directors. President Elaine Marple announced her retirement as current president and resigned her seat on the board after serving since 1998. "Elaine's dedication and hard work on the board will certainly be missed," said Donna Brenneman, Hospice executive director. "It will be difficult not having her at the meetings; providing history and insight from her years serving on the board. We are thankful for all that she has done." From left are vice president Ernie Gregg, treasurer Pauline Faucett, Marple, Brenneman, new president Linda Sherbin, and secretary Lawrence Sherwood.

Cost vs. Value...

All new houses in Maryland are now required to be equipped with residential fire sprinklers, an item that adds a considerable sum to the cost of building that new house. There was considerable opposition to the legislation, most of which based upon that significant extra cost, making housing more unaffordable for many.

But information released just this morning from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office helps make the case for such a requirement, and many of those points are as follows:

•Home fire sprinklers save lives and property by reacting during the early stages of the fires occurring inside the dwelling.

•Smoke does not affect fire sprinklers. Home fire sprinklers react to high heat temperatures of 155° to 165°.

• Only the sprinkler closest to the fire operates and sprays water directly on the fire. Because of the quick response of the fire sprinkler, the fire is almost always controlled and/or extinguished prior to the fire department's arrival.

•The risk of dying in a home fire decreases significantly when the home is equipped with a fire sprinkler system.

•Home sprinklers are easy to maintain, and a simple test by the homeowner or a contractor can be performed annually to ensure proper water flow in the system.

•Insurance companies offer discounts from 5% to 30% off the fire portion coverage of the home (one clear way for the system to eventually pay for itself).

•Fire sprinklers are environmentally friendly. The amount of water runoff, pollution, and fire damage is reduced by as much as 71%. According to the National Fire Protection Association, water usage to fight a home fire can be reduced by as much as 91%.

•Materials found in homes today burn faster and at a higher heat release rate, as compared to furnishings and small appliances made 20 or more years ago. Fires tend to grow much faster, which allows even less time to escape the deadly heat and toxins produced during a fire.

•In 2015, 61% of the fatal home fires in Maryland occurred between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. when Marylanders are most vulnerable – while sleeping.

So, yes, having to install a sprinkler system in one's new home without question adds a relatively hefty sum to the list of construction costs. But one must then consider the value of even one life that is saved because of the presence of that system.

To the Editor:

In October, we will celebrate our sixth year as second-home owners in Garrett County. Whether skiing, biking, kayaking, hiking, or simply sitting on our deck after a heavy rain watching Smith Run cascade into Deep Creek Lake, our time here is precious, renewing body and soul. Sometimes the privilege of sharing this bounty with the full-time residents of the county seems too good to be true.

And that just might be the case if, in their upcoming session, Maryland's legislators fail to ban natural gas companies from exploiting the Marcellus shale formation upon which Garrett is perched through hydraulic fracturing (fracking).

This risky method of extraction poses the threat of tragic damage to public health, rivers, streams, drinking water and the tourism and real estate base that is the county's economic engine.

Picture convoys of tanker trucks and semis carrying drilling equipment backing up traffic on Routes 219 and 68. Picture the industrialization of our pristine watersheds and valleys.

While we have been enjoying Garrett's bounty, dozens of our full-time neighbors have spent months and years researching the dangers of fracking and traveling to Annapolis to stand up to the lobbyists for the gas companies who seek to cover up the industry's harm. Their efforts succeeded in winning a two-year moratorium on fracking. The moratorium ends in 2017.

In July, the Maryland Department of the Environment came here for a public hearing on proposed regulations after the moratorium ends. An overwhelming majority of the 200 residents in attendance criticized the weakness of MDE's regulations and called for a ban on fracking.

Become better informed about fracking. Visit the Websites of Citizen Shale, Engage Mountain Maryland, Don't Frack Maryland, and the Sierra Club Maryland Chapter. Encourage your homeowners association to take a stand.

But the greatest support we can give to this critical fight to protect Garrett County is asking our legislators back home to support a ban on fracking. With second-home owners spread throughout Maryland's counties, our voices can be persuasive and decisive.

Hand-written postcards, letters, and phone calls are most effective. Find your legislator at http://mgaleg.maryland.gov. If you own property in Maryland, but don't vote here, Senate President Mike Miller can speak for you. Write or call 410-841-3700 or State House H-107, Annapolis, MD 21401-1991.

We owe it to our neighbors, the next generation, and ourselves to act. Ban fracking now!

To the Editor:

The Mt. Beulah Restoration Association Inc. would like to thank all who participated in our 9th annual Bluegrass/Gospel Music Festival at the Grantsville Park on June 18.

Participating bands were Grantsville Jammin'; Second Wind; Mercy Rains; Loretta Hummel and Country Grass; Durst Brothers Band; and Broken Glass and Rusty Hinges. Without their music, we would not be able to hold this event each year.

Many local businesses contributed to our silent auction, and they included: Annie's Country Kitchen, Auto Land of Accident, Backyard Bears: BFS-Bruceton Ag Service-Grantsville, CarQuest Auto Parts, Curt's Restaurant, First United Bank (Grantsville), Flowerloft, Fratz True Value Hardware, G&W Lumber, Grantsville Auto Parts (NAPA), Green Valley Foods, Hardesty's True Value, Hartman's Liberty, Hill Top Fruit Market, Keystone Lime Company, Lakeview Auto Parts, Lynn Lais Pottery, Mark's Harness Shop, Mountain Postal, New U Connections, Noah R. Kinsinger, Penn Alps Restaurant, Ruth Paugh, Springs Store, Traditions Family Restaurant, and Xtreme Power Sports.

With the help of these contributors, members of Mt. Beulah and the community, we are able to continue with the restoration of the historic Mt. Beulah Church. Thank you to all from the members of the Mt. Beulah Restoration Association.

To the Editor:

Equal protection, equal justice, environmental justice.

Do these words mean anything to officials at MDE and the Hogan administration?

There are no safe ways to drill for gas and no such thing as safe regulations. Let's stop this facade that's been going on for at least 10 years in our great state of Maryland. The only way to do this is ban fracking.

Under your "new and improved" proposed regulations, my property and home are in what has been referred in previous years as a "sacrifice zone" – which means it is within 1,000 feet of proposed (in the past) gas well drilling. It also means that my well and only water source would be within 1,000 feet of the gas well. It seems that under the new proposed regulations, others will have special protection by zoning. Is this equal protection and equal justice for citizens? NO.

I have a question and would like a reply from Governor Hogan, officials at the MDE, George Edwards, Wendell Beitzel, the three Garrett County commissioners, and Deborah Carpenter: Would you allow fracking in Maryland if a gas well were located within 1,000 feet of your home and water source?

My family has only a small, modest home with small parcels of property. We do not own multiple properties/homes. We do not have "go-to" places where we might escape the industrial process of fracking.

Most people in this rural area are not for fracking; a few large landowners and the politicians are the only ones who are counting on this dirty money from big gas. They are not planning wisely for future generations. Relying on fossil fuels is not a wise decision. In previous years, in so many ways, Maryland has been a progressive state. In the future, our state needs to create good jobs that do not threaten our communities, our citizens, and the planet. These are jobs that promote sustainable energy which will move us forward, not backward.

Ban fracking in Maryland!

Sincerely,
Sandra Humberson

To the Editor:

In response to the MDE Marcellus "issue papers," the town of Friendsville is very seriously concerned about the protection of our town's water supply. The mayor and town council have adopted a fracking ban ordinance for our municipality. Our ordinance provides some protection, but if Maryland allows and regulates this toxic industry as stated in the issue papers, we will remain extremely vulnerable due to the cumulative effect of so many gas wellhead sites projected for our source of drinking water.

We have written two previous letters to MDE Secretary Grumbles (dated 9/16/15 and 2/2/16) and met with MDE staff in Baltimore on 2/12/16 in support of our letters, and we copied all pertinent high-level officials, governing bodies, and politicians, but we have received no reply other than these MDE issue papers. The papers provide little to no protection for our source of water, which is the entire Youghiogheny River watershed, approximately two-thirds of the landmass of Garrett County.

MDE admits the dangers of fracking to watersheds in the section titled Setbacks and Location Restrictions/Public Water Supply Systems. MDE proposes to "protect" the Savage River, Piney Creek, and Broadford reservoir watersheds from "degradation" by not allowing the activity. In justification, MDE cites the federal Safe Drinking Water Act.

Why does the same act not protect Friendsville's source of water? At the 6/29/16 Garrett College MDE issue paper presentation, Virginia Kearney from the Water Management Administration at MDE proudly boasted about the protection a 2,000-foot setback will give the town of Friendsville. Exactly how will a 2,000-foot setback keep our source of water (the entire Youghiogheny River Watershed) protected?

The intention seems clear – MDE does not answer the town's letters of concern; MDE purposely excluded our watershed from "protection"; and MDE proposes a setback as the primary means of protection for Friendsville that has no effect for our safety whatsoever! Why shouldn't Friendsville think that we are a planned sacrifice zone and that we are being treated as simply the cost of doing business with the oil and gas industry in these proposed regulations? And why is our representation not stepping up to help protect us?

Jess Whittemore

To the Editor:.

I have recently questioned myself numerous times as to why we do what we do as law enforcement officers. Why do we choose a profession that is so scrutinized, so controversial, so micromanaged, and so hated? Why do we come to work every day knowing that it just may very well be our last, not because we may get shot in some highly volatile situation, but perhaps we are pushing our blood pressure to its limits, or maybe our driving skills are just not as sharp as they used to be and we are the help that needs to get there fast? Why do we stay in a profession where our work schedule alone tugs on the very bindings of our families?

Our profession forces us to miss special moments in the lives of our kids and demands that our spouses pick up the slack where we can't. Society needs for us to be marital counselors, youth advisors, neighborhood referees, and addictions counselors for everyone else, yet expects us to lead perfect lives. The nature of our job can cause us to isolate ourselves from those who only want to hear how our day went. We officers are far more likely to lose our marriage than we are our lives in the line of duty. Our profession forces us to constantly watch over our backs, not because someone may be trying to get us, but because we are afraid that someone may see us drink a beer, yell at our kids, voice our opinion, or act normal.

So why do we stay in this profession? Ask anyone who has ever had the privilege to wear a badge. Just like coal miners, ironworkers, carpenters or teachers, we want the best for our families. We want safe neighborhoods, healthy communities, and good futures for our kids. Although the world looks bad, 99% of it is great. We want to make a positive difference. We are the peacekeepers and the watchguards of our communities. We want for all families the same as we do for our own.

It is with great respect and admiration that I say this to all the law enforcement officers across this great land – Stay safe, keep us safe, and thank you for what you do every day. And a special thank-you to the citizens of Garrett County for your continued support of all local law enforcement officers.

To the Editor:

Here we go with the Republican Convention – the angry mob worshiping their leader, Donald Trump. Look at Great Britain. Millions voted to take their nation out of the European Union. Now their financial world is reeling. When they chose to "get tough," all these problems resulted.

Donald Trump does not understand that being a political leader is far different than being a CEO who only needs to worry about profit, regardless of who is hurt by his "deals." And there is a simple solution for mistakes – Using bankruptcy allowed him to get more loans.

And how does he deal with problems in his personal life? Ditch the wife and replace her with a newer, younger model or go to another big shot to get his hands on young girls.

A large nation like the USA has many different issues, all entangled. They won't be solved by building a wall, even a beautiful wall like the one proposed by Trump.

We love to use extreme adjectives: amazing, fabulous...as if everything can become perfect just by waving a golden Trump's words. Too often voters are motivated by powerful negative emotions: fear, hate... What did Christ say about how people should deal with those negative feelings? Not by retaliating with harsh treatment. He prescribed love. No one who looks honestly at Trump will see any sign of love.

Things are not as simple as they appear from the penthouse on the top of Trump Tower. He stays in his palace, unaware of the millions of other kinds of people in the streets of Manhattan. It is very easy for him to call them either "winners" or "losers." He defrauded countless investors and treated lower-level workers in his big businesses as virtual slaves. He simply wants to keep these kinds of people virtually powerless. He regards other people as only pieces of toilet paper.

I urge you all to not believe his "too good to believe" promises. I am truly overwhelmed with fear and loathing.

With huge concern,
Joan G. Sussman

To the Editor:

I recently found out that nonpartisan voters at the Swanton polling place were given a special ballot to vote for their choice of judge in the recent primary election. My polling location was at the former armory in Oakland. Twice I was told I could not vote even when I asked about the nonpartisan election. I was denied my right to vote, and I wonder how many others were turned away and denied their right to vote.

The pressing question is, what would have been the outcome of the election had all voters been permitted to cast their ballots?

Respectfully,
Debra McCombs

To the Editor:

It has been a very busy past few weeks for many county residents and visitors alike. There have been several fracking-related events... now I hope other important events will be marked on everyone's calendar.

Deciding to use solar energy is not only good for our planet as it is a "renewable" resource, but it will also help discourage the use of natural gas (a "non-renewable" resource). Next Tuesday, July 26, at 6:30 p.m., the nonprofit MD Sun will be visiting to give a free presentation on what a "solar co-op" is all about. This organization assists groups of people/businesses who are thinking about solar and wish to form a group in order to get a group discount on everything. MD Sun helps organize the group, facilitates getting bids from installers, etc., all for free. They have helped groups of both individuals and business save up to 20% in several other MD counties so far. We're lucky to now have them available in western Maryland.

They will also talk about the new program of "community solar," which is different than a co-op as it is most applicable for those folks who have property unsuitable for solar panels.

I hope everyone will consider joining the free talk on that day, to be held in the Con Ed building of Garrett College, Room 224. Please let them know you're coming by emailing, calling, or filling out an online form. Send an email to solarteam@mdsun.org, call 240-334-7720, or go online to www.mdsun.org/mountain-md.

A similar presentation will be offered by the group Friendsville Renewable Energy Effort (FREE), which will also over solar co-ops and many different aspects of going solar, to include talks by residents who have installed panels and panel installation companies. This will be held this Saturday, July 23, 10 a.m., at the Mountain Hollow Health Food Store in Friendsville. FREE can be contacted at levysmith883@yahoo.com or 301-746-5625.

Sincerely,
Linda Herdering

To the Editor:

Your July 4, 2013, editorial remains the best rationale for why protection of Deep Creek Lake is "paramount to our future."

Responding to state and county Lake Appreciation proclamations (July), you focused on the lake as the economic engine, highlighting our reality, whether we like it or not. Lake-related property taxes produce 60% of county tax revenues. The lake is a destination for 1 million tourist visits annually. The lake supports hundreds of local jobs.

You acknowledged, "This very newspaper in which these words appear would likely be unable to survive financially were it not for DCL."

You provided us a direction: "The various issues involving the lake must be taken seriously and addressed to keep the lake the gem that it is today." Little did you or the rest of us grasp then the importance of fracking in Garrett County and how it may impact our resort-based economy.

Unfortunately, our economic engine is not a central topic in current debate on whether to permit fracking in Maryland. The MDE issue papers lack regulations to protect DCL watershed surface and subsurface lands, but provides such protection to tnree area reservoirs. No regulations to protect the dam are included, either.

Our commissioners are evaluating a change in the DCL zoning ordinance to prohibit siting of wellheads and associated infrastructure, an approach suggested by several lake-related businesses. This would prevent perpendicular drilling, but wellheads could be located on parcels abutting the watershed, from which horizontal drilling could go into watershed subsurface.

The MDE issue papers omit any economic analysis of fracking on our resort-based economy. The county has begun a process for such a study, but with five months left before the start of the General Assembly, it is hard to imagine how the report will be completed and reviewed by the public prior to the General Assembly session.

At recent events – MDE hearing, our film/panel event, and Sierra Club presentation – Friends of DCL has raised the issue of the absence of economic impact analysis and urged that no decision be made without such analysis. It is truly inconceivable that a decision of such importance would be made without knowing what would happen to our economic engine.

Your editorial conclusion was "The preservation of Deep Creek Lake is paramount for the future of Garrett County, plain and simple, whether one lives in Shallmar, Oakland, Finzel, or Crellin."

Yep, now more than ever.

Wilt Named As Dairy Maid For Local Counties

Samantha Wilt was recently named the 2016 Garrett and Allegany County Dairy Maid. This is her second year in this role.

Wilt will be in the ninth grade at Northern High School this fall. She received the Ben Carson scholarship and serves as the Bittinger 4-H Club president.

She has a four-year lease for dairy cattle, and has won multiple ribbons with them, including reserve intermediate champion showman at the 2016 Garrett County Holstein Show. She has also taken her leased dairy cow to the National All American Dairy Show in Harrisburg, Pa., for the last two years.

As Dairy Maid, she has visited Grantsville Head Start, Northern Middle School (where she made homemade ice cream with the students), and several branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. During dairy month, she supplied ice cream to her 4-H club and donated a book to every library in Garrett County titled The Milk Matters.

Wilt is a member of Zion Lutheran Church, and volunteers for Northern Rescue, the Garrett County Livestock Association, and Relay for Life.

She is the daughter of Kista Wilt, Bittinger, and Jason Wilt, Grantsville.

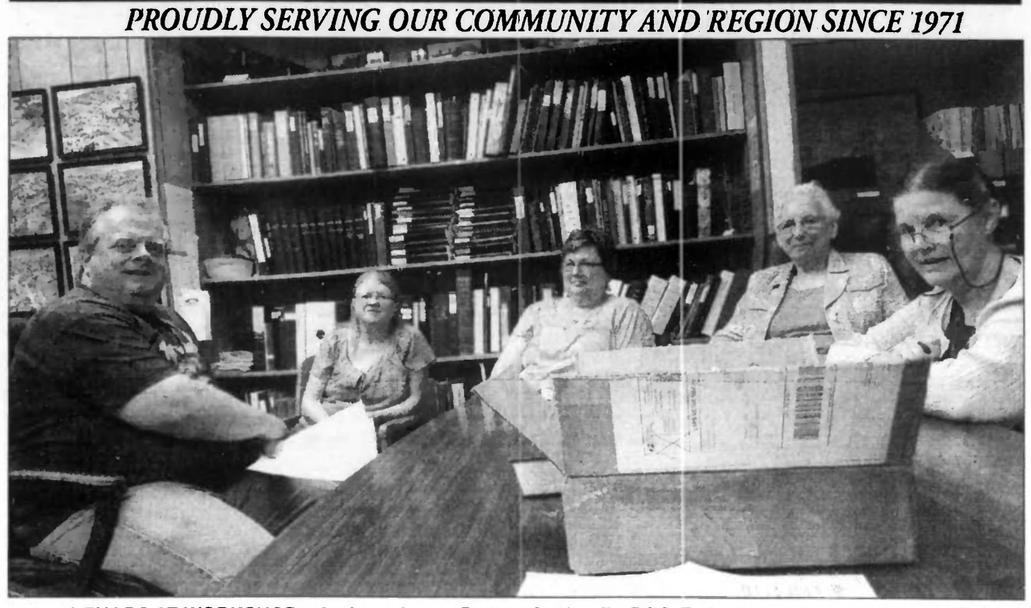
PROUDLY SERVING OUR COMMUNITY AND REGION SINCE 1971



AUTHORS AT WORKSHOP – Authors James Rada Jr. and Dr. Neal Brooks worked closely with participants during a July 9 workshop of Garrett College's Mountain Maryland Writers' Institute, organized by the college's Center for Adventure and Experiential Learning. This activity was held at the Evergreen Heritage Center, located near Mt. Savage. The following day, participants visited Oakland's B&O Train Station and the Garrett County Historical Society's museum. The two-day workshop focused on writing skills development, particularly with an historical perspective. Rada is pictured above left with participants, from left, Pam Ash, Dolores Youse, author Rose Gordy, and Mary Reisinger.

Workshop Focuses On Writing Skills, History Perspective

Participants and facilitators of the 2016 Mountain Maryland Writers' Institute recently gathered at the McHenry campus of Garrett College to explore ideas and concepts for historical fiction and nonfiction writing.

Over the weekend, institute facilitators/authors James Rada Jr. and Dr. Neal Brooks joined workshop members on a tour of Evergreen Heritage Center in Mt. Savage, led by Janice Keene, director of the Evergreen Heritage Center. The tour was followed by an afternoon workshop and lunch on the historical grounds of the Evergreen Heritage Center, and a Saturday evening presentation at Garrett College, which was open to the general public.

Sunday's workshops were held at the Garrett County Historical Museum and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station in Oakland, where facilitators and museum guides Robert Boal and Terry Helbig provided historical background and practical applications of historical research. The weekend's focus of history ended with a group meal at Cornish Manor, another historical site in Oakland.

The next session of the Mountain Maryland Writers' Institute will convene on the weekend of August 5-7 when authors Jack Dubose, Ty Demartino, and Lauren Carr will engage participants in workshops focusing on poetry, stage and screen, and mystery.

For more information on the institute and/or to register for the next session, persons are invited to contact Garrett College at 301-387-3330 or email avs@garrettcollege.edu.

SHAY TASKER

The Garrett College Foundation annually presents scholarships to Garrett College students. Following are the names of some of the scholarship recipients for the 2016-2017 academic year.

Shay Tasker, a 2016 graduate of Southern High School who resides in Swanton, has been awarded the Verso Scholarship and the Joan Dixon Memorial Scholarship. She plans to pursue an associate in arts degree in general studies.

Jeremy Martin, also a 2016 graduate of Southern High School and resident of Swanton, has received the Edward & Hazel Hinebaugh Scholarship. He plans to work toward an associate of applied science degree in natural resources and wildlife technology.

For more information on the Garrett College Foundation, persons are invited to contact the foundation office at 301-387-3131.

Orientation, Testing Process To Begin For Fall Nursing Assistant Program

The Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division is preparing to begin the registration process for the certified nursing assistant (CNA) program to be offered in Oakland starting Sept. 6 and ending on Nov. 22.

The fall semester CNA theory classes will be held at Southern High School on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 until 9:15 p.m. CNA clinical training will be held at the Oakland Nursing and Rehab Center from 6:30 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. during the month of November.

Orientation and pre-testing dates are scheduled to begin July 28 and run throughout the month of August until the class fills. This required pre-registration test helps determine a student's readiness for this CNA course. Potential students must demonstrate a minimum of ninth grade language arts skills and eighth grade math skills on testing prior to registration.

Students applying for financial support for this program through the Western Maryland Consortium may complete the testing with the consortium either before or after attending an orientation session at Garrett College. The first portion of the training program is a 69-hour theory course, which is followed by 48 hours of clinical training at a local nursing home facility.

The CNA program offered through GC's Continuing Education and Workforce Development is approved and regulated by the Maryland Board of Nursing, which has set high standards for attendance and requires that students pass the theory section with an 80% or better to move on to clinicals, which conclude with a practical exam.

For more information on the CNA program or to schedule an orientation or test date, persons are invited to call 301-387-3087.

Md. GOP Members, Analysts Split Over Message Of Nat'l Convention

by Josh Magness
Capital News Service

CLEVELAND – The Republican National Convention met in Cleveland this week with the goal of projecting a platform of fiscal conservatism, strengthening national security, and presenting an overall commitment to "Make America Great Again."

But a handful of controversial speeches, prime-time disagreements over rules, and other distractions have dominated much of the news cycle, potentially hindering the GOP's ability to present a policy-based message.

In the most highly publicized problem, Melania Trump, wife of Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump, delivered a keynote speech Monday night that was well-received by those attending the convention. But its success was shortly overshadowed by controversy when striking similarities between her speech and Michelle Obama's speech at the 2008 Democratic National Convention were revealed.

The allegations dominated the news cycle Tuesday, with staffers of the Trump campaign denying accusations of plagiarism. They said the Hillary Clinton campaign dredged up the claims for controversy and that Melania Trump, instead of copying Obama's speech, only used "common words."

Finally on Wednesday, Meredith McIver, an employee of the Trump Organization, took responsibility for the incident in a press release and said that she offered to resign from the campaign, a gesture she said was rejected by the Trumps.

Dwight Patel, an at-large delegate for Trump from Maryland, said the around-the-clock coverage of the incident by national news organizations is just "typical left-wing media attacking Republicans."

In Patel's view, the media would have found a negative aspect of Melania Trump's speech to harp on no matter how it went.

"I think this is the media's war on Republicans in general," said Patel, the second vice-chair of the Montgomery County, Maryland, Republican Central Committee. "If it wasn't (Melania's) dress, it would be that her hair wasn't right."

Diana Waterman, the Maryland GOP state chairman, agreed, saying the accusations of plagiarism are a "non-issue," and that Melania Trump was simply expressing feelings that are universal among potential first ladies.

"I don't believe that the goal was to plagiarize; the goal was to say the things that are important to her," Waterman said. "I think the focus (from the media) needs to be more on her husband and Governor Pence and their plans."

Shawn J. Parry-Giles, interim director of Graduate Studies in Interpreting & Translation at the University of Maryland, said the drama surrounding the candidate's wife's speech – as well as a failed call for a roll call vote from opponents to Trump that sought to delay the convention – raise questions about the nominee's campaign infrastructure.

"I think that the larger concern is whether or not they are prepared for this convention," she said. "The first night, they had a lot of issues; they weren't prepared to handle the disunity and this issue of plagiarism that no one caught before the speech went live."

But U.S. Rep. Andy Harris, R-Cockeysville, said the convention "couldn't have gone better" so far.

"Harris added that the majority of voters aren't concerned about the drama around Melania Trump's speech, calling it a "pure invention of the media."

"Americans have a choice between Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton, who lied to Congress and lied to the American people," Harris said. "I don't think they care about going word-for-word in Melania Trump's speech to see if something she said was ever uttered by someone else in history."

Another speech, given in this case by Trump's former rival, Dr. Ben Carson, also drew criticism, and negative media attention.

In his speech Tuesday night, Carson referred to Saul Alinsky, a writer widely considered to be the founder of modern community organizing, when he said Hillary Clinton "has as (her) role model somebody who acknowledges Lucifer."

And the criticism continued when New Hampshire State Rep. Al Baldasaro, an adviser to the Trump campaign on veterans' issues, took Clinton-bashing one step further.

During an appearance on WRKO radio from the convention Tuesday, Baldasaro said that Clinton should be "put in the firing line and shot for treason" for what many Republicans consider her slow response to and misleading comments about the cause of the 2012 attacks on the U.S. consulate in Benghazi that left four Americans dead.

The comments came after Michael Folk, a member of the West Virginia House of Delegates, tweeted Friday that Clinton should be "hung on the mall in Washington, D.C."

He later apologized for his remarks.

Dan Nataf, director of the Center for the Study of Local Issues at Anne Arundel Community College in Arnold, said using such vitriolic language, while potentially appealing to voters who already despise the Clintons, is unlikely to draw in independent and undecided voters.

"Using words like 'firing squads' or 'hung and killed,' those are off-putting," Nataf said. "I don't know if independents will be drawn to people using those hostile words. It's too much."

For Nataf, the attention placed on those comments, as well as the controversy around Melania Trump's speech, highlight the media's expectation that the business mogul and those he surrounds himself with in his campaign are unreliable.

Until Trump and his campaign can prove otherwise, Nataf said, it is likely that similar stories that suggest disorganization will continue to pop up.

"The media is going to focus on the unforced errors because that's what they are expecting," Nataf said. "It's the narrative; it's Trump and his circus."

Risk Elevated

the United States is over $60 billion annually and over $1 billion annually in Maryland, not including lost pay from missed work and school days. Healthcare providers continue to look at ways to decrease the impacts of asthma on our society. As this study highlights, continuing to keep fracking out of Maryland should be part of the public health agenda to reduce asthma's toll in our communities."

The conclusion of this most recent study contained in the JAMA article is as follows:

"Asthma is a common disease with large individual and societal burdens, so the possibility that unconventional natural gas development (UNGD) may increase risk for asthma exacerbations requires public health attention. As ours is the first study to our knowledge of UNGD and objective respiratory outcomes, and several other health outcomes have not been investigated to date, there is an urgent need for more health studies. These should include more detailed exposure assessment to better characterize pathways and to identify the phases of development that present the most risk."

With only one legislative session left before the moratorium expires in Maryland, those opposed to fracking are urging legislators to prevent fracking from beginning in Maryland, alleging that no regulatory framework has been shown to adequately protect public health.

"The study released today confirms what we have been hearing from people living with oil and gas drilling for years – Fracking pollutes air and water, and increases the risk of illnesses," said Mitch Jones, senior policy advocate for Food & Water Watch. "This new study adds to the growing body of scientific evidence showing the harm that fracking is doing in communities across the country.

"The Maryland General Assembly has a chance to ban fracking during the next legislative session," he continued. "Our elected officials should see this new study as yet another warning flag on the dangers of fracking, and ban fracking once and for all."

Zumba Fitness Course Slated In Grantsville

The Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College will hold Zumba® toning classes at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Grantsville, on Tuesdays, Aug. 2-30, from 6 to 7 p.m.

"Suitable for all ages, Zumba toning raises the bar (or rather, the toning stick) as exercise in disguise," said a spokesperson. "It combines targeted body-sculpting exercises and the same high-energy cardio work with Latin-infused Zumba moves to create a calorie-torching, strength-training dance fitness-party."

Students will learn how to use lightweight, maraca-like toning sticks to enhance rhythm and tone all their target zones, including arms, abs, glutes and thighs.

"Zumba toning is the perfect way for enthusiasts to sculpt their bodies naturally while having a total blast," the spokesperson said.

Weights are optional and can be purchased or rented from the instructor, or students can bring hand weights weighing 3 pounds or less.

The instructor will be Melanie Lombardi, a licensed Zumba instructor since October 2011. She is certified to teach Zumba Basic 1 and Zumba Sentao. She has taught at several locations in western Maryland, including Energy Health and Fitness and Life Fitness Management and its satellite site at the Western Maryland Health System.

Additional information is available by contacting Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register, persons can contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

"Pap," it's been one year now since you left us.
There isn't a day goes by we don't think of you.
We little knew that morning
God was going to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly.
In death we do the same.
It broke our hearts to lose you
You did not go alone.
For part of us went with you
The day God called you home.
Gone but not forgotten.

Loved and missed by all.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.asp. The center also has a Facebook page.

Friday, July 22

• 11 a.m. – Creating an Owl. Guests can join the naturalist and discuss the adaptations and secrets of owls. Then meet one of the Discovery Center's owls up close and create a model of it. Develop nature journaling skills through observation and drawing or just come for fun.

• 2 p.m. – Tie Dye on the Beach. Meet on the beach to make a personal tie-dyed shirt with an original conservation message. Cost is $12 per shirt. (1 hour)

Saturday, July 23

• 10 a.m. – Edible Wild Plants. Visitors may join master gardener Jerry Knutson and Chris Hull for a walk to Friends Store, located at Sang Run. Contact the Discovery Center for additional information or directions.

• 11 a.m. – Hungry Critters. Guests are invited to meet the naturalists inside the Discovery Center as they feed the center's animals. Participants may be able to touch a live reptile or amphibian. Free.

The Scales and Tales naturalist will be at the beach in the afternoon.

• 2 p.m. – Little Guard. Children ages 5 to 12 years old are invited to meet at the beach and learn the skills of a lifeguard. Kids will run a relay, practice throwing a lifesaving device, learn how to recognize a troubled swimmer, and more. No swimming required. Free

• 8 p.m. – Campfire Program: All About Black Bears. Guests are invited to join wildlife biologist Clarissa Harris to learn more about Garrett County black bears. Black bears have become the icon of Western Maryland and Deep Creek Lake State Park.

Sunday, July 24

• 11 a.m. – First Impressions. This interactive program shows that even "creepy crawlies with bad reputations" have their own important roles in nature. For all ages.

• 2 p.m. – Aviary Encounter. Guests are invited to learn about the center's birds of prey, hear stories, and watch the raptors eat.

Monday, July 25

• 10 a.m. – Fishing with the Naturalist. Guests age 7 and older are invited to join the park naturalist for a course on fishing basics. Poles, bait, and tackle are provided. The cost is $4 per person, and adults (16+) must have their license. Preregistration is required, as space is limited.

• 2 p.m. – Aquatic Adventures. Guests are invited to join the naturalist in the Discovery Room of the center for this activity. The group will head to the docks to use the aqua scopes and dip nets into Deep Creek Lake to catch fish and other animals that live there.

Tuesday, July 26

• All Day – The Science Room will be staffed to help guests with hands-on activities.

• 10 a.m. – What's That Reptile? Guests are invited to come to the Discovery Center to learn about the reptiles and amphibians that reside there, and perhaps have a chance to touch the cold-blooded creatures.

• 2 p.m. – Butterflies and Flowers. All are invited to join the naturalist for a walk around the Discovery Center grounds observing the butterflies that use native plants. The difference between native and non-native plants and their effects on the environment will be discussed.

Wednesday, July 27

• 8 a.m. – Birding at Deep Creek. Guests will learn how to bird by sight and sound as they listen for distinctive songs on a stroll through the park. Experienced and beginner birders can meet around the Discovery Center. Birders should bring their own binoculars.

• 2 p.m. – Buzzing Bees, Bzzzz, Bzzzz. All are invited to "come see what all the buzz is about." There are more pollinators than just bees, and there would not be most of the current crops without these small creatures. Guests may come learn all about it, and make a special craft to take home and plant to help support wandering pollinators.

Thursday, July 28

• 9:30 a.m. – Brant Mine Hike. Guests can join a guided hike with the naturalist to the historic Brant Mine. The hike begins in the center's mine room. Hikers will see the remnants of a coal mine that was operated in the 1920s, as well as possibly some wildlife along the way. Moderate walking. (Approx. 2 hours)

• 10 a.m. – Healthy Parks Healthy People Hike. Guests are invited to join Ranger Matt Tillett for a 5-mile hike through the woods on Meadow Mountain to learn about the natural world. The hike begins at the Discovery Center.

• 1 to 3 p.m. – Smokey Bear Visit. Smokey will be at the Discovery Center during these two hours. All are invited to stop by for a photo and to meet this important bear.

HERRINGTON MANOR/SWALLOW FALLS STATE PARKS

Herrington Manor State Park, located at 222 Herrington Lane near Oakland. The office can be reached at 301-334-9180, or persons may visit the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/herrington.asp. Some activities are at Swallow Falls State Park, located close to Herrington. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice, and are weather dependent. Hiking shoes are recommended for the guided hikes. Children age 14 and younger must be accompanied by a parent at all times.

Friday, July 22

• 9 p.m. – Moth Watching. Guests will meet at the Swallow Falls Amphitheater to join a park ranger for an evening hike to explore moths that awaken when the sun goes down. Participants will learn about these nocturnal creatures that survive in the dark as well as ways to attract them for viewing. Those attending should dress for the weather and bring a flashlight. Intended for all ages. (90 mins)

Saturday, July 23

• 10 a.m. – Mystery Hike. Interested hikers are invited to meet at the Herrington Manor Ranger Station and join a park ranger for a hike to a secret location. This program is at a separate site which requires about a 5-minute drive. Personal vehicles are required. If fewer than four people show up for the program, it will be canceled. (90 mins.)

• 4 p.m. – Roaming Ranger. Join the ranger naturalist at the Swallow Falls campground to meet the park's corn snake. The ranger will also be able to answer questions about the park and what events are happening in the local area. (90 mins.)

• 8:30 p.m. – Campfire Program. Visitors may meet at Herrington Manor Campfire Ring and join the park ranger for some s'mores. This gives all campers the opportunity to meet and greet some fellow cabin or campground neighbors, and to ask questions and find out what happenings and events are taking place in the local area. (2 hrs.)

Sunday, July 24

• 9 p.m. – Moth Watching. Guests will meet at the Swallow Falls Amphitheater to join a park ranger for an evening hike to explore moths that awaken when the sun goes down. Intended for all ages. (90 mins.)

Tuesday, July 26

• 2 p.m. – Healthy Hiking. Guests will meet at the Herrington Manor Ranger Station and look for ways to get in shape while enjoying the great outdoors. Guests are invited to join park staff on an all-inclusive fitness hike. Proper shoes are recommended. (60 mins.)

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

The following activities have been scheduled at New Germany State Park, located along Rt. 495 near Grantsville. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. Further information can be obtained by calling the park office at 301-895-5453, or by visiting the web site: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/newgermany.asp. The park also has a Facebook page.

Thursday, July 21

• 6 p.m. – Encountering Nature. Encountering Nature takes place every other Thursday throughout the season and features a variety of different activities and experiences for participants of all ages and skill levels. Activities may include hiking, working with field guides, making bird houses, learning survival skills, and much more. Guests meet at the Lake House.

Sunday, July 24

• 2 p.m. – Stream Study. Participants are invited to discover the wealth of aquatic life living in Poplar Lick and learn about stream ecology with a park ranger. Guests should bring footwear and clothing suitable for wading in a shallow stream. The group will meet at the Lake House.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY EXPLORERS

by Serena Lewis, reporter

The Country Explorers 4-H Club met at the Lantz home on June 10. With the help of Max Peterson and Phil Malone, members launched model rockets which they had designed at a previous meeting. Club members made a game out of predicting where the rockets would land, and some landed in a tree.

Following the launches, the meeting was called to order. Hannah Porter gave an opening reading, and Kira Rinker and Izzy Hauser reported about the Spring Weigh-In and District Show at the Garrett County Fairgrounds.

Kira Rinker, Krista Rinker, and Izzy Hauser reported about the West Virginia Show Sheep and Goat Stockman's Contest on June 4, where they placed seventh out of 19 junior teams.

Kira Rinker and Krista Rinker reported about the Livestock Learning Days on June 9 at Garrett County Fairgrounds. Kira Rinker reported about the Farm Bureau Family Picnic and Miss Maryland Agricultural Contest on June 9.

Eve Beard from the Steel LEGOS 4-H robotics team reported about their latest team meeting. Trentin Snyder reported about the Maryland Food Collection. A total of 185.71 pounds of food was donated.

The next meeting will include a club project tour.

BEAR CREEK

by Rachel Bowser, reporter

The Bear Creek 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on July 17 at the Accident Fire Hall. A total of seven club members were present. The meeting was called to order by club president Adam Diehl. The secretary's report was read by Emma Carr, and Brooklyn Tasker gave the treasurer's report. Old and new business were discussed.

Emma Bowser gave a demonstration about a poultry game she made. Some upcoming events include the Livestock Skillathon, on Aug. 1 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, and Nature Technology Connection Camp, to be held on June 27 and 28 at the 4-H camp along Route 495.

Brooklyn Tasker provided the snack after the meeting.

The next meeting of the Bear Creek Club will be held on Aug. 21 at 5:30 p.m. at the Accident Fire Hall.

Baltimore Symphony Concertmaster To Perform July 23 At Music At Penn Alps

Violinist Jon Carney will return with John Nauman accompanying on piano to Music at Penn Alps this Saturday, July 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Spruce Village in Grantsville.

Carney is in his 14th season as concertmaster with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra after spending 12 seasons in the same position with London's Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

Born in New Jersey, Carney hails from a musical family, with all six members having graduated from the Juilliard School. After completing his studies with Ivan Galamian and Christine Dethier, he was awarded a Leverhulme Fellowship to continue his studies in London at the Royal College of Music.

After enjoying critically acclaimed international tours as both concertmaster and soloist with numerous ensembles, Carney was invited by Vladimir Ashkenazy to become concertmaster of the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in 1991. He was also appointed concertmaster of the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra in 1994 and of the Basque National Orchestra in 1996.

Recent solo performances have included concertos by Bruch, Korngold, Khatchaturian, Sibelius, Nielsen, Brahms, and Vaughan Williams' "The Lark Ascending," which was featured as a live BBC broadcast from London's Barbican Hall. He has made a number of recordings, including concertos by Mozart, Vivaldi, and Nielsen, sonatas by Brahms, Beethoven, and Franck, and a disc of virtuoso works of by Sarasate and Kreisler. with his mother Gloria Carney as pianist. New releases include Beethoven's Archduke and Ghost trios. the cello quintet of Schubert. and a Dvorak disc with the Terzetto, and four Romantic pieces for violin.

Carney also currently serves as artistic director for the Maryland Classic Youth Orchestras, and is an artist in residence and board member at the Baltimore School for the Arts, one of the country's premier high schools.

Carney performs on a 1687 Stradivarius, the Mercur-Avery, on which he uses "Vision" strings by Thomastik-Infeld. Mr.Carney's string sponsor is Connolly & Co., exclusive U.S. importer of Thomastik-Infeld strings.

His program on Saturday at Penn Alps will consist of the following:

Sonata in G major, Op. 78, J. Brahms; Chaconne for solo Violin, J.S. Bach; and Sonata in A major, Cesar Franck.

Tickets are $20 each, with those 19 and under being admitted free of charge. Tickets may be purchased online at musicatpennalps.org or at the gift shop at Penn Alps. More information and/or directions can be found online or by calling 443-414-3955.

Caleb Stine And The Brakemen, Honey Dewdrops To Be At OTT

Caleb Stine and the Brakemen and the Honey Dewdrops will be performing at Our Town Theatre (OTT) in Oakland on Saturday, July 30, 8 p.m., as a fundraiser to support OTT.

Stine will return to the OTT stage with the husband and wife duo Kagey Parrish and Laura Wortman of the Honey Dewdrops to perform their original songs, described by critics as powerful, country-rock. folk music.

"OTT is honored to have Caleb perform on its stage for the fourth time, while the Brakemen take the stage for the second time," said an OTT spokesperson.

The Baltimore Sun has called Caleb Stine the "lynchpin of the Baltimore folk scene." To date, he has released seven albums of original songs, played throughout the United States, and scored soundtracks. He directed the music and performed in the Off-Broadway play Woody Guthrie Dreams in 2011. He also organizes the annual Round the Mountain Concert in Baltimore to showcase regional rockin' folk groups and frequently hosts gatherings for traveling musicians in his home.

Stine's seventh album, Time I Let It Go, was released in November 2015. The Sun recently reported, "It Would Not Let Me Be, a documentary film that follows Baltimore's own Caleb Stine and the Brakemen as they recorded their 2015 album Time I Let It Go received its public world premiere at the American Documentary Film Festival in Palm Springs, Calif., in May 2016."

The Honey Dewdrops' first two albums, If the Sun Will Shine and These Old Roots, were both #1 on the Folk Radio chart. They released their third, Silver Lining, in 2012. Their CD The Honey Dewdrops Live from Folk Alley features live performances at the Fayetteville Roots Festival 2013.

When OTT doors open at 7 p.m. on Saturday, July 30, the audience will be able to purchase CDs and refreshments. For those with proper identification, beer and wine can be purchased, limited to a maximum of two drinks of beer or wine. Soft drinks will also be sold, as will sweet and savory items.

TO PERFORM THIS FRIDAY IN OAKLAND – Annabelle's Curse, an alternative-folk band from Bristol, Tenn./Va., will perform at the Little Yough Summer Music Festival this Friday, July 22, at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. The band features Tim Kilbourne, vocals, banjo, and guitar; Carly Booher, vocals and mandolin; Zack Edwards, guitar; Travis Goyette, percussion; and Tyler Luttrell, bass. As an independent band, Annabelle's Curse's fan support has been instrumental to its success. The group has released three full-length albums; the most recent two, Hollow Creature and Worn Out Skin, were fully funded by fans. Admission is free, but donations are accepted to help defray the cost of the festival. Seating is limited, so concert-goers are encouraged to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets. Food vendors will begin setting up at 6 p.m.

Aurora Project Offering Basic Pottery Class

The Aurora Project will host a three-part basic pottery workshop on July 30 and 31 and Aug. 6. The workshop will be led by Megan Crowely, and each session will take place at Buxton and Landstreet Gallery, Thomas, W.Va., from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

During this workshop, participants will be introduced to the basics of wheel throwing by learning how to center, open, and pull clay to create functional forms. The group will also explore how to pull handles for mugs, add feet to vessels, and to alter, trim, add texture, and glaze thrown pots.

The first session on Saturday, July 30, will allow participants to create their own pieces. The session the following day (Sunday) will allow for trimming of the pieces, and the following week on Saturday, Aug. 6, potters will wax and glaze their creations.

Admission to the workshop is $75 to attend all three sessions. The fee includes all materials. Space is limited to eight participants. Those interested in making a reservation or obtaining more information should contact the Aurora Project at 304-735-3620 or via email at info@auroraproject.org.

UNTETHERED: A NOVEL
by Julie Lawson Timmer
C. 2016, Putnam, $26, 337 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Oh, the ties that bind. Be they familial, friendly, or formal, the relationships you've made in your lifetime have given you many interesting days filled with ups and down. But, really: Would you ever have it any other way? Of course not, unless, as in the new novel Untethered by Julie Lawson Timmer, one of those ties becomes frayed.

Char Hawthorne hadn't been looking for a husband. She was excited to be living in Washington, D.C. , and working a job she loved; dating wasn't even on her radar, until she met Bradley. He lived in Michigan, a divorced geek with a pre-teen daughter, and though Char wasn't looking for a husband, it didn't take many trips north for her to fall in love with man and child.

And now Bradley was gone, victim of a car accident on a winter's night.

Grieving aside, there was much to do, plans to finalize, decisions to make, loose ends to tie. There'd been times over the past five years, for example, when they'd discussed Char formally adopting Allie, Bradley's daughter – many times. But the conversation usually ended without action, something Char deeply regretted. Once a wife and stepmother she was now neither.

That meant she had no rights when it came to Allie. And Allie's mother, Lindy, seemed to suddenly want her daughter with her in California .

Or did she....? Lindy hadn't seen much of Allie while Char was in the picture; she didn't call much, and she seemed relieved not to have to be responsible for a now-15-year-old girl. Even though Allie was such a great kid, a caring person, Lindy didn't seem to have time for motherhood.

That hurt Allie a lot, Char knew. She knew it because Allie suddenly went from perfect kid to terrible teen in a day's time. She knew it because of the look on Allie's face when her mother called. But when Allie took another family's matters into her own hands by running away, Char knew that someone had to step up as a parent, fast.

It's so, so easy to ease into a novel by Julie Lawson Timmer. You know by the end of the first page that you're in for a great story, one that's rich in detail, plot line, and character development.

Untethered won't disappoint you on any of those things. Timmer layers on plenty of tiny, everyday minutia in her books, things that give readers better, more vivid imagery. Characters are well-defined, but unpredictable, just as they should be. As for plot, Timmer says in her afterword that one of threads in this book is something that really happens in this country and, while it might be somewhat far-fetched at times and maybe a bit too pat in this story, I can't imagine being happier with any other ending, or being half as satisfied.

This is a first-rate book group novel, or you can enjoy it in hammock, airport, or office lunchroom. Bring a few tissues, but don't miss it. Without Untethered, you'll be in a real bind.

group of sorters manning the sort table. Each sample was selected by Joe with an eye to capturing a sample that represents the entire load. The sample was carefully weighed to be sure that it contained 200 pounds of waste."

The sort staff surrounding a 32-square-foot table then placed the sample contents into 55 separate bins by composition. Examples include batteries, cardboard, glass, plastic, and food waste. Once the table was cleared, each bin was weighed and data recorded, before the waste finally went into the landfill.

"The group went through more than a ton of Garrettt County trash on Friday, and, lucky for them, a nice breeze kept the air fresh most of the day," Baker said.

MSW has worked around the country, including conducting surveys in Yellowstone, Denali, and Grand Tetons, as part of a joint effort by Subaru and the National Park Service to make the national parks zero-waste facilities.

Garrett County will be on MSW's agenda again in October when the crew returns for the second round of sampling.

"This is an excellent opportunity for all Garrett Countians to think about what they throw away and to be reminded of the importance of recycling," Baker said. "Be smart – do your part."

"This is a tool that other states have been able to use to successfully encourage redevelopment within local communities," said Paul Edwards, Board of Garrett County Commissioners chairman. "We're happy to be one of the first counties in Maryland to make this program available to our business community."

The MD-PACE Program is a partnership between the Maryland Clean Energy Center (MCEC), the statewide sponsor of the program, and PACE Financing Servicing (PFS), which administers the program.

"MCEC applauds the Garrett County commissioners and staff for taking proactive steps to provide access to capital for commercial property owners," said MCEC executive director Kathy Magruder."

"We're thrilled to be working with Garrett County," said Genevieve Sherman, managing director PFS. "Joining the other counties in the MD-PACE program makes it easier for local contractors, lenders, and property owners operating in the region to make energy improvements on their properties to reduce their energy costs."

Commercial property owners interested in more information about how they can get involved with MD-PACE, can visit www.md-pace.com or call Sherman or Gerard Neely at the MCEC at 443-949-8505.

have been touting its regional merits to funding providers.

The bad news is, Edwards said, one of those sources does not want to help pay for the extension line.

"The regional concept that we talked about was really relying on money from EDA (U.S. Economic Development Administration), which initially said they liked the project and would fund the project," Edwards said. "We just got a letter from EDA, now saying that they are declining to fund that piece of the project."

Specifically, that portion would be the water line to Verso and Luke, where Bloomington's new water line would connect.

"What that means for us and for you guys is, this regional concept that we had discussed is now sort of in limbo," Edwards told Bloomington residents.

He noted, however, that a meeting would be held next month between Westernport, Luke, Verso, Allegany and Garrett officials, and some of the funding agents/consultants to discuss the extension.

"The hope is that we can get them to reconsider, and show them the value of what this will do," Edwards said. "I do know that Sen. [Barbara] Mikulski is very much in support of this."

She likes that the project is multi-county, multi-town, and helps a larger employer, Verso, Edwards indicated. He said the commissioners would solicit her help in getting EDA to change its mind. If EDA does not fund the project, the regional approach will collapse.

"And either we need to do something else to find the funding [for the extension] or we need to go back to the drawing board and scrape the regional piece and look at doing something else here (Bloomington), either upgrade the current facility or whatever," Edwards said.

He reiterated that existing funding is available for Bloomington.

"This gives us a cushion, that we are able to make backup plans if we have to and not start from scratch," Edwards told Bloomington residents. "The three of us and our staff are firmly committed to what we've told you guys every time we've come down here, and that is to not raise taxes [to pay for a new water system]."

He said that is the commissioners' goal, and that they are "pretty confident" that it could be achieved, regardless of whether the town connects to Westernport's system or revamps/replaces its own current one.

"It would be easier if we can get EDA to change their mind," Edwards noted. "But its not a definite 'game over' if they don't. We have some contingency plans in place."

He stressed that the extension line was not stalled, and that all the parties involved were actively seeking a solution.

Commissioner Jim Hinebaugh noted that Congressman Chris Van Hollen, who is running for Mikulski's seat in the Senate, is very aware of the issue. Sen. Ben Cardin, Rep. John Delaney, and state representatives are also well aware of the problem, Edwards added.

"We'll keep you guys posted as much as we can," he told Bloomington residents "After that meeting in August with the key stakeholders, if news comes out of that, we'll come back again."

He added that the commissioners would bring Pat Hudnell, the county's Public Utilities Division chief, with them to provide details.

The commissioners' next scheduled public meeting is Monday, Aug. 1, at 4 p.m.

LOCAL BANK PRESENTS DONATION – First United Bank & Trust recently presented a $1,500 donation to the 12th annual Deep Creek Lake Art & Wine Festival. This year's event will be held the weekend of Friday, Sept. 9, through Sunday, Sept. 11, offering handcrafted works by local and regional artisans, wine tasting from over 200 Maryland and national wineries, live music, children's activities, wine pairing dinners, lodging packages, and more. The event was developed to encourage tourism and to help raise funds for two local nonprofits – HART for Animals and the Garrett Lakes Art Festival (GLAF). GLAF's primary purpose is to improve the quality and scope of performing arts for local residents and visitors to Garrett County. HART for Animals is dedicated to saving the lives of homeless pets in western Maryland. "One of our top priorities has always been our commitment to supporting the community and especially the non-profits that serve our communities," said Philip L. Rodeheaver, FUBT market president. "It is a pleasure to provide a gift to GLAF because it is so important to tourism and the arts community in Garrett County." From left are Keith Sanders, FUBT senior vice president and senior trust officer; Preston Sharps, trust and investment sales officer; Carissa Rodeheaver, FUBT chairman, CEO, and president; Deb Hetrick, commercial relationship specialist; Anne Knight, commercial relationship portfolio manager; Craig Pancake, commercial relationship manager; Mary Callis, GLAF executive director; Fran Martin, FUBT executive assistant; and Rodeheaver.

BLUE BROTHERS TRIBUTE ARTS, the Soul Men, will perform at the Preston Community Arts Center, Kingwood, W.Va., this Friday, July 22, at 7 p.m. Advance tickets are $15 for adults and $10 for students through high school. All tickets are $5 more at the door. Tickets are available by calling 304-376-1435, or at Fawley Music, Morgantown, W.Va.; the Book Mark'et, Oakland; and Brew Ha Ha, Kingwood. A limited number of tickets are being sold. This performance is part of the center's Summer Tribute Artists Series, which is supported in part by the Greater Morgantown Conventions and Visitors Bureau and River House Lodge.

Lakeview Auto Swept In Hot Stove Semifinal Series By Riverside Sports

The 2016 Hot Stove League season came to an end for Lakeview Auto yesterday at Potomac Park when the local squad dropped a 6-1 decision to Riverside Sports. The win gave Riverside (21-3-1) a 2-0 sweep in the league semifinals, as Lakeview fell to the same team on Monday, 6-2.

Lakeview Auto won a best-of-three series Friday over Keyser to advance to the semifinals. The local team topped won 4-0 to take the rubber game at Hamilton Field in Potomac Park behind an outstanding offensive and defensive performance by winning pitcher Peyton Carr.

Carr not only recorded the shutout, but went 4-for-4 at the plate with four singles, and also scored a pair of runs.

Carr and Carsyn King combined on a three-hitter and seven strikeouts, with Carr giving up three singles in five innings. King allowed no hits and fanned two batters in his two innings on the mound.

Lakeview recorded 10 hits, with King stroking a double and a single and scoring a run, and Elliott Schilpp getting two hits, a pair of RBIs, and scoring one. Hunter Meyers chipped in with an RBI single, and Ian Eggleston brought home a run via a sacrifice fly.

Keyser concluded its campaign with an overall record of 14-7-1.

In Monday's 6-2 loss to Riverside, Lakeview found itself down 3-0 in the top of the first inning, rallied for a run in the bottom of that frame, but fell further behind when Riverside recorded three more runs in the fifth. Lakeview tallied the final run of the game in the sixth.

Leading the winners at the plate were Zack Whitacre with a double and a single for one RBI, relief pitcher Brady Whitacre with two singles and two RBIs, Chandler Rhodes with two singles and an RBI, and Sam Dixon also with two singles. Colton McTaggart and Caleb Hare each contributed an RBI single.

Meanwhile, Lakeview managed only three hits, with Carr stroking a single and scoring both of his team's runs.

The Lakeview Auto bats were all but silenced last evening in the season-ending 6-1 loss to Riverside, as Zack Whitacre held Lakeview to just two hits.

Whitacre aided his own cause by rapping a double and a single, while teammates Chandler Rhodes smacked a double and two singles, Caleb Hare provided a double and a single, and Isaiah Knotts stroked a pair of singles in the 12-hit team effort.

Riverside took a 2-0 lead with two runs in the first inning, doubled that margin with two more in the second, and added two insurance runs in the sixth.

Accounting for Lakeview's only hits were Elliott Schilpp and Crasyn King, each with a single. Peyton Carr scored the local team's only run, that coming in the top of the fifth inning.

Sweeping the other league semifinal were the Cresaptown Eagles, who rolled over Hampshire 11-1 last night. Riverside and the Eagles will square off against each other in the first game of the championship series on Monday at Memorial Field.

Garrett County Drops Four Of Six To Wrap Up 2016 Legion Season

Garrett County was swept by Fort Cumberland Post 13 in a doubleheader last Wednesday night in American Legion Baseball action at Garrett College, 12-1 and 10-0, then split a twinbill with visiting Romney on Saturday, winning the first game 2-1 and dropping the second, 7-6, and finally, the local team saw its season end Tuesday at Memorial Field upon splitting a doubleheader with Post 13. Garrett won the first game 5-0, but was edged in the second, 3-2, which gave Post 13 the district championship.

Game one last Wednesday was all Fort Cumberland's, as the team scored four runs in the first, fourth, and sixth innings to win via the 10-run rule.

Garrett's lone run came in the second inning, as the team was held to just four hits throughout the game.

Caleb Sivic highlighted the game's offense with a three-run home run for Cumberland in the sixth.

Game two was a close, back-and-forth affair, but Garrett County ultimately lost by a run when Cumberland pitcher Sebastian Stewart got out of a bases-loaded jam to seal the sweep.

Leading 2-1 after two innings, Cumberland seemed to take control with three runs in the top of the third, but Garrett finally warmed up the bats and responded with three runs in the bottom half to close the gap to 5-4.

Garrett got its first lead of the day in the fourth when the team scored two runs to make it 6-5.

However, the lead was short-lived, as Cumberland immediately answered with five runs in the top of the fifth.

The momentum shifted enough for Garrett to bring in two more runs to close the deficit to 10-8 before driving in another run in the final inning to make it 10-9.

With the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh, Garrett looked to complete the rally until Stewart entered the game to pitch in relief for Romney recording five runs in the second frame along. Garrett then rallied for a pair of runs in the fourth and three more in the fifth to cut Romney's lead to 6-5.

Romney added a run in the top of the seventh to make it 7-5. Garrett then responded in the bottom of the final frame to put runners at first and second with no outs. Eli Hott took the mound, and Yommer promptly brought home a run with a sacrifice fly to cut the lead to 7-6.

After Garrett's second out, Hunter House smacked a single to load the bases, but Hott was able to get the next batter to hit into a fielder's choice to end the game.

House finished with four hits – all singles – and an RBI to lead Garrett County offensively, while Carr hit a double, and King and Yommer each hit a single and had one RBI.

Judy finished with a double and a pair of singles for Romney, Butts recorded a two-run double and a single, Bryce Strawderman added a two-run single, and Wasson and Wyatt Yates each contributed an RBI single in the team's 13-hit performance.

Wasson was credited with the win on the mound, from which he struck out eight batters in six innings.

Calyb King paced Garrett County in winning Tuesday's first game over Post 13, as he fired a three-hitter in going the distance, stirking out 11 batters.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

LASER INVITATIONAL REGATTA
by Lindley Burnam

Laser racing is one of my favorite activities at Deep Creek Lake. Racing this maneuverable, speedy, and easily capsize-able single-handed boat is a thrilling, fast-paced experience. The boat can be rigged with either the large full sail, the medium radial sail, or the smaller 4.7 sail.

The Laser program at Deep Creek Lake comprises an open fleet and a junior fleet. The Junior fleet is ideal for competitors under the age of 19 who use a radial or 4.7 sail. The Open Fleet is open to all racers using a full, radial, or 4.7 rig.

Sailors from outside our racing association joined local Deep Creek sailors this past weekend in the annual Laser Invitational Regatta. This year, we had an open fleet of 26 racers, including 14 off-lake sailors and three juniors. One sailor emphasized her delight that so many off-lake sailors traveled here to compete.

Despite stiff competition on the water, exceptional camaraderie within the fleet was clearly evident, as Deep Creek racers integrated with newcomers and laughingly recounted their individual racing experiences to one another on shore. One racer described her off-lake competitors as "friendly and calm," as well as "delighted with the cooler temperatures" of Deep Creek Lake. The weather was certainly ideal. Both sailing days had a nearly perfect amount of wind as well as – especially on Sunday – beautiful sunny skies.

Lunch on the water was quite a sight. Rather than returning to land for lunch as in past years, the sailors remained on the water. Race patrol boats handed or tossed bagged lunches to hungry racers sailing by, occasionally having to retrieve escaped and floating fruit from the water!

The patrol boats were busy with more than just lunch delivery. On Saturday, I watched Mark Bennett and the race committee boats work like superheroes, constantly readjusting the course as the wind shifted in order to make the course as perfect as possible.

The Laser Invitational Regatta was a great success! While preparing his trailer for the journey back to Annapolis, Aaron Freedman smilingly summed up his experience: "Everyone should come to this regatta."

There was no score until the top of the fourth when Garrett took a 1-0 lead, double that in the top of the fifth, and added three insurance runs in the seventh.

Carr led Garrett's 9-hit offense effort with a solo homer and a single, Kris Tusing added two RBI singles, Yommer provided a run-producing double, and Kennedy contributed a single and one RBI.

It was a two-run walk-off single by Post 13's Ryan Miller that broke a 2-2 tie and ended the second game on Tuesday and gave his team the league title.

Garrett jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning via an RBI single by Carr, and Tusing rapped a run-producing single in the fifth to make it 2-0.

A sac fly by Miller in the bottom of the fifth plated a run to cut Garrett County's lead in half.

It was still 2-1 going into the final frame, but Ross Mazer led off for Fort Cumberland by drawing a walk, Michael Livingston followed with a single, and Miller's single up the middle brought both runners home to immediately claim the victory.

Fort Cumberland is now 14-11, while Garrett County concluded the season with an overall record of 11-17 and 3-6 in the Mountain District.

Grantsville SAL Swept By Hampshire In Playoffs

Grantsville Sons of the American Legion's season came to an end as Hampshire P.T.P.S completed the series sweep and won 13-1 in game two of the Hot Stove League playoffs at Holler Field.

Hampshire scored quickly in the top of the first before Grantsville answered with a run of its own to bring the score to 1-1.

However, that would be the last run of Grantsville's season, as Hampshire answered with six runs in the top of the second to put the game out of reach early.

Hampshire would continue to score two in the fourth, one in the fifth, and three in the sixth to force the ten-run rule and end the game early.

Collin Selser was awarded the win, as he held Grantsville to just two hits and one run in a complete-game pitching effort.

Potomac Valley Hands Oaks Their First PenMar League Loss Of 2016

After recording a dozen straight wins in the 2016 Pen-Mar-WV Baseball League, the Oakland Oaks saw that streak end in the first game of a doubleheader with Potomac Valley on Saturday.

The Oaks managed just three hits in the first game and wound up with a 6-3 loss before rallying in the nightcap to record a 10-3 victory.

The score was knotted a 2-2 until the third inning, when Potomac Valley recorded four runs behind a two-run single by Ryan Hedrick.

Phil Harper and Hedrick effectively handled the pitching chores for Potomac Valley, limiting the Oaks to just three singles. Harper struck out three in five innings of work, and Hedrick fanned one batter in the final two fiames.

Josh Harper and Randall Hours each hit a double and a single for the winners, while Jestin Cosner finished with three singles and Phil Harper hit two singles.

Oakland took a 5-0 lead in the first inning of the second game and never looked back.

Leading the Oaks at the plate were Korey Reed and Brandon Miller, each with a double and a single, Alex Beiler with three singles, and Samson Cropper with two singles.

Ryan Colaw hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the first inning for Potomac (5-7), Ours finished with a double and a single, and C.J. Landis provided a pair of singles.

Earning the win on the mound was Bryan Lenhard, who struck out three in five innings of work.

Oakland was slated to play another doubleheader on Sunday, but no information about those contests was received.

SUPERVISING TEACHER OF GARRETT MADE ADDRESS

Before Rotary Club, Frostburg, Explaining Her Work Among Public School Pupils

Miss May L. Stewart, supervising teacher of Garrett county delivered an address before the Frostburg Rotary Club on Monday evening of last week, her subject relating to the work being now done by supervising teachers throughout the State of Maryland. Miss Stewart is teaching at the Summer Normal in Frostburg. She is director of Practical Teaching in the rural school.

Her address before the Rotary Club was most illuminating, on a subject concerning which there is little knowledge except by those directly engaged in the work. Supervisory work among school teachers is a new movement and being little understood by the public, an address on this subject before persons interested in public school affairs, naturally would be of considerable interest.

Miss Stewart, who is an able speaker, stated clearly the work being done by supervising teachers and presented several examples of the methods by which their aims were accomplished. She paid quite a tribute to Hill Street School, Frostburg, stating during the past year one of the supervising teachers visiting that school found reading lessons so well prepared and capably handled by the teachers that the method of Hill Street school along this line was used as a model lesson and broadcasted through bulletins to other counties in the State of Maryland.

Miss Stewart also expressed appreciation for the cooperation given supervising teachers or other counties by Prof. Webb and Miss Lillian Compton, of Allegany county.

Among the many things gleaned from Miss Stewart's address was the fact that when a young man or woman graduates from the Normal they are the merest beginners as teachers. No matter how capable they might be they will meet with conditions and encounter experiences that will prove somewhat discouraging even to the most stout hearted. In order to alleviate these conditions and to help the teacher as she endeavors to "carry on", supervisory teachers are constantly visiting the schools and lending such assistance as they have gained by training and experience. Miss Stewart, useing reading lessons as an illustration, told the Rotary Club that many teachers in charge of the lower grades were often uninformed as to the perfection in writing possible among their young pupils.

In order to correct the viewpoints of teachers on this subject she stated, a sample of the best writing obtained in various schools was collected and sent to all teachers having charge of this work as an object lesson as to what is possible in writing lessons among young children.

Miss Stewart spoke for one half an hour and she had the rapt attention of every person attending the luncheon. She is a native of Michigan and has just finished her second year in Garrett county. She will return to Garrett county next year.—Frostburg corr. in Cumberland News.

Bank Wrecker's Sentence Commuted.

T. D. Leps, who was sentenced to serve seven years in the West Virginia Penitentiary at Moundsville for the wrecking of the People's Bank at Keyser, West Va., has been granted a commuted sentence and is now living in California with his wife and children. Leps served about three years and with good behavior his sentence was cut from seven to four years. He was released from the prison on July 6th, but this fact was not generally known at Keyser until inquiry was made at the prison.

Tennis Club to Be Organized.

A tennis club, to be composed of Juniors and Seniors, is to be organized at Mountain Lake Park on Monday, the 27th inst., at 7:30 p. m., at the bowling alleys in the Park. It is the purpose of the organizers to establish a club which will enable its members to practice tennis at remarkably low costs and to hold tournaments annually. All those interested in joining a club of this nature should be at the meeting on Monday evening.

"Cal's Place" Robbed Saturday Night.

The robbery of "Cal" Menhorn's place on Railroad street was reported Sunday morning when it is alleged by the owner $40 in cash was taken from the register.

INSTITUTERS MARRIED

Couple Attending Sessions of the Pittsburgh Conference Quietly Wed.

Miss Suzanna Chloe Miller, of Canoquenessing, Pa., and Mr. Harry S. M. Troup, of Apollo, Pa., two delegates attending the Pittsburgh Conference of the Epworth League convention in session all of last week in Mountain Lake Park, slipped away from their acquaintances at the conference Saturday evening and coming to Oakland secured a marriage license and were quietly married at the parsonage of St. Paul's M. E. church by Rev. Dr. Archibald Moore, pastor. Immediately after the ceremony the couple returned to the Park and left early Monday morning for their respective homes, their intention being to keep the wedding a secret until later, but the fact that the ceremony had been performed became known a few minutes after the couple had departed.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

Sixth Annual Event Will Be Held August 10-15 to be Participated in By Star Players

The Sixth Annual Open Tennis Tournament for the championship of Western Maryland will be held August 10 to 15 at Mountain Lake Park. Events will include both men and women singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

The winner of the men's singles takes the three-year challenge cup now held by Kier Boyd, of Dartmouth College, and will also receive the title of Western Maryland champion. The winner of women's singles receives the three year challenge cup and the championship title, now held by Miss Sara Wright, Frostburg.

All event winners receive prizes and runner up trophies. The winner of the men's singles has never been a Maryland player, the challenge cup generally going to Pennsylvania or to West Virginia. Several Maryland stars have expressed a determination to retain the cup in the home State this year. A fast field of players will assemble as a result of this determination on the part of the Marylanders.

Two Women Hurt

Mrs. Charles Brandlin, of Kitzmiller, was severely cut on the forehead, and Mrs. D A. Cherry, of the same place, were bruised and cut when the automobile in which they were riding collided on New Creek drive, near Keyser, W. Va., about 9:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening. An unidentified car, which struck the hub of Mr. Cherry's touring car, in passing, was responsible for the accident.

Mountain Lake Park Epworth League Conferences.

The Pittsburgh Conference Epworth League Institute wound up a week's session at Mountain Lake Park Sunday evening which was attended by nearly five hundred delegates, the number exceeding those expected by nearly fifty.

Classes were conducted in stewardship, evangelism, foreign and home missions, life service, Bible study, Epworth League and Sunday school methods. The afternoons were given to recreations.

Monday of this week the Baltimore Conference Epworth League began a week's program at the Park which is somewhat similar to that of the Pittsburgh Leaguers. The attendance is large from Baltimore and Washington and other points in the Baltimore Conference.

This is the eleventh annual gathering, the fifth consecutive one to be held at the Park which will continue until next Monday.

Rev. W. E. Harrison, of Baltimore, is dean of the Institute.

Preliminary Announcement

Arrangements for Good Citizenship Day at Mountain Lake Park are being perfected by the committee having the matter in charge. For the Sunday school platform meeting at 3:00 o'clock, Sunday, August 23, Hon. John J. Cornwall, former Governor of West Virginia, will be one of the speakers. At the evening meeting at 8:00 o'clock, Col. W. W. Wood, head of the Baltimore and Ohio Welfare Department, will speak. The Crellin Boys' Band will play at both of these meeting. A detailed program will appear in a later issue of The Republican.

THREE ALLEGED VIOLATORS ARRESTED ON WET CHARGES

"Cal's Place" On Railroad Street Raided and Owner Held on State Charge.

"Cal's Place," of which Cal Menhorn is the owner, located on Railroad street in Oakland, was visited last Thursday afternoon by Prohibition Agent J. H. Truax who placed Menhorn under arrest on the charge of possessing twenty-three bottles of home brew and a small quantity of whiskey. Menhorn was given a hearing before Justice West following the arrest and was admitted to bail in the sum of $500 which Menhorn posted in cash of the realm for his appearance at the session of the Circuit Court to be held in December, the charge laid against him being under the State statute and not for violation of the Federal law.

Menhorn has had a rather colorful career during the past 12 months. Last December he was tried on a charge of violating the State prohibition law and was fined $500. This he paid and at the time was warned by the Court that should he appear on a similar charge the penalty would be the limit of the law. At this trial others were also before the Court, among them being a younger brother of Menhorn when it was made to appear that the boy was acting as a tool of the older in disposing of illicit liquor. The youth was given a light sentence.

Thursday evening at Deer Park, McGreggor Davidson and Carl J. Isenhardt were placed under arrest on the charge of possessing intoxicants, the arrests having been made by Officer Raymond Bittinger, of the Prohibition force. The liquor, it is alleged, was found in the car in which the two men were riding. They were taken to Cumberland where they were given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Thomas J. Anderson and held under $500 bond each for district court. The automobile, a Cadillac touring car, was also held pending disposition of the case by the Court.

WESTERNPORT DAM WAS DYNAMITED LAST MONDAY

Resultant Damage Was Much Greater Than That Caused By Flood a Year Ago

The Piedmont Herald of the 17th instant recounts the following relative to the blowing up of the Westernport storage dam, which is located several miles above Bloomington, on the Savage River, in Garrett county:

The Westernport storage dam was blown up by dynamite Monday night and at present there is less than four feet of water in storage. It is suspected that the dynamiters were after fish. No arrests have been made.

Tom T. Wilt, keeper at the dam, reported the incident to Mayor Rosa on Wednesday morning. He said that the entire crib at the right hand side of the dam was out and that it was in worse condition than it was following the flood of March, 1924.

Dynamiting the storage dam for fish has become a common occurrence according to Arthur Fazenbaker, town water superintendent. It has happened three or four times already this year. Only five weeks ago he was forced to drain the dam and remove fish killed by three charges of dynamite in one night. Eighteen fine bass could be seen floating on top of the water.

According to local fishermen dynamiting has practically ruined the sport in Savage River. It is very unsportsmanslike to take fish in this manner and is prohibited by State law under a heavy penalty. The objection is that it kills all fish, old and young alike, and leaves none for propagation purposes.

Savage River is an ideal fishing stream and would furnish abundant sport to local fishermen if this practice could be stopped. The territory is under the jurisdiction of Garrett county game wardens and it is up to them to prevent such occurrences in the future.

Arthur Fazenbaker and his men left yesterday morning to inspect the dam and ascertain the amount of damages.

THE OAKLAND BAND

Reorganized Tuesday Evening With Large Membership.

After several months' suspension of activities, due to the resignation of Director W. H. Mellwee, of Keyser, West Va., the former members of the Oakland Band held a meeting on the evening of July 21 and reorganized by electing the following named officers.

R. R. Gilbert, director, manager and treasurer; Frank M. Lyon, president; Russell H. Brown, secretary.

The membership of the organization is as follows: R. R. Gilbert, clarinet; Howard Sprague, clarinet; Harry C. Chadderton, Russell Brown, Hugh Teets, Elmus Ream, James Doman, Olin Hardesty, cornets; Julius Littman, C. S. Johnston, saxaphones; Clarence Chadderton, William Lawton, baritone; P. P. Davis, trombone; Whitley Thayer, Adne Sterling, altos; Max Welling, Frank M. Lyon, bass; Thomas Compton, drums.

The above are all experienced musicians and are capable of playing a splendid grade of music. It is the desire of each member to keep the organization going and make it one of the chief features of civic life. To do this, however, the assistance of every person in town is required and this should and will no doubt, be forthcoming.

At present, through the generosity of the American Legion, the band is using the Legion room as a place of meeting which they will continue to do until some other quarters are secured, and rehearsals will be conducted on Tuesday and Friday nights of each week, beginning promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

The organization has made the invitation to join wide enough to admit all who can play any kind of an instrument or who may be interested in learning to play.

The band needs no introduction to the people of Oakland and vicinity. Until the band become disrupted by the resignation of Prof. Mellwee it occupied a leading position as a musical organization. Recently several donations were made by business men of Oakland which has been an inducement and incentive for the members to reorganize and keep going. The action of the men who contributed is appreciated very highly and is an indication that an organization of this nature is wanted in Oakland and that the efforts of the membership is appreciated.

The organization has planned to give open-air concerts one night each week during the summer months. No collection will be taken at these concerts. They will be absolutely free, and the presence of every resident and visitor is most respectfully requested upon these occasions.

SCOUT TROOP RETURNS

To Oakland After Being in Camp On River Two Weeks.

The Oakland Troop of Boy Scouts, with their Scoutmaster, the Rev. A. J. Torrey, folded up their tents and silently came back to town on last Thursday after a wonderful camp of two weeks at Sang Run. The camp was a signal success in every way and every boy composing the troop declared that it was the two happiest weeks of their lives. Thanks to the ample provision of the Scout mothers and friends, they had everything good to eat and plenty of it, as each boy gained in weight from one to seven pounds. A semi-military routine was maintained conforming to the best Scout camp standards. It will be of interest to the friends of the boys to know just what they did each day, the schedule being as follows:

6:00 a. m. .....Rising whistle
6:05 a. m. ... Setting up exercises
6:15 a. m. ..... Morning dip
6:45 a. m. .....Cook breakfast
8:00 a. m. Police up tents and camp
8:30 a. m. .....General inspection
8:45 to 10:00 a. m.....Play period
10:00 a. m. .....Study hour
11:00 a. m. Swimming under supervision.
12:00 m. .....Cook dinner
1:00 p. m. .....Rest period
2:00 to 3:00 p. m.....Play period
3:00 p. m. .....Study hour
4:00 p. m. .....Swimming
5:00 p. m. .....Cook supper
6:30 to 8:00 p. m. .....Play period
8:00 to 9:00 p. m. Social hour and camp fire.
9:00 p. m. ....Good night; prayers
9:30 p. m. "All quiet along Sang Run."

Each boy had his daily assigned duties in the water, wood, fire, sanitation, cook, first-aid squads, and be it said every Scout did his full duty.

On the Fourth of July the boys had their burlesque circus, and it was some circus and highly amused the 65 spectators who came to see the big Farnum and Whaley's aggregation of wonders. We even had trained dogs and the master of the hounds was none other than Julius Renninger. Gilmor Hamill made a first-class ring master and we predict a brilliant future for him. James Willison was official score keeper and he is hard to beat.

The Scouts would like to thank each person individually for their contributions toward the material success of the camp. Especially are they grateful to the merchants who so liberally donated the use of their trucks to haul them to and from camp and those who gave the use of their cars to carry the boys.

The whole town is back of the Troop and the boys feel that they must do their utmost to measure up to the confidence reposed in them.

While in camp they pulled off a very creditable athletic field meet, the Crow Patrol carrying off the highest honors, with Mitchell Franklin their illustrious patrol leader, winning the silver medal for scoring the highest number of individual points of the meet.

The gold medal for highest general excellence during the camp period was won by the Beaver Patrol, Julius Renninger being their patrol leader.

These medals will be presented in the presence of their parents and friends at the scout meeting at 9:15 in the scout room on Friday evening.

The Scoutmaster who has conducted boys' camps in the Catskills, Adirondacks, White and Green mountains and in the Berkshire Hills, wishes to pay tribute to the boys of this troop and to say that he has never had a finer bunch of boys to camp with. Without exception they were always at their work, maintained perfect discipline, always courteous and considerate to one another and obedient to their superiors. In the life and conduct of the boy is reflected the home training and co-operation of the parents which is a compliment in itself. After all the strenuous labor of camping upon so elaborate a scale we still arrive at the same conclusion that "It is better to build up a boy than to patch up old men."

Mountain Lake Hotel

Over the week-end one hundred and twenty-five guests were entertained at the Mt. Lake Hotel. Many patrons of past years are returning. Among recent arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. John N. Parker, Mr. James Stuart and sisters and the Misses Lipscomb, of Baltimore. Mr. Hawlin, a noted illustrator of Washington, also a guest, is greatly impressed with the artistic beauty of this resort and of Garrett county generally.

Tuesday and Saturday dances, also Friday bridge parties, afford amusement and entertainment for not only the hotel guests, but Mountain Lake and Oakland people as well, who are always welcome.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH ADVISES ON CARE OF BABY

Period Between July 15 and September 30 Considered Most Dangerous Time for Tots

A bulletin just issued by the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health gives this advice to mothers on the midsummer care of the baby.

For many years the latter part of the summer—from the middle of July to the end of September—has been the time of the year when there has been the greatest amount of sickness and death from intestinal diseases among babies and young children.

The experience of recent years in many parts of the country has shown that illness from these causes is not necessary and can be prevented. Where babies are brought up under medical direction, if proper care is given to their food and to their daily routine, this dreaded summer complaint is largely done away with. In many communities the danger to the lives of babies is considerably less even in hot weather than at other times of the year.

The precautions to be observed by mothers in the care of their children in warm weather are so simple that they can be carried out easily everywhere. They can be summarized briefly as follows:

Intervals between feedings should never be more frequent than three hours, and most babies would do better if fed at four hour intervals, that is, five or at most, six times in twenty-four hours. This gives an opportunity for the food to pass from the stomach to the intestines, which takes three or four hours, before additional food is given. Cooled, boiled water can be given freely in hot weather between feedings.

Mother's milk. No food is comparable to mother's milk; it is especially useful in hot weather. Mother's milk is exactly suited to the needs of the baby; it is practically without germs and is usually given in just the quantities that the baby requires. A baby should not be weaned during the summer if it is possible to feed it on mother's milk.

"Clean cow's milk. The next best substitute for mother's milk is clean cows' milk diluted with water according to the doctor's direction. The mixture should be boiled for two or three minutes and then cooled before feeding the baby. It is impossible to prevent germs from entering cows' milk, even if it is produced under good conditions. Boiling will practically destroy these harmful germs and make the milk safer for young children. When cows' milk is used, it is especially advised that the feeding intervals be four hours apart.

"Clothing. The baby and young should be dressed according to the temperature and not according to the season. During very warm weather when the thermometer hovers around 90 degrees, a little baby requires nothing but its napkin. A light blanket or a dress should be at hand to put around the baby if there is a sudden fall in temperature.

"Sponging. Babies are made much more comfortable during hot weather if they are stripped and sponged with tepid water two or three times a day. Very young babies, especially in warm weather should be brought up under the care of a doctor. The mother should notify her doctor of even slight changes in the baby's condition.

"Intestinal disease can usually be cured if treated promptly, but if allowed to run on it is always a serious matter in hot weather."

Knights of Pythias Notes of Interest.

Installation of officers of Garrett Lodge was postponed from last Friday evening until Friday evening of this week, at which time we shall have as our guests members of the lodge of Friendsville. Refreshments will be served and all members of the local lodge are urged to be present.

A meeting of the picnic committee was held Monday evening. Reports indicate that the picnic this year will be the greatest ever held and probably will be the greatest in the history of Western Maryland. This is possible when we consider the fact that it will include a reunion of the Knights of Pythias of the State. The committee is very busy making arrangements to take care of the large crowd expected. They need the support of every member of the lodge and you are urged to lend any aid and make suggestions that may help. The committee will appreciate it.

Members of the lodge have no doubt received by this time the statement of the financial condition of the lodge. Our present finances are in good shape but it must be remembered that it has required several years to accomplish this result. We wish you would go over the statement carefully noting the interesting data given therein. Every member of Garrett lodge should feel proud to belong to such an organization and you should show your interest by attending your lodge regularly. Your officers need you and you need your lodge.

If you have not been in the habit of going to lodge make and keep a resolution to be present at least once a month.

AGF Grand Feature Parade Applications Are Due On Sept. 9

Applications from organizations wanting to participate in the 49th annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade are due to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce by 5 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 9.

Float and band applications to be in the parade are available online at visitdeepcreek.com/49th-annual-autumn-glory-festival.

Participants can be drill teams, majorette/twirling units, drum and bugle corps, marching musical units, and stationary musical units. Professional, commercial, and amateur floats are also welcome. Vehicle access passes to the parade route will once again be issued to parade participants.

This year's AGF Grand Feature Parade, presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, will be held on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. in downtown Oakland. The parade is once again sponsored by First United Bank & Trust.

"The annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade not only offers businesses the opportunity to celebrate the beauty of the county, but it also gives local companies a wonderful opportunity to gain exposure in the community," said Nicole Christian, chamber president and CEO. "We invite you to participate in this wonderful celebration of autumn."

Those who did not receive an application in the mail can download the application online at visitdeepcreek.com. Completed applications may be faxed to 301-334-8073, emailed to sarah@garrettchamber.com, or mailed/delivered to the chamber office, located at the 15 Visitors Center Drive McHenry, MD 21541 before the due date and time.

Applications that come in late and are accepted will be added to the end of the parade lineup.

The 49th annual Autumn Glory Festival, scheduled for Oct. 12-16, is sponsored by Garrett Regional Medical Center, an affiliate of West Virginia University Medicine.

In 2015, Good Housekeeping listed Oakland as one of "50 Small Towns Across America With The Most Beautiful Fall Foliage." Also in 2015, USA Today featured Grantsville and the Autumn Glory Festival as part of its 50-state road trip: "Scenic Drives around the USA."

In 2014, Travel & Leisure Magazine selected Oakland as one of "America's Best towns for Fall Colors," and included a mention of the annual Autumn Glory Festival.

Travelchannel.com listed the Autumn Glory Festival and Garrett County as one of "America's 3 Best Autumn Road Trips" from 2008 to 2014.

Persons who need an application emailed or mailed to them are asked to contact Sarah Duck at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-8746 or sarah@garrettchamber.com.

A Rich Man's End In A Potter's Field

by James Rada Jr.

Charles Friend celebrated Christmas alone on the C&O Canal towpath in 1923. That evening he lit a fire to get warm outside and proceeded to drink himself into a stupor to get warm inside. At some point, he fell into the fire and burned to death.

It was the sad end for the 60-year-old man who had once made a fortune as a prospector.

It's not known whether Friend, a native of Altamont and the son of Samuel and Sarah Friend, was unconscious when he fell into the fire. No one heard screams. Cumberland police officer William McFarland found his body the next day in the weeds next to the towpath.

"Friend was a capable man, but was addicted to drink, and the bottles found scattered near his body indicated that anything that had alcoholic content would be used to satisfy his craving," the Cumberland Evening Times reported.

Friend's most-recent employment had been working as a telegrapher along the B&O Railroad. His friend, W. Grant Morris, was believed to have been the last person to have seen him alive, although Morris last saw him days before his death on December 21 when he stopped in to see Friend at the Western Union Telegraph Office.

Friend and Morris had traveled to Mexico in 1886, where they made $20,000 (more than $600,000 in today's dollars) prospecting. While Mexico is known for its silver mining, Morris and Friend apparently found gold. Gold has been mined in the country for more than 500 years, with the Spanish rule from the early 1500s to the early 1800s taking it to a commercial level.

This was what Friend and Morris wanted for their claim. They believed there was more gold in the ground and that their two-man operation could be grown into a larger operation. The problem was that "he made a stake, only to lose it when he invested in machinery to operate on a larger scale," according to the newspaper.

Friend returned to Garrett County just long enough to pack up his widowed mother and take her with him as he moved into the South to try and find success again. It always seemed to elude him.

When his mother died, he returned to Garrett County to bury her body. He stayed and found work with the Kendall Lumber Company in Crellin.

Friend worked hard and saved his money until he had several hundred dollars. At that point, he left his job in Crellin and moved to Cumberland around Thanksgiving, once again searching for a new chance at a fortune. He entrusted part of his money to Morris to hold for him.

Where the rest went, though, is unknown. Given his propensity for alcohol, he probably drank it away as he saw his chances of making another fortune dwindling away.

The former wealthy prospector was buried in a potter's field in Cumberland.

Friend's brother, Samuel, who lived in Deer Park, was notified of his brother's death. Officers also tried to locate a supposed daughter of Friend's, although Friend was unmarried and had no known children. The police were unable to locate her, if she did exist.

Oddly, Friend wasn't the only person to die at that spot on the canal and in that manner.

In November, David Cassidy and friends had built a fire near the same spot where Friend would later be found. They fell asleep, or more likely, passed out, after drinking too much. When Cassidy's friends woke up, they found that the fire had caught Cassidy's clothing on fire and burned it and his body. He was taken to Allegany Hospital in Cumberland where he died from his burns.

LEGENDARY COUNTRY MUSIC GROUP SAWYER BROWN will kick off the 60th annual Garrett County Fair on Saturday, July 30, with a concert in the Agriculture Heritage Hall at 8 p.m. Tickets are required and can be purchased online at https://www.eventbrite.com/e/sawyer-brown-garrett-county-fair-tickets-24687467881. Sawyer Brown was founded in 1981 in Apopka, Fla. From left are Gregg "Hobie" Hubbard, keyboard; Joe Smyth, percussion; Mark Miller, lead vocals; Shayne Hill, guitar; and Jim Scholten, bass guitar. Hill joined the group in 2004. The award-winning country music group had multiple Top 10 hits in the 1980s and 1990s, Including "Some Girls Do," "Step by Step," and "The Walk."

Back-To-School Immunization Clinics Slated

The Garrett County Health Department will hold two immunization clinics for students who need the newly required vaccines for school, which are the following:

- Two doses of varicella vaccine for entry into kindergarten, first, or second grades
- One dose of Tdap vaccine for entry into seventh, eighth, or ninth grades
- One dose of meningococcal vaccine for entry into seventh, eighth, or ninth grades

The GC Health Department will administer these vaccines by appointment on Thursday, Aug. 11, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at it Oakland office, 1025 Memorial Drive,, and on Friday, Aug. 12, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center, 28 Hershberger Lane, Grantsville.

The Tdap, varicella, and meningitis vaccines will be offered free of charge at these clinics, regardless of the student's insurance status. There will be no administration fee for this free vaccine. Parents are asked to bring a current copy of the student's immunization record to the visit.

To schedule an appointment at either location, or for more information, parents are asked to call 301-334-7770 or 301-895-3111.

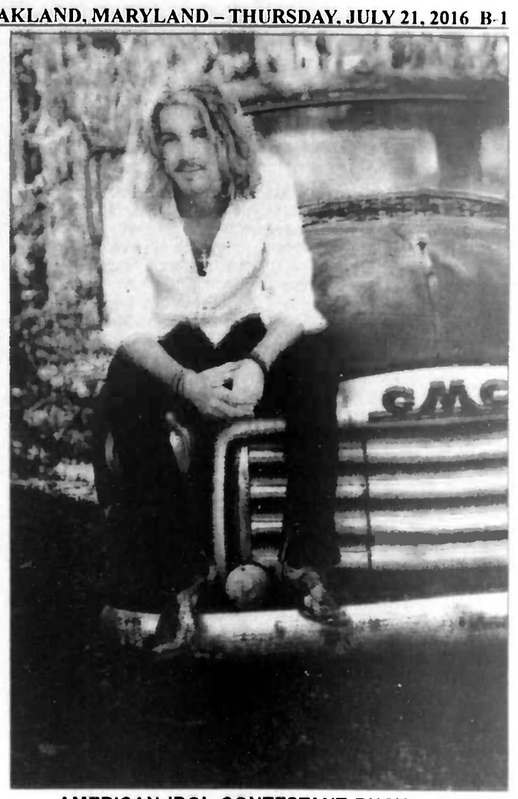
Under a separate offering, also available to age-eligible students attending these clinics will be the human papillomavirus virus (HPV) vaccine Gardasil®, which is recommended for both females and males to prevent certain cancers.

HPV infection can cause cervical, vulvar, vaginal, and anal cancer and genital warts in women, and anal cancer and genital warts in men.

"The HPV vaccine has been carefully studied for years, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says it is 'safe and effective,'" said a Health Department spokesperson. "The most commonly reported side effects are injection site soreness (the upper arm), mild fever, and mild fatigue."

Gardasil® will be available at no charge for Vaccines for Children (VFC) eligible students, which includes persons with Medicaid, those uninsured, or those whose insurance does not cover the vaccine. A small administration fee may be charged for teens without insurance.

"Insured teens may also receive Gardasil®," the spokesperson said. "Please bring valid insurance card so insurance can be billed."



AMERICAN IDOL CONTESTANT BUCKY COVINGTON is set to perform at the Garrett County Fair on Monday, Aug. 1, in the Agriculture Heritage Hall at 7 and 8:30 p.m. Since placing eighth in the fifth season of the talent competition, Covington has recorded multiple top 20 hits. His self-titled debut CD opened at #1 on Billboard's Top Country Albums chart with the biggest first week sales for any debut country artist that year. He went on to become the best-selling debut artist of 2007 and delivered three consecutive Top 10 singles to country radio: "Different World," "I'll Walk," and "Good To Be Us."

The colorful balloon appears to magically drift across the sky, but it will quickly collapse without a whoosh of hot air. Our spirits can deflate without the warmth of God's love to fill our souls. Let your Heavenly Father give you the power you need to soar above the stresses of everyday life. Worship in God's House this week and get the lift you need.

Be the Hero of Your Own Life

Works of fiction are sometimes disparaged by those with a practical bias as being useless, or at best, a harmless diversion. They would rather read non-fiction, presumably because it gives them knowledge which they can actually use. But fiction often teaches us valuable lessons about how to live life, how to handle adversity, and what it is to be human in difficult circumstances. Furthermore, we are sometimes struck by the realization that we might bend circumstances and events to our will, and in effect become the heroes of our own life. That is a valuable lesson, and one which can be learned from reading fiction, but also from reading biographies, autobiographies, and the narratives of the Bible. Becoming a hero usually starts, as it does in fiction, with conflict or adversity. From there, one must be inspired to resolve the conflict or deal with the adversity. And before the inspiration fades, one usually has to create a workable plan. In the same way that an author must plan her work, thinking over and trying out different plots and plans for character development, we should plan our own lives, perhaps imagining different paths toward achieving something great, something worth writing about. And just as an author has to develop her characters, so too do we have to develop our own moral character.

— Christopher Simon

"And we boast in the hope of the glory of God. Not only so, but we also glory in our sufferings, because we know that suffering produces perseverance; perseverance, character; and character, hope."

— Romans 5: 2-4 NIV

'Murder in the First' shakes up police dramas

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

As the summer swelters on, game shows and reality TV programs rule prime time. But for those who prefer more traditional TV fare, TNT serves up a police procedural with a fresh cast and plenty of drama.

Taye Diggs ("Private Practice") and Kathleen Robertson ("Boss") star as Terry English and Hildy Mulligan, homicide inspectors investigating the murder of all-star quarterback Normandy Parker in a new episode of "Murder in the First," airing Sunday, July 24, on TNT. Set in San Francisco, the show was created by 10-time Emmy winner Steven Bochco ("NYPD Blue") and Eric Lodal ("Laredo"), the latter of whom left the show midway through the second season for undisclosed reasons.

As in previous seasons, season 3 follows a single, complicated investigation instead of wrapping up a new mystery each week like many other prime-time dramas. When "Murder in the First" debuted in 2014, Bochco explained his preference for examining a single case throughout the season to the L.A. Times.

"What's fun about the single storyline is you get to develop characters, to really make them well examined," said the producer.

Three seasons in, English and Mulligan are much more than stereotypical prime-time cops. Their personal lives are every bit as fascinating as the cases they tackle, from his grief over the death of his terminally ill wife to her struggles as a single mom. This season is expected to be particularly heartbreaking as Mulligan faces a potentially life-threatening illness. The stress over what might happen to her daughter overwhelms her, even as the Parker case looms.

Season 3 had originally been slated to begin June 19, but due to the tragic Orlando Pulse nightclub shooting, the debut was pushed to June 26, out of respect for the victims and their loved ones. The same thing happened with TNT's "The Last Ship." With a little more than 1.3 million viewers, numbers were down for this year's season premiere, but it's important to note that the June 26 opener aired opposite the finale of the HBO juggernaut "Game of Thrones," so there was bound to be a dip.

"Murder in the First" has shown tremendous potential since its debut in 2014, when it ranked among cable's top 10 prime-time dramas. Season 1 pulled in more than five million viewers per episode over multiple platforms, including about 3.76 million live viewers. The 12-episode second season clocked in with more than two million average live viewers, and in December 2015, TNT announced "Murder in the First" had been renewed for a 10-episode third season, along with fellow hit dramas "Major Crimes" and "The Librarians."

Although English and Mulligan are undoubtedly the focus of the series, Diggs and Robertson are supported by a strong cast. Currie Graham ("Raising the Bar") stars as chief prosecutor Mario Siletti, who's struggling in the wake of a tragic car accident this season. "Once Upon a Time's" Raphael Sbarge works alongside the two leads as philosophical homicide detective David Molk, who's been partnered up with Edgar Navarro, played by Lombardo Boyar ("The Bernie Mac Show"). Their SFPD squad is supervised by Ian Anthony Dale ("Hawaii Five-0") as Lieut. Jim Koto. The returning cast also includes Mimi Kirkland ("Safe Haven," 2013) as Hildy's young daughter, Louise.

Back in March, news broke that Michael Gaston ("The Leftovers") had joined the third season cast of "Murder in the First." He portrays defense attorney Alfred Arkin, billed as a "warm family man." The role marks a reunion for Gaston and Bochco, who previously worked together in Bochco's "Blind Justice" for ABC. He isn't the only "Murder in the First" rookie, either. The cast also welcomes Corey Reynolds ("The Closer") as assistant district attorney Martin Reardon. Sara Paxton ("Darcy's Wild Life") stars as Alicia Barnes, a troubled 22-year-old pop star who'd caught Parker's eye before his untimely death. Eighties movie icon Anthony Michael Hall ("The Dead Zone") has been tapped to play Barnes's father, Paul.

The cast is top notch, and it also helps that Bochco is no stranger to police dramas, with such legendary TV series as "NYPD Blue" and "Hill Street Blues" under his belt. He was also behind hits such as "L.A. Law" and "Doogie Howser, M.D." In fact, the producer and writer is such a luminary in the television industry that some credit him with changing the face of prime-time television dramas by pioneering the large ensemble cast and continuous story arcs.

His legacy continues in "Murder in the First," which returns with a new episode Sunday, July 24, on TNT. In the episode, a suspect in the Parker case is murdered, giving some weight to English's conspiracy theory.

Meanwhile, Siletti's legal troubles become even more complicated because of a ruinous civil suit, which threatens to fracture the fragile peace he's made with his family. Also, Mulligan attempts to move on by going on a date. TNT will make the episode available on demand the day after broadcast for anyone who might miss it, and other season 3 episodes will also be available if fans want to rewatch or play catch-up.

'MAD' laughs

CW gives classic comedy 'MADtv' new life

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

'MAD' laughs: A sketch comedy classic is making a comeback. The original "MADtv" straight up broke audience's funny bones with its off-the-wall wit and politically incorrect humor for 14 seasons until it was canceled in 2009. CW brought it back for a one-hour special earlier this year to celebrate the show's 20th anniversary, and that reunion was such a success that the network has decided to bring it back again, this time as a full series.

CW's new "MADtv" premieres Tuesday, July 26, with a diverse new cast of players and a fresh generation of sharp, biting jokes and satire. Their names may not be familiar yet, but these up-and-coming comics have some impressive credentials to their names.

Chelsea Davison is a writer for Comedy Central's "@Midnight," and has written sketch comedy for MTV, UCB and YouTube. Carlie Craig has produced and appeared in MTV's "Todrick," which follows YouTube star and "American Idol" semifinalist Todrick Hall, and appeared in "First Impressions With Dana Carvey."

Jeremy D. Howard brings his impressive vocal skills to the cast; this former choir director has a three-octave range. He starred in 2014's "Hollywood Street."

Comedian Amir K is known around the globe thanks to a stand-up comedy routine that's taken him across the world. On screen, he's been seen in "Last Comic Standing" and in the Oscar-winning film "Argo" (2012).

Lyric Lewis has appeared in "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" and "Drunk History"; Michelle Ortiz, who has appeared in "Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D.," is a trained classical opera singer; impressionist Piotr Michael is a sought-after voice actor, with credits including "Wander Over Yonder" and the video game franchises Final Fantasy and Call of Duty.

Finally, comedian Adam Ray rounds out the cast. He has starred in "The Heat" (2013) and "Spy" (2015), and his voice talents are featured in the 2016 "Ghostbusters" reboot.

It remains to be seen how the move to weeknight prime time will affect the new show's content, but with the caliber of talent lined up, there's a lot of buzz surrounding this latest incarnation of the classic sketch comedy show The new "MADtv" premieres Tuesday, July 26, on CW.

Play on: It's a sad day when a favorite TV show is canceled. Luckily for "Nashville's" fans, the musical favorite is getting a second chance. "Nashville" may have been cut by ABC after its fourth season, but CMT has picked up a 22-episode fifth season to keep the show, which has a small but loyal fan base, alive and kicking. The new season is expected to premiere this fall.

The musical drama stars Connie Britton ("Friday Night Lights") and Hayden Panettiere ("Heroes") as a pair of country music stars, one in the twilight of her career and the other whose star is only growing brighter.

There's good news for "Nashville" viewers: both Britton and Panettiere have signed up for the move to the new network, and they aren't the only ones to do so. Most of the series regulars have agreed to make the jump over to CMT.

Sam Palladio ("Episodes"), Charles Esten ("Big Love"), Clare Bowen ("The Clinic," 2010), Jonathan Jackson ("General Hospital"), Chris Carmack ("The Butterfly Effect 3: Revelations," 2009) and sisters Lennon and Maisy Stella (in their first roles) are all packing their bags.

Unfortunately, two series regulars will not be making the transition. Aubrey Peeples ("Jem and the Holograms," 2015) and Will Chase ("Smash"), who played Layla and Luke, have left "Nashville" behind them.

Country music can never die, and neither can "Nashville," it seems. The Music City drama setties into its new home on CMT this fall.

Saturday

The Bourne Identity

15 11 12 8:00 p.m.

Academy Award winner Matt Damon brings Robert Ludlum's best-selling spy thriller to life as NBC presents the first of the Bourne films. Suffering from amnesia, Bourne (Damon) must uncover the truth about his past while being pursued by assassins.

Indiscretion

29 LIFE 8:00 p.m.

Mira Sorvino and Cary Elwes lead the cast of this premiere thriller. When a politician's wife has a brief affair with a troubled artist, the tryst comes back to haunt her. The young man tries to infiltrate every part of her life.

Hello World!

56 DISC 8:00 p.m.

Joan Jett's hit "Bad Reputation" serves as a soundtrack to this episode, which features creatures people love to hate, such as wolves, alligators and sharks. The program reveals that, for all of the fear they inspire, they are crucial parts of nature.

In An Instant

5 4 4 9:00 p.m.

This season finale presents another harrowing tale. People share the details of their brushes with death and struggle for survival in the face of danger in this series, which features both first-hand accounts and dramatic re-enactments.

Justin Hires and Jon Foo star in "Rush Hour"

Rush Hour

2 5 6 19 9:00 p.m.

Hong Kong cop Det. Lee (Jon Foo) works alongside LAPD officer Det. Carter (Justin Hires) in a new episode of this action comedy based on the film franchise of the same name. Although the two have completely different styles, they make a great team.

The First 48: Gangland

41 A&E 9:00 p.m.

Cleveland detective Kathy Cruz leads a murder investigation for the first time as she looks into the case of a father who was robbed and shot in this new episode. The evidence reveals that her suspect is one of Ohio's most dangerous criminals.

The American West

51 AMC 10:05 p.m.

Travel back in time to the years following the American Civil War in a new episode of this docuseries. Detailed re-enactments reveal the personal stories of such Wild West icons as Wyatt Earp, Jesse James, Crazyhorse and Sitting Bull.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was beloved 20th-century American dancer, singer and actor Fred Astaire who made the following sage observation: "The higher up you go, the more mistakes you are allowed. Right at the top, if you make enough of them, it's considered to be your style."

* If you're of a certain age, you may remember the popular cartoon "Far Side," by Gary Larson. You may not realize, however, that this daily chuckle influenced science as well as humor In a 1982 drawing, Larson dubbed the spikes at the end of a stegosaurus's tail the "thagomizer" -- which is what paleontologists call the spikes today.

* If you write the word "suns" upside down, it still says "suns."

* This election season might be a good time to resurrect the word "flapdoodler." During Victorian times, any annoyingly boastful or self-righteous person was considered to be a flapdoodler

* In Britain in the early 2000s, dead hedgehogs started turning up with their heads stuck in McFlurry cups. It seems that the little creatures would stick their heads in to get to the remains of the discarded treat, then they'd be unable to get out and would starve to death. In response, in 2006 McDonald's changed the design of the McFlurry cups to be more hedgehog-friendly.

* If you're planning a road trip to the Pacific Northwest, keep in mind that in Oregon it's against the law to test your endurance while driving a car.

* You might be surprised to learn that Helen Keller, probably best known as the first deaf and blind person to earn a bachelor of arts degree, was one of the first members of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On July 31, 1715, a hurricane strikes the east coast of Florida, sinking 10 Spanish treasure ships and killing nearly 1,000 sailors. Although much of the gold and silver was salvaged, coins and other artifacts occasionally wash up on Florida beaches.

* On July 25, 1898, during the Spanish-American War, U.S. forces launch an invasion of Puerto Rico. With only seven deaths, U.S. troops under Gen. Nelson Miles were able to secure the island by mid-August.

* On July 26, 1908, the FBI is born when U.S. Attorney General Charles Bonaparte orders a group of 10 newly hired federal investigators to report to the Department of Justice. Notorious gangsters such as George "Machine Gun" Kelly and John Dillinger met their end at the hands of the FBI.

* On July 27, 1953, after three years of bloody war, the United States, the People's Republic of China, North Korea and South Korea agree to an armistice, bringing the Korean War to an end. The war cost the lives of more than 50,000 Americans.

* On July 29, 1976, the "Son of Sam" fires five shots in the first in a series of shootings that would terrorize New York City over the course of the next year. Shooter David Berkowitz claimed that "Sam" was his neighbor Sam Carr, who transmitted his kill orders through his pet black Labrador.

* On July 28, 1990, Maximo Menendez falls Into a coma and later dies after drinking a Colombian soft drink, Pony Malta de Bavaria, In Florida. The soft drink had been laced with liquid cocaine, apparently by smugglers who planned to reclaim the bottles.

Finding A Pet Sitter

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I love my two Corgis, but my job as a nurse is demanding with long hours, and sometimes I don't get home to see them for over a day. My sister has been great, dropping in to feed and walk them, but her work hours are changing soon. I have to get a pet sitter, but I have no idea where to start. -- Sara in Dothan, Alabama

DEAR SARA: Set aside some time and start doing research on pet sitters in your area, as well as reading up on common services they offer. And ask around at work and anywhere else you socialize: Word-of-mouth recommendations are valuable. Pet sitters differ from dog walkers in that they go above and beyond a walk. They spend time in your home with the dogs -- from 30 minutes to ovemight, if needed. They give them food and water, their daily medication, monitor their well-being and provide any additional services that you agree upon. Some pet sitters offer long-term care in their home or facility if you're away for several days. Questions to ask your potential pet sitter include: How much does the service cost? Is the sitter bonded/insured? How many other pets does he/she sit for? Will the business owner be the sitter or will an employee or contractor do the job? If so, how are they screened and trained? What happens if the sitter can't make it? How does the sitter handle pet emergencies? You can find more extensive lists at Care.com and Pet Sitters International. Contact at least three sitters and compare prices and their responses to your questions. That will go a long way toward finding the best sitter for your Corgis.

Collecting by Larry Cox

iQ: I spotted a vintage Pontiac service sign in a shop in Wyoming. It reads "Pontiac Authorized Service" and is about 42 inches in diameter. I paid $150 for it. -- Ken, Salt Lake City, Utah
A: If your sign is authentic, the circular design was used during the 1930s and '40s. According to "Picker's Pocket-Guide to Signs" by Ed Bradley and published by Krause Books, if authentic, the sign often sells for about $3,300. If it is the real deal and you bought it for $150, you got an incredible bargain. Be aware, however, this sign has been reproduced.

Q: During the 1980s, I received a copy of "White Trash Cooking" by Ernest Matthew Mickler and published by Ten Speed Press. Is it worth more than just a few dollars? -- Debra, West Memphis, Arkansas

A: Mickler was a visual artist who was based in Key West, Florida, at the time he published his cookbook. The recipe collection attracted rave reviews, due in no small part because the dishes were genuine and reflected downhome cooking. "Trutti's Fruited Porkettes" and "Lady Divine's Chicken-Asparagus Pie" are two of my favorite recipes from this cookbook, which is worth about $15. There is also "White Trash Cooking 2: Recipes for Gatherin's," which was published in 1988.

Q: I have a cookie jar marked "Holiday Designs USA." I can't find anythihg about this company and hope you can help. -- Polly, Tulsa, Oklahoma
A: Holiday Designs was founded in 1964 in Sebring, Ohio, and continues to operate to the present day. Although ownership changed In 1983, the name was retained. This company makes ceramic canister sets In addition to a line of cookie jars. Many of the pieces are unmarked or Identified with paper labels.

Q: Recently I discovered several dozen Budweiser menu sheets from a saloon/restaurant owned by my family during the eariy 1930s. The sheets feature an old logo not currently used, and I wonder If they have any value. -- Jean, Corrales, New Mexico
A: Although your menu sheets are vintage and do seem interesting, they are probably worth only about $5 each.

Birding BITS by Cindy Brook

Serendipity

I heard from Jim C. in Orlando, who wanted to share that sunflower seed sprouted under his bird feeder, and sunflowers bloomed! He and his family think the sunflowers are a happy addition to their back-yard garden. I'm sure the birds do, too.

Utah Concealed Firearms Permit Class Scheduled

The Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College is offering a Utah Concealed Firearms Permit class. The class will run from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, July 30, at the Southern Outreach Center, Oakland.

Completion of this class prepares students to apply for a Nonresident Utah Concealed Firearm Permit, which is honored in 35 states. It does not include Maryland.

"Those who travel throughout the United States and wish to be permitted to carry a concealed handgun may be interested in this training," a spokesperson noted. "This six-hour class covers all aspects and requirements for safe firearm use that are required by the state of Utah."

Participants in the class must also pass a criminal background check in order to obtain a permit.

The Utah application will be completed during the class and reviewed for completion. Photographs and fingerprinting will also be done during the class at no additional cost.

"Please note that if your home state issues a concealed carry permit, you need to provide a copy of that permit to obtain your Utah permit," the spokesperson said. "This does not apply to Maryland residents – unless you currently have a permit."

The class is taught by Rick Sivic Sr., Boston Hill Training, who is certified by the Utah Bureau of Criminal Identification, a Maryland State Police qualified handgun instructor, and a National Rifle Association certified firearms instructor.

For additional information or to register for this class, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3064.

Hogan Shows How To Draw Support From Both Parties

by Josh Magness and Jessica Campisi
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK – Throughout the 2016 primaries, national figures like presumptive Republican nominee Donald Trump and Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders enthralled primary voters with hardline ideological positions.

But Maryland Gov. Larry Hogan took another approach – a form of moderate populism with bipartisan appeal.

In order to gain support in a strongly blue state – the second-most Democratic state in the nation, according to a 2015 Gallup poll – Republican Hogan has centered his efforts on fiscal policies while staying away from social issues.

With Trump poised to accept the Republican Party's nomination for president this week, he could take a page from Hogan's play book if he wants to gain some cross-party appeal in the general election race. Or it could be a party lesson for 2020, should he lose to presumptive Democratic nominee Hillary Clinton in November.

Todd Eberly, an associate professor of political science and public policy at St. Mary's College, said Hogan is potentially providing a winning model for the GOP in the 2020 general election if Trump – who has a 60 percent unfavorable rating according to the Real Clear Politics aggregate of polls – loses.

Like Trump, Hogan has experience as a businessman. But Hogan, Eberly said, is also more "mild-mannered" and has shown he can win – and maintain popularity in – blue states.

"If 2016 goes poorly, (Republicans) will be looking around come 2020 for someone to right the ship and correct mistakes made in nominating someone like Trump," he said. "In some respects, in many respects, he's sort of the anti-Trump."

Hogan has continued to focus on lowering taxes and fees for Marylanders. In September 2015, he announced plans to reduce fees paid by state taxpayers by around $51 million over a five-year period through measures such as a reduction to $1 for homeless identification cards and elimination of the $1.50 monthly EZ-pass fees.

He also ordered the reduction of 100 fees across the state government and another 115 related to animal health diagnostics at the Department of Agriculture.

And those policies worked in his favor. In April 2016, as the Maryland General Assembly legislative session reached its conclusion, Hogan's approval rating scaled to 66 percent, making him the most popular governor since at least 1998, according to a Washington Post and University of Maryland poll.

On May 12, he announced an additional $60 million in fee cuts for businesses and taxpayers. He's also vowed to lower state borrowing and spending, proposing a $17.1 billion operating budget for fiscal year 2017 that would leave a surplus of nearly $450 million.

"This state is open to the middle," said Joe Cluster, executive director of the Maryland Republican Party. "He's not a governor for just Republicans. He's a governor for all Marylanders."

Dan Nataf, the director of the Center for the Study of Local Issues at Anne Arundel Community College in Arnold, said Hogan has maintained his popularity in the state because he avoided those social issues that a majority of Marylanders favor.

In 2012, this state became the first to affirm the right of same-sex couples to wed through a popular vote when residents cast their ballots 52.4 to 47.6 percent in favor of Question 6. The referendum asked voters to approve or reject the Civil Marriage Protection Act, which legalized gay marriage.

A 2014 Pew Research Center Poll found that nearly half of Republicans and Republican-leaning voters within the state – 45 percent – think abortion should be legal in all or most cases. Seventy-four percent of Democratic or Democratic-leaning voters said the same.

In a state where Democrats outnumber Republicans by a roughly 2-1 margin, that indicates a solid majority of state voters are in favor of abortion rights.

But if Hogan were to live in a more conservative state, Nataf said, he would be forced to take a more partisan position, likely inciting controversy that would draw attention away from fiscal positions.

"In some states, like in the South and Midwest, the Hogan model wouldn't work because there is a larger Christian fundamentalist population that would force him to be more conservative on cultural issues," Nataf said. "The model – avoid social stuff and focus on moderate fiscal issues – shows it can be used in a blue state."

Louis Pope, the national committeeman for the Maryland Republican Party, said other Republican governors in usually blue states have followed a similar path to success as Hogan.

Pope points to Massachusetts Gov. Charlie Baker and Illinois Gov. Bruce Rauner, both businessman and Republicans, as parallels to Hogan.

During their campaigns, all three said they would not delve into social issues and instead concentrate on conservative fiscal positions like tax reduction, Pope said.

Keeping their promises, he continued, has endeared them to their constituents.

"They all won in upsets," Pope said. "It's a winning strategy, but it's not a unique strategy."

GCHD OFFERS ENROLLMENT ASSISTANCE IN GRANTSVILLE – The Garrett County Health Department is now offering free health insurance enrollment assistance at the Grantsville Outreach Center, located along Hershberger Lane. The Maryland Health Insurance office is on the first floor. Assistance is available for residents who want to apply for or renew Maryland Medicaid, Maryland Children's Health Program (MCHP), and MCHP premium health insurance programs. Office staff members can assist persons with enrolling in HealthChoice, a managed care organization, or with finding a physician via the online process. Assistance with uploading verifications needed for the Maryland Health Connection application, updating important information, or making changes to one's existing application are also available. All of these same services continue to be available at the GCHD office in Oakland. Persons with questions and/or wanting to schedule an appointment are invited to contact the Grantsville office by calling 301-895-5699, extension 201. Walk-ins are welcome. The Oakland office can be reached at 301-334-7720.

Local Students Honored At W.Va. Wesleyan College

Several Garrett County area students graduated and were recently named to the president's academic recognition list and dean's list at West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, W.Va., for the 2016 spring semester.

The president's list acknowledges academic excellence among Wesleyan's students. The criteria for inclusion on the list is 4.0 GPA, with a minimum of 12 earned hours for the semester. Wesleyan's dean's list requires students to earn a grade point average of 3.5 to 3.9 in 12 or more semester hours.

Andrew Cvetnick, Oakland, graduated this semester. Receiving academic recognitions were Kambrie Bosley, Oakland, dean's list; Taylor Germain, Oakland, dean's list; Jaiden Harvey, Oakland, president's list, Clay Todd, Oakland, president's list; and Landon Todd, Oakland, dean's list.

Founded in 1890, West Virginia Wesleyan offers 49 majors and graduate programs in athletic training, business, education, English, and nursing.

Deep Creek Lake Lions Hold Blind Camper Program

The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club hosted five blind children and their families for four days last week for camping and recreation in the Deep Creek Lake area.

For nearly 30 years, the club has been hosting blind children from all around the state of Maryland for both summer and winter programs, which emphasize personal growth and confidence-building through fun activities such as snow skiing and tubing. During the summer Blind Camper program, visually impaired children and their families camp out in tents at Deep Creek Lake State Park and experience a wide range of recreational activities in the area.

Club members donate their time and personal boats to bring the campers out on the water to tube, fish, and cruise the lake. Northern High School volunteers Jordan Short, Emma Scofield, and Nick Harris also assist the club with the program by camping out and serving as sighted guides for the campers.

In addition, local businesses contribute services and goods for the program, such as go-cart and bumper-car rides, pizza and ice cream, and recreational equipment for the campers to enjoy.

Campers arrived on Monday, July 11, and moved into their tents, which were set up by the club members on Sunday at DCL State Park.

"The management and staff of Deep Creek Lake State Park went above and beyond their normal duties to provide a safe and comfortable campsite for the program," said Lions Club spokesman Chris Nichols.

With the camp fully set up, club member Samatha Stumpf led a ceramics activity with the campers, each of whom was provided with thick slab of clay and natural objects used to mold his or her own patterns into a tile. Each of the tiles will then be transformed into cylinders, which will be fired and assembled into a totem pole and then displayed at the Lions Club park on Bumblebee Road.

Ken Bush and Tommy Wenzel provided evening pontoon boat rides Monday on the lake. Dinner was eaten at the campsite, with pizza and ice cream donated by Brenneman's Store.

All awoke Tuesday to breakfast provided by McDonald's of Oakland and delivered by club members Paul and Sue Shockey. The campers and staff then proceeded to spend a day of fishing, guided by Vicki Elwin, and water tubing on the lake, with club members providing boats and recreational equipment for the day.

The group lunched at club member Dan Cullather's lakefront home, where they rode PWCs driven by Chris Nichols. The campers then returned to the park and relaxed on the beach in the afternoon, then went to the club park on Bumble Bee Road where member Joey Simson of Deep Creek MasterCraft & Sports provided quad rides for the campers.

The campers then joined the general membership of the Lions Club for dinner and to talk about their day.

The group began Wednesday with more tubing, fishing, and skiing, piloted by member Jim Hodges, then went to the WISP Resort and enjoyed complimentary rides on the mountain coaster. In the afternoon, they were hosted by Funland for games, recreation, and pizza.

Thursday consisted of a hike at Swallow Falls State Park before the campers departed for their homes in the afternoon.

The DCL Lions Club holds not only this program every year, but also hosts blind skiers for three separate weeks during the winter months.

"The Blind Camper Program really is a team effort between our club, the state park, and local businesses," said Nichols, "We're hoping to provide this opportunity to even more campers next year."

The club holds a number of fundraisers each year to support these programs, including the Boat Parade and Poker Cruise on Deep Creek Lake, and the auction of donated boats and recreational equipment.

More information on how to get involved and/or donate to the DCL club's activities can be found online at www.deepcreeklions.org or by contacting Nichols at 301-616-7881 or dimesy23@gmail.com.

A CERAMIC ACTIVITY was among many that were provided for visually impaired children who were recently hosted by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club for a week of camp. Club member Samatha Stumpf is pictured above leading the campers in a ceramics activity which will become part of a permanent art installation at the club's community park along Bumblebee Road. The camper in the foreground at right is Meredith Day. Below, campers are pictured while enjoying a cruise on the lake. From left are Naudia Graham, Derrick Day, and Brandon Pickrel. See story for details.

CIVIC CLUB DONATES TO GARRETT TRAILS – As part of Civic Club of Oakland's annual nonprofit campaign, a donation was presented recently to Garrett Trails. "Garrett County is especially lucky to have a great nonprofit volunteer organization to create and maintain trails throughout the county," said a spokesperson. "The club is delighted to know that the donation will be used for the function of these trails." Throughout the year, the Civic Club of Oakland raises money through various fundraising events, the largest of which is the Autumn Glory Antique, Vintage & Collectables Show, and Cash Prize Raffle. This year's event is slated for Friday, Oct. 14, through Sunday, Oct. 16. The club's cafe sells foods and baked goods made by the members. For more information about Civic Club of Oakland, persons may visit its Facebook page or email gfwc.oakland@yahoo.com. VAN HOLLEN VISITS GARRETT COUNTY – Chris Van Hollen Jr., U.S. Representative for Maryland's 8th Congressional District and candidate for the U.S. Senate visited Garrett and Allegany counties on Saturday as part of his ongoing summer tour to reach out to Marylanders in every jurisdiction in the state. In Garrett County, he had a briefing about Garrett Trails and took a hike, then met with several elected officials at the Cornucopia Café in Grantsville. Discussion at the meeting included economic development in the county, the county scholarship program, broadband, and the possbilities for attracting new business and creating jobs. Pictured above around the table, clockwise, are Robert Reckart, Kitzmiller mayor; Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County commissioner; Richard Carlson (hidden), Accident mayor; Katherine Van Hollen; Robin Summerfield (partially hidden), western Maryland representative for Sen. Ben Cardin; Van Hollen; Mark Diehl, Grantsville mayor; and Paul Edwards, Garrett County commissioner.

SWANTON NEWS

Otterbein United Methodist Church News

Swanton Otterbein is serving as a drop-off location for those recently affected by the flooding in the neighboring state of West Virginia. Many items are needed. Persons are asked to call Pastor Carl Lee for further information at 240-321-3171.

Bible study on the book of Revelation is held at the church on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 7 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m., and the worship service begins at 11 a.m. at Otterbein. The worship service in Kitzmiller begins at 9:30 a.m. All are welcome.

The United Methodist Women continually accept Rada Cutlery orders throughout the year. The coordinator for this, Joni Wilson, can be contacted at 301-387-6332 to place an order.

Camp Agape

Camp Agape is a day-camp at which campers will have the opportunity to "discover the world that God created." Camp Agape will be held July 25-29 at 1276 North Glade Road, Swanton, from 9:15 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. each day, with Friday culminating in a parent program and picnic.

Camp Agape welcomes campers age 4-18 years. "Nature, crafts, singing, worship, Bible study, making new friends, and sharing with new and old friends will be featured once again this year," stated a camp spokesperson.

There is no fee charged to participate; however a free-will offering is accepted each day. Special surprises will be shared throughout the week.

Applications are available on the camp Facebook page found at www.facebook.com/agapedeepcreek. Questions should be forwarded to Kendra Rinard, director, at 301-334-6230.

Camp Agape youth perform service projects throughout the week, and needed are some donated fleece for nursing home blankets. Persons interested in donating fleece are asked to call Kendra at the number above.

Swanton Community Center

Newly elected officers for the community center are: Don Wolf, president; John Livengood, vice president; Rita Savage, secretary; and Lona Filsinger, treasurer. John Livengood will remain the chief contact for renting the center. His number is 301-387-6826.

Upcoming Dates/Events:

There will be no dinner in August because of the annual community picnic.

Aug. 13 – Yard sale. Persons are invited to bring their own tables, set up outside, and sell at no charge. The center will be open at approximately 8 a.m. that morning.

Aug. 15 – Monthly Community Center meeting, 7 p.m. All are welcome and encouraged to attend, even if not a member.

Aug. 18 – Community picnic, 6 p.m.. All families invited to attend and bring a covered dish to share. The center will provide the meat, tea, water, and coffee.

Buckwheat cake dinners will start in September, the dates of which have been changed from the second Saturday to the first Saturday of every month to help resolve conflicts with other area fundraising dinners.The dates scheduled for the remainder of this year are Sept. 3, Oct. 1, and Nov. 5.

The annual Swanton Days event is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 17. There will be a Lions Club chicken dinner. Readers are advised to check the Swanton News section or the center's Facebook page for details.

St. John's Lutheran Church/ Meadow Mountain

The Sunday worship service at St. John's begins at 9 a.m. All are invited to worship and also to a coffee hour following the service.

The church is located at 5214 Bittinger Road north of Swanton. Interim pastor Don Thomas may be contacted by calling 814-395-3845.

GOOD NEWS FOR FARMERS

by Dr. Thomas Sheahen

Q. When I was a kid in grade school, we learned that carbon dioxide helps plants grow. Now that there is more CO_2 in the air, are the plants actually growing better?

A. Carbon dioxide (CO_2) has been around for billions of years (in trace amounts), and only in the last three decades has it gained notoriety – for supposedly causing global warming. However, now that it's clear that the globe is not warming as much as feared, that concern has diminished, and people can get back to thinking about what CO_2 really does.

In the past century, the atmospheric fraction of CO_2 has risen from 300 parts per million (ppm) to 400 ppm; that is, from 0.03% to 0.04%. By contrast, oxygen is 21% of the atmosphere and water vapor varies in the 1% – 2% range (it's called humidity).

The increase in CO_2 means that there is roughly 1/3 more plant food in the air than there was a century ago. This has very significant effects on plant growth, from forests to fields of grain to flowers and grass.

The benefits of extra CO_2 have been known for many years. When plants are grown in greenhouses, additional CO_2 is pumped in so that the ambient CO_2 is about 750 ppm. The cost of adding CO_2 is fairly small, and greenhouse businesses know that the rewards (in terms of better plant growth) greatly outweigh the cost. Also, the humidity in a greenhouse is purposely increased to promote growth. When you enter a greenhouse, you "feel" the higher humidity, but not the extra CO_2. In fact, the fraction of CO_2 in your breath is a hundred times greater than that in the air. The additional tiny fraction of colorless, odorless CO_2 is imperceptible.

For over 25 years, scientists have studied the effects of changing CO_2 levels. The "percent of growth enhancement" goes up steadily to over 160%, as CO_2 concentration gets up to 2,300 ppm (0.23% of atmosphere). As a benchmark, when 300 ppm additional CO_2 is added, productivity of plants increases by about 1/3. In the other direction, if CO_2 is curtailed, plants die from starvation below 150 ppm. In places where there is very little water (known as "water-stressed"), plant growth is generally much less, but the percentage improvement with more CO_2 is far higher. All that data is available at the website www.co2science.org, the Center for the Study of Carbon Dioxide and Global Change.

What is happening is that increasing CO_2 causes changes in the stomata of plant leaves, the tiny holes through which water vapor enters a leaf. When CO_2 is low, the opening is large, but becomes smaller when CO_2 increases. Less water departs by transpiration when CO_2 is high. This means that water is used more efficiently by plants in high-CO_2 surroundings. The roots also get stronger, and more flowers or fruits are produced. Plants are better able to resist drought when CO_2 is higher, because they retain water. Moreover, plants thrive in lower light levels when CO_2 is plentiful.

That's not just a science-lab effect. In the region of Africa south of the Sahara Desert, known as the Sahel, the entire region is "greening" as plant life thrives with increased global CO_2. Even though animals eat more vegetation, the ability of plant to recover is greater.

Quite simply, carbon dioxide is plant food, not a pollutant.

Three hundred million years ago, when plant life dominated the Earth, CO_2 was a fair percentage of the atmosphere. Plants eventually poisoned their own atmosphere by excreting too much oxygen, but that enabled animal life to grow stronger. In the present age, the incorrect notion that the pre-industrial level of CO_2 (280 ppm) is desirable or optimum became a commonplace belief about the environment. But contemporary data now show that it is not optimum – in fact, 280 ppm is pretty low, with plant growth limited by the meager food supply. If CO_2 could somehow double from today's levels, plants would be healthier and grains, vegetables, and fruits would be more plentiful.

In elementary schools today, children are taught the virtues of recycling, and certain things (like aluminum cans) have real value. There are many actions a person can take to help preserve the environment. However, by far the most capable and efficient recycler of CO_2 is plant life. Farmers (who recycle all kinds of waste on a farm every day) know it's to their advantage when plants gobble up carbon dioxide.

Dr. Sheahen lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may email them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

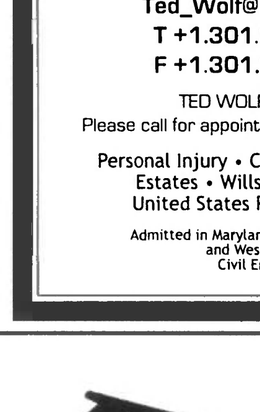
Nesselrodt Earns Bachelor's From University Of Md.



Joshua M. Nesselrodt, son of Shawn and Missi Nesselrodt, Kizmiller, graduated from the University of Maryland, College Park, in May. He earned a bachelor's degree in communication, with a concentration in public relations.

Nesselrodt is a 2012 graduate of Southern High School. He achieved dean's list status at UMD several times during his tenure there, including this past spring.

The graduate is currently working at AARP in Washington, D.C., as an experience intern. He plans to stay in the D.C. area for a few years in public relations before eventually heading to the West Coast, where he hopes to work in the technology field.

New Hope Plans Fellowship Meal Sunday, July 31

New Hope Christian Fellowship will host an International Fellowship Meal on Sunday, July 31, following the Sunday morning service, which begins at 10:30. The meal is in honor of three missionaries the church sponsors, sisters Alyse, Casey, and Donaya Demars.

The public is invited to attend. No one is required to bring food, but anyone who would like to bring an international dish to share is asked to call 301-895-5300. If there is no answer, persons should leave a call-back number.

Alyse is currently in the area, but will soon return to Ghana, where she teaches people to become ministers.

Casey works in a youth hospital in Mozambique, and Donaya currently works with youth programs on the streets of Brooklyn, N.Y.

PRESIDENTIAL SEARCH
GARRETT COLLEGE

Garrett College is a two-year community college located in scenic western Maryland, near Deep Creek Lake. Between its credit and noncredit divisions, it serves more than 5,000 students annually. The College offers a variety of degree and certificate programs designed to prepare students for transfer or a career; it also offers a variety of noncredit classes and programs ranging from workforce development to personal enrichment. The 62-acre main campus is in close proximity to the forests, lakes, farms, and whitewater rivers that are the outdoor classrooms for its "signature" A.A.S. degree programs in Adventure Sports Management and Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology.

Garrett College is also committed to STEM education and recent additions to its program offerings include an A.A.S. degree program in Cybersecurity and a certificate program in Electro-Mechanical Technology. A new STEM education building is scheduled to open in 2018. It is also worth noting that Garrett was the first community college in Maryland to add residential facilities to its McHenry campus.

The College prides itself on the quality of the education it provides. Its graduates are well prepared for success in their chosen careers. In fact, Garrett students who transfer to Maryland four-year public colleges or universities have, on average, typically earned higher grades than transfers from other Maryland community colleges. Garrett College is truly a great place to learn, a great place to work, and a great community partner.

The property will be sold in an "AS IS WHERE IS" condition without either express or implied warranty or representation, including but not limited to the description, fitness for a particular purpose or use, structural integrity, physical condition, construction, extent of construction, workmanship, materials, liability, zoning, subdivision, environmental condition, merchantability, compliance with building or housing codes or other laws, ordinances or regulations, or other similar matters, and subject to easements, agreements and restrictions of record which affect the same, if any. The property will be sold subject to all conditions, liens, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same including any condominium and of HOA assessments pursuant to Md Real Property Article 11-110.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $20,000.00 cash or certified funds shall be required at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price with interest at 6.990% per annum from the date of sale to the date of payment will be paid within TEN DAYS after the final ratification of the sale. Adjustments on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. If applicable, condominium and/or homeowner association dues and assessments that may become due after the time of sale will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, transfer taxes, title insurance, and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Time is of the essence for the purchaser, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property may be resold at risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser. The purchaser agrees to accept service by first class mail and certified mail addressed to the address provided by said Purchaser as identified on the Memorandum of Sale for any Motion or Show Cause Order incident to this sale including a Motion to Default Purchaser and for Resale of the Property. If the sale is not ratified or if the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title in accord with these terms of sale, the purchaser's only remedy is return of the deposit.

ORDER TO POST

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District 1, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to Rodney A. Sweitzer and Barbara Sweitzer on May 1, 2015:

All that lot, piece or parcel of land situate in Election District No. 1, known as Lot No. 6, Jennings Randolph Overlook Subdivision, containing 7.93 acres, more or less, and described in a quit claim deed from Erich D. Dawson and Mary Lou Dawson to William T. Bush dated December 29, 2010, and recorded in Liber 1565, folio 150, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one day from the date of the sale has expired.

It is thereupon, this 11th day of July 2016, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED that the notice be posted on the property by the Sheriff before the 10th day of August 2016, warning all persons interested in said property to be and appear in this Court by the 9th day of September 2016, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances. 7/14-28(3)

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION
General Permit for Discharges from Mineral Mines, Quarries, Borrow Pits and Concrete and Asphalt Plants

The Department proposes to reissue the State/NPDES (National Pollution Discharge Elimination System) 10MM (NPDES No. MDG49) General Discharge Permit from Mineral Mines, Quarries, Borrow Pits, and Concrete and Asphalt Plants with the new 15MM General Discharge Permit. The 15MM permit applies to stormwater and wastewater discharges from mineral mines, concrete and asphalt plants, and stormwater runoff from associated co-located or appurtenant activities in the state of Maryland.

The permit requires specific control measures at the facility based on facility type. This updated permit requires process water meet certain standards, and that pollution of stormwater be minimized based on certain best management practices. The proposed permit requires monitoring and corrective actions based on benchmark parameters based on the facility operation.

There are also requirements for inspection and reporting. The discharge monitoring reports must be submitted electronically to the Department. Quarterly visual examinations of stormwater discharges and comprehensive annual inspections are required.

The Department will hold a public hearing concerning the tentative determination on September 9, 2016 at 1:00 PM in the Aqua Conference Room 1005 at the below address.

Any hearing-impaired person may request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting the Office of Fair Practices at (410) 537-3964 at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date. TTY users should contact the Maryland Relay Service at 1-800-201-7165.

The draft permit is available on MDE's website and can be found at http://bit.ly/MDE-MMGP through the below comment period. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department at the below address, on or before September 16, 2016. Any questions should be directed to Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Industrial Permits, Baltimore, MD 21230-1708, Attn: Paul Hlavinka, at paul.hlavinka@maryland.gov, or by telephone at 410-537-3323 between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY KNOWN AS NO. 52 GLENDALOCH LANE MCHENRY, MD 21541
CASE NUMBER 11-C-15-014261

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Lewis C. Hibbs, Jr., Susan Hibbs, La Loch LLC, recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1341, folio 487, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting Mark S. Devan, Thomas P. Dore, Christine Drexel, Brian McNair, and Angela Nasuta as Substituted Trustees, the Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse Door-Alder Street Entrance, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, 21550 on Monday, August 1, 2016, at 03:20 p.m.

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, as described in the Deed of Trust recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, in Liber 1341, folio 487, also being further described in a Deed recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 1260, folio 97. The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to any existing building violations, restrictions and agreements of record. The purchaser assumes all risks of loss for the property as of the date of sale. Neither the Substituted Trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representations or warranties, either expressed or implied with respect to the property. The Substituted Trustees shall convey insurable title.

TERMS OF THE SALE: A deposit in a form acceptable to the Substituted Trustee in the amount of $50,000.00 will be required of the purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, at the time and place of sale. Any amount tendered at sale in excess of the required deposit will be refunded and not applied to the purchase price. Unless the purchaser is the Holder of the Note or its assigns, the balance of the purchase price shall be paid immediately with available funds within ten (10) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. Time is of the essence. The purchaser, other than the Holder of the Note or its assigns, shall pay interest at the rate of 7.50000% per annum on the unpaid portion of the purchase price from the date of sale to date of settlement. Real property taxes and assessments shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Ground rent, water and/or sewer charges public or private, if any, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property.

In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. If the purchaser defaults, the entire deposit is forfeited. The Substituted Trustees shall resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees, all other charges due, and incidental and consequential damages. Defaulting purchaser also agrees to pay the Substituted Trustees' attorney a fee of $250.00 in connection with the filing of a motion to resell.

In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of the deposit. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagor, the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney. The Substituted Trustees shall have the right to terminate this contract in the event the Holder or its Servicer has entered into any agreement with, or accepted funds from, the mortgagor. Upon termination of the contract, Purchaser's sole remedy shall be return of the deposit.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AND ANY IMPROVEMENTS THEREON

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust dated June 30, 2005 and recorded in Liber 1138, Folio 132 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, with an original principal balance of $68,000.00 and a current interest rate of 1.37500% default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

JULY 27, 2016 AT 1:30 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with any buildings or improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, and any improvements thereon, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $8,000 in the form of certified check, cashier's check or money order will be required of the purchaser at time and place of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Sub. Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year's real property taxes are adjusted as of the date of sale, and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Taxes due for prior years including costs of any tax sale are payable by the purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for any recapture of homestead tax credit. All other public and/or private charges or assessments, to the extent such amounts survive foreclosure sale, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, whether incurred prior to or after the sale to be paid by the purchaser. All costs of deed recordation including but not limited to all transfer, recordation, agricultural or other taxes or charges assessed by any governmental entity as a condition to recordation, are payable by purchaser, whether or not purchaser is a Maryland First Time Home Buyer. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, subject to order of court, purchaser agrees that property will be resold and entire deposit retained by Sub Trustees as liquidated damages for all losses occasioned by the purchaser's default and purchaser shall have no further liability. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Sub. Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if ratification of the sale is denied by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY

3566 BROADFORD RD.
DEER PARK A/R/T/A OAKLAND, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Carl A. Simmons and Janet L. Simmons, dated August 27, 2009 and recorded in Liber 1462, folio 407 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., auction to be held at the 317 Alder St. entrance, Oakland, MD 21550, on

JULY 27, 2016 AT 1:23 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and described as Tax ID #10-009766 and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $20,000 by cash or certified check. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. There will be no abatement of interest in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement or if settlement is delayed for any reason. The noteholder shall not be obligated to pay interest if it is the purchaser. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of all real property taxes, including agricultural taxes, if applicable, and any and all public and/or private charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges and ground rent, to be adjusted to date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. Condominium fees and/or homeowners association dues, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale forward. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Additional terms to be announced at the time of sale.

If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit without interest. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited, to the Trustees for application against all expenses, attorney's fees and the full commission on the sale price of the above-scheduled foreclosure sale. In the event of default, all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Trustees may then re-advertise and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser or may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser without reselling the property. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to receive the surplus, if any, even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulting purchaser and the defaulting purchaser shall be liable to the Trustees and secured party for reasonable attorney's fees and expenses incurred in connection with all litigation involving the Property or the proceeds of the resale.

Weather Trivia

What is the lowest barometer reading ever measured?

Answer: It was 25.63 inches, in the middle of a Typhoon named Tip.

Weather History

July 22, 1918 - A single bolt of lightning struck 504 sheep dead in their tracks at the Wasatch National Forest in Utah. Sheep often herd together in storms and, as a result, the shock from the lightning bolt was passed from one animal to another.

July 23, 1788 - A weather diary kept by George Washington recorded that the center of a hurricane passed directly over his Mount Vernon home. The hurricane crossed eastern North Carolina and Virginia before moving into the central Appalachian Mountains.

Detailed Local Forecast

Today we will see partly cloudy skies with a slight chance of showers and thunderstorms, high temperature of 83°, humidity of 49%. The record high temperature for today is 91° set in 1957. Expect partly cloudy skies tonight with a 30% chance of showers and thunderstorms, overnight low of 68°. The record low for tonight is 39° set in 1966. Saturday, skies will be partly cloudy with a 30% chance of showers and thunderstorms, high temperature of 84°, humidity of 44%. Skies will be partly cloudy Saturday night with a 30% chance of showers and thunderstorms.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

Benefit Spaghetti Dinner

A spaghetti dinner will be held tomorrow, July 22, to benefit Donald "Dickie" Friend at Blooming Rose United Methodist Church beginning at 4:30 p.m. The event is being held by his sisters, and all proceeds will benefit his cancer care. All are welcome to attend.

Vacation Bible School

Deep Sea Discovery Community Vacation Bible School was recently held at Friendsville UMC. This was a joint effort between the United Methodist and Lutheran churches. Almost 60 children attended this year's VBS, participating in crafts, games, music time, and Bible story lessons each night. Kona Ice Mountain Maryland came in the middle of the week to treat the children to snow cones, and the annual hot dog dinner was held at the end of the week for children and their families.

The VBS offering went to Compassion's Water of Life program. This program provides water filtration systems that gives families clean water for life. A total of $244.59 was collected. Those interested in more information may visit water.compassion.com.

Thanks are extended to the volunteers who helped make VBS a success again this year.

Mercy Chapel

Mercy Chapel will have fellowship and refreshments on Sunday, July 31, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The morning worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will include contemporary Christian music by Rex Lewis of New York, who is spending time with family in the area. All are invited to attend the fellowship in the historic chapel.

Second Annual Flotilla

The second annual Flotilla will be held on Saturday, July 23, beginning at 5 p.m. Registration will be held at Precision Rafting from 1 to 2 p.m. that day, and entry line-up will be at 4:45 p.m. Life vests will be provided if needed. For more information, persons may contact Precision Rafting.

Vitez Reunion

The John and Elizabeth Vitez family reunion will be held on Saturday, July 30, at the Vitez family farm at 2079 Mill Run Road, Friendsville, beginning at noon. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish to share. Family and friends are invited to attend and enjoy the day.

Circle of Friends Bus Trip

One seat is available to see the Phantom of the Opera at the Kennedy Center on Saturday, Aug. 13. For more information, persons may contact Nancy at 301-895-5233.

Bicycle Decorating Contest

A bicycle decorating contest will be part of Friendsville Days on Saturday, July 30, at the community park. Decorated bikes can be ridden in the parade or brought already decorated to the town park stage area to be judged. Decorated items to be judged can include bicycles, tricycles, scooters, strollers, wheelchairs, or wagons.

First-place prizes will be given to the following age groups: birth to 3 years old, 4 to 7 years old, and 8 to 12 years old. Helmets must be worn by all cyclists, and all children ages 7 and under must be accompanied by an adult to ride in the parade. Adults are welcome to participate, but no awards will be given. Registration forms can be found at the post offices or by emailing kelseyl_07@live.com or by contacting Kelsey Artice at 240-321-3454.

Wing Eating Competition

A wing-eating contest will also be held on Saturday, July 30, at the community park stage area, beginning at 4:30 p.m. An entry fee of $20 per person is required, and cash prizes will be awarded to those in first, second, and third place. A waver must be signed by all participants, and rules and regulations will be given.

This event is being sponsored by the Sports Page Bar and Grill, Morgantown, W.Va., ERL Financial Services LLC, McHenry, and Ken's Irish Pub, Friendsville. For more information or to register for the event, persons may contact Kelsey at 240-321-3454 or via email at kelseyl_07@live.com.

Car, Truck, & Motorcycle Show

The annual Car, Truck, and Motorcycle Show (Friendsville Days) will be held on Saturday, July 30, from 2 to 6 p.m. Registration will be held from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Friendsville Community Park/Little League Field. Dash plaques and goody bags will go to the first 50 to register. For more information, persons may contact Pat Riep-Dice at 301-746-4280. A Kid's Choice trophy will be awarded, as well as the Buddy Dice Memorial trophy.

Bingo & Bake Sale

There will be bingo and a bake sale held at the Senior Citizen Community Building on Saturday, July 30, beginning at 1 p.m. during Friendsville Days 2016. All are welcome to attend.

Man Arrested On First And Second Degree Assault

A Deer Park man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Sunday evening after they responded to a reported domestic assault involving a knife.

Deputies and officers with the Natural Resource Police were dispatched to Bethlehem Road at approximately 9 p.m. and made contact with Marvin Eugene White Sr., 68. Investigation revealed that he had physically assaulted his wife with his hands and had given her a laceration on her leg with a filet knife. When White was placed under arrest, he allegedly attempted to fight police. A taser had to be deployed and used on White, which immobilized him long enough to place him under arrest.

White was taken to the Garrett County Jail where he is being held on $200,000 bond. He is charged with first-degree assault, second-degree assault, reckless endangerment, and resisting arrest.

The victim was treated for her injuries at Garrett Regional Medical Center, Oakland.

RIBBON CUT FOR ARTS COUNCIL'S POP-UP GALLERY – The Garrett County Arts Council partnered with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce last Friday to cut the ribbon officially on the arts council's Pop-Up Gallery Shop in McHenry. After the success of two temporary holiday pop-up galleries in late 2015, the new McHenry pop-up will be a continuation of GCAC's commitment to both local visual artists and the public, according to Karen Reckner, executive director. The shop features one-of-a-kind, handcrafted gifts and works of art. The location for the temporary gallery is being made possible by the donation of the building space from Stuck Enterprises of Waynesburg, Pa., the parent company of Jacobs Petroleum and Oakland Oil & Propane. "The arts council has opened this pop-up Gallery Shop to provide a location for our regional visual artists to have their work available during the summer, Autumn Glory, and holiday seasons," Reckner said. "This space will remain open to the public until Dec. 31 while we make plans for a permanent location. We are grateful to Stuck Enterprises for providing the space." The shop is open Monday to Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Pictured at the ribbon-cutting ceremony, from left, are Reckner; Frank Shap, GCAC board of directors; Larry Tichnell, county commissioner; Cory Stieringer, gallery manager; Jim Hinebaugh, county commissioner; Steve Stuck, Stuck Enterprises president; Marcia Warnick, GCAC board of directors; Patty Manown Mash, chamber board member; and Joan Lyon, president of the GCAC board of directors.

Solar Saturday Event Held Saturday In Friendsville Draws Crowd Of 30

Some 30 persons filled a side room of Mountain Hollow Store on Walnut Street in Friendsville on Saturday to hear a presentation on solar energy development. Solar Saturday was sponsored by the Friendsville Renwable Energy Effort (FREE), an all-volunteer subcommittee of the Economic Development Committee of the Friendsville Town Council.

Speakers included three people who already have solar panels on their homes or businesses, two solar installers from the area, and a home energy efficiency expert. Solar panels were set up outside the store so participants could see them up close.

"We are fortunate to have our Frostburg group here with us today," said Rob Smith, chairman of FREE. "These individuals have pioneered solar energy development in our area and have committed themselves to helping Friendsville move forward."

Woody Getz, a Frostburg City commissioner, sponsored the first Frostburg Solar Saturday in October 2014, which also had an attendance of about 30 people.

Kenny Braitman, the first presenter, told of getting the panels installed on his blacksmith shop located next to his home in Finzel.

"The panels have been a good, solid business decision and are paying for themselves, plus it feels nice to know you are decreasing your dependence on fossil fuels," he said.

Rob and Nina Forsythe were among the couples attending the Solar Saturday event in Frostburg, and subsequently had solar panels installed on the roof of their home. They shared information on their financial gains from their installation, as well as anecdotes about how snow slides off the panels and what it feels like to see the electricity bill decrease.

"Every morning for quite a while I would go outside and watch the meter spin backwards, meaning I'm selling power, not buying it," RobForsythe said. "It's a good feeling."

Mike Koch, an owner of FireFly Farms in Accident, showed pictures of the solar array on the roof of the cheese factory, relating how quickly it was installed and now quickly it is paying off as an investment.

"It's just a no-brainer deci-

Annapolis Man Drowning Victim At Swallow Falls

An Annapolis law clerk drowned while swimming in the Youghiogheny River at Swallow Falls State Park last Wednesday evening, according to the Natural Resources Police.

William Kyle Regan, 28, was swimming when his mother lost sight of him shortly before 7 p.m. and called for help, according to NRP spokesperson Candy Thomson.

NRP officials and park rangers began searching and called in a Maryland State Police helicopter and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company dive team, Thomson said, adding that his body was recovered at around 8 p.m.

Thomson said Regan was in the area of the "lower falls," where there are some relatively deep holes. Regan reportedly had a mild case of epilepsy, but it was unknown if he suffered any kind of episode just prior to his disappearance below the surface. An autopsy was scheduled.

Regan worked as a law clerk in the criminal traffic division at District Court in Annapolis. Friends and family described him as an avid and "amazing" gymnast, who coached at 1st Class Gymnastics in Annapolis. He was also involved in a number of community-service projects and organizations.

Regan's parents, William and Susan, reportedly own a second home in Garrett County. Besides his parents, he is survived by one sister, Maura M. Regan, a brother, Charles "Harrison" Regan, and grandparents Patricia Regan and Charles and JoAnn Cherry.

A funeral service was held Sunday in Annapolis.

Man Charged With Intent To Distribute CDS

A West Virginia man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies following a traffic stop along Wes White Road, Oakland, Friday evening.

Craig Oakes Langworthy, 26, Terra Alta, was operating a 1999 Hyundai that was stopped at approximately 10:30 p.m. During a search of the vehicle, 39 grams of marijuana were reportedly recovered, along with marijuana pipes, a set of digital scales, and a loaded .22 handgun.

Langworthy was charged with driving under the influence of drugs, possession with intent to distribute marijuana, and transporting a handgun. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Oakland's Revitalization Quest Put In Motion With AIA Visit

The first step of a series that are hoped to lead to the revitalization of Oakland was taken on Monday, when a team from the American Institute of Architects (AIA) Communities by Design program came for its first visit to the town. Through the work of various committees, an application was made early this year to be among the AIA's list of projects, and the town was notified some months ago that it had been accepted.

The initial visit of the Sustainable Design Assessment Team (SDAT) took place Monday. The SDAT program focuses on the principles of sustainability in a municipality. SDATs bring teams of volunteer professionals such as architects, urban designers, landscape architects, planners, hydrologists, economists, attorneys, and others to work with community decision-makers and stakeholders to help them develop a vision and framework for a sustainable future.

According to information from the AIA, the SDAT program is based on the AIA's goal of "helping communities create a sustainable relationship between humans, the natural environment, and place. By achieving balance between cultural, environmental, and economic systems, communities can sustain a place as a stage for human settlement."

A committee was formed by the town council late last year called BASE (Building A Stronger Economy), with the mission of determining the status of the Oakland business climate and coming up with ways to enhance it. Another volunteer group, On Track Oakland, sought information and then completed the application to AIA.

The project requires funding, and a large portion of the bill was taken care of by the Garrett County Board of Realtors (GCBR), which obtained a grant to help offset the costs. Members of the GCBR presented a $5,000 check to the AIA team on Monday (see photo).

Ray Mack, Joel Mills, and Erin Simmons of AIA came to Oakland Town Hall in the morning on Monday to

Area Residents Attend Energy Event In Philly

Residents of Garrett and Allegany counties joined nearly 200 activists from across Maryland who traveled to Philadelphia to take part in the March for a Clean Energy Revolution on Sunday.

Billed by organizers as the "largest anti-fracking march in U.S. history," the event brought together more than 10,000 "fracktivists," climate justice advocates, and leaders from the environmental and faith communities who walked from Philadelphia's City Hall to Independence Park, calling on political leaders gathered for the Democratic National Convention to end fracking, reject the Trans-Pacific Partnership, transition to 100% renewable energy, and ensure environmental justice for all.

"The concerns were serious, but the mood was festive," said Nina Forsythe, a Frostburg resident and board member of the local group Citizen Shale. "The feeling of being part of a group of 10,000 marchers, knowing

HANNAH BREWER, AKA Miss Maryland 2016, will be a guest of honor for Friendsville Days by singing the national anthem for the opening ceremonies and then participating in Saturday's parade. A resident of Manchester, Brewer is a 19-year-old student at Carroll Community College majoring in business administration and working full time as a print model for Click Models of Philadelphia Inc. What began as making and donating fleece blankets for soldiers to make their overnight stay more comfortable resulted in Hannah's Heroes, a nonprofit organization she founded at the age of 15. Hannah's Heroes provides emotional support and organized giving to active military members, their families, and to veterans. Since 2013, Hannah's Heroes and its committed volunteers have provided over 5,000 homemade Christmas cards, 1,000 care packages, 1,000 fleece blankets, and 500 toys for military children. Volunteers make homemade cookies for the organization to send to service men and women during the holidays, host special Princess Parties for military children, visit wounded troops at Walter Reed Medical Center, and entertain thousands of veterans participating in honor flights. Hannah's Heroes, an official charity of the Maryland State Police, partners with the USO, Operation Welcome Home, and Operation Home Front to help fill identified needs. Miss Maryland's visit to Friendsville is being sponsored by Friendsville Pharmacy.

Business Funds Equipment At Cancer Institute

A Garrett Regional Medical Center spokesperson announced on Monday that the hospital has implemented the AccuVein AV400 vein visualization system, thanks to a donation from Automotive Machine, located in Mountain Lake Park and owned by Sue and Scott Bittinger.

"If you've ever had difficulty while giving blood or getting an IV started, technology now being used at the WVU Cancer Institute at Garrett Regional Medical Center will be a welcome relief," said Kathy Greaser, GRMC senior director of Marketing and public relations. "The AccuVein device has been shown to improve first-stick success and reduce patient pain."

The system is designed to help healthcare professionals locate the best vein for venipuncture. They simply point the lightweight, portable device at the skin and click to display the peripheral veins beneath.

Venipuncture is the most common invasive medical procedure worldwide, with an estimated 2.7 million procedures conducted every day in the United States alone. Improving first-stick attempts is a major goal for healthcare providers around the world, according to Greaser.

"This is going to be good for the nursing staff but even sion," Koch said, "The tax incentives and Renewable Energy Credits really pay off, and we're very proud of showing the community and those coming by on Rt. 219 that we are a 'green' company."

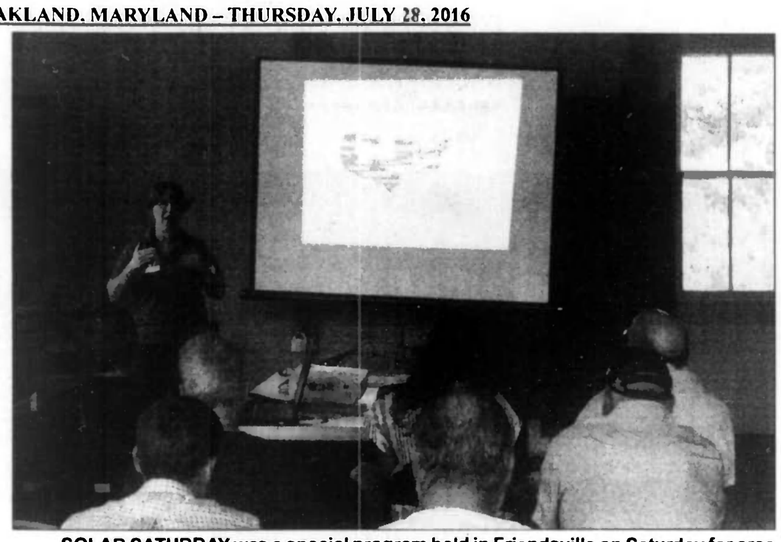
Mark Watkins, owner of Hot Shotz Thermal Imaging Services in Garrett County and an expert on energy conservation, spoke of the many ways homeowners can conserve energy in their houses and save money. Hot Shotz does free Quick Home Energy Checks, part of the Empower Maryland program of the Maryland Energy Administration and administered by Potomac Edison.

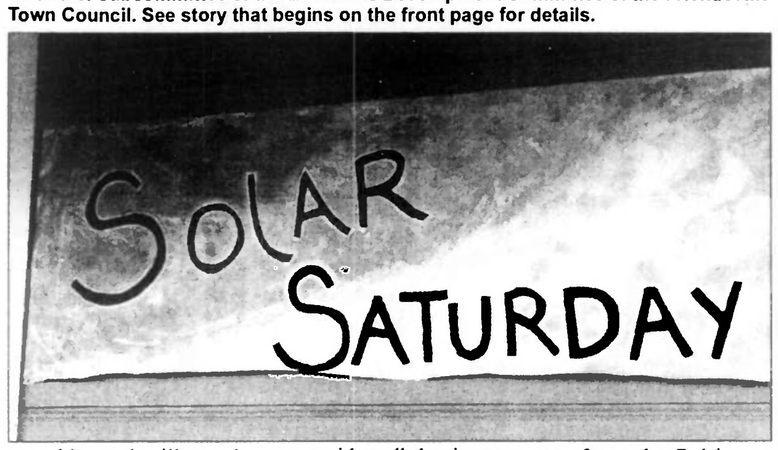
"An Energy Check is about conserving energy, but it's also about making your home more comfortable – I dedicate my time to making people comfortable," Watkins said.

"Energy conservation is part of the program here with FREE," Smith said. "If we waste less energy, we obviously don't have to generate more and more of it."

Two solar installation companies – Big D Electric from Cumberland and Mtv Solar, based in Berkeley Sprmgs, W.Va. – both gave PowerPoint presentations on their products and installation operations. One demonstration was that of a 1,000-watt solar panel-battery combination that is portable, sets up in minutes without tools, is grid connectable, and will supply power either all the time or in emergency situations.



SOLAR SATURDAY was a special program held in Friendsville on Saturday for area residents to learn about the possibilities and potential of the use of solar panels at their homes and/or businesses to decrease their conventional energy use and expenses. The speakers included persons who already have solar panels in use, plus two solar installers, and a local home energy efficiency expert. Above, Betsy Delozier from Big D Electric in Cumberland explains Solar Renewable Energy Credits. The program was sponsored by sponsored by the Friendsville Renwable Energy Effort (FREE), an all-volunteer subcommittee of the Economic Development Committee of the Friendsville Town Council. See story that begins on the front page for details.



"It was very interesting to learn about the nuts and bolt of solar installations," said Jennifer Theriot, a member of the FREE Committee. "We learned a lot from these guys about the financial part of home solar as well."

"The goal of FREE is to encourage renewable energy development and to create local jobs in the business," said Smith. "We request that our contractors use some local trades people on every installation."

Solar Saturday had attendees from the Friendsville area, from south of Oakland, from Allegany County, and even from the Baltimore area, Smith related.

According to the FREE Committee, calls to sign up for solar installations are now coming in from people who did not attend the event, but heard about it. FREE has stated that its goal is to sign up a group of people who want solar for their homes or businesses so that contractors can make bulk purchases, lowering the ultimate cost and employing as many as possible.

There is no charge for services from FREE, which can be reached at levysmith883@yahoo.com or by calling 301-746-5625.

Local Student Attends Space Camp In Ala.

Alexis Iovacchini, McHenry, recently attended Space Camp at the U.S. Space and Rocket Center, Marshall Space Flight Center's Official Visitor Center in Huntsville, Ala.

The weeklong educational program promotes science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM), while training students and adults with hands-on activities and missions based on teamwork, leadership, and problem solving.

Iovacchini was part of the Space Camp program, which is specifically designed for trainees who have a particular interest in space exploration. He spent the week training with a team that flew a simulated space mission to the International Space Station (ISS). Once aboard the ISS, the crew participated in experiments and successfully completed an extra-vehicular activity (EVA), or spacewalk.

Space Camp operates year-round in Huntsville, and uses astronaut training techniques to engage trainees in real-world applications of STEM subjects. Students sleep in quarters designed to resemble the ISS and train in simulators like those used by NASA.

More than 750,000 trainees have graduated from Space Camp since its inception in 1982, including STS-131 astronaut Dottie Metcalf-Lindenburger, European Space Agency astronaut Samantha Cristoforetti, and Kate Rubins, who launched to the ISS this summer. Last year, children and teachers from all 50 states and 69 international locations attended Space Camp.

A SUCCESSFUL PRESENTATION was held Tuesday evening at Garrett College, where over 50 persons gathered to hear MD SUN's program director Corey Ramsden explain how to form a solar cooperative. Ramsden gave detailed information on solar and co-op technology, costs, management, and other information to encourage western Marylanders to form a group. A local co-op, he said, would make incorporating solar power easier and save individuals/businesses up to 20% of costs. Interested persons can learn more and/or sign up online at www.mdsun.org/mountain-md. It was noted that becoming a member is not a commitment to purchase panels. Once the group is large enough, MD SUN (Maryland Solar United Neighborhoods) will help obtain competitive bids from area installers. Once a company is selected, group members will have an opportunity to purchase panels based on the installer's group rate. "This is a wonderful opportunity to save money and help save our environment by using a renewable energy source," stated a presentation organizer.

WELCA Group To Sponsor Trip To Brethren Ctr.

The WELCA (Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America) group from the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger, will sponsor a trip to the Brethren Service Center in New Windsor on Thursday, Aug. 18, leaving Bittinger at 9 a.m.

Owned and operated by the Church of the Brethren. Housing various organizations, this facility works in several areas of relief and development, disaster response, social justice, peace education, and hospitality.

The group will deliver completed quilts, health kits, school kits, layettes, and soap for Lutheran World Relief to the center. In addition to delivering items, the group will be given a tour of the grounds and center facilities.

Mary Ann Grossnickle, manager of the Zigler Hospitality Center, will also orient participants as to opportunities for volunteering at the center. Time will be allotted for the group to visit and shop in the SERV Gift Shop.

All area churches are invited to attend. There will be no cost for transportation. If 30 or more persons are going, a chartered bus will be secured. If fewer than 30, vans or private vehicles will transport the participants. If a chartered bus is taken, additional space will be available to transport items to the center from other churches.

The cost of the luncheon meal at the center will be $10.

For additional information, persons may contact Linda Buckel at 301-245-4287 or 301-616-1875.

FSU Colloquium Showcases Works By Local Students

The recent Frostburg State University English Colloquium showcased the 17 best written works by students of any major over the previous year as determined through blind readings by a faculty committee. The event provided an opportunity for students to present their work in a professional academic setting.

Four of the 17 pieces showcased were written by three Garrett County students.

Nicholas Callis, Oakland, who is a history major, presented "Satan as the Tragic Hero in Paradise Lost" and "Gandhi's Assertive Stance on Passive Resistance."

Michelle Knotts, also of Oakland, a liberal studies major, presented "Blood."

Tyler Sweitzer, McHenry, presented "Text Sets: Effective Tools for Combating Eurocentrism." He is a history major with an international concentration.

Frostburg State, one of the 12 institutions of the University System of Maryland, is a comprehensive, residential regional university that serves as an educational and cultural center for western Maryland.

Sheffield Named Office Manager For First United

Robin E. Murray, senior vice president and director of retail banking for First United Bank & Trust, and Philip L. Rodeheaver, Garrett County market president, have announced the appointment of Paula R. Sheffield to the position of community office manager in the Grantsville office of First United.

Sheffield has almost a decade of experience in the financial services industry and has been with First United since 2007. She served as a customer service representative, head teller, and customer service officer before her promotion to assistant community office manager in January 2016. She has completed numerous workshops and seminars, and is actively involved in many community organizations, including the Grantsville Rotary Club and the Greater Grantsville Business Association.

"It gives me great pleasure to announce this well-deserved promotion," said Rodeheaver. "Paula's outgoing, friendly personality and attention to detail makes her the perfect fit to meet the needs of our customers at the Grantsville office."

Outside the workplace, Sheffield says she enjoys spending time with her family, especially at the beach. She also enjoys hiking, boating, and travelling.

She resides in Meyersdale, Pa., and has one son, Harrison.

First United Corporation operates one full-service commercial bank, First United Bank & Trust. The bank has a network of community offices in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, and Mineral, Berkeley, and Monongalia counties in West Virginia. As of March 2016, the corporation posted assets of $1.32 billion.

Please, Talk To Us...

The great majority of our farmers are without question among the finest stewards of soil, water, and the environment in general, because they know that their very livelihoods depend upon healthy soil and clean water, not only for successful growing of their crops, but also for the growth and good health of their livestock.

It is also a well-known fact that farming is a risky, difficult business, the many challenges of which make earning a decent living nearly impossible, particularly for the relatively small farm operator – a category into which most Garrett County farmers fall. It is not only expensive from a monetary standpoint, but also in terms of the physical toll it can take on one's body and spirit. Ten to 12 hours of work per day is not uncommon for the farmer, and those dairy cows simply refuse to take any day off from needing milking, including Sundays and holidays.

So it is understandable that farmers are attracted to the prospect of some easy money, for a change – and possibly big money – through the leasing of their farmland to allow the gas industry to move in and set up a fracking operation. For some farmers, this would seem to be the perfect retirement plan – They maintain ownership of their land, their ongoing risk of bankruptcy goes away, and they can perhaps continue to do some level of farming, as desired, during and after the natural gas has been extracted from below.

But referring back to the first paragraph above lauding our farmers for being such good caretakers of the environment – our water, our soil, our air – herein lies a dilemma for most of them. The very human tendency, of course, is to just accept the claims of the gas industry and pro-fracking politicians that this method of natural gas extraction can be done safely – claims that are being refuted on an almost daily basis. Blindly just going along with the industry is all that it takes to possibly become wealthy. But at what cost? At what cost to one's own land, water, and air, and to that of adjacent owners? To the next generation of farmers? To the quality of the environment for decades, if not centuries, to come?

We know full well where the current president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau stands on fracking, and we have received a few letters to the editor from local farmers who have no intention of selling out to the gas industry. Some of those same few have spoken out at recent meetings and public hearings on fracking. But it would be fantastic to hear from a lot more local farmers and larger land owners on this issue. We would love to know where residents of our Amish community stand on this. The attitudes and opinions of all of you are extremely important in helping the rest of our residents ultimately decide on where they stand on fracking.

Do the majority of the members of the GC Farm Bureau support fracking? Or is this similar to the action concerning fracking taken by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce leadership that has clearly not been representative of the majority of its members? Please, "talk" to us via your letters on this page in this newspaper.

To the Editor:

As a lifelong Democrat, I've always believed that the DNC was somehow a bit better than the political status quo. Somehow Democrats as a whole were more transparent, honest, and operated with above-average integrity. In the face of numerous scandals involving Democratic leaders, I reverted to believing that it wasn't possible that the entire party, nor its most mainstream leaders, were in favor of such behavior. Sure, there were a few fringe bad apples, but as a whole, the party was sound.

Then came the 2016 race for the White House. Bernie Sanders, running as a Democrat, began to embrace the principles that many of the party's liberal base had long favored. He exploded in popularity, bringing people into the fold who had never previously been interested in politics. Bernie spoke directly to many liberal voters, broadcasting a message of equality and revolution into the homes of struggling, hardworking Americans who had felt the sting of a rigged economy. Here, a 74-year-old man was igniting a passion within young people to make their country a better place, to utilize their potential for the betterment of mankind.

Bernie consistently faced roadblocks, some which seemed to have been engineered by the very party in which he was running. Rumor of sabotage at the hands of the DNC were muttered across the Internet, talk radio, and cable news. The DNC would never sabotage a man who so firmly preached its core values, certainly not in favor of another candidate with more moderate views? I assumed overall that Bernie's concerns, and those of his most steadfast followers, were simply poor sportsmanship.

Now, with the release of 12,000 DNC emails, proof is positive that the Democratic party intended to undermine Bernie Sanders' campaign. They intended to use any avenue of attack to discredit him, including his Jewish heritage or a makeshift lack of religion. These are the same tactics Democrats often abhor in conservative candidates. Behind Bernie's back, the very party that extended an olive-branch was scheming to cut the legs from beneath his campaign. We now know that the DNC and Clinton campaign did not run a fair race, and it darkens the waters around the entire party up to November.

I personally feel disenfranchised by a party I've publicly and financially contributed to since I was old enough to vote. I imagine I am not alone.

To the Editor:

A recent article appeared in the NY Times, "You Probably Don't Need Dental X-Rays Every Year," by Austin Frakt (July 25, 2016: http://www.nytimes.com/2016/07/26/upshot/you-probably-dont-need-dental-x-rays-every-year.html?_r=0).

The primary point made in the article was that the American Dental Association (ADA) states that dental X-rays are not needed every time one visits the dentist if you are properly caring for your teeth. While the interval between having "bitewing" X-rays varies from individual to individual, it is argued in this article that dentists tend to overuse the procedure. The article quotes Dr. Jay Friedman, a dentist who advises Consumer Reports, as saying, "Many patients of all ages receive bitewing X-rays far more frequently than necessary or recommended," and, "Adults in good dental health can go a decade between full-mouth X-rays." This article further states "... the harm from radiation is cumulative," so if X-rays are given routinely for children, then by the time one reaches adult age a fair number of X-rays have entered the body.

Why is it then that is it so difficult in Garrett County to find a dentist willing to examine one's teeth without respecting the patient's wishes of no X-rays? Granted that not all information about one's teeth and gums can be known without an X-ray, but if an adult with very limited teeth issues throughout his/her life requests no X-rays then that should be honored. I must travel to Cumberland to find a dentist willing to examine and clean my teeth without an X-ray.

Yes, there are times when X-rays are needed, but this article and other studies have suggested that too many unwarranted X-rays are being taken, particularly for young people. This is not only an extra health risk, but also an added and un-needed cost to the community and to the health industry.

To the Editor:

A public hearing was held recently by the county commissioners on the Planning Commission's recommendation to accept the petition submitted by 11 DCL watershed property owners, of which I am one. It recommends that the Deep Creek Lake Zoning Ordinance be amended to bring it into compliance with the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Management Plan. This plan, which the commissioners, MDE, and DNR have already approved, states that there should be no fracking wells drilled in the DCL watershed.

This petition was never intended to be the end all, be all ... it is not the only thing that we need to do to protect Deep Creek Lake and all sensitive watersheds and lands in our beloved community from the dangers of fracking. In my eyes, it's only one piece. There is so much work that has to be done from this point on. But, approving the Planning Committee's recommendation is a step in the right direction. And it has to happen now.

Why now? The commissioners have stated that they are waiting for the state regulations on fracking before they approve a drilling prohibition in the DCL watershed. However, that is, in my opinion, a position that is outside the scope of their responsibilities to the citizens of this community. This petition and their responsibilities to act on it are not in any way related to the state regulations. This is a local, land-use issue. This is not an issue connected to the state regulations in any way!

But if it were, they still must pass this zoning change now before the state regulations are enacted. The regulations, as outlined in the MDE issue paper, do nothing to protect DCL, and actually put lake feeder streams and water sources in greater jeopardy with setbacks that are greatly reduced from the O'Malley proposed regulations. Once the MDE regulations are approved, it will be harder to pass local regulations should they be contrary to state regulations and the local action be deemed preemptive. Thus, they must act now, before the state regulations on fracking are adopted.

I ask that they immediately adopt the Planning Commission's recommendation put forth three months ago, prohibiting vertical fracking well drilling and all associated surface structures in the DCL watershed. It is the commissioners' duty to protect the public, and the economic and environmental health of Garrett County. This action is one way to do just that.

To the Editor:

Recently, while shopping for produce at an outdoor market on a hot, sunny day, I noticed several dogs panting heavily and frantically picking up their paws from the pavement. I took my sandal off and felt the ground with my own foot. It was so hot that I was in pain within a second.

I rushed around the market, warning people that then dogs' feet must be burning. One tiny dog was in so much pain that she was running in place! Thankfully, most of the people I talked to cared about their dogs and quickly picked them up or moved them to the cool grass. But many people still don't realize how dangerous hot pavement is and harm their dogs by dragging them along on stifling days.

My own pup stays safe and cool inside a shaded stroller, but on hot days, I leave him at home where he is most comfortable. I urge everyone to think of their pups' paws this summer and always test the pavement before setting out. Remember, if it feels hot it's too hot for Spot.

Sincerely,
Jamie Schwartz

To the Editor:

The silence is disturbing. This week is national Buy Local Challenge, encouraging everyone to commit to eating just one local food item each day this week. This should be a big deal to us in Garrett County, as residents, lake people, or our tourists.

I would have expected that local leaders in our rural county would step forward and promote this challenge as a logical way to affirm the importance of our farming community and importance of sustaining this sector of the economy.

In Annapolis, Governor Hogan and his wife Yumi hosted a cookout on the grounds of their official residence, centered on local produce and featuring chefs who support farm-to-table cuisine.

Maryland has a major agriculture industry. If every family bought just $12 worth of produce for the eight weeks of summer, more than $200 million would be put back in the pockets of Maryland farmers. I don't have access to data for Garrett County, but it has to be substantial and must be increasing as the local farm to table movement grows.

It is not too late to get involved. Run down to the wonderful Farmers Market this Saturday. This is peak of season and the tables are overflowing with a true cornucopia of produce. Ask for recipes. Try just one new veggie – you may be surprised! Recipes can also be found on the Department of Agriculture website, mda.maryland.gov/pages/buy

Barbara Hafer Is Indicted By Fed. Grand Jury

A federal grand jury has indicted former Pennsylvania state treasurer and part-time Garrett County resident Barbara Hafer, charging that she lied to FBI and IRS agents who were investigating corruption, including "pay to play" deals, in Pennsylvania's government.

U.S. Attorney Peter Smith said last Thursday that Hafer, 72, Indiana, concealed a financial relationship with a business person, identified as "Person No. 1" in the indictment, who facilitated payments totaling $500,000 to Hafer's consulting firm after she left the treasurer's office in 2005. That same person had business dealings with the Pennsylvania Treasury Department while Hafer was treasurer, Smith said.

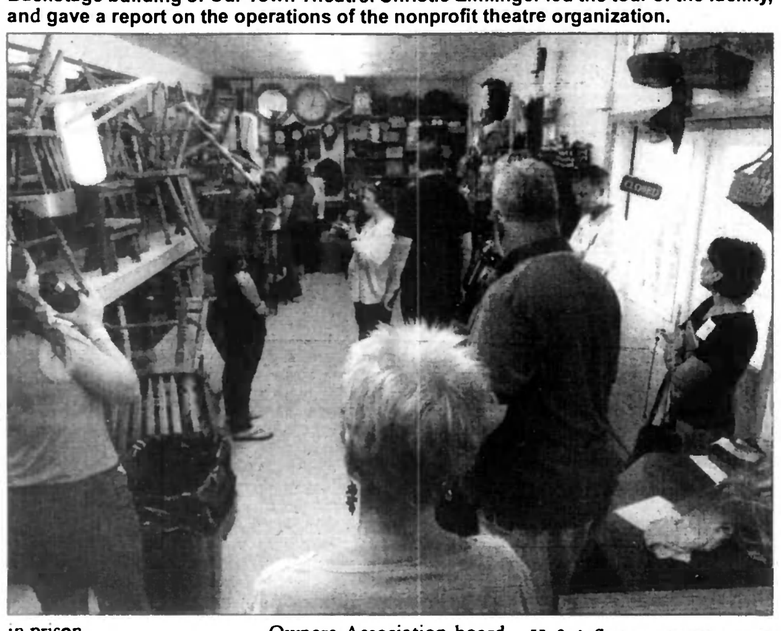
Initially a Republican who switched parties to become a Democrat in 2003, Hafer was one of the Pennsylvania's most prominent female politicians. She served as treasurer from 1997 to 2005. She also was the state's auditor general from 1989 to 1997. She began her political career in Allegheny County and in 1990 won the Republican nomination for governor, losing to Robert P. Casey in the general election. She filed as a candidate for governor in 2002, but then yielded to party choice Mike Fisher, then the state's attorney general.

The indictment alleges that Hafer lied to FBI and IRS investigators during an ongoing corruption probe in May. She is charged with two counts of making false statements or representations to a federal agency, charges that could result in up to 10 years in prison.

Hafer has been a home owner at Paradise Point, Deep Creek Lake, since 1986. Locally, she is a member of the Garrett College Foundation board of directors, the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association board, and the Deep Creek Lake Yacht Club. She has also served as a member of the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board's finance committee.

No date has been set for Hafer's first court appearance on the charges.

REALTOR BOARD INVESTS IN TOWN REVITALIZATION – The Garrett County Board of Realtors (GCBR) is assisting the town of Oakland in its efforts to revitalize and renew its downtown community by funding a project with the American Institute of Architects (AIA) Communities by Design. Monday was the initial visit of the Sustainable Design Assessment Team, now engaged by the town to help with the revitalization. Members of the GCBR took part in the day's events, and handed over the $5,000 contribution for the project. Barbara Butler, an executive officer of the GCBR, said the organization applied for and obtained a grant for the project, as it felt the effort was important to the health and growth of the town and the county. A story about the visit can be found on today's front page. Pictured from left are Doug McClive, GCBR treasurer, Paul Durham, GCBR government affairs director; Butler; Bob Carney, GCBR vice president; and AIA consultants Ray Mack, Joel Mills, and Erin Simmons. In the photo below, some of the participants in Monday's tour of the town are pictured in the Backstage building of Our Town Theatre. Christie Elmlinger led the tour of the facility, and gave a report on the operations of the nonprofit theatre organization.



GC Commissioners To Hold Mtg. In Avilton On Aug. 15

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners has announced that it will not conduct a public meeting on Monday, Aug. 1, as previously announced.

The next scheduled meeting will be held on Monday, Aug. 15, at the Avilton Community Center at 6 p.m.

Requests to be on a meeting agenda must be made by contacting Carol Riley-Alexander, executive assistant to the commissioners, at 301-334-8970 by 1 p.m. one week prior to the public meeting date.

Put In Motion

begin a day of meetings and tours. Representatives from a number of local agencies, business groups, and other organizations were present at different portions of the day's events.

In addition to BASE and On Track Oakland, groups represented at Monday's meetings were GCBR, Oakland Town Council, Oakland Planning Commission, the Greater Oakland Business Association, the county commissioners and other government representatives, Garrett College Continuing Education & Workforce Development, the Garrett County Business Hub's Networking Group, Garrett Innovation and Enterprise Center, the Power of Possibilities, Garrett County Heritage Area, and others.

The group first discussed the challenges currently facing the county seat, as well as its positive attributes, and the stakeholders' desired outcomes. The group then toured downtown Oakland, visiting Our Town Theatre and the OTT Backstage building, the Oakland B&O Train Station Museum and Transportation Museum, some available properties, and some operating businesses.

The group met county government representatives for a lunch meeting and discussion, and spent the afternoon in more talks with Oakland town council and planning committee members.

The SDAT process is designed to help communities understand their structure at various scales and contexts; explore interactions between ecological, sociological, economic, and physical systems; visualize potential futures; articulate the qualities of a place; advance the principles of sustainable communities; and define the role of stakeholders and players in both the public and private sectors.

After this initial visit, the next step will be a three-day visit by a multidisciplinary team, after which a report will be compiled highlighting the strengths and weaknesses of the community with regard to sustainability, along with the opportunities and obstacles to change.

Consultations will follow the three-day visit, and the team will continue to communicate and monitor the progress of the town committees as they work toward the various goals. The relationship of the SDAT members and the town will continue for more than a year.

The AIA provides up to $15,000 in services for each project, and communities are expected to contribute $5,000 in cash match, which was provided by the GCBR. The town is also expected to raise some additional resources through in-kind donations and matches.

The members of the BASE committee are Michelle Ross, Catlin Carrico, Chrissy Marucci, Fred Gregg, Gwen Evans, Bill Meagher, Jeff McCauley, Laura Stutzman, Kathy Shaffer, Sherwin Teagarden, and Peggy Jamison. On Track Oakland members are Tiffany and Gary Blackden, Paul Durham, Mary Ellen Dore, and Christie and Joshua Elmlinger. Realtor board and other volunteers include Amy Zimmerman, Barbara Butler, Doug McClive, Bob Carney, and Sandi Flockhart.

Regarding the discussions on Monday, Tiffany Blackden said, "The conversations were elevated to the process of focusing on what we can build and create together. This is to be a community led, public process." She added that many more community members, also called "stakeholders," will be sought for input and offered opportunities for participation, as it is to be a project truly created and decided upon by the local members of the public.

For more information about the SDAT program, persons may go to www.aia.org/about/initiatives/AIAS075425. They may also email sdat@aia.org, or contact Erin A. Simmons, director, Center for Communities by Design at esimmons@aia.org or 202-626-7492.

Persons may also go on Facebook to follow On Track Oakland Maryland and/or A Great Small Town. Blackden said the On Track Oakland Maryland facebook page is going to be continuously updated with information as the process continues.

Born Sept. 12, 1917, in Luray, Va., he was a son of the late Joseph Turner Beahm and Laura K. (Young) Beahm.

He was a veteran of the U.S. Navy, having served in the South Pacific aboard the USS Aulick during World War II.

Prior to retirement, he served as pastor of Rileyville Assembly of God in Rileyville, Va., Browntown Assembly of God in Browntown, Va., Bethel Assembly of God in Front Royal, Va., Manning Assembly of God in Harpers Ferry, W.Va., and Hereford Assembly of God in Hereford.

After retirement, he resided in Charles Town, W.Va., until 2010, when he moved to Oakland to live with his son Ray.

He loved to read and always loved to talk to people, never failing to share the great love of Jesus Christ for the individual.

He is survived by four sons, Clyde W. Beahm and wife Earlene, Houston, Texas, Fred E. Beahm and wife Becky, Manhattan Beach, Calif., Norman A. Beahm and wife Charlotte, Charles Town, and A. Ray Beahm and wife Rebecca, Oakland; 12 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren; eight great-great-grandchildren; one brother, Howard Lynwood Beahm, Luray; and one sister, Louise Hill, Stanley, Va.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his wife, Marie (Lee) Beahm.

A funeral service will be held at Manning Assembly of God, 19182 Charles Town Rd., Harpers Ferry, WV 25425, on Friday, July 29, at 11 a.m., with Pastor Wesley Beahm and Pastor Keith Edwards officiating. The family will receive friends from 10 to 11 a.m.

Interment, with military honors, will follow in Edge Hill Cemetery, Charles Town.

Newman Funeral Home, Oakland, is in charge of arrangements.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to Hospice of Garrett County, P.O. Box 271, Oakland, MD 21550.

Condolences may be left for the family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

LOIS E. REAM

According to Benjamin Franklin, "Well done is better than well said." His words epitomized the life of Lois Elaine Bowser Ream.

She was born Aug. 8, 1930, near Terra Alta, W.Va., the only child of Pansy O. Sisler Bowser and Dewey W. Bowser, two hard-working people from whom she learned tenacity, perseverance, integrity, and joy.

Elaine believed in always doing her best and showing up every day. As a child growing up on a farm in rural West Virginia, she loved school. She recalled riding the family's draft horses to school with her father through snow "up to the horses' bellies," but she seldom, if ever, missed a day.

A straight-A student, her excellent grades in Latin resulted in her being invited to work for Mr. Everhart, an attorney in Kingwood, W.Va. She had a penchant for math, as was revealed when she tested out of her college accounting class with a score of 99 percent. Her aptitude in math led to an accounting career, and her extensive work history included Maryland Motor Freight in Baltimore and Leighton Brothers Buick in Oakland.

The General Motors Corporation awarded her numerous honors for her meticulous work. Eventually, she went to work at Southern High School as an accountant, and continued there until her retirement.

She was devoted to her two children, daughter Dale Sue and son Darren, and sacrificed to give them every possible advantage. Many an evening was spent cheering her son on at Little League games in Oakland and Terra Alta and holding horses for her daughter at horse shows throughout the region.

Upon retirement, she moved to Belleview, Fla., with her Wonder Dog, Schatzie, a miniature dachshund. There she learned to paint, play the organ, and golf. She enjoyed plants, antiques, Sudoku, talking on the phone with friends, and attending performances at the Ocala Civic Theatre.

She spent the last year of her life with her daughter and son-in-law at her apartment on their farm, where she monitored the movements of the horses, spoiled the dogs, and designed projects to spruce up the place. This earned her the moniker of "ranch boss," which she relished. She entertained her son-in-law with her quick wit and good cookin'.

As one of the first lady members of the Oakland Elks, Elaine retained her membership throughout her life. She attended Ascension Lutheran Church in Ocala, Fl.

She died July 24, 2016, and was preceded in death by her parents and son.

Surviving are daughter and son-in-law, Dale Sue and Ken Wade, Ocala; and grandsons Kenny Wade, Ocaia, and Dylan Sisler, Newport, N.C.

Friends and family will be received at the Arthur H. Wright Funeral Home in Terra Alta on Sunday, July 31, at 1 p.m.

A brief memorial service will be held at 2 p.m., with Rev. Larry Anderson officiating, followed by interment in the Terra Alta cemetery.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.arthurwrightfuneralhome.com.

SCHRILLA M. KNOX

Schrilla Marion Knox, 90, Oakland died on Tuesday, July 26, 2016, at the Oakland Nursing and Rehabilitation Center.

Born on Dec. 14, 1925, in Accident, she was a daughter of the late Jonas and Esther (Teets) Knox.

She had attended the Loch Lynn Church of God.

She is survived by a sister- in-law, Viola Knox, Mtn. Lake Park; two nieces, Carolyn Wiley and Irene Ringer; and four nephews, Frank Wiley, David Wiley, Robert Wiley, and James Knox.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by five brothers, Samuel Knox, Jesse Knox, Frank Knox, James Abraham Knox, and an infant brother, Harry Knox; and one sister, Clara Wiley.

Friends will be received at the C & S Fredlock Funeral Home, Oakland, today, Thursday, July 28, from 5 to 8 p.m.

A funeral service will be held in the funeral home on Friday, July 29, at 11 a.m., with Pastor John Skipper officiating.

Interment will follow in the Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, P.O. Box 378, Oakland, MD 21550.

Condolences for the family may be left at www.csfredlockfh.com.

Thank You

Over the last year we have experienced great joy, but also extreme sorrow. As we celebrate what would have been Owen's first birthday on July 28, we would like to take this opportunity to thank the multitudes of people and organizations who extended their unlimited kindness to us and our families during our time of great need. We were overwhelmed with the support and participation of Owen's Spaghetti Dinner, Gofundme website, local fundraisers, and most recently the first Cure SMA Walk-n-Roll in Morgantown, WV. Owen brought our community together, and we feel blessed to call Garrett County home.

We are grateful for the four months we spent with Owen. Our hearts are full when we remember Owen's unforgettable smile. Please continue to remember Owen's life and in his honor spread awareness about spinal muscular atrophy.

Praise be to God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of compassion and the God of all comforts, who comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves receive from God. For just as we share abundantly in the sufferings of Christ, so also our comfort abounds through Christ. (2 Corinthians 1:3-5)

Thanks Again,

North Garrett FFA Members Place At Recent State FFA Convention

A total of 23 members of the North Garrett FFA chapter recently attended the Maryland State FFA Convention in Linthicum Heights. Students participated in various competitions and attended educational workshops and sessions.

Several of them placed in their competitions, and five students were awarded their State FFA degrees. To attain this degree, students must have received the Chapter FFA Degree; been an active FFA member for at least two years; have earned and productively invested at least $1,000, or worked at least 300 hours in excess of scheduled class time, or a combination thereof, in a supervised agriculture experience program; demonstrate leadership ability; have a satisfactory scholastic record; have participated in at least five different FFA activities above the chapter level; and have participated in at least 25 hours of community service.

Another award that can be received in addition to the state FFA degree is the State Proficiency Award. These awards are given to students who fill out an extensive application. They are scored based upon the quality of their supervised agriculture experience projects and the application submitted. Many of the state degree candidates also received proficiency awards for their projects.

Students receiving the state FFA degree were Bethany Meyers, who also received a proficiency award in equine production, poultry production, and agriculture education; Emily Opel, who received a proficiency award in specialty animal production and agriculture education; Eric Bittinger; Miranda Rounds, who received a proficiency in sheep production; and Carley Sisler, who received a proficiency in swine production.

In addition to the state degrees, Maryland selected a State Star Greenhand from the Chapter Star Greenhands at the local level. The Greenhand award is given to a first-year freshman member who has excelled in agriculture education. Chapter Greenhands were required to fill out an application to apply for the state star greenhand award, which was reviewed by a panel of judges. North Garrett member Ally Kisner was selected as a state finalist for the award.

The group competed in various contests while at state convention. Members of the Agriculture Knowledge Bowl placed first in the state. Team members were Sadie Powell, Bethany Meyers, Miranda Rounds, and Luke Canan.

Members of the Agriculture Marketing Plan contest placed third in the state. Team members were Andrea House, Miranda Rounds, and Nayomi Arnold.

Prepared public speakers Bethany Meyers and Emily Opel placed seventh and eighth in the state, respectively. Creed speakers were Ally Kisner, who placed seventh, and Abby Kisner.

Other teams that participated in competitions included the Floriculture Team with members Kaley Hare, Emily Opel, Carley Sisler, and Andrea House; Vet Science with Nayomi Arnold, Ally Kisner, Abby Kisner, and Miranda Nealis; Environmental Science with Tyler Billmeyer, Adam Crayton, Eric Bittinger, and Dakota Bittinger; Agriculture Sales with Collin Fratz, Jordan Hetz, Jordon Grove, and Joshua Beitzel; and FFA Knowledge with Collin Fratz, Andrea House, Miranda Rounds, Nayomi Arnold, Adam Crayton (who placed second individually), Jordan Hetz, and Dakota Bittinger.

WHICH ONE WILL BE QUEEN? One member of this group will receive the title of Garrett County Farm Queen during a program beginning at 7:30 this Sunday evening, July 31, at the fairground's Ag Heritage Hall. She will receive a scholarship sponsored by the Garrett County Fair Board of Directors. The queen and her court will represent the fair and Garrett County agriculture at various activities during fair week, as well as across the county for the next year. Pictured from left are Dori Jenkins, Friendsville; Miranda Rounds, 2015 Garrett County Farm Queen; Michaela McCrobie, Oakland; Alana Harman, Frostburg; and Sara Carr, Accident. Pictured below is contestant Laura Pritts, Oakland.

FAIR ROYALTY CHOSEN – The farm queen court was recently selected for the 60th Garrett County Fair. Members are between 5 and 15 years old, and are selected based on a submitted application, an interview with a panel of three judges, and the candidate's involvement with the fair and agriculturally related activities. A spokesperson noted that serving as a member of the court is designed to assist candidates in developing the skills necessary to compete for the opportunity to serve as the Garrett County Farm Queen when they are old enough, as well as to provide assistance to the queen during the many events of the fair and as well as community events throughout the year. Pictured from left are Samantha Keller, daughter of Luke and Cara Keller, Accident, and Chrissy Steyer, Oakland; Jaylyn Wilt, daughter of Sarah Wilt and Jason Wilt, Grantsville; Cheyenne Bagley, daughter of Christopher and Robin Bagley, Grantsville; Bailey Schmidt, daughter of Bobby Schmidt and Pam Robinette, Oakland; Mara Evans, daughter of Craig and Caroline Evans, Oakland; and Leah Fratz, daughter of Jackie Wright, Swanton, and Dwayne Fratz, Accident.

USDA Reminds Maryland Farmers Of Aug. 1 Deadline

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Maryland Farm Service Agency (FSA) executive director Linda Slacum reminds farmers and ranchers that they have until just next Monday, Aug. 1, to enroll in Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) and/or Price Loss Coverage (PLC) programs for the 2016 crop year.

"Producers have already elected ARC or PLC, but they must enroll for the 2016 crop year by signing a contract before the Aug. 1 deadline to receive program benefits," said Slacum. "Producers are encouraged to contact their local FSA office to schedule an appointment to enroll."

The programs trigger financial protections for participating agricultural producers when market forces cause substantial drops in crop prices or revenues. Nationwide, more than 1.76 million farmers and ranchers are expected to sign contracts to enroll in ARC or PLC.

Covered commodities under the programs include barley, canola, large and small chickpeas, corn, crambe, flaxseed, grain sorghum, lentils, mustard seed, oats, peanuts, dry peas, rapeseed, long grain rice, medium grain rice (which includes short grain and sweet rice), safflower seed, sesame, soybeans, sunflower seed, and wheat.

For more program information, persons are invited to contact their local FSA office or go online to www.fsa.usda.gov/arc-plc.

To close out the convention, the North Garrett FFA Chapter was selected as a National Chapter Award recipient. To be selected to receive this honor, chapters must complete an extensive application about the activities that they complete during the course of the year. Based upon the application, chapters are reviewed by a committee and three from the state are selected to advance to the national level for review. Once at the national level, a chapter will be ranked as a 1-, 2-, or 3-star level chapter.

THE MOUSETRAP TO OPEN – While this weekend's performance by TOTL (Theatre On the Lake) is Biloxi Blues, slated for this evening through Saturday, next week the stage troupe will present The Mousetrap, a mystery by Agatha Christie. This "whodunit" originally opened in 1952 in London, and has been performed continually ever since. Pictured are cast members Daniel Crowley and Cassie Hackbart. The production dates for The Mousetrap are Aug. 4, 5, and 6 at 7:30 p.m. The shows are presented at The Barn at Ridgeview Valley, located at 912 Gravelly Run Road, McHenry. For more information or to purchase tickets, persons may visit www.totltheatre.org or call 304-680-1002.

Music At Penn Alps To Present Antony Zwerdling

Music at Penn Alps will present Antony Zwerdling, baritone, accompanied by piano in the Great Hall at the Spruce Forest in Grantsville on Saturday, July 30, at 7:30 p.m.

Zwerdling performs opera, oratorio, and recital repertoire across the United States. He has appeared in over 25 roles, including Papageno in Zauberflote, Figaro in Il Barbiere di Sivilia, Eisenstein and Falke in Die Fledermaus, Sid in Albert Herring, Pooh Bah in The Mikado, Mama Agata in Le Convenienze Teatrali, and Marcello in La Bohème.

He has also sung as a soloist in Handel's Messiah, Bach's St. Matthew Passion, and the requiems of Mozart and Fauré. He has presented 10 different recital programs, choosing repertoire that spans a wide range of stylist periods and genres.

Zwerdling performs with numerous opera companies, choruses, and orchestras, including Washington National Opera, Wolf Trap Opera, Boston Lyric Opera, Lake George Opera, Washington Concert Opera, Opera Boston, Ash Lawn Opera, Handel & Haydn Society, Washington Bach Consort, Baltimore Choral Arts Society, Washington Master Chorale, and Philharmonia Baroque.

He received his bachelor's degree from Northwestern University and master's from Boston University. In 2007, he earned his doctorate from Shenandoah Conservatory, writing about songs of Samuel Barber.

Tickets to his concert are $20 per person, with those 19 and younger being admitted for free. Tickets may be purchased online at musicatpennalps.org or at the gift shop at Penn Alps. For more information or directions, persons may go to musicatpennalps.org or call 443-414-3955.

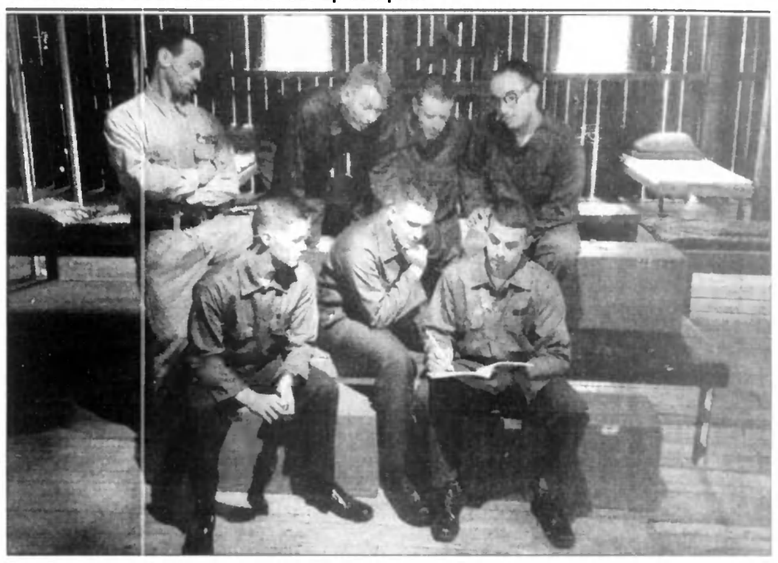
NEXT TO PERFORM AT THE LITTLE YOUGH SUMMER MUSIC FESTIVAL is The Pocket, a Washington, D.C.,-based alternative-rock-reggae band. The performance is scheduled for this Friday, July 29, at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion, Oakland, at 7 p.m. The members are Omar Teitelbaum, lead vocals and guitar; Terrance "Big T" Brown, lead guitar; Matt "Wonderboy" Wood, keyboard; Omar Retnu, bass guitar; Chucky Thompson, guitar; and Derek Greygor, percussion. The Pocket gained international respect in 2007 while on a 42-U.S. city tour with reggae icon Ronnie Davis of The Itals. The band has also performed with Ronnie Davis, Third World, Culture, Pato Banton, Beres Hammond, Freddie McGregor, Wailing Souls, Roberta Flack, and Nora Jones. Admission to the concert is free, but donations are accepted to help defray festival costs. Seating is limited, so those attending the event may want to bring lawn chairs or blankets. Food vendors will set up at 6 p.m.



BILOXI BLUES NOW PLAYING – The Neil Simon play Biloxi Blues is now being staged by Theatre on the Lake (TOTL), with performances slated for this evening, July 28, and Friday and Saturday, July 29 and 30, at 7:30 p.m. each evening. A semi-autobiographical comedy by Neil Simon, Biloxi Blues portrays the conflict of Sgt. Merwin J. Toomey and Pvt. Arnold Epstein, as seen through the eyes of Pvt. Eugene Jerome, one of many soldiers stationed in Biloxi, Miss., during World War II. All performances of TOTL, a nonprofit organization, are staged at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley, located at the end of Gravelly Run Road, just off Rt. 219 at McHenry. Reservations may be made by calling 304-680-1002 or tickets may be purchased online at www.totltheatre.org.

Elton John Tribute Artist To Perform At Preston Arts Ctr.

An Elton John tribute artist, Lee Alverson, will perform at the Preston Community Arts Center in Kingwood, W.Va., on Saturday, Aug. 6, at 7 p.m.

Endorsed by the International Elton John Fan Club and rated the World's #1 Elton John Impersonator by United Tribute Artists International, Alverson has become known for the likeness to the "vintage" Elton John in his voice, piano playing, charisma, and stage antics.

"By showcasing over three decades of Elton's music with exact replicas of Elton's costumes, Alverson is able to entertain an audience in a way that captures the true excitement of a 'real' Elton John performance," a spokesperson said.

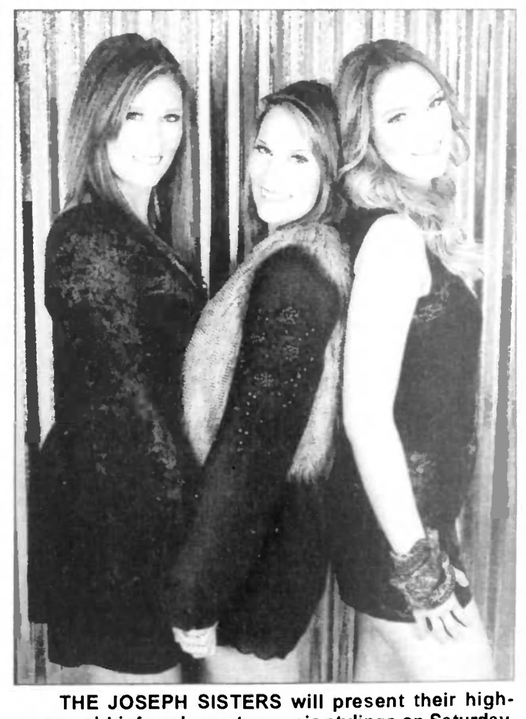
The impersonator has performed over 3,000 international shows in Las Vegas's Treasure Island, Venetian, and Paris casinos; and for corporate clients such as Coca Cola, Intel Corporation, Pepsi, Versace, and DDB Worldwide Communications.

The Elton John impersonation is part of Preston CAC's Summer Tribute Artists Series. The final performance will be Paul McCartney/John Lennon Tribute Artists, the Two of Us, on Saturday, Aug. 20, with both shows starting at 7 p.m. and the door opening at 6 p.m.

Tickets for the Elton John show are $20 for adults and $15 for students through high school. Tickets for McCartney/Lennon show are $15 for adults and $10 for students. A limited number of tickets are being sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

Persons may purchase tickets by calling 304-376-1435; at Fawley Music, Morgantown; the Book Mark'et, Oakland, or Brew Ha Ha Cafe, Kingwood.

The Summer Tribute Artists Series is supported in part by the Greater Morgantown CVB with assistance by River House Lodge.



THE JOSEPH SISTERS will present their high-energy, girl-infused country music stylings on Saturday, Aug. 6, at 7 and 8:30 p.m. in the Agriculture Heritage Hall during the 60th annual Garrett County Fair.

MAMA LOVED TO WORRY
by Maryann Weidt, illustrated by Rachael Balsaitis
C. 2016, Minnesota Historical Society Press, $16.95, 32 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Your Mama is really tall. She can reach the cabinets where the cookies are stored. She can touch the upper shelf of your closet and the tippy-top of your bedroom door. Her arms can reach things that you never could. Your Mom is probably at least five feet tall – that's huge, isn't it? – and in Mama Loved to Worry by Maryann Weidt, illustrated by Rachael Balsaitis, this story is even taller!

Mama was a first-class, top-rate worrier. She was so good at it, she won awards – and when you think about it, she had reason to worry. She had the whole farm to take care of – the cows, the pigs, the chickens – and Baby Eli, who seemed to be into everything, every minute of the day.

One afternoon while she was in the garden, Mama worried about a tornado. A twister like that, well, it could carry the farm off! She worried and worried – and when Mama worries, she knits. That day, she knitted enough woolies for the pigs, chickens, and cows to wear – and when a tornado actually did "tumble tail over teakettle" toward the farm, she grabbed Baby Eli and ran. That Eli, he was always into everything.

Another day soon afterward, Mama started to worry about how truly hot it was. What if Crooked Neck Creek dried up? What would happen then? She worried and worried – and when Mama worries, she sews "faster than a hound dog after a squirrel." On that day, she sewed clothes for all the aunts, uncles, and cousins, and she worked up a sweat. There was no more need to worry about the creek – but where was Baby Eli?

It was even hotter the next day, and Mama started to worry about all that heat. It could've popped the corn in the fields! She worried and worried – and when Mama worries, she makes sauerkraut, strudel, and snickerdoodle twists. When the corn started popping in the field and the sugar cane melted, it smelled so good. But where was Baby Eli now?

Just as suddenly, where was Mama? Was it time to worry about her, too?

Paul Bunyan. Slue-Foot Sue. Pecos Bill. You remember them fondly as characters in those wildly fun tall tales you heard in grade school... and now Mama joins them in Mama Loved to Worry.

There isn't a kid in the world who doesn't love exaggeration in a story, and Weidt gives it with this rib-tickler that gets taller and taller as the tale goes on. The language in this book will really make you grin, but what's even better are the illustrations by Balsaitis. She gives this book a homespun feel of a gentler time when laundry hung outside to dry, the waterin' hole was a right-fine place to swim, and summer never ended.

This book is a knee-slappin', leg-pullin' passel of fun for 5-to-8-year-olds, or anybody who knows how to spin a tale a mile high. And if that's either of you, then Mama Loved to Worry could be huge.

that each of them represented so many more, was very empowering."

Friendsville resident and CS board member Kim Alexander also made the trip to participate in both the March for Clean Energy on Sunday and the March for Our Lives, a human rights campaign march against economic injustice and poverty) along the same route on Monday. Alexander said she was "energized" by the creativity of the signs, the music, and by people cheering them on from windows of buildings along the Clean Energy March route.

"It was really inspiring to be in that surge," said Alexander, who walked at several times along the route with award-winning filmmaker/activist Josh Fox. Fox was in Frostburg last month, where he kicked off Don't Frack Maryland's campaign to ban fracking with the screening of his new film How to Let Go of the World and Love all the Things Climate Can't Change.

According to Nadine Grabania, also of Friendsville and a member of Citizen Shale, the irony was not lost on marchers in that the event took place under an "extreme heat advisory" in Philadelphia and across much of the mid-Atlantic region. At least four western Maryland residents cancelled plans to march because of health reasons, when forecasts called for temperatures in excess of 97 degrees.

"As an asthma sufferer, it saddens me that it is not safe for me to participate in a public action to ask for an end to policies and industrial activities that are harming the health of humans and our planet," said Grabania.

Citizen Shale members, including Forsythe and Elisabeth Hoffman of Howard County, joined a larger group of marchers organized by the Don't Frack Maryland Coalition.

"For several hours, our Maryland contingent marched, in the sweltering heat, alongside people who are already fighting fracking, pipelines, refineries, and compressor stations in Pennsylvania, Colorado, New Jersey, and other states," said Hoffman, "and those fighting gas storage in the wine-growing Finger Lakes region of New York. We marched with labor unions calling for clean energy jobs and with scientists and health professionals who are documenting the harm from fracking and climate chaos."

Forsythe said that she was moved by some of the messages she saw.

"I almost cried when I saw a sign that said 'Fix Dimock's [Pa.] Water' – They've been dealing with the effects of fracking for so long, and their government has not been on their side. The Delaware Riverkeeper Network, Pennsylvanians Against Fracking, and Green Justice Philly carried a coffin to represent all the things that fracking has damaged, such as clean water, fish and wildlife, and the voices of the people. One of my favorite signs was one with Smokey Bear that said, 'Only You Can Prevent Faucet Fires.'"

More than 900 environmental, indigenous, health, justice, labor, political, faith, and student organizations from all 50 states – including the local organization Citizen Shale and its partners in the statewide Don't Frack Maryland Coaltion – endorsed the March for a Clean Energy Revolution.

Grabania said that more Americans are now opposed to fracking than are for it, and the March marks the first time that fracking is a major issue in the debates over the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

Hoffman, who made a large "Ban Fracking" banner carried by marchers from the DFMD coalition, said the march ended with a rally, at which marchers unfurled a giant parachute-like sun, and speakers demanded "a rapid switch to clean energy and an end to communities and the climate being sacrificed to fossil fuels."

"As we marched to Independence Park, chanting and waving signs and banners, it felt as if, together, we could make our voices heard," said Forsythe. "Knowing that so many people all over the country are fighting for clean air, clean water, health, and an economy based on principles of sustainability gave me renewed energy to continue that fight here in western Maryland."

Check out the information on the Buy Local Challenge at www.buylocalchallenge.com. Locally you can find a list of area farms at http://www.garrettfarms.org/. Many of them offer open houses; go see where your food come from – it is not grown in plastic wrap, promise!

Check out the dramatic growth of Garrett Growers Cooperative at http://www.garrettgrowers.com/. This group has become a strong movement, providing produce to a number of local restaurants and markets, as well as offering weekly veggies boxes.

And, for those who are against Marcellus shale exploitation in Garrett County, this is my advice - While you are saying no to fracking, say yes to supporting local farms and dedicate time to support expansion of this sector of our local economy. I have to believe that land which enables sustainable and economic, rewarding farming and for other uses, such as wineries, is land which is less like to be sacrificed to the short-term, destructive lure of Marcellus shale exploitation.

To the Editor:

Parents, do you know what your children actually think about drugs and alcohol? Do their actions match their words? Where would they hide contraband? Do you know what red flags to look for? Statistics on drug and alcohol use by our teens and young adults are alarming – both the numbers who use and the kinds of drugs regularly abused in Garrett County.

This letter is to urge your adult readers to visit the "Hidden in Plain Sight" mock teen bedroom exhibit that will be at this year's Garrett County Fair. From 4 to 10 p.m. on Monday through Thursday evenings, representatives of the Drug Free Communities Coalition Action teams will host tours through a building displayed as any teenager's bedroom that contains indicators and paraphernalia that should alert parents/guardians to potential drug usage.

Awareness, prevention, and treatment information will be available. Look for the building, donated by Joshua and Jolene Custer of Casselman River Storage Buildings, located near the Lions Club chicken BBQ pavilion.

RED HOUSE
by Braxton Warsaw, reporter

At the July meeting of the Red House 4-H Club, Jacob Jones led pledges. A fair booth workshop was held before and after the meeting.

Shanie Gnegy gave a demonstration about her cat and dog; Lauren Quinn gave one about her market lamb; Jacob Harvey gave one about a birdhouse he made with homemade stain; and Jacob Schrock gave one about a chicken plucker he made.

Cambria Snyder went to the county rabbit workshop and 4-H camp, and Jacob Harvey went to County Farm Safety Day. Trenton Evans, Jacob Schrock, and Jacob Harvey went to the county livestock workshop. Trenton Evans attended the livestock workshop at Misty Mtn. Farm.

Cow patty bingo tickets and club T-shirts were handed out. Members decided to sponsor the same awards as last year for the fair.

Basic/Refresher Pistol Training Offered At GC

Rick Sivic of Boston Hill Training and the Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division are offering a basic/refresher pistol course on Saturday, Aug. 6, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. in the GC Continuing Education Building.

The classroom portion of the course will be followed by an operation and handling demonstration at a secure firing range. Time is built into the day for a lunch break and travel to the range.

Class topics will include the basic knowledge, skills, and attitude for safely owning, handling, and operating revolvers and semi-automatic pistols in hands-on training.

Following rules for safe gun handling topics will include pistol parts and operation, ammunition, shooting fundamentals, range rules, shooting from the bench rest position, two-handed standing positions, cleaning the pistol, and continued opportunities for skill development. Participants must be at least 18 years of age to enroll and must bring a firearm and ammunition for the range portion of the course. Students may rent a firearm and ammunition from the instructor directly on the day of the course for an additional fee

For additional information or to register, persons can contact Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069

Day Adventure Camps Offered To Local Youth

Registration is currently open for 4-H Summer Day Adventures Camps in five Garrett County communities. The program is free and open to all youth age 6 to 12. 4-H membership is not required to participate.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

WARM, BUT WONDERFUL FOR SAILING
by Dan Muss

With my sciatica tamed and bronchitis better, I was finally ready to sail this past weekend, and my son Andrew was visiting from Florida. He is a fine sailor and a magnificent crew. (He grew up sailing, starting at 4 years of age.) On Saturday we had nearly perfect conditions for old codgers like me to race; it was a bit warm, 85 degrees, but the sun was shining and the wind was 5–10 knots, westerly.

Andrew had our Flying Scot at the dock completely rigged; all I had to do was get on board, as he raised sail, pushed us off the dock, and we sailed for the race course.

PRO Ed Peters set an interesting course in the slot. It was twice around a triangle, but with the leeward mark several hundred yards to windward of the starting line. As Andrew counted off the seconds to the start, I hung back for a few seconds after he said go. He was right, and those few seconds left us back in the middle of the fleet of eight boats. But we had clean air as we sailed left, while most of the fleet went right.

We rounded the windward mark in third place behind Rissell and Gregory. With spinnakers flying, we got out in front of Gregory, but he had room at the jibe mark so was still in front of us at the first leeward mark rounding, with Rissell way ahead. We caught and passed Gregory on the second beat to windward, but Rissell was still almost 100 yards ahead as we started the second downwind leg.

After the second jibe mark rounding, the wind veered to WNW and we were on a beam reach (apparent wind perpendicular to the boat's keel). Rissell took his spinnaker down while we were able to keep ours up and filled. With the jib now drawing too, we had three sails to Rissell's two, and we caught and passed him.

In the excitement of that chase, however, we left the spinnaker up too long and we were barely able to drop it and gather it in so we could harden up for the final beat to the finish. We finished first in a race that I will long remember!

The PRO on Sunday was Greg Shaffer and, with the NW wind, he set the course in the "slot" between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres. However, no sooner had they set the first two marks, when the wind shifted 90 degrees to the SW. So the committee moved the course to the arm of the lake along Turkey Neck. Then the safety patrol boat quit running. Our local rules require this patrol, so the committee was on the point of canceling the race when Rob Gerlach jumped in a standby boat and sped out to the course to take over the duties of the safety patrol.

There was an exciting finish in the Masters Fleet; they were all bunched up together as they headed for the final mark rounding. Three boats finished within a boat-length.

Sailboat racing is a sport that one can do well into retirement years. Interested? Check out the Deep Creek Sailing School at 301-387-4497.

Oakland Oaks Split Cumberland Orioles, Sweep Tri-State Titans

The Oakland Oaks (16-2) split games with the Cumberland Orioles and swept the Tri-State Titans in PenMar-WV League action this past weekend.

The Oaks enjoyed a 1-0 win at Garrett College over the Orioles in game one of Saturday's doubleheader series behind a 16-strikeout performance from Nathan King, who has yet to allow a run all season.

Jacob Bolander scored the game's lone run for Oakland in the bottom of the second after he singled and Cody Humberson reached on an outfield error.

Both Bolander and Tristan Lucas hit a double and single while Corey Helbig laced two singles to round out Oakland's six hits.

Game two ended in a nine-run, fifth-inning explosion for the Orioles as the team took down Oakland 12-2 in five innings.

Cumberland scored two in the top of the first to take an early lead, but the Oaks answered with two runs of its own in the bottom of the third to tie the game.

The Orioles regained the lead in the top of the fourth with a run to make it 3-2 before scoring nine in the fifth to take a 10-run lead.

Oakland was unable to answer and the game ended after five innings.

Cumberland's pitcher Cody Jeffreys was awarded his fifth win of the season to tie King for the league's most pitching wins.

The Oaks bounced back by beating the Titans 13-1 in Sunday's doubleheader series opener at Allegany College.

Oakland started the series on a high note thanks to Cutter Atha's leadoff home run in the top of the first.

The Oaks would lead 3-1 after two innings before scoring four in the fourth and six in the sixth to end the game early after six innings.

Atha added a single to his solo blast, Cody Humberson crushed a double and laced to singles, and James Bolander hit a double and single.

Oakland completed the sweep in game two with a 10-1 win behind 10 hits and an early, comfortable lead.

The Oaks took command early with a four-run first inning followed by two in the third and fourth to take an 8-0 lead before the Titans could answer with a run.

Leading 8-1, Oakland added an insurance run in each of the sixth and seventh innings to create an insurmountable lead to finish the series.

The Oakland batting rotation had a busy day, highlighted by Ross Conley's triple, single, two RBIs, and two runs.

Bolander knocked two and singles, knocked in a run, and scored twice. Aaron Beiler also scored two runs after hitting a double and single, and Tyler Conley got two RBIs off of three singles.

Oakland will conclude its regular season this upcoming Saturday.

Southern Volleyball To Begin Practice

The Southern Rams volleyball program will begin practice at Southern High School on Aug. 10-12 from 5:30-7:30 p.m. each day.

Players must have either completed a physical at the high school during the previous spring semester, or have a completed physical form with them on the first day of practice.

Forms are available at the Southern High School main office. Players cannot participate until the coaching staff receives the physical form.

Contact Stephanie Stephens (varsity) at 301-616-3660 or Becky Graham (junior varsity) at 301-616-6199 for any questions regarding the upcoming practices.

Garrett Timber Rattlers Tryouts Begin In August

The tryouts for the 2017 Garrett Timber Rattlers 9-U/10-U baseball teams are being held on Aug. 14 at Broadford Little League Field.

The Timber Rattlers is a travel baseball team featuring players from the Garrett, Allegeny, and Grant County areas.

The team travels all over the mid-atlantic/east coast areas from April to Aug., playing over 50 games against teams from all over the country.

The team has had a successful run over the past three years, making over 25 playoff appearances and bringing home a number of championships.

This year's 9-U team was created and coached by Dwight and Nathan Haskiell and featured a mix of eight and nine-year-old players.

The 9-U division will begin its tryout at 2 p.m., and the 10-U division will begin at 3 p.m. The age cut-off date for the divisions is April 30.

More information can be found by contacting Dwight Haskiell at 301-616-0670 or Gary Upole at 301-616-6310.

Southern And Northern Players Selected In All-Area Baseball Team

Coaches from around the area selected this year's Cumberland Times-News All-Area baseball teams, featuring selections from both Southern and Northern High School.

Northern was one of four schools in the area to have three players chosen for the all-area team, and the Huskies also had a second-team pick.

The Rams had one player on each of the first and second all-area teams.

• Broc Lohr, a junior at Southern, led the way at the plate for the Rams this past season, finishing third in the area in RBIs (27), tied for fourth in home runs (4), sixth in runs scored (21), and 10th in batting average (.435).

• Calyb King, who helped lead the Huskies to a sectional championship, had a solid junior season on the mound pitching a 1.62 ERA which was good enough for third best in the area. King has struck out 117 batters in the last two seasons.

King also contributed at the plate for the Rams by batting a .319 average, scoring 22 runs, tallying 13 RBIs, and blasting two home runs.

• Aaron Rodeheaver, a senior third baseman for the Huskies, went out on a high note by leading the team in runs, hits, doubles, triples, and batting average.

Around the area, Rodeheaver finished fourth in runs (26), seventh in batting average (.449) and 11th in stolen bases (8).

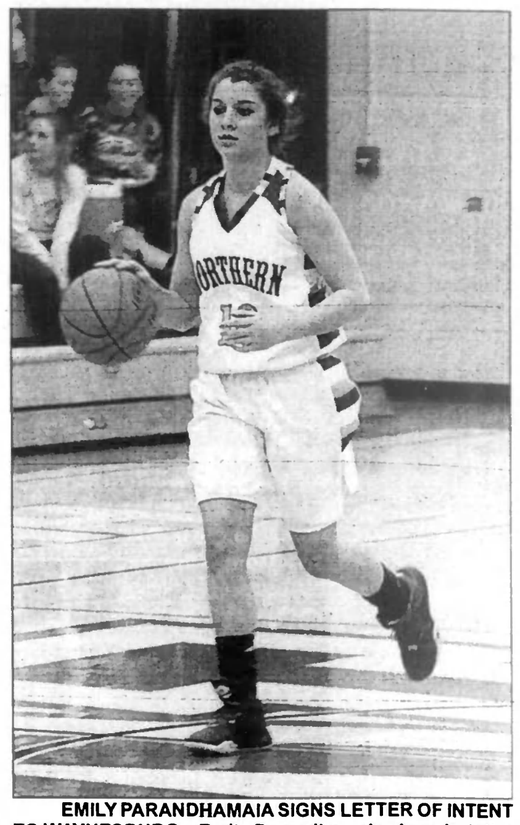
• Logan Yommer, a junior at Northern, had a productive year when it came to both pitching and hitting.

At the plate, Yommer finished second in the area in home runs (5), sixth in stolen bases (9), and seventh in RBIs (24).

On the mound, Yommer went 6-1 with an area-best 1.31 ERA and struck out 37 batters in 32 innings.

• Southern's Payton Kennedy and Northern's Tyler McClintock were named to the all-area second team.

• Carson Imes of Frankfort was named the area's Player of the Year and captain of the all-area team.



EMILY PARANDHAMAIA SIGNS LETTER OF INTENT TO WAYNESBURG – Emily Parandhamaia signed a letter of intent to continue her academic and athletic career at Waynesburg University in Pennsylvania. Parandhamaia finished her senior season with 15 points per game and 3.2 steals per game to help the Northern Huskies finish as the Maryland Class 1A state runner-up. GOLF TOURNEY BENEFIT MAJOR SUCCESS ... AGAIN – The 2016 WGW Community Youth Cup was once again deemed "an incredible success" by organizers, with over 160 golfers competing at Lodestone Golf Club course in McHenry and over 150 players in competition at the Oakland Golf Club course. The three beneficiaries of the tournament proceeds are local charities Landon's Library, the Andrew S. Woods Memorial Scholarships, and Samantha Funding the Arts, each of which distributes money and materials that help ensure the success of the county's young people in a variety of ways. In the photo above left with Tom Woods (right) is Brian McPherson, who carded a 68 and captured the tournament's low medalist title for the fourth straight year. Above center is the team that captured first place, low net. From left are WGW founder Bill Welssgerber, and team members Tom Woods, Josh Woods, Sue Lear, Brian McPherson, and In the front, Parker Woods. Pictured below Is the team that captured first place In stroke play. From left are Weissgerber, team members Daryl Walters, Pat Warren, and Mike Sramek, and Oakland Golf Club director of golf Max Hill. Above right are the scramble net winners. From left are Tim Stewart, Bart Stewart, Trey Stewart, and Mary Ann Jenkens, with Weissgerber. "Without the hundreds of local contributors, hundreds of golfers, scores of volunteers, and innumerable prayers, the WGW Community Youth Cup would never accomplish such success," said Tom Woods, expressing his "deepest appreciation" on behalf of the Weissgerber, Boal, McClosky, and Woods families.

Maryland Black Bear Lottery Open

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources is now accepting applications for this year's black bear hunting lottery.

Successful applicants will receive a permit valid for the four-day hunting season. taking place on Oct. 24-27 in Allegany, Frederick, Garrett and Washington counties.

The department will issue 750 hunting permits (up from 500 permits in 2015) that can be used anywhere within the hunting zone.

The bear hunt has expanded this year to include all of Allegany, Frederick, Garrett and Washington counties.

The annual bear hunt is an important management tool used to slow the growth of Maryland's black bear population as it disperses eastward into our more suburban communities and counties.

"This hunt remains well-regulated, scientifically sound, and sustainable," Wildlife and Heritage Service Director Paul Peditto said. "Expanding the area open to bear hunting will help us achieve our goal of limiting the increase in our bear population while guaranteeing a secure future for this species in Maryland."

All entries must be completed by 11:59 p.m. on Aug. 31 and accompanied by a $15 nonrefundable application fee.

Only one application per person will be accepted, with duplicates resulting in disqualification and forfeiture of all fees.

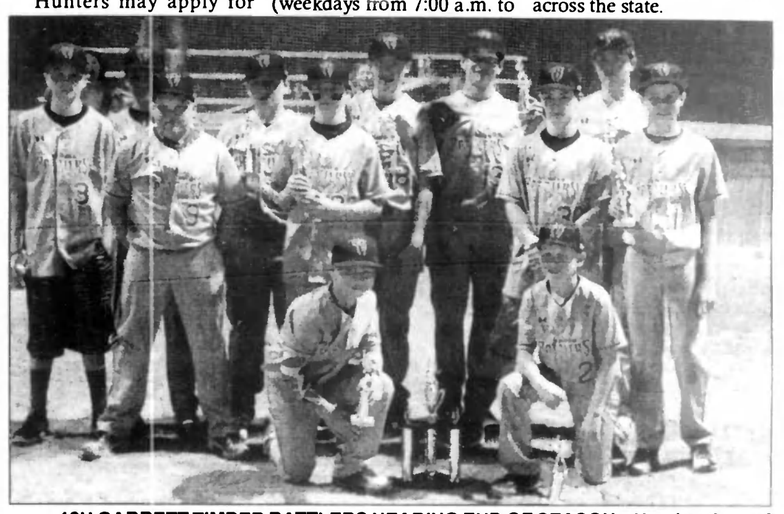
The DNR ID number is one's lottery number which is retained throughout the year.

The Black Bear Damage Reimbursement Fund is also open for voluntary contributions by hunters when they apply for their permits.

Donations will be used to directly reimburse Maryland farmers who have suffered agricultural damage caused by black bears.

The fund has paid out more than $125,000 in eligible claims to farmers since the fund began 20 years ago.

Hunters may apply for a license by either visiting compass.dnr.maryland.gov online, calling 855-855-3906 (weekdays from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.), visiting a service center, or by going to one of over 250 sport-license agents across the state.



12U GARRETT TIMBER RATTLERS NEARING END OF SEASON – Nearing the end of a successful season, the 12U Garrett Timber Rattlers will have its final tournament in South Charleston, W.Va on July 30. The team has a 32-10-1 record on the season and will look to continue its success moving forward as tryouts for next year's team will take place in August. See story for details on the 9U and 10U tryout date. Pictured above in the front row are: (L to R) Will Moon and Darian Bauer. Middle row: (L to R) Chance Ritchey, Jamison Warnick, Zach Hallenbeck, and Nick Butina. Back Row: (L to R) Mason Brenneman, Bradyn Speir, Cam Friend, Isaac Upole, Demetri Bascelli, and Bryce Snyder.

AURORA/EGLON

Amboy Ice Cream Festival

An old-fashioned ice cream festival will be held this Saturday, July 30, beginning at 5 p.m. at the Amboy UM Church. Foods offered will be BBQ chicken, chicken on a stick, pulled pork sandwiches, hot and chili dogs, french fries, baked beans, coleslaw, homemade ice cream, cakes, and pies. Entertainment will be provided by Old Lady and the Boys.

Aurora VFD Gun Bash

The Aurora Volunteer Fire Department will hold its annual Gun Bash on Aug. 20. Doors will open at 11:30 a.m., with the first drawing to be held at noon. There will be a chance to win 22 guns and a 5500W Generac generator with every ticket purchased, plus additional floor guns will be given away the day of the bash.

Each ticket is $25, with one additional guest adding an additional $10; tickets for children 12 years of age and under are $5. The ticket includes all the food one can eat. Tickets may be purchased from any fireman, or by calling Harold George at 304-851-6727 or Mike Gallagher at 304-698-9807.

"The VFD appreciates all the support of the community," a spokesperson said.

Aurora Project Presents

A free historical presentation will be given on Sunday, Aug. 21, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Aurora Community Building. It will include "The Deakins Line: How West Virginia Put a Whuppin' on Maryland" and "W Va. History Alive: Living History Portrayal of Henry David Strother, aka Porte Crayon."

The presentation explains that most people are familiar with the Mason-Dixon Line, the famous boundary between the North and the South, but there is also another line in Preston County – the straight-line boundary with Garrett County.

This boundary is called the Deakins Line, and was supposed to extend north from the headwaters of the Potomac. However, there were arguments for over 100 years about where exactly that was. Don Teter, a historical surveyor from Randolph County, will share the history of this boundary line.

For the second half, Teter will portray Henry David Strothers, who was born in Martinsburg and traveled throughout the world in the late 1800s writing about travel for Harper's magazine.

Preston School Survey

The newly formed levy committee of the Preston County Schools wants public input on a possible levy to be placed on the November general election ballot. Persons are asked to visit the Facebook page to take a short questionnaire.

School Donations Delivered

School supply donations gathered by the Aurora UMC and community were delivered to Rupert Elementary School in flood-stricken Greenbriar County last week by members of the Aurora and Stemple Ridge churches.

Reunions

The 98th Nordeck-Shaffer reunion will be held on Sunday, Aug. 7, at Neil and Bonnie Winters' pavilion on Fingerboard Road in Hutton. A covered-dish lunch will be shared at 1 p.m. Family and friends are welcome.

The annual Amelius Fike family reunion will be held on Aug. 7 at 1 p.m. at the Jones Barn located along Rt. 219. Family and friends are invited to attend.

The Mullenax family will meet on Aug. 14 at the Mt. Grove Pavilion for the annual reunion. Church services will begin at 11 a.m., with the meal following at 12:30 p.m. Families are asked to bring items for the auction.

Recent Death

Devaux Armentrout, 89, Charleston, passed away July 13. He was preceded in death by his wife, Geraldine Slaubaugh Armentrout, on April 4, 2016; his parents, Orma and Dora Bennett Armentrout, former residents of Eglon; and brothers Jack, Neil, and Tracy Armentrout.

Surviving is one son, Bruce, of Van Buren, Ark.; one daughter, Patricia Coulter, Ava, Mo.; one brother Donald K. Armentrout; five grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren.

Tourism Study Underway In Tucker County

The Tucker County Cultural District Authority (TCCDA) has been working alongside West Virginia University Extension Service to conduct a comprehensive cultural tourism study and create a plan that addresses the needs of Tucker County. The goal of this project is to understand how the Cultural District Authority can best preserve and promote the county's unique culture.

A survey was distributed recently to all residents of the county that was developed by the WVU Extension Service. Doug Arbogast, Extension Service, along with his collaborators Peter Butler and Eve Faulkes and their students, have conducted other research efforts in conjunction with these surveys, including interviews, visitors' surveys, community focus groups, asset mapping, and personal exploration of the county's vast resources.

Residents of Tucker County who are not property owners or did not receive a survey in the mail may pick one up at the nearest Tucker County post office. Residents are asked to take a moment to complete the survey and return the completed questionnaire in the postage-paid return envelope at their earliest convenience.

"The more diverse and comprehensive response we get, the better we can help to address the county's needs," said a spokesperson.

This study is funded through a grant to the Tucker Community Foundation by the Benedum Foundation. For more information regarding the Tucker County Cultural District Authority or the research being done, persons may send an email to tuckerculture@gmail.com or call 304-478-2930.

Strawser-Parks Reunion Slated

The biannual Strawser-Parks Reunion will be held on Saturday, Aug. 13, in the Fairview Church of the Brethren Pavilion, 1101 Fairview Church Road, Oakland, Md, beginning at 2 p.m. (This is the same place the 2014 reunion was held.)

Instead of a meal, attendees are asked to contribute a finger food to share.

All friends and family are welcome to attend. Those with questions or need directions are asked to call 301-334-4820.

Music until 9 p.m. There will also be free inflatable rides for the kids from 7 to 9 p.m., vendors, food, and more. For more details on this event, see the July 21 issue of The Republican.

Veterans Memorial Project

The Friendsville Veterans Memorial Project Committee is asking for donations to complete the veterans' memorial in Friendsville. The memorial being constructed is for all veterans – combat veterans or stateside veterans.

This memorial centerpiece will have the images of the six young soldiers from the town of Friendsville, who lost their lives in Vietnam, etched on the six sides of the memorial. Behind the centerpiece on the second row will be a plaque with a portrait of Captain Thomas Bratten, honored for his service to his country and his work with the Maryland Veterans Affairs. The back walls will be made of bricks with etched names of a veteran. Bricks can be purchased by donation from the website, or persons may pick up a brick form at the Sunset Inn at 818 First Avenue in Friendsville.

RUN/WALK PROCEEDS DONATED TO LIBRARY – Friendsville's second annual Kendall River Trail 5K Run 3K Walk held in May was a "huge success," generating $2,612.46 for the Friendsville library, according to event organizers. "Runners came from all across the county, with a strong contingency from Northern High School, and also from Pittsburgh, Pa., Morgantown, W.Va., and as far away as London, England," said a spokesperson. "Walkers also enjoyed this beautiful event, and 36 sponsors provided wonderful prizes, from cultivated mushrooms to dog care packages." From left are Friendsville library manager Michele Liston, Ruth Enlow Library director Cathy Ashby, Friendsville mayor Spencer Scholsnagle, and Carol Calhoun.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 34. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1910. NUMBER 22

FATHER OF SIXTEEN

Jonas E. Gnagey Hopes to Attend Next Gnagey Reunion With His Numerous Progeny.

Jonas E. Gnagey, formerly of Grantsville, Md., who for some years past has resided in Baltimore, Md., pulled up stakes there last week and will henceforth make his home with his eldest son, Edward, at Washington, Pa.,

Mr. Gnagey, who is an expert carpenter and mechanic, worked on the construction of an electric power house at Millvale, W. Va., near Harper's Ferry, the greater part of the summer. Before starting for little Washington, he spent a week with his son J. E. Gnagey, Jr., at Allentown, Pa. He stopped off at Meyersdale for a few hours last Saturday to pay for two yearly subscriptions to The Republican, one for himself, the other for his son at Allentown.

Although Mr. Gnagey is but in his sixtieth year, and does not look over 50, he is quite a patriarch in the matter of descendents, as he is the father of sixteen children and has seven sons and seven daughters living, also a number of grandchildren. All of his sons are practical electricians, or are employed in one capacity or another by electrical companies, and all are doing well They are: Edward of Washington, Pa.; Harry, Bradford, Pa.; William, San Francisco; J. E., Allentown, Pa.; Blaine, McKeesport, Pa.; Homer, Pittsburg; Raymond, East McKeesport. The seven daughters are all married and scattered through several state from Maryland to California.

Mr. Gnagey is urging all of his children and their families to attend the Gnagey reunion this fall. There are enough of his progeny to make a large family reunion by themselves.—Meyersdale Republican.

Illustrated Lecture.

A series of illustrated lectures will be give at the Crellin church beginning Monday evening, August 1st, and continue every night during the week.

The lectures covering a Trip Around the World, containing over six hundred views and travels of over 42,000 miles, are to be given by Rev. C. W. Guthrie, of Los Angeles, Cal.

They are the finest views that can be produced and are recommended where ever given by pastors of the various denominations. An admission fee of 10 cents be charged, and for children under twelve 5 cents. The Preston Railway will run a special train each evening to bring those living along the line, and again for their return after the lecture.

FRIENDSVILLE TO HAVE REUNION

Practically Settled That Old Soldiers Will Be Entertained There.

A special from Lonaconing to the Cumberland News says: It appeared as if the proposed old soldiers' reunion which has been agitated for some time would have to "go a begging" for the want of a place to hold it but Sherman Post, G. A. R., of Friendsville, in a letter to Captain John C. Donald has taken the matter up and offered to entertain their comrades of Allegany and Garrett counties. Comrade R. H. Friend and Acting Adjutant Wm. H. Friend are actively interested in securing the reunion for that place and as soon as a suitable date can be agreed upon arrangements will begin. Since the question of place has long been the annoying hindrance the movement will now be practically assured and the reunion held at Friendsville.

Improving the Service.

That the management of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is making every effort to merit the popular favor of the traveling public is evident by the improvements recently inaugurated in its passenger service. A short time ago announcement was made that the Baltimore and Ohio had placed large orders for passenger equipment of the most modern design, including electrically lighted and vestibuled coaches and powerful passenger engines built for high speed express service. This equipment nas been delivered and is being used on the express trains, enabling the use of better class coaches and engines on other trains.

Following the purchase of the new equipment inspectors were appointed to look after the service and see that comfort is provided for travelers at all times. This inspection is conducted through the office of the operating vice-president.

Another subject to which the Baltimore and Ohio has devoted attention is the general neatness of its station properties and general appearance of the track. Agents are furnished flowers and other plants to beautify the surroundings and they are asked to devote their attention to the neat appearance of stations by keeping the grass and foliage trimmed. Much work has also been done to improve the appearance of the track. Banks have been sloped and made even in many places and grass seed planted where weeds were destroyed. Still further efforts will be made to keep things orderly, as shown by instructions recently given to trackmen and others to burn all waste paper thrown from passing trains. Porters on the trains are to collect waste paper and deposit it in receptacles provided for this purpose at all terminals.

FACE IMMINENT DEFEAT OR UNITE ON A CANDIDATE

Personal Ambition of Candidate Must Be Subordinated, Says Baltimore American.

Under the caution, "How to Win in the Sixth District," the Baltimore American of Sunday says.

If the Republicans in the Sixth congressional district want to win the next election, they will have to get together. The course they are now pursuing is almost suicidal, as it must inevitably result in the election of a Democrat, when a Republican should have a walkover. As has already been stated in the editorial columns of the American, this is no time for personal bickering. There is altogether too much at stake. It may be that the complexion of the House will depend upon the choice of the district and the loss of this one vote result in Democratic control of the popular branch of Congress.

Should this come to pass and the administration be prevented from carrying out its beneficent policies, the responsibility must rest where it properly belongs—on the candidate who by the tactics they are now pursuing are preventing Republican success. A primary election hotly contested, in which the various aspirants refrain from mudslinging and conduct their respective campaigns without reflecting on the personal integrity or fitness of their opponents, but by presenting their own claims for recognition is often beneficial, for it arouses the voters and creates an interest it is frequently difficult to awaken, but when injudicious or improper methods are employed it has the opposite effect.

Loyal Republicans will at all times subordinate personal ambition to party success. When he finds that his candidacy is likely to disrupt his party, an aspirant should not hesitate to step aside and in announcing the fact make plain to the voters that he is ready to support any candidate upon whom all can unite. Such an exhibition of unselfishness would undoubtedly appeal to the masses and be remembered by them when he again shies his castor into the political arena. They will neither forget nor forgive him, however, who is guilty of a dog-in-the-manger policy.

No excuse can be offered for the loss of a district that is overwhelmingly Republican and which under normal conditions may be expected to poll the full party vote. Unlike the First and Fifth, where Republicans are hampered by the odious Wilson law, the voters in the Sixth have no difficulty in marking their ballots properly. Here the Democrats enjoy no advantage over their opponents. The ballot is easily marked and fairly counted, and the winner may depend upon all that is coming to him. There has been no change in the voting proposition since 1906, and yet the Republican majorities in some of the counties in the district have materially decreased. A drop from 4,900 to less than 600 is, to say the least significant and one of which the Republican management should take cognizance. If the change was wholly due to an opposition to national policies then of course the candidate who is the representative of these policies should not be held responsible; if, on the other hand, local conditions, resulting from factional bitterness, caused the slump, then the remedy is at hand. A candidate wholly unobjectionable should be nominated and all rancorous talk cease.

A give and take policy would do the business. Let all who are interested in the success of the Republican party meet on common ground and agree to support a representative party man upon whom all can unite. Then let the various county organizations recommend his nomination and his success in the primaries will be followed by a sweeping victory in November.

It is understood that overtures will be made this week by prominent Republicans in the district. The idea is to have all the county leaders get together, talk over the situation and suggest a candidate who can command united support. If they are successful it will make little difference whom the Democrats will name.

The conditions in the Fifth district present a striking contrast. Here there is harmony and unity in the Republican ranks, while the Democrats are almost hopelessly divided. This improvement may be attributed in part to a change of candidates and to the popularity of the man selected. In a way this district furnishes an object-lesson to the Sixth. It cannot be denied that Mr. Mudd was not only an able representative, but a very popular one, and yet he had aroused enmities because of the stand he had taken on various propositions which came near resulting in his defeat at the last election. Like the Sixth, the Fifth district is heavily Republican, and with anything like a square deal should give anywhere from 4,000 to 5,000 majority. Owing to the manipulation of the ballot, which prevented Republicans from properly marking their ballots, this has been cut down materially, but with all the handicaps, there is still a wide margin, and the vote counted depends altogether upon the number of names on the ticket.

Child Fatally Scalded.

Madeline, infant daughter of George Whickham, near Kitzmiller, Md., was scalded to death by falling into a tub of hot lye water. Mrs. Whickham was giving an order to a groceryman and hearing the little one scream, ran into the house, finding the body hanging over the tub.

TO SPEAK AT BIBLE CONFERENCE

REV. DR. J. WILBUR CHAPMAN.

Dr. Chapman, noted as an evangelist, is to speak at Mountain Lake Park tomorrow at the International Bible Conference, now in progress there. The West Virginia Christian Endeavors, in convention at Terra Alta, will adjourn and attend the conference.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The Park is at its best in appearance with a crowd never greater at this time in the season, and enjoying a program never excelled in the history of the Park—the Interdenominational Bible Conference, under the direction of Dr. Henry Ostrom and his associates, Drs. J. W. Mahood and A. B. Davidson, with Prof. John P. Hillis in charge of the music. Prof. Hillis has organized one of the largest and best chorus ever on the ground. It is worth while to go to hear this splendid chorus and the solos and duets. But the music is not the greatest attraction to most of those who are privileged to be here. The sermons and lectures are of the highest order and most entertaining and instructive. The great day of the feast will be tomorrow (Friday) when Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman will lecture at 10.30 a. m. and 3.00 and 7.30 p. m. It is seldom one is privileged to hear such a celebrated orator once, but here you may hear him three times in one day. Following is the program for Friday: 6.30 a. m. Early Worship led by A. B. Davidson; 8.30 Boys and Girls, Mrs. A. G. Crouse; 9.00, "John the Baptist," H. A. Gobin. 10.30 and 3.00 J. Wilbur Chapman; 6.30, Young People, J. W. Mahood; 7.30, J. Wilbur Chapman. On Saturday the "Old People" will be remembered in a special service at 3.00 o'clock, when Dr. Ostrom will be the principal speaker, and at night Rev. Rockwell Clancy, of India, will preach. Sunday at 10.30 and 7.30 Bishop Lewis, of China, will preach. This will be one of the great Sundays at Mountain Lake Park. Come Friday morning and stay until the close of the services Sunday night and you will never regret it.

Next year this Conference will be here and it is honed that in the years to come it may be extended to four or six weeks in duration and be the greatest meeting of the greatest mountain religious summer resort.

The Loch Lynn Hotel is having a very successful season.

The hotels and boarding houses in the Park are rapidly filling up, in fact some of the boarding houses have been turning people away for several days past.

Rev. C. E. Clark and daughters Ethel and Madge will arrive Friday evening or Saturday morning, and occupy Rev. Clark's cottage.

Mrs. M. W. Rider and three daughters will be here Saturday.

Mrs. H. B. Ferguson and daughter Leonore, of Fairmont, W. Va., are here for two weeks or more.

A mountain excursion and hay ride for the benefit of the parsonage debt, will be conducted by the parsonage trustees of the M. E. church Monday next. See small bills.

Sunday school in the M. E. church at 2.00 p. m. All cordially invited.

Lonaconing Star Assigns.

The Lonaconing Star, through John J. Robinson, the editor and proprietor, and Rebecca Robinson, his wife, Saturday made an assignment to Tasker G. Lowndes, trustees, who entered bond in $10,000. The deed of trust includes the Star building and the Star publishing plant. The Star is a Republican weekly. Some years ago, Mr Robinson purchased the Lonaconing Review which was consolidated with the Star.

FARMERS AS DELEGATES

Governor Names Many To Go To National Convention.

The largest delegation Governor Crothers ever appointed to attend a public gathering was made public Tuesday when he named the Maryland representatives to the National Farmers' Convention, which opens at Lincoln, Neb., October 6th.

Much interest has been manifested in the convention, and the Governor by naming a large number takes no chances on there being a slim Maryland representation. He says he hopes they will all go and show the progressive Maryland farmer's spirit.

The delegates from Garrett are: H. P. Miller, Grantsville; James D. Harvey, Deer Park; George E. Bishoff, Hoyes; J. B. Miller, Grantsville; Frederick Richter, Accident; J. H. Conaway, Oakland; W. McC. Brown, Oakland, Herman Steinding, Swanton; A. F. Enlow, Elder, Daniel Thayer, Oakland, Simon P. Baker, Mountain Lake Park; James Harvey, Kearney; Edward A. Browning, Oakland; M. Frederick Bertner, Mountain Lake Park; John A. Hughes, Oakland; W. M. Frazee, Accident, T. O. Collier, Accident, N. H. Casteel, Hoyes; W. T. Stanton, Grantsville; R. C. Rush, Accident; S. M. Yoder, Grantsville; Ralph Engle, Grantsville.

THE DEATH RECORD.

WALTER S. RAVENSCROFT

Mr. Walter S. Ravenscroft, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscroft, of Oakland, whose illness was mentioned in these columns last Thursday, died at his home in Ridgeway, Pa., Monday evening, and was buried at Frostburg yesterday afternoon. The deceased, who was 55 years of age, was born in Frostburg where his father, the venerable Dr. Ravenscroft, of Oakland, was for many years a successful practitioner of his profession. By profession the deceased was a lawyer, having been admitted to the Allegany county bar July 6th, 1878, but after removing to Ridgeway he ceased the practice of law and engaged in other business pursuits. He is survived by his wife, who was a daughter of the late J. J. Hobbs-zell, of Frostburg; a daughter and two grandchildren and also by his father and mother and one brother, the latter a resident of Denver, Colorado. The funeral was attended by Mrs. Ravenscroft, who was accompanied to Frostburg by Miss Orrie V. Denham.

OSTEOPATHIST.

Dr. Isabel Garrison Eder, a graduate of the full three years course as required by the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, will be at the Roslyn Cottage, Mountain Lake Park, for the summer. It

HIS CRIPPLED HAND TAKEN OFF

Mr Fred G. Fox, of Friendsville, Met With Distressing Accident.

Mr. Fred G. Fox, manager of the Friendsville planing mill, who met with a very unfortunate accident several years ago when the fingers of his right hand were cut off by a saw, was again caught in a machine at the mill on Saturday and his crippled hand was severed and his arm so badly lacerated that amputation of the member just below the elbow was necessary.

Married.

FLOWER—CADLE.—The wedding of Miss Lena E. Cadle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Cadle, to Mr. Emory H. Flowers took place Wednesday evening, July 20th, at the home of the bride's parents at Bittinger, Md. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Solomon Gorman, pastor of the Bittinger Methodist Episcopal church. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon and carried a shower bouquet of Bride roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Irma Cadle, sister of the bride, wore pink mull and carried pink roses, and the brother, Mr. B. Norman Cadle, acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Flowers left Friday night for Vancouver, British Columbia, where they will make their future home.

BITTINGER.

They ketch folks by the button-hole,
And yank 'em round the corner
And try to make 'em sawn their soul,
To vote 'er straight for Warner.

But when the time rolls round to vote,

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wiley attended the funeral of Mr. Wiley's sister, Mrs. Rebecca Miller, which occurred at Somerset, Pa., last Monday.

Mrs. Anna Grady, of Grantsville, was calling on friend in this village last Sunday evening.

Thomas Brenneman, with the assistance of his neighbors, raised the frame of his new barn on last Thursday and had it all up before night. It is a fine building and will be a credit to the community when completed.

C. W. Ege and family, of Baltimore, came to this place last week. Mr. Ege returned to the city on Saturday and his family will remain a few weeks with relatives here.

Lawrence Bittinger, of Grantsville, Md., spent Saturday and Sunday with his uncle, Mr. Jacob Bittinger at this place.

Mrs. Lucinda N. Hermon, of Grantsville, Md., spent last Monday

THIS SUMMER IN GRANTSVILLE, 27 colorfully painted tire planters edged the side of Route 40 and delineated the Arts and Entertainment District in the town. The students of Grantsville Elementary and local adult artists created the planter art. According to a spokesperson, "many a town resident has commented that it sure brightens things up!" Guys Tires, Northern Outreach Center, Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute of Garrett College, and local citizens donated the tires. Flowers for the planters were donated by Chestnut Ridge Nursery of Grantsville. Local volunteers prepared the tires for display, with project facilitation provided by Grantsville artist Regina Hollilday. The Greater Grantsville Business Association helped pay for the flowers, and the town of Grantsville approved this volunteer public art project during town council meetings. The planters will be on display until September. Plans are for the project to continue to expand next year, so any home or business owner in the Grantsville Art and Entertainment district is encouraged to contact Hollilday at reggieart123@yahoo.com and request a placement.

Local Frostburg Grad Students Present Work

Frostburg State University's recent second annual Graduate Research Symposium showcased 18 outstanding research projects by 29 graduate students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Two of the students who presented are Garrett County residents.

Kenneth Allman, Grantsville, presented "A Protocol to Recalibrate UAV Position in a Swarm," an oral presentation with David Geremia, Chris Palescandolo, and Obioku Obotette under Dr. David Zheng.

Richard Lewis, McHenry, presented "Securing the Cloud," with Josiah Rawlings, also under Dr. Zheng.

Frostburg State University, one of the 12 institutions of the University System of Maryland, is a comprehensive, residential regional university that also serves as an educational and cultural center for western Maryland.

Northern Rescue Auxiliary Slates Three Fundraisers

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad Auxiliary has scheduled three fundraisers for August.

The volunteers will operate a food booth during the Garrett County Agriculture Fair, July 30–Aug. 1. The brown-colored booth, located near the race track, will open at 5 p.m. each day.

"Bring your families for our nachos, hot dogs, hamburgers, chicken salad sandwiches, candy, ice-cream floats, sodas, and much, much more," an auxiliary spokesperson said. "This year, we have a new item on the menu, so come see what it is."

The auxiliary will also sell food and beverages during the Wings and Wheels Fly-In, scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Garrett County Airport, located along Bumble Bee Road, McHenry. A candy drop is slated for 1 p.m.

"You can find us in the hangar with the tables and chairs next to the depot," the spokesperson said. "Come see the aircraft and classic cars on display and the demonstrations."

The third fundraiser will be a shrimp feast, a first for the auxiliary, scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 28, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Grantsville American Legion. "All-you-can eat" steamed shrimp will be served from 2 to 4 p.m.

"Come for the fun and fellowship," the spokesperson said.

Fried chicken, french fries, coleslaw, homemade desserts, sodas, and water will also be served. Take-outs and to-go dinners will not be available.

A cash bar will be set up for persons 21 years of age and older. Musical entertainment, tips, and raffles will also be offered.

Tickets are $20 and can be purchased from an auxiliary member or at the fair booth.

Persons interested in joining the auxiliary are asked to call president Dana Green at 301-616-7070. High school students wanting to earn service learning hours are also invited to call Green.

Wilt New CEO Of Mountain Laurel Center

Mountain Laurel Medical Center has announced the appointment of Charles L. Wilt as chief executive officer and a member of the board of directors, effective July 1. Wilt is replacing Beth Little-Terry, who served as CEO of Mountain Laurel since 2008.

Mountain Laurel offers primary care, behavioral health, pharmacy, lab services, and insurance enrollment in its two locations in Oakland and Grantsville.

"In his new role as chief executive, Charles is committed to offering the high-quality, affordable service that residents of the community deserve," said Michael Bello, Mountain Laurel board chair.

Wilt joined Mountain Laurel in 2010, and has since helped transform the practice into a leading community healthcare provider, according to Bello, adding that Wilt led the effort to receive National Committee for Quality Accreditation Recognition in 2011 while serving as the chief compliance officer. He became the chief operating officer in 2015.

Wilt earned a bachelor's degree in political science from Frostburg State University and went on to do graduate work in healthcare corporate compliance at George Washington University. He obtained a master's degree in health administration from Capella University.

A lifetime resident of Garrett County, Wilt resides in Oakland.

SANCTUARY

On vacation there is so much to see and do that it is easy to forget about worship. What an opportunity to visit a new house of God, whether it is a monumental cathedral or a small historic sanctuary. Stop in for a while and spend some time with Him. Let serenity spread through your spirit. Sing praises to the Lord, for He is with you wherever you are...the Creator of the splendor that we enjoy on vacation and each day. May God bless you with His protection as you travel on your way.

Take It!

If you want to be truly free, you must take your freedom and run with it. Prior to and during the U.S. Civil War, slaves who wanted their freedom had to make a decision about whether to risk life and limb by running away. Given the risks, this must have been a heart-wrenching decision. But we can learn something from this example. We can be enslaved by many things, by addictions, by our own habits of thought and action, and by fear or timidity. If we are going to live our own lives by our own lights then at some point we have to take our freedom into our own hands and put ourselves at the helm of our own ship.

This can be a hard thing to do. It is usually easier to let others run our lives. Children get used to their parents making most of their decisions for them, and some never grow out of this habit. The human will is a muscle that must be developed. If you would be free, you must believe in yourself and believe that you have the capacity to direct your own life. Then develop a plan to become the person you long to be. And finally, put the plan into action. As a good friend of mine likes to say, "Plan the work and work the plan." Remember also to make adjustments to the plan if it isn't going perfectly. Some adjustments or corrections are needed in even the best plans.

– Christopher Simon

"It is for freedom that Christ has set us free. Stand firm, then, and do not let yourselves be burdened again by a yoke of slavery."

Puppy Training, Basic Obedience Class Scheduled

The Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division will hold a puppy training class and a basic obedience training class at the GC Career Technology Training Center, Accident, beginning next week.

The puppy training course is scheduled on Wednesdays, Aug. 3–31, from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. for dogs 10 weeks to 5 months old.

"Start your new pet off on the right paw with this five-week puppy training class that encourages and reinforces good behavior," said a spokesperson.

This professional pet training course will work in conjunction with the natural instinct of puppies to stay near their pet parents, teaching potentially life-saving cues to help with those first months of life.

Simple cues such as sit, come and stay will be taught. Basic manners, socialization, and an introduction to loose-leash walking will also be taught.

The basic obedience training will also be held on Wednesdays, Aug. 3–31, from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m. This course is for dogs 5 months and older that have no previous training.

"This five-week course gives pets a solid foundation of basic behaviors," the spokesperson said. "Untrained adolescent and adult dogs can become easily distracted by their environment, which is why this class focuses on important impulse-control exercises.

Such cues as sit, stay, down, wait, and leave it will be taught. Basic house manners, problem solving, and loose leash walking will also be discussed.

Both courses will be taught by Debbie Daniels. She grew up around animals, worked in a veterinary hospital for year, and now is the owner of her own business, Your Happy Tails LLC, located in Garrett County.

Additional classes to be taught by Daniels in the future include Pet Emergency Preparedness; Pet First Aid & CPR for Small and Large Pets; and Canine Massage.

For additional information, persons are invited to contact Terry Beachy, program coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for a class, persons are asked to call the GC Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK/ DISCOVERY CENTER

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. All programs meet or begin at the Discovery Center unless otherwise noted. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, or by visiting the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.asp. The center also has a Facebook page.

Friday, July 29

• 11 a.m. – Creating an Owl. Guests can join the naturalist and discuss the adaptations and secrets of owls. Then meet one of the Discovery Center's owls up close and create a model of it. Develop nature journaling skills through observation and drawing or just come for fun.

• 2 p.m. – Tie Dye on the Beach. Meet on the beach to make a personal tie-dyed shirt with an original conservation message. Cost is $12 per shirt. (1 hour)

Saturday, July 30

• 11 a.m. – Hungry Critters. Guests are invited to meet the naturalists inside the Discovery Center as they feed the center's animals. Participants may be able to touch a live reptile or amphibian. Free.

The Scales and Tales naturalist will be at the beach in the afternoon.

• 2 p.m. – Little Guard. Children ages 5 to 12 years old are invited to meet at the beach and learn the skills of a lifeguard. Kids will run a relay, practice throwing a lifesaving device, learn how to recognize a troubled swimmer, and more. No swimming required. Free.

• 8 p.m. – Campfire Program: Old-Fashioned Campfire with Ranger Carolyn Mathews. Campfires have been one of the mainstay programs for the Maryland Park Service for decades. Guests are invited to join the Discovery Center staff for an evening of strumming, singing, and stories around the campfire, along with roasting marshmallows. Designed for the whole family.

Sunday, July 31

• 11 a.m. – First Impressions. This interactive program shows that even "creepy crawlies with bad reputations" have their own important roles in nature. For all ages.

• 2 p.m. – Aviary Encounter. Guests are invited to learn about the center's birds of prey, hear stories, and watch the raptors eat.

• 10 a.m. – Fishing with the Naturalist. Guests age 7 and older are invited to join the park naturalist for a course on fishing basics. Poles, bait, and tackle are provided. The cost is $4 per person, and adults (16+) must have their license. Preregistration is required, as space is limited.

• 2 p.m. – Aquatic Adventures. Guests are invited to join the naturalist in the Discovery Room of the center for this activity. The group will head to the docks to use the aqua scopes and dip nets into Deep Creek Lake to catch fish and other animals that live there.

Tuesday, Aug. 2

• All Day – The Science Room will be staffed to help guests with hands-on activities.

• 10 a.m. – Snakes Give Me the Freak Out. All are invited to the center's reptile and amphibian program, and to meet author Deborah Brenneman, writer of Snakes Give Me the Freak Out. A science teacher at the Hickory Environmental Center, Brenneman will be available to sign copies of her book. "Her love of life, children, and writing make her books fun and educational, and give a nod to our local species of snakes," a center spokesperson said.

• 2 p.m. – Butterflies and Flowers. All are invited to join the naturalist for a walk around the Discovery Center grounds observing the butterflies that use native plants. The difference between native and non-native plants and their effects on the environment will be discussed.

Wednesday, Aug. 3

• 8 a.m. – Birding at Deep Creek. Guests will learn how to bird by sight and sound as they listen for distinctive songs on a stroll through the park. Experienced and beginner birders can meet around the Discovery Center. Birders should bring their own binoculars.

• 10 a.m. – Story, Craft, and Animal Meet & Greet. All are invited to join local author Deborah Brenneman as she reads from Fidgets Foley, a book about peregrine falcons; make a craft; and meet the center's falcon. Free.

• 2 p.m. – Buzzing Bees, Bzzzz, Bzzzz. All are invited to "come see what all the buzz is about." There are more pollinators than just bees, and there would not be most of the current crops without these small creatures. Guests may come learn all about it, and make a special craft to take home and plant to help support wandering pollinators.

Thursday, Aug. 4

• 9:30 a.m. – Brant Mine Hike. Guests can join a guided hike with the naturalist to the historic Brant Mine. The hike begins in the center's mine room. Hikers will see the remnants of a coal mine that was operated in the 1920s, as well as possibly some wildlife along the way. Moderate walking. (Approx. 2 hours)

• 1 to 3 p.m. – Smokey Bear Visit. Smokey will be at the Discovery Center during these two hours. All are invited to stop by for a photo and to meet this important bear.

HERRINGTON MANOR/SWALLOW FALLS STATE PARKS

Herrington Manor State Park, located at 222 Herrington Lane near Oakland. The office can be reached at 301-334-9180, or persons may visit the website: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/herrington.asp. Some activities are at Swallow Falls State Park, located close to Herrington. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice, and are weather dependent. Hiking shoes are recommended for the guided hikes. Children age 14 and younger must be accompanied by a parent at all times.

Friday, July 29

• 8:30 p.m. – Campfire Program. Visitors may meet at Herrington Manor Campfire Ring and join the park ranger for some s'mores. This gives all campers the opportunity to meet and greet some fellow cabin or campground neighbors, and to ask questions and find out what happenings and events are taking place in the local area.

Sunday, July 31

• 4:30 p.m. – Roaming Ranger. Join the ranger naturalist at the Swallow Falls campground to meet the park's corn snake. The ranger will also be able to answer questions about the park and what events are happening in the local area. (90 mins.)

• 9 p.m. – Moth Watching For Beginners. Guests are invited to meet at the Swallow Falls Amphitheater to join a park ranger for an evening hike to explore moths that awaken when the sun goes down. Participants will learn about these nocturnal creatures that survive in the dark as well as ways to attract them for viewing. Those attending should dress for the weather and bring flashlights. (A UV light is used so it is advised that participants do not wear white clothing.) Intended for all ages. (2 hours)

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

The following activities have been scheduled at New Germany State Park, located along Rt. 495 near Grantsville. Programs and center hours are subject to change without notice. Further information can be obtained by calling the park office at 301-895-5453, or by visiting the web site: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/newgermany.asp. The park also has a Facebook page.

Saturday, July 30

• 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. – Coyote Adventures. This Coyote Adventures Family Outing is for families with children ages 7-14, designed to help children experience and connect with the natural world. Children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian at all times. Participants should dress appropriately for the outdoors and bring a backpack with drinking water and a packed lunch. The use of cell phones and other electronic devices will not be permitted during the activity. Families are encouraged to preregister by calling New Germany State Park at 301-895-5453. Additional outmgs will take place on Aug. 13 and Sept. 3.

• 7 p.m. – Twilight Paddle. On this calm evening paddle, participants are invited to explore New Germany Lake and discover some of the many species that call the lake their home. Kayaks and canoes will be provided on a first-come, first-served basis. All should meet at the Lake House.

Sunday, July 31

• 2 p.m. – Alien Invaders Hike. During this easy hike, participants will learn how to identify some of the common non-native and invasive plants found in the local area, and about the negative impacts of these "alien invaders" and why native plants are important to the environment. Participants should meet at the Lake House.

Thursday, Aug. 4

• 6 p.m. – Encountering Nature. Encountering Nature takes place every other Thursday throughout the season and features a variety of different activities and experiences for participants of all ages and skill levels. Activities may include hiking, working with field guides, making bird houses, learning survival skills, and much more. Guests are to meet at the Lake House.

Northern Garrett UM Churches To Join In Worship

The Northern Garrett County Parish of the United Methodist Church will hold a combined worship service this Sunday, July 31, at 11 a.m. in Grantsville Community Park, Pavilion No. 3.

"Please join us this Sunday as we praise God, break bread together, and have fellowship," said Rev Sam Watcher. "The Sacrament of Holy Communion will also be part of our worship together. All are welcome to join us."

Emmanuel, Mt. Zion, St. Paul's, Jennings, State Line, McHenry, Hoyes, and Paradise United Methodist churches are joining in this worship service, which will be followed by a covered-dish dinner.

Rev. Ted Bessey will provide the morning message, and Rev. Jonathan Moon, Rev. Dan Agnew, and Rev. Wachter will share in the service. The various churches will provide special music and other expressions of praise during the worship time.

Following the service there will be a fellowship picnic and time for games. Each church is asked to contribute to this picnic by providing the following items: Paradise United Methodist Church – hot dogs, hamburgers, lemonade, iced tea, and water; St. Paul's, Jennings, and State Line churches are to provide paper plates, table coverings, and vegetables; McHenry and Hoyes churches will provide salads; and Mt. Zion and Emmanuel are to bring desserts.

"Those attending are asked to bring $1 items for game prizes, or rummage through your closets and find those neat items that you probably won't use, but someone else may love, and bring them to the picnic," Wachter said.

There will be no worship services in the individual churches on Sunday, July 31, he noted.

New Germany SP To Host Meeting About Volunteering

The Friends of New Germany, a nonprofit organization made up of volunteers who care about the park and want to enhance, maintain and support it, will host an open membership meeting on Saturday, Aug. 6. All are invited.

The meeting will take place at the New Germany Schoolhouse at 1 p.m.

Active members support the park as volunteers. They provide a variety of services, including hands-on assistance with park programs, special events, and projects.

Active members meet quarterly on the first Saturday of March, June, September, and December. Meetings provide an opportunity for fellowship, and all are welcome to attend.

Donor members may choose to make a contribution for a particular item or program, or allow the Friends to use the funds at their discretion.

Persons who would like more information about volunteering, donating, or the Aug. 6 meeting may send an email to newgermany-friends@yahoo.com or call 301-895-5453.

Annual SING Flea Market Is Deemed Success

Garrett College recently hosted the fifth annual flea market to benefit the Students in Need Group (SING) at the college. The event was once again deemed a success by organizers, and the funds raised will be used to continue to provide support to all Garrett College students, both on-campus and off-campus, in times of extreme need or extenuating circumstances.

According to Rachelle Davis, SING volunteer and GC director of enrollment, more than $1,500 was raised from the market.

"We'd like to thank our vendors and those who donated items, shopped, or in any way supported the fifth annual SING Flea Market," Davis said. "Many of our vendors return year after year. We sold out of indoor space again this year and generated funds to support our food pantry and help address other student needs."

The SING fund, which is managed by the Garrett College Foundation, also helps address textbook, clothing, and transportation needs.

As a result of concession sales at the market, SING was able to make a $350 donation in support of Kalie's Crew, a team that will be participating in the Tucker Community Foundation Run-For-It (TCF-RFI) event this September.

SING DONATES TO RUN-FOR-IT TEAM – Proceeds from concession sales at the recent fifth annual SING (Students in Need Group) Flea Market at Garrett College, in the amount of $350, were donated by SING to Kalie's Crew, a team that will be participating in the Tucker Community Foundation's annual Run-For-It event in September. Money garnered in that event supports the Kalie Hostutler Ashby Academic Achievement Fund, which is managed by the Garrett College Foundation. Pictured from left above are Rachelle Davis, SING volunteer, Run-For-It committee member, and director of enrollment at GC; Kym Newmann, SING volunteer; Cherie Krug, executive director of the GC Foundation; and Kim DeGiovanni, Kalie's Crew team captain and director of records and registration at GC. Below, from left, are Davis; Carol Frazee, Ms. Western Maryland and adjunct instructor of education and English at GC; and DeGiovanni, all volunteering at the flea market concession stand. See story for details.

According to Kim DeGiovanni, Kalie's Crew team captain and GC director of records and registration, funds raised support the team's attempt to leverage additional funding in support of the Kalie Hostutler Ashby Academic Achievement Fund, which is managed by the Garrett College Foundation. Teams raising the most support are eligible for TCF-RFI cash awards.

"On behalf of Kalie's Crew, I'd like to thank the SING Fund for this generous support. I also want to acknowledge Ann Wellham and Marg Quinn, who year after year volunteer their time organizing the SING Flea Market, and this year honored Kalie by personally donating all of the food sold at the concession stand. We're grateful for their dedication to the students of Garrett College."

To join Kalie's Crew for the 2016 Run-For-It event, persons are invited to register online at www.raceroster.com/8610.

Updates and additional information regarding next year's SING Flea Market can be found online at www.garrettcollege.edu/fleamarket.

More Scholarships Are Awarded by GC Foundation

The Garrett College Foundation annually presents scholarships to Garrett College students. Following are the names of some of the scholarship recipients for the 2016-2017 academic year.

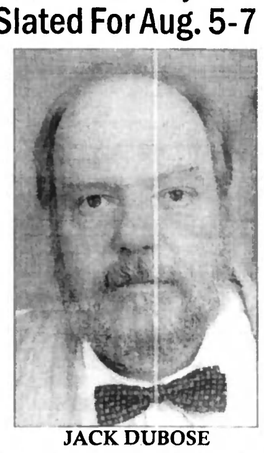
Final Session Of Mountain Maryland Writers' Institute Slated For Aug. 5-7

The third and final session of the Mountain Maryland Writers' Institute will be held Friday evening, Saturday, and Sunday morning, Aug. 5-7, on the McHenry campus of Garrett College and at nearby New Germany State Park. "Poetry, Screen, Stage ,and Mystery" is the theme for the final session, which will be facilitated by poet Jack DuBose, playwright Ty DeMartino, and mystery writer Lauren Carr.



JACK DUBOSE

DuBose, who teaches English at Garrett College, has had his poems published in a number of journals, including Grease and Tears, Ginseng, and Kestrel. Topics to be covered during DuBose's sessions include where to start writing poetry and where to get ideas, why persons should read poetry, why persons should read "the old stuff," and publishing one's work if that is a goal.

Ty DeMartino is a produced screenwriter and award-winning playwright whose works have appeared on stages on both coasts. In 2007, he was named Playwright of the Year in the Baltimore City Paper's "Best Of" edition for his political drama The Blessed Mothers of War.

DeMartino's sessions will touch upon the question, why write a screenplay or play instead of a book or blog or interpretive dance? He will also discuss "Exploring little tricks to crafting natural-sounding and believable dialogue for your characters" and "So how do you get your work from the page onto the stage or screen?"

Lauren Carr is the international best-seller author of the Mac Faraday, Lovers in Crime, and Thorny, Rose mysteries. Her latest best seller, Kill and Run, was released to "rave" reviews in September 2015.

Carr's topics will include an investigation of "How do you like your mystery? – An exploration of the various categories of the mystery genre," "How to plot a murder (mystery) – Plotting the murder, selecting your victim, your suspects, planting clues, red herrings, and revealing who done it," and "Creating conflict and suspense – Defining the difference between conflict and suspense and how to use them to make your writing thrilling to readers."

The session facilitators will hold a book signing and open discussion forum for the general public from 7:30 until 9 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 6, in the GC auditorium.

Organized by Garrett College's Center for Adventure and Experiential Learning, registration for this event is open through Wednesday, Aug. 3. Interested persons are invited to contact Garrett College at 301-387-3330 or send an email to avs@garrettcollege.edu.

Paw's Korner

Perfect Pet

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Every time I go onto social media I see pictures and videos of adorable pets doing adorable things. This includes my friends' pets. But I know from experience that not all of my friends' dogs and cats are so cute and well-behaved. My worry is that people will see all these cute animals and think taking care of a pet is easy, when it really isn't. I have two rescue animals, a cat and a dog. They both have health and behavioral issues. Forget about holding still for a picture! What are your thoughts on this social-media trend? -- Carol in Saginaw, Michigan

DEAR CAROL: I'm honestly not sure that social-media images and videos necessarily give the impression that caring for a pet is easy. Perhaps a few years ago, when not everyone was on Facebook or Instagram, some may have thought owning a dog or cat was an easy task. People post videos and pictures of their families and their pets at their very best (or cutest or funniest) on social media because they're proud of them. You don't see a whole lot of videos of baby with an earache, or two ordinarily congenial dogs suddenly snapping at each other, or that day Sparky got worms. Not many of those stressful dramas that make up everyday life make it into a social-media feed. It's also totally fine to be proud of your pets and not post pictures of them online. You don't even need a reason. So, be gentle with your friends and their tendency to post tons of awww-inducing moments. It's more important that those pets are loved and cared for, just as it sounds like you are doing with your two pets.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was 20th-century Japanese engineer and industrialist -- and founder of the Honda Motor Company -- Soichiro Honda who made the following sage observation: "If you hire only those people you understand, the company will never get people better than you are. Always remember that you often find outstanding people among those you don't particularly like."

* Actress Shirley MacLaine claims that in a past life, she was a gypsy who had an affair with Roman Emperor Charlemagne.

* Unless you live in a snowy mountain town, you've probably never heard of skijoring. In what is probably the most popular contemporary version of this sport, a skier is pulled by one or more dogs wearing a harness that allows the dogs to be directed. The racecourse can be short, for sprints, or as long as 270 miles in cross-country competitions. Equestrian skijoring is rather more like water-skiing: A horse with a rider pulls a skier on a towline through a series of jumps and obstacles. Equestrian skijoring was a demonstration sport at the 1928 Winter Olympics in Switzeriand.

* Those who study such things say that honey is the only food that doesn't spoil. So, next time you run across some 3,000-year-old honey, feel free to chow down.

* At a Mets game at Citi Field, a woman lost a gold tooth down a toilet, and she decided to reach in after it. Unfortunately for her, the restrooms there use a high-vacuum system, and she was pulled in up to her armpit. Unable to extricate herself, she had to spend several hours in this undignified position until a plumber could come to her aid.

Thought for the Day: "There is no greater fallacy than the belief that alms and purposes are one thing, while methods and tactics are another." -- Emma Goldman

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Aug. 2, 1776, members of Congress sign an enlarged copy of the Declaration of Independence. Fifty-six delegates signed the document, going by state from north to south, beginning with New Hampshire and ending with Georgia.

* On Aug. 7, 1782, Gen. George Washington creates the "Badge for Military Merit," a purple silk decoration to be presented to soldiers for meritorious action. In 1932, the U.S. War Department announced the creation of the Purple Heart.

* On Aug. 5, 1914, the world's first electric traffic signal is put into place in Cleveland. Four pairs of red and green lights, each mounted on a corner post, served as stop-go indicators.

* On Aug. 6, 1928, renowned pop artist Andy Warhol is born in Pittsburgh. He took literally the advice of an art teacher who said he should paint the things he liked. Warhol liked ordinary things, such as canned soup and soft drinks, and so he painted them.

* On Aug. 4, 1944, the Nazi Gestapo captures 15-year-old Jewish diarist Anne Frank and her family in a sealed-off area of an Amsterdam warehouse. The Franks had taken shelter there in 1942 out of fear of deportation to a Nazi concentration camp and were aided by Christian friends.

* On Aug. 1, 1966, Charles Whitman goes on a shooting spree at the University of Texas, killing 14 people and wounding 31 from atop a 300-foot tower. He had told his doctor that he was thinking about shooting people from the tower with a rifle, but the doctor never followed up.

Q: I have a 1957 Jayne Mansfield hot water bottle. Does it have any value? -- Tim, Taylor, Michigan

A: Your Jayne Mansfield container doubled as both a hot water bottle and cocktail shaker. It was made by Poynter Products in 1957 and featured a storage stand. With the original cap and stand, and in good condition, your item is probably worth in the $75 to $150 range, according to several I found on eBay.

Q: I have a small syrup pitcher that I have been told is a piece of Stemless Daisy. It is very similar to milk glass but has relief-molded flowers on a crosscut background, which is much different from the milk glass I have seen. Can you help me identify this piece? -- Barbara, Rio Rancho, New Mexico

A: Stemless Daisy, sometimes called Cosmos, is a pattern glass that was produced by Consolidated Lamp and Glass Company between 1894 and about 1915. Although milk glass, the floral design makes the Cosmos pieces unique. Although I was unable to find Cosmos glass being offered on eBay, I suspect your pitcher might be valued in the $200 to $300 range. It is rare, it is eariy, and it is desirable.

Q I have an incredible collection of baseball cards that was started by my dad during the 1950s. Although I haven't counted them, they fill six shoeboxes. Can you recommend some price guides? -- Henry, Davenport, Iowa

A: There are several excellent guides. Three I especially like are "Baseball Card Price Guide" by Joe Clemens, "The Standard Catalogue of Baseball Cards" edited by Don Fluckinger, and "Baseball Card Price Guide" by the editors of Sports Collectors Digest, all published by Krause Books. ***

Q: My husband has several large albums of old and new postage stamps, even some from Nazi Germany. Would anyone be interested in them? -- Maxine, Albuquerque, New Mexico

A: You have several excellent coin and stamp dealers in Albuquerque, and that is where you should begin your search. My advice is that you contact at least two dealers to get an idea of current demand and values. There is a website that also might be helpful: www.stamp-collecting-resource.com.

Frostburg Students Present Research At '16 Symposium

In May, Frostburg State University's recent fifth annual Undergraduate Research Symposium showcased poster and oral presentations of research or artistry from 221 students, mentored by 73 faculty members, across 16 academic departments within the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A number of those students who presented are Garrett County residents.

Dillon James, Oakland, presented "Karl Marx and Henry David Thoreau as Defenders of Individualism," which was performed under the tutelage of Dr. Jean-Marie Makang.

W Michael Prohonic, also of Oakland, presented "2-Meter Kilowatt Linear Amplifier," which was performed under the tutelage of Dr. Gregory Latta.

Caleb Friend, Oakland, and Daniel Sisler, Friendsville, presented "The Rock Picker" with Ryan Diehl, which was performed under the tutelage of Craig Wilson, Dr. Mahdi Norouzi, Dr. Eric Moore, Duane Miller, and Stephen Bevan.

Rebecca Lee and Rebecca Flinn, both of Oakland, presented "Exploring Artificial Intelligence through the Sims" with Alexandria Alvarez, which was performed under the tutelage of Dr. Michael Flinn.

Rebecca Flinn also contributed research to "CSIT Running Game for K-12 CS," which was presented by Matthew Dameron and performed under the tutelage of Steven Kennedy.

Kaytie Riley, also of Oakland, presented "Analyzing Friendships through the Eyes of Aristotle and the Attachment Theory" alongside Ashleigh Eisentrout, which was performed under the tutelage of Dr. Elesha Ruminski.

Alyssa Savage of Grantsville presented "Molecular Characterization of the Microbiome-Using 16S PCR to Explore the Microbial Community" with Alexa Gallagher, Olivia Hager, Kylan O'Baker, Casey Hymiller, and Maci Quintanilla, which was performed under the tutelage of Dr. Catherine Vrentas.

Richard Tasker of Swanton presented "Maryland's Seafood Industry" with Andrew Ryznar, which was performed under the tutelage of Dr. Eleanor McConnell.

Alexander Treasure of Grantsville presented "Itinerary Builder" with Kerwin Yoder, Russell Gilmore, Dakota Fearon, Seyed Raoofi, Peter Wolodkin, and Jonathan Butler, which was performed under the tutelage of Dr. Michael Flinn, Dr. Brad Rinard, and Dr. Xinliang Zheng.

Mallary Granger of Grantsville presented the following works: "Lyme Disease in Western Maryland: Analysis of Ticks (Ixodes scapularis) and Tissue Samples from White-footed Mice (Peromyscus leucopus) by PCR and Immunofluorescence Microscopy," which was presented with Drew Brown, Nicole Lloyd, Fred Nyachieo, Amy Weakland, and William Wygal, and performed under the tutelage of Dr. Rebekah Taylor and Dr. Karen Keller; and "Lyme Disease in Western Maryland: Collection of Ticks (Ixodes scapularis) and Blood Samples from White-footed Mice (Peromyscus leucopus)," which was presented with Drew Brown, Nicole Lloyd, Kassondra Greis, Amy Weakland, and William Wygal and performed under the tutelage of Dr. Rebekah Taylor and Dr. Karen Keller.

Maryland Handgun Certification Class Slated In Oakland

A Maryland Handgun Qualification License (HQL) class is being offered through the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College. The class will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Southern Outreach Center, Oakland.

HQL training portion of the class is a four-hour block of instruction, which includes classroom instruction on state firearm law, home firearm safety, handgun mechanisms and operation, and a component that requires the applicant to demonstrate the ability to safely fire a handgun.

Unless otherwise exempt, as of Oct. 1, 2013, a Maryland resident must possess a valid HQL before being allowed to purchase, rent, or receive a handgun.

The classroom portion of the course will occur at the Southern Outreach Center, and the operation and handling demonstration will occur at a secure firing range.

The class will be taught by Rick Sivic, Boston Hill Training. He is a National Rifle Association and Maryland State Police HQL certified instructor, and is certified by the Utah Bureau of Criminal Identification.

For more information or to register, persons can contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle

Frostburg State Planetarium

AUGUST SUN AND MOON – As August opens, the sun is in Cancer. In late August, the sun moves into Leo. (During the course of a year, the motion of the Earth about the sun causes the sun to appear to move eastward across the 13 zodiac star groups. The 13th zodiac star group is Ophiuchus, between Scorpius and Sagittarius.) At the start of August, the sun rises at about 6:17 a.m. in Garrett County, and sets at about 8:30 p.m. By the end of August, Garrett County sunrises are at about 6:45 a.m., with sunsets at about 7:50 p.m. On Aug. 2, the moon switches from the morning to the evening side of the sun. By the evening of Aug. 4, a slender crescent moon will appear near the planet Mercury low in the western dusk. On the evening of Aug. 5, the crescent moon will appear near the bright planet Jupiter in the western dusk. On the evening of Aug. 10, the moon will appear half-full, offering the best views of the moon's surface features (craters, mountain ridges) through binoculars or telescopes. On the evening of Aug. 11, the moon will appear above the planet Mars in the southern sky. The moon will be full in the early morning hours of Aug. 18. A week later, the moon will appear half-full (like a reversed "D") in the southern dawn. As August ends, the moon will be lost in the sun's dawn glare.

AUGUST PLANETS – As August opens, the planets Mars and Saturn can be seen in the southern evening sky. With the bright pink star Antares, these three points of light form a triangle. Jupiter can still be seen low in the southwest at dusk. Very low in the west are the inner planets Mercury and Venus. Through mid-August, the more brilliant Venus will appear below Mercury. On Aug. 24, the planet Mars will appear above the bright star Antares. On Aug. 25, Mars will appear above the planet Saturn. On Aug. 27, the two brightest planets, Jupiter and Venus, will appear less than a moon's width apart low in the western dusk. Mercury may be seen below this planetary lineup.

SPECIAL "EVENT" – There will be a meteor shower the morning of Aug. 12. Every year we have meteor showers on about the same date. A meteor shower occurs when the Earth plows through a comet's orbit, which is laden with grit particles. Comets flake off grit as their outer layers melt from the sun's rays in the inner solar system. These grit particles are left behind, following the comet's orbit. Then at about the same time each year, the Earth encounters a large number of grit particles (about the size of a pea), which burn up from air friction at about 50 miles altitude. The Aug. 12 shower is called the Perseid meteor shower, as the meteors can be traced back to the star group Perseus in the northern sky. But the Perseids can be seen all across the sky. The best way to see these meteors is to lie prone on a blanket away from trees so you can see as much of the sky as possible. These meteors will be better in the morning hours, as by then the moon will have set. Also, the meteors will be colliding nearly head-on with the Earth, causing them to appear brighter.

FREE AUGUST PROGRAM – The Frostburg State Planetarium will present a free planetarium program on Saturday, Aug. 13, at 8 p.m. in Room 186 of the Gira Center. Weather permitting, telescopes will be set up outside after the program to view the moon and planets.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards.

Syfy continues to add to the Sharknado franchise

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

I don't mind telling you that when "Sharknado" made its rather outrageous debut in 2013, there was no part of me that thought it would become an annual event. I won't pretend I wasn't entertained — it's too absurd not to enjoy on some level, despite the camp level being through the roof and the quality of special effects being, well, not. But did I think that, just three years later, the disaster horror franchise (yes, it's now a franchise) would be delivering its fourth installment in the series? I did not.

Regardless of what my 2013 self thought, Sharknado has become a cult phenomenon. The ultra-campy, B-movie franchise puts sharks and tornadoes together in a low-budget bloodbath that's as entertaining as it is improbable. Don't miss the latest installment in the series, "Sharknado: The 4th Awakens," when it makes its gore-filled debut Sunday, July 31, on Syfy.

To clarify for the unenlightened, the movies all center on a freak disaster, in which man-eating sharks are scooped out of the ocean via water spouts and deposited into major cities where they wreak havoc, devouring anyone in their path. The challenge is repeatedly met head on by aptly named surfer-dude and bar owner Fin Shepard (Ian Ziering, "Beverly Hills, 90210") and his ex-wife-turned-wife-again April Wexler (Tara Reid, "American Pie," 1999) and their cronies. The two always seem to be hanging around wherever a sharknado happens to hit, be it Los Angeles, New York, Washington or, now, Las Vegas.

With a budget of just $2 million and a modest 1.4 million viewers tuning in for the premiere telecast, the original movie has still managed to score an 82 percent on review aggregator site Rotten Tomatoes — which really says something for the whole "so bad it's good" thing.

"It's over the top, but it's over the top in a great way, and I've stopped questioning it," Ziering said in a Hollywood Reporter interview last year. "These movies are rated awesome, and they're not intended for overthinkers."

It seems the novelty may be wearing off, though. Last summer's release, "Sharknado 3: Oh Hell No!" saw a dip in both ratings and reviews from the sequel, sitting at a piddly 36 percent on Rotten Tomatoes. It's not a huge surprise, since the cheap CGI sharks soaring around in funnel clouds are bound to have a "what have you done for me lately?" effect after three movies in as many years.

Evidently, the powers that be saw this coming and made darn sure that "Sharknado 3" viewers come back for "The 4th Awakens." The last movie arguably jumped the shark about 12 different times, chiefly by bringing the shark battle into space where: A) Fin deploys a laser chainsaw, all the better to slay space sharks with than his boring old regular chainsaw; and B) April somehow gives birth inside a shark. But all's well! Back on Earth, she slices a hole into its side with her robot arm (you know, the one that houses a miniature retractable chainsaw and wears a giant engagement ring? Yeah, that robot arm) and pushes her newborn son to safety.

But wait — there's more! The movie ended in a nail-biting cliffhanger when the gore-covered but otherwise fine April finds herself smack in the path of a piece of space debris hurtling to Earth. Syfy put the franchise's rampant social media following to good use by leaving it up to viewers to decide April's fate. So you'll have to tune in to the fourth installment to see what the Sharknado-loving masses decided. Well, not really — the website and trailer reveal that fans don't want to see their favorite shark-slaying family torn asunder, and April will live to see another day.

She's not the only one who's survived against all odds. David Hasselhoff ("Baywatch") is back from the moon, where his character ended "Sharknado 3," as Fin's father, Gil (could this family possibly have sharkier names?), to the joy of one and all.

Of course, it wouldn't be a Sharknado sequel without a seemingly never-ending roster of cameo appearances. Keep an eye out for the Hoff's former "Baywatch" co-star Alexandra Paul, who plays an astrophysicist, and his daughters Hayley ("Fearless," 2015) and Taylor-Ann ("Meet the Hasselhoffs").

"Shark Tank" sharks (of course) Robert Herjavec and Lori Greiner make appearances, as do comedians Carrot Top and Gilbert Gottfried and MMA fighters Roy Nelson and Frank Mir. Stacey Dash ("Clueless," 1995) plays the mayor of Chicago, Duane Chapman ("Dog the Bounty Hunter") is a chainsaw dealer (is that actually a thing?), and Paul Shaffer ("Late Show with David Letterman") and Wayne Newton play themselves — and those are just some of the 30-odd cameos Syfy's announced so far. Don't expect to see them for too long, though; most of them will probably be chomped to bits within seconds.

If you haven't seen any of these movies yet, now is a great time to get on board. Just bear in mind — in case it's not glaringly obvious at this point — they're by no means meant to be taken too seriously. Catch the premiere broadcast of "Sharknado: The 4th Awakens" when it airs Sunday, July 31, on Syfy.

Central City sorcery

'The Flash' enlists 'Harry Potter' alum for season 3

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Central City sorcery: A Hogwarts alumnus is set to bring some magic to CW's "The Flash." Tom Felton ("Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire," 2005) has joined the superhero drama for its third season, scheduled to premiere Tuesday, Oct. 4, as a series regular.

Felton hit the big leagues when he was cast as the villainous wizard-in-training Draco Malfoy, a classroom bully in the magically successful Harry Potter franchise, which spanned seven genre-defining novels and eight films.

The young actor hasn't been idling since the main Harry Potter series wrapped up — in film, at least — with 2011's "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2." He starred in "Labyrinth," "Full Circle" and the first season of "Murder in the First."

In "The Flash," Felton has been cast as crime scene investigator Julian Dorn, a good cop who believes that there's more to Barry Allen (Grant Gustin, "Glee") than meets the eye. His suspicions are right: Barry is, of course, The Flash, a superhero with the power to move at incredibly fast speeds.

The third season of the drama, which is a spinoff of its sister series "Arrow," will be a take on DC Comics' popular Flashpoint storyline. That story, published in comic books in 2011, deals with Barry waking up to find that everything in his life has changed — his mother is alive, and he has no super powers.

"The Flash" fans will have to wait and see what role Felton's Dorn has to play in the Flashpoint story; the character doesn't appear in the comics, at least not under that name.

Whether Felton's new role will be as villainous as the one he's best known for is one of the big questions going into season 3 of "The Flash." Mark your calendars: the new season premieres Tuesday, Oct. 4.

New, from 'Blue': Not every show that's still on the air after so many seasons can remain one of the higher-rated dramas out there. For CBS's "NCIS," one of the keys to the success is to always keep things fresh, and the three incoming cast members for season 14 will be ready to put their own stamp on the venerable franchise.

Jennifer Esposito ("Blue Bloods"), Wilmer Valderrama ("That '70s Show") and Duane Henry ("The Dark Knight Rises," 2012) have all been signed as series regulars for the new season, scheduled to premiere Tuesday, Sept. 20, on CBS.

Esposito will be playing Special Agent Alex Quinn. She's being described as an immensely talented woman with a razor sharp wit who left field work to become an instructor. She'll be lured back into active field work in the first episode by Special Agent Leroy Jethro Gibbs (Mark Harmon, "Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas," 1998), who's looking for exactly someone with her talents to join his team.

Valderrama may be best known for his role as the youthful Fez in "That '70s Show," but he's been keeping busy since that comedy wrapped up in 2006. He's also starred in "Grey's Anatomy," "Awake" and "From Dusk Till Dawn: The Series." In "NCIS," he'll be playing a field agent who went deep undercover years ago and has only recently resurfaced, much to the surprise of many other agents who'd long assumed that he was dead.

Henry won't even have to spend any time unpacking on the "NCIS" set. He guest starred as MI-6 agent Clayton Reeves in the final few episodes of season 13, but has been promoted to series regular for the new season.
